The Boston Strike.

The Boston police last week discovered magazines of bricks and paving stones on the flat roofs of two lofty buildings on Federal street, just where the South Boston horse railroad tracks make a turn. It is supposed the missiles were intended for a murderous attack on the cars of the road. There was no trouble to speak of on the South Boston road Sunday.

On the Cambridge line the cars commenced running on Sunday, for the first Sunday since the strike commenced. In the afternoon there was some serious rioting, thousands of boys and men assaulting the cars with bricks and other missiles, smashing the windows and injuring persons; the police were for a long time inadequate to cope with the mob, and eight or ten of the officers were badly hurt. Ten of the rioters were arrested.

On Monday, the 21st, the arrested rioters were severely dealt with in the court. The mayor notified two companies of state militia to be in readiness to answer a sudden call; and Lynn, Lowell, Worcester and Salem were asked to send police to Cambridge, and did so. There were numerous minor outrages on the Cambridge lines during the day, but more cars were put on, and lines on which cars had been previously suspended were started up. The police were supplied with new self-cocking revolvers of large caliber, and the Grand Army posts were called on to be ready to aid in preserving the peace. The South Boston railroad ran its cars until eleven o'clock at night, for the first time since the strike, and the Bay View line was also started up; there was no trouble worth mentioning on that road.

Tuesday, the 22d, was the quietest day yet on the Cambridge lines, the vigorous action of the authorities and the court having awed the ruffianly element and hoodlums into good behavior. A few stones were thrown, but the police from other cities, with the local police, made a strong force, and it was known that the militia and veterans were ready to respond at a moment's notice. The South Boston cars ran up to eleven o'clock at night, but beyond the throwing of two or three stones no violence was attempted, and the cars were patronized by the public as usual.

On the 23d every branch of the Cambridge road was running on schedule time, and the tie-up was regarded by the road officials as ended, so far as the road was concerned. The South Boston cars were also running the same as before the strike, and both roads announced that they had all the men required. The strikers were still holding out—against what is not apparent, their places having all been filled.

A curious fact is reported in relation to the position of prominent Knights of Labor of a few months ago. Eighteen of the men who came out of the tanneries in Salem and Peabody on strike last summer, and denominated those who took their places as "scabs," are now at work on the horse railroads in Boston, taking the place of strikers there, who are out by order of the Knights of Labor.

Reform is Necessary.

A. J. Howard, warden of the Indiana southern penitentiary at Jeffersonville, has stolen from $60,000 to $80,000 of the state's money, and also secured large sums from convicts under the pretence that he could secure their pardon; he has also continuously let fat contracts to his favorites, instead of advertising for bids, as the law demands. He is a democrat, and has been warden since 1875; and this is the first investigation made of his management. A committee of the democratic senate recently visited the prison, and reported everything all right; but the prisons committee of the house, which is republican, investigated on their own account, with result as stated.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Feb. 21st.

Sunday, the 13th, the weather was very inclement, yet Rev. A. A. Defanney, D. D., went to Rye and preached two sermons. His health is not the best, yet he renders aid to all who are in trouble; many poor people who need legal advice go to this kind hearted gentleman. His charity is unbounded, though quiet and unassuming; the aid he gives to the suffering in this town is done most cheerfully, and we trust he will be richly rewarded.

On Saturday the selectmen's room was crowded, so many desiring abatements on taxes. The school money was not equalized, the tax bills were not made out right, and many refuse to pay; the collector meets many who fail not to vent their spite on him on account of the school tax, as he was at Concord when the law was passed.

The grocery business of the Mason Brothers is largely increasing; they have recently hired another store for their grain business; they carry goods to Exeter every Thursday.

An exchange says: "It was the perfect system and the extra care and attention given the business by H. P. Hubbard of New Haven, Conn., that made newspaper agencies first a success and then a necessity. His recent failure has caused many regrets, and we are glad to learn that he business is to be carried on by the H. P. Hubbard Co., a company duly incorporated under the state laws. It is composed of Mr. Hubbard's former lieutenants, with sufficient capital to back them, which is a guarantee that the business is to be conducted properly and carefully." Mr. Hubbard and the new company both have our best wishes for their future success.

The interstate commerce bill, which goes into effect April 1st, provides that similar transportation over any railroad shall pay one price, and that no favoritism shall be granted to any person, locality or description of traffic; but the United States, local governments, charities, excursions, clergymen, and railroad employes, are excepted from the operations of the law.

George W. Green's livery stable in Biddeford was burned about one o'clock in the morning, Feb. 21st, with five horses, harnesses, sleighs, hay, etc. A hose carriage in hastening to the fire was upset and somewhat damaged, and three men out of four who were riding on it sustained severe hurts.

Twenty-two members of the York County Democratic club held a banquet at the Biddeford house in Biddeford on the evening of Feb. 22d. Nearly every town in the county was represented, and several prominent democrats from other parts of Maine were present. George E. Clifford of Cornish presided. After the banquet speeches were made by William H. Clifford of Portland, John W. Deering of Portland, John B. Redmund of Ellsworth, Isaac L. Usher of Lacrosse, Wis., and B. F. Chadborne, Tristram Goldthwait, Jr., and John B. Donovan of Biddeford.

Negotiations between Spain and the United States for a new commercial treaty have been suspended by Spain, says a Madrid despatch, until the American congress shall have taken action with regard to the tobacco and sugar duties.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic afflictions I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

THE GRAND CONCERT BY THE PORTSMOUTH ATHLETIC CLUB.

The concert at Music hall Tuesday evening, Feb. 22d, was a grand success in every particular. Beyond all doubt it was witnessed by the largest audience that ever assembled in Music hall, and notably one of the most quiet and orderly. At a quarter before eight o'clock orders were given to stop the sale of tickets, and the box-office was closed. Every seat and every inch of standing room were occupied. The stage presented a handsome picture when the curtain rose, the background composed of a glory of American flags, with a likeness of Washington and the club monogram, setting off the semi-circles of performers ranged one above the other. A very handsome basket of flowers was handed over the footlights, the offering of the Nonpareil Associates, a kindred social club, which was accepted on behalf of the Athletics by Interlocutor Cassidy.

In the first part the end men were Messrs. Flanagan, Lear, Dolan and Lawrence, tambos, and Messrs. Moses, Rowe, Gray and Sullivan, bones, and their many jokes, local hits and mirthful sayings, provoked much laughter and applause. The quartette and solo singing by Messrs. C. W. Gray, I. B. Davis, J. G. Parsons and J. A. Cassidy, was remarkably fine, their pure, true voices blending together harmoniously.

Part second introduced "our German Brother, Mr. Louis Schwarz," on the "Crisis of the Present Day." The tonsorial department of the Rockingham is as successful in speech making as in hair dressing. The dumb-bell exercise by fifteen finely formed athletes was very much enjoyed, and a scientific bout with boxing-gloves between Messrs. F. McKenney, athletic instructor at Brown university, and T. Cronin of this city, was a very interesting and scientific exhibition of the art of self defence. We enjoyed the Indian club swinging by Fred E. Hasty and Jos. P. Connor. Their graceful movements and accurate time were perfect, and we never saw excelled. Exercises on horizontal and parallel bars by Messrs. Smith, Lear, Davis, Smart, Flanagan and Connor, were very fine. Frank W. Moses amused the audience with his quaint sayings and singing, and Messrs. Elwell, Davis, Philbrick and Gray, gave an unequalled performance which was loudly applauded. A character song by Cassidy, "The Old Turnkey, was worthy especial mention. The wrestling match between Messrs. Cronin and McKenney was handsomely done, and Lear, Rowe, Nickerson and Flanagan did some high jumping. The tug-of-war between Smart, Sullivan, Trefethen and Newton on one side, and Marcy, Hasty, Emery and Stimson on the other, was great fun. Messrs. Flanagan and Nickerson tumbled around in good shape, and the entertainment closed at 11:15 with a "side-splitting farce."

It was a grand entertainment, and we hope the boys will net a goodly sum therefrom. We hear the club have an invitation to go to Dover. We shall be proud of them if they do.

STANDARD TIME.

The Maine legislature has enacted a law that all courts, all state, county and town officers and their employes in transaction of official business, all contracts, unless otherwise provided, and all proceedings in law and equity, suall be governed by Eastern standard time. The act takes effect thirty days after the close of the session. This is proper; if the railroads, instead of the sun, are to make the time, it should be legalized, and thereby the possibility of serious legal complications avoided. This state should take similar action.

A FISH STORY.

The largest haddock we ever saw or heard of was in the ice chest at J. W. Bell's restaurant in National block on Friday morning of this week, having been brought in by one of the schooners fishing out of this port. A haddock weighing eight or nine pounds is above the average size, but this patriarch is said to have weighed 19 1-2 lbs. when taken out of the water.

MARITIME NOTES.

possible to do anything at that time on account of the longshoremen's foolish and suicidal strike, so he tied up his vessel and discharged his crew, remaining himself to look after her.

Captain Kelly of the schooner Charles H. Trickey, which vessel has been hauled up at Randall & Caswell's wharf all winter, arrived in this city on the 23d inst. from Cotuit, Mass., and will start his vessel as soon as she can be made ready. Capt. Kelly's brother has gone to Weymouth, Mass., where his vessel, the Thomas B. Garland, another of the Dover Navigation Co.'s fleet, has been hauled up, to get her ready also for the opening of the season's work.

Steam vessels have considerable of an advantage in speed over sailing crafts. The schooner Blondel, Rogers master, sailed from Bangor, Me., Nov. 2d, for Wellfleet, Mass., and arrived at her destination on the 19th inst., via Portland and Gloucester, having been 110 days on the passage, which is the longest on record between those ports. The steamship Etruria arrived at New York on the 19th inst. from Liverpool, having made the run across from Queenstown in five days and twenty-three hours—the shortest passage on record. The Blondel heads one end of the record, anyway.

The London Times advises that no time be lost in effecting a settlement of the fisheries dispute between the United States and Canada before the fishing season opens, because, after its commencement, the dispute may be complicated by fresh seizures of fishing vessels. The Canadians, as well as their neighbors, says the Times, must be prepared to waive some of the claims for which they have been stickling. In the British house of commons, Feb. 22d, Sir James Ferguson, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, declined to explain the tenor of the despatch from the Canadian government suggesting a plan for a settlement of the fisheries dispute with the United States. He promised to publish the despatch when the government deemed it expedient.

Wednesday, Feb. 23d, was Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent.

Rev. C. B. Pitblade, formerly pastor of the Methodist church in this city, lectured in Portland on Monday evening.

Mr. Harry Beimer, supported by a large dramatic company, will appear at Music hall on Monday evening, Feb. 28th, in the "Pavements of Paris," and also on Tuesday evening, March 1st. The company bring the scenery for the play with them.

Elder Byran McLellan of Woodfords, Me., has accepted the call of the Advent society of this city to become their pastor, and will enter upon his duties the first Sunday in March.

The sudden death in York on Monday, Feb. 21st, of Mr. Jacobs, brother of Capt. B. F. Jacobs of this city, is reported.

DeWitt Clinton Commandery of this city has accepted an invitation to visit the Dover Commandery next Tuesday evening.

The 2d Christian society of Kittery will have a festival and sale in Trefethen's hall at the Foreside this and to-morrow evenings.

It is reported that the military authorities of the state are desirous of having an infantry company established in this city, provided the project is taken up by suitable men. Col. Lane, commanding the 1st Reg't N. H. N. G., is expected in this city this evening to confer with those interested.

We were in error in announcing in the Chronicle of Tuesday morning, 22d inst., that Edward B. Goodall, Jr., was suspended from membership in the Portsmouth Flute & Drum Corps. Mr. Goodall tendered his resignation, which was accepted by a yea and nay vote.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Feb. 22d.

Another demand upon the exchequer of old Kittery is soon to be made, according to the circulation of a subscription paper designed to raise a sum of money in addition to the sum already voted for the purpose of building and furnishing a shoe factory for a party out of town, and exempt it from taxation for ten years, with the generous guarantee of employing fifty men from this town. Now this is on the whole a modest request; fifty men will be but a small part of those such an extensive business would require; the rest cheap laborers of all nationalities, only paying a poll tax, thereby swelling the list of those generally so free to sign or vote away other people's money. When ten years have passed, will this generous man agree to place new machinery in the building, leaving it on the whole good taxable property, which his profits ought to allow him to do. In our opinion it would have been better to have voted $5,000 for the railroad, payable in installments, for that would have been a benefit to some of our people. Furthermore, if we have sufficient capital to invest in the building and furnishing such a factory, we have men trustworthy and of business tact enough to run it successfully.

Elder Cummings, of the Home for Little Wanderers, Baldwin place, Boston, will be at the 1st Methodist church, North Kittery, with several of the children from that institution, on Sunday the 27th inst. Interesting services and a large congregation are anticipated.

We hear rumors of a new sensation in town; it's a cool day when Kittery don't get there with some kind of a sensation.

Mr. John F. Goodsoe has sold his colt "Jim Fisk" to a Boston party, for a good sum; the colt is said to be one of the best ever raised in Kittery.

We were in error last week in regard to the ownership of the portable saw-mill at the Dennett farm. The mill is owned by Thompson Brothers of Epping, N. H. Last week Messrs. O. C. Haley, John Picoat and Fred Wilson went to Madrid, N. H., with six oxen, and hauled a large second-hand boiler to be used until the new boiler which is being made will be completed. The new one is of much greater horse-power and capable of doing more work. At present the mill is turning out 9,000 feet of stock (hard and soft) a day, and business is booming.

That "wild critter" has again been heard from, this time in the vicinity of Dover, but no two seem to agree on what kind of an animal it is—whether a bear, panther or catamount. Whatever it is it must have a hide like a rhinoceros and endowed with nine lives, as it has been shot at a score or more times with all sorts of firearms, without any taking effect.

Trefethen Hall was packed last Thursday evening the 17th inst. to attend the entertainment given by the Globe Grocery Co. to its Kittery patrons. The exercises were quite interesting. The singing by the Shubert quartet of Boston was exceptionally fine. The prize for the lucky admission number was drawn by Miss Amanda Lutz, it being a young pig adorned with numerous gay ribbons in an elegant silver cake basket. The prize for sewing was a handsome French clock, and was drawn by Mrs. George Williams. The affair was successful in all parts. SUB ROSA.

Robbed of Rich Deposits.

Mineralogy is a great study, but mineralogists do not know all about it, and do not believe what to others is the simplest thing. Did you ever drop a lot of quicksilver on the ground and then try to follow it? If you had you would understand the effect of water and oxygen on mineral, the decomposition of vegetable and animal matter caused by water trickling down through the ground. I have seen ground that probably, or almost certainly, hundreds of years ago was rich in mineral—would have been a bonanza—and which has never been robbed of its deposits by man, but which is to-day poor and worthless. It has been worked out by the elements as other mines have been worked out by men. In such places deep mining, below the water line, will probably show rich deposits.

I have seen places where the ore has been left in cones, like the honey in hives. This same work of decomposition by the elements accounts for barren streaks. This decomposition and leaching is also responsible for streaks of native silver, the mineral coming in contact with an opposite chemical. The whole subject is easily explained and understood when one has nature to give illustrations. It may be somewhat indefinite when shown in books, but not when shown in the ground. When it comes to that, however, a person learns a great deal in actual mining that he can never learn in any other way. —Charles Clark in Globe Democrat.

Peculiar Kind of Rock.

A peculiar natural substance has been found in Georgia—a yellow material, very much like beeswax, which, when shaved off with a knife, rolls up like that article. It is a kind of rock, and, while there is nothing about it that burns, it becomes as hard as flint when heated.—New York Sun.

Physicians Have Found Out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggravating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

The Salem aldermen have passed the following amendment to the ordinances designed to prevent the parading of banner boys about the street: "No person, unless authorized by the board of aldermen, shall place or carry, or cause to be placed or carried, in or upon any street or sidewalk in said city, any show board, placard or sign, for the purpose of there displaying or attracting attention to the same." The penalty is fixed at not exceeding $20 for each offence. This is to prevent the "banner boy" business in case of strikes.

He Won't Bring Much.

The trial of Henry Dodson, charged with being a vagrant, came off in Augusta, Ky., Feb. 22d, before a justice and jury. The jury after hearing all the evidence returned a verdict of guilty, and ordered him sold to the highest bidder at public auction for the period of seventy-five days; and March 5th was fixed as the day. The proof showed Dodson to be a worthless, insolent vagabond, who lived in a state of filth and misery. He ill-treated his family in every way imaginable.

At Bellefort, Ala., Feb. 22d, a gang of bricklayers were engaged in lining the stacks at Valentine's furnaces when the scaffolding on which they stood gave way, precipitating twelve men to the bottom of the stack, a distance of sixty-five feet. Seven men were killed. The scaffold had been weighted down with some 8000 bricks. All the men killed were single.

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

Insurance in Maine.

Last year was a bad one in Maine for fires. The insurance commissioner's annual statement shows that the eighty-three companies doing business in Maine had $77,876,807 in risks; received as premiums, $1,077,965; and incurred losses of over $1,182,000, thus losing over $100,000 besides costs of commissions.

In the United States court at New Haven, Conn., Feb. 23d, F. W. Wooster, postmaster at Huntington, was found guilty of robbing the mails and sentenced to eight months in jail, but in consideration of his previous good character he was allowed to settle for a fine of $500 and $125 costs. Frank Hess, who tampered with the mails at Meriden, was fined $200. In the case of James Murray, who was charged with opening letters in the Hartford office, the jury disagreed.

Near Roseville, Ark., Feb. 18th, the house of J. C. Pendergrass was burned, with his five sons.

For twenty-four years I have been a great sufferer with inflammatory rheumatism. Athlophoros is the only medicine I have ever found to do me any good. I am 70 years old and wish to testify to the benefits I have received from it. Amos Gilbert, Fair Haven, Ct.

Mary Baker, the "fasting girl" of White county, Ind., who is reported to have abstained from food for 109 days, is now recovering, and will probably regain her health and strength. It was found that water would remain in her stomach when stimulants were added in mild degrees, and the patient has since mended rapidly.

Paupers' Craving for Drinking.

Nearly four-fifths of those who come to the poorhouse are brought there by drink. In their younger days, when they should have been laying away something for old age, they were spending their money for drink. Of course, misfortune brought many of them to want, but drink wrought the poverty of most of them. When, therefore, they have been with me for some time, without having tasted liquor, they will drink anything to satisfy their old craving. We used to have an annex in a rented house across the road from the main building, but were forced to give it up, as the paupers found it easy to steal away and get tipsy. It was a mystery where they got the money to buy the liquor, but they got it. They would pick up rags, iron, scraps, and borrow each other's clothes and sell them for a drink. We could not always keep our eyes on them, and they would manage to escape.

Once in awhile they steal a march on us by drinking the mash for the yeast in the bakery, and I have known an old fellow to swallow a bottle of medicine for the pleasure it would give him to burn his throat. They have drank indigo and other liquids, and get tipsy, too. It is a very curious craving, this old love for drink that keeps gnawing in men and women 60 and 70 years of age. The love of tobacco is equally strong, and the only interest they show in life is when we give out the rations of smoking and plug tobacco.—Poorhouse Superintendent Cleary in Globe-Democrat.

Fashionable Bachelors' Economy.

Economy has become actually fashionable in several coteries of bachelors who live in apartments. They don't go to the fashionable clothing stores for their neckwear, gloves and under clothes. Catch them paying $3 or $3 for a satin tie that can be sold to retailers for half a dollar. They have been taught better by a young Englishman who goes around with a pair of valises stocked with small wear. He buys directly from the manufacturers, and he has about 100 regular customers among the best dressed men in town. He makes his calls at stated intervals, sells from his stock or takes orders for special goods, knows the whims and fancies of his patrons, and takes particular pains to suit them exactly. His customers are not the flamboyant dudes who size up a man by his tailor's bill, and pay the highest prices in order to impress the storekeepers, but the old boys, who have learned that the way to enjoy money is not to throw it away, but to make it go farthest when no particular fun is to be had in the spending.—New York Letter.

A Budget of Social "Ifs."

How admirable a world should we live in if sumptuary laws could be enforced, if dinners could never be too long or too strong, if high headdresses could be abolished at the theatre, if the happy medium between no bonnets and well dressed heads could be struck, if trains could be shortened at crowded receptions, if one's hospitable hostess would not tempt one to eat too much at a midday lunch, so that one comes home with a headache! If furnace heated houses could not be so intolerably hot, and if opera coulisses would not be so awfully drafty, if we had a social emperor or empress to govern our social health, and if we also had one to silence scandal, how much improved would be our social pleasures! What monstrous wrongs are committed by this handing a story about, the whispered innuendo, the story imperfectly told, the careless jest distorted, the wicked fabrication; it is often false, or even more dangerous, if perhaps it be half true. Would that we could invoke a social censorship to correct the vice of society!—Mrs. John Sherwood in New York World.

Fuel from Old Ships.

A vessel's old sheathing, which has been covered with yellow metal or copper, makes beautiful flames of different colors when burned in an open grate. Years ago this wood was considered worthless, and was usually given away to poor people for fuel. But of late years it has been used quite extensively in New Bedford and vicinity, being placed upon other wood or coal, when the flames present a beautiful sight, producing different colors, which shoot forth from the copper nail holes. Persons who visited New Bedford and saw the beautiful effects produced by burning this wood carried some to their homes, and now the demand for old sheathing is greater than the supply.—New Bedford (Mass.) Standard.

Overworked Man at the Top.

Every business man will recognize the truth of the remark made by President White, of Cornell university, in an address to the students last Saturday. Said he: "We constantly have these two things, a vast number of young fellows running about the country, doing almost anything and doing it ill; and, on the other hand, a considerable number of places looking almost in vain for somebody to do the best work." No occupation or profession is so crowded with workers that those at the top are not worked almost to death.—Philadelphia Enquirer.

The Cultivation of Jalap.

The Madras government is about to engage in the cultivation of jalap. It was found that the plant grows very well there, and some years ago a large quantity of tubers were given to private individuals in order to encourage them to grow the remedy. But the demand this year from the Madras medical department was for 1,000 pounds, and only 100 pounds could be obtained. So the government has decided to cultivate jalap itself until such time as private growers are in position to supply the demand.—Kansas City Times.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scales and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was re-troyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and long, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly affected to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES S. MOCKAY.

Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to produce satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the thirty-three years of my experience as a druggist.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn death of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all palliatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by inhalation and by internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

Speaking of a recent musical entertainment at Portland the Press of that city says: "The gem of the evening was a violin solo by Miss Eva Goodwin of Dover, N. H., a pupil of Eichberg, who has recently come among us as a teacher upon this instrument. Her rendering of Wieniawski's 'Legende' was marked by great delicacy of execution, and showed Miss Goodwin an artist of ability."

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1887.

The Veto Sustained.

A special despatch to the Chronicle, Thursday evening, announced that the House had refused to pass the dependent pension bill over the president's veto, by 175 yeas to 125 nays, less than the necessary two-thirds voting in favor of the bill. Our patriotic president can therefore congratulate himself on having defeated a measure which proposed to pension disabled union veterans who are unable from disease or old age to support themselves, while he has approved a measure which pensions thousands of able bodied men who fought to destroy the union and are abundantly able to provide for themselves. What crank was it who suggested that treason was a crime?

Another Failure for D. A. 49.

The strike of coopers in New York, ordered by District Assembly 49 and the Home Club of the Knights of Labor, in certain large shops that were alleged to be supplying barrels in which to put up goods manufactured in establishments that were using coal that had been handled by non-union men, in defiance of the peremptory orders of the Knights of Labor, is a failure, and the strikers are getting back to work at any place where the employers will take them; many of them say they left work only through fear of personal violence. At Jones' mill, where the trouble originated, there is an abundant supply of barrels, and at the cooperages of A. Briggs and M. Connelly the strike of the men has not prevented the firms from supplying all demands. There is a plentiful supply of barrels on hand, and the non-union shops are helping out the firms affected by the strike. At Weiderman's shop in Williamsburg, where 500 men are employed, all attempts of the labor regulators to get up a strike, or to induce the men to join either the coopers' union or the Knights of Labor, were fruitless.

Indiana Politics.

The democratic supreme court of Indiana has decided that it has no jurisdiction in the contest for the lieutenant-governorship between Mr. Robertson, republican, who was elected by the people, and Mr. Smith, democrat, who claims the office by virtue of his election as president of the senate one year ago. The democratic senate sustains Smith. The republican house sustains Robertson, and declares that it will regard the senate as an illegally organized body until Robertson's rights are recognized. There is great excitement over the matter, and bloodshed is feared. The democratic reform officials have stolen all the state's money, and are now determined to steal the state itself.

The Fishermen's Convention.

At the meeting in Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 23d, of the national fisheries convention, there were 225 delegates present, representing every state from Maine to Virginia, inclusive, and every branch of the fishing industry. A permanent organization was effected under the title of the National Fishing Association, with the following officers:

Directors, Sylvester Cunningham of Gloucester, James Gifford of Provincetown, C. H. Pease of New Bedford, I. C. Young of Wellfleet, D. T. Church of Tiverton, J. M. B. Sanford of New Bedford, S. S. Brown of Mystic Bridge, Conn.; F. Benjamin of Fulton market, N. Y.; George T. Tuttill of Greenpoint, N. Y.; John Lace of Lewes, Del.; F. Field of Egg Harbor, N. J.; A. J. Morse of Virginia, C. S. Crowell of Philadelphia.

F. J. Babson was chosen president, D. T. Church and Sylvester Cunningham vice presidents, W. A. Wilcox secretary, and John P. Pew treasurer.

Hon. Charles Levi Woodbury, Capt. Fitz J. Babson, Gen. Cogswell and others made strong speeches in support of retaliatory action against Canada for the outrages against our fishermen. The sentiment was universal that the privilege of fishing in Canadian waters is of no value to American fishermen.

Great Earthquake in Italy.

The earthquakes in Italy on Feb. 23d were much more destructive than at first reported. At Noli, on the gulf of Genoa and near Savona, fifteen persons were killed by falling buildings, and many injured; at Savona eight were killed and fifteen injured; at Oneglia six were killed and thirty injured; at Cervo, near Diana-Marino, over 300 were killed, and at Diana-Marino many lives were lost. In Genoa and Turin the palaces and churches suffered greatly, and the destruction of property was great all through that part of Italy.

The Belmont non-intercourse bill in regard to the fisheries was on Feb. 23d amended, on motion of Congressman Dingley of Maine, by the addition of a section rendering liable to seizure and forfeiture any vessel of foreign nationality found engaged in taking fish of any kind within three marine miles of any of the marine coasts, bays, creeks or harbors of the United States, or within sea, lake or river waters of the United States; and as amended the bill was passed by a vote of 252 to one. The conference report on the bill to make a close season for mackerel was agreed to. It is thought probable that the senate will refuse to go so far as to prohibit the transportation of Canadian cars through American territory, as the Belmont bill provides for, and that unless the house will recede from its position when the bill goes to the conference committee, it is likely that Congress will adjourn without giving the president any more authority in the premises than he has now. This it is probable was Belmont's motive in introducing his bill instead of the more moderate senate bill, as Bayard, who rules Belmont, does not want any legislation that will be distasteful to his Canadian friends.

Hints to People Who Are Courting.

BOSTON, February 24.—The announcement is made to-day that a very bright sketch will appear in the next Boston Sunday Globe, entitled "Sample Sweethearts." This is the fourth in the series of home articles—the others being "Sample Wives," "Sample Husbands," and "A Five-Cent Plan of Moral Government for Children"—which has caused such a great rush for the Boston Sunday Globe the past few weeks. A remarkable poem by Rev. M. J. Savage will also appear in the next Boston Sunday Globe.

Rev. Charles W. Ward, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church at Englewood, N. J., on Feb. 22d shot his wife, attempted to shoot his little daughter, and then tried to kill himself. The prospects are against the recovery of either. It is believed that he was temporarily insane. Ward is about forty-two years old, and this was his fourth wife.

The colossal bronze statue of John C. Calhoun has been placed upon its pedestal in Marion square, Charleston, S. C. It is thirty-five years since the corner stone of the monument was laid. The figure faces the south. There remain now four historical figures and the ornaments to the panels to complete the monument.

There are not enough funds in the Indiana state treasury to pay a bill of $25,000.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

The republican senatorial caucus chose Senator Ingalls as their candidate for president pro tempore of the senate after March 4th.

A despatch was received in Salem, Mass., Feb. 23d, from Selma, Ala., announcing the death at that place of Henry Smith, a resident of Salem formerly in the employ of the Eastern railroad as a fireman, but who left that occupation to become an electrician, and had gone to Selma recently to enter into the employ of the Electric Light company there. On Tuesday evening, the 22d, he was instantly killed by a shock from an electro-dynamo which he was handling. He was born in London, England, where, it is believed, he has a father and mother living. The body will be sent to Salem and cared for by the Odd Fellows there, who will endeavor to find his relatives.

It is reported that already 115 men are implicated in the "boodle" business at Chicago, Ill., and they are jumping over each others' heads in their eagerness to turn state's evidence.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and now testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic affections I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

PORTSMOUTH'S RAILROAD BUSINESS FOR 1886.

Amount of business done at Portsmouth at Boston & Maine railroad station for year ending December 31st, 1886:

Tons freight received	85,161
" " forwarded	91,277
Total number tons freight handled	176,440
Amount of freight charges collected	$ 89,651.83
" " " " forwarded	116,958.66
Total amount freight received and forwarded	$206,180.34
Amount of tickets sold	63,409.77
Total business done at station	$269,590.11
" " " " " 1885	225,840.57
Excess of 1886 over 1885	$43,749.54

This shewing does not include the tickets sold over the Concord railroad from the Boston & Maine ticket office, which would increase the amount to nearly three hundred thousand dollars. The number of tons of freight received at and forwarded from this station is one-twentieth part of all the freight handled by the Boston & Maine railroad during the year, and the tickets sold in their ticket office foot up one sixty-fourth part of all the tickets sold by the road for the same length of time.

This record indicates that our old city is not so dead or "sleepy" as many persons in other places and some in our midst affect to believe, and that in proportion to the population, our merchants contribute quite as much to the business of the railroad as those of most other places. That so great a volume of business was conducted at this station would hardly be supposed, it is managed with such apparent ease and absence of fuss by Station Agent Perkins and his effective corps of assistants.

THE CITY REPORT.

The annual city report for the year 1886, just printed, is now ready at the city rooms, and taxpayers can secure a copy on application. The document contains a clear and concise statement of the condition of the business of the city, as taken from the records of the city officials. It gives in detail a statement of the receipts and expenditures as ordered by the city councils, the mayor's inaugural address, together with a report of the superintendent of schools, and other information regarding matters of general interest.

QUICK TRANSIT.

There have been so many complaints in regard to tardy mail transportation since Mr. Vilas assumed charge of the post-office department, that it is a real pleasure to pen an item of the opposite character. A gentleman took from the office in this city on Wednesday, Feb. 23d, at 6:30 o'clock P. M., a letter which the postmark showed was received at the office in Norfolk, Va., at 5:30 o'clock P. M. on the previous day. Twenty-five hours between reception at Norfolk and delivery in this city cannot be called slow work.

MARY A. LIVERMORE.

This great lecturer, whom Joseph Cook well calls "The Queen of the Platform," is to give her great lecture on "Women of the War" in the Belknap church, Dover, on Thursday evening, March 3d, at eight o'clock. Tickets of admission, including reserved seat, will be but thirty cents. Thus the great lecture is placed within the reach of all. Any in this vicinity who desire to attend the lecture may obtain tickets at C. W. Smith's bookstore, Dover, or of Rev. H. F. Wood, Dover.

NOT THERE---NOT MUCH!

It was rumored in Dover on Wednesday, the 23d inst., that Andy Callahan, late of the Thomaston state prison, and later engaged in business on Market and other streets of this city, was in Dover, and the Portsmouth police were notified. Assistant Marshal Hurley went to Dover in the afternoon and made a thorough search, but could not find Callahan, who probably has not been within a hundred miles of Dover since the day he deserted his drunken partner in crime at the Kittery depot, and went east.

"A PANTHER, SURE."

The "wild critter" which recently emigrated from Eliot to Dover neck, no doubt avoiding the payment of toll over the Eliot & Dover bridge by crossing in the night time, and which has since confined its wanderings to the neck, in the vicinity of Sunnyside farm, is now a panther, the catamount and bear elements having played out. Ex-Alderman Lucas of Dover, and a Frenchman employed by him who recently travelled for two seasons with Cole's circus, on the morning of the 22d inst. went out early to milk the cows, and saw the terror eating out of a pig-trough; the Frenchman instantly pronounced the animal to be a panther, sure, and the men went for their rifles to make things unpleasant for him, but as usual he declined the attention, and retired without waiting to receive it.

HE HAD A FINE ENGRAVING.

The Dover Democrat relates that on the Friday previous to Washington's birthday, as the teacher and pupils of the Sawyer grammar school first class were decorating the room for Monday, the 21st, the teacher asked if any of the scholars had a fine picture of Washington. One little fellow informed the teacher that he had one of the best engravings of the Father of his Country that had ever been painted, and promised the loan of it to the teacher for Monday. Accordingly a large place was left on the wall, and a pile of evergreen saved to decorate the picture. Monday morning the little fellow went to school, and as he marched up to his seat the anxious teacher looked at him, and as soon as he was seated asked if he had forgotten to bring that picture of Washington. Forward walked the boy and deposited on the desk an official envelope from the department of the interior, bearing in one corner a three-cent stamp of salmon color with the picture of Washington in the centre. As it was one of the finest engravings of Washington the teacher admitted that he was sold, and then filled up the place on the wall reserved for the engraving with evergreen.

Bees as Seedmakers.

Among the farmer's insect friends, the bees make themselves useful, and, as some think, indispensible, as seedmakers, by carrying pollen on their legs from plant to plant. Darwin made some experiments in regard to fertilization of flowers by insect agency, one of which I will transcribe. He selected 100 heads of red clover which he excluded from the visits of insects, but gave them the other requisites of reproduction—viz., sunlight and moisture. He also selected 100 heads and left them free to the visits of insects, with the following results: The hundred heads that had insects did not get to failed to produce a single seed, while those that were visited by the insects produced 27,000 seeds, thus showing that insects are a great factor in the fertilization of flowers.—Chicago Times.

Lesson by a Deer.

A pet deer in my father's family always refused to eat food that had been tasted or bitten by a human being. I have often taken a piece of vegetable, for which the deer has previously shown a partiality, and having driven my teeth into it, waited to observe the effect. The animal would approach, smell, and walk away in disgust. This reminiscence of boyhood has set me thinking, and I have now arrived at the conclusion that the ordinary food of man in our so-called higher civilization, for health's sake, might be advantageously modeled so as to more nearly harmonize with the food of the most beautiful and fleetest of the vegetable eating animals.—L. H. Kersy.

The Greek's School Days.

Though the state of Greece did not support schools, yet daily school going was quite general; the boys alone went to school, however. The whole education of a Greek youth was divided into three parts, grammar, music and gymnastics.

An official connected with the sanitary department of Paris says that there are fully 2,500,000 rats in that city.

Physicians Have Found Out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggravating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

Who is that fine looking lady that we just passed, Clara? Why, that is Mrs. Snow. Well, there, what a change; when I saw her last, her skin was so sallow and muddy looking, it's no wonder I didn't know her. What has produced that lovely complexion? I heard that she took Sulphur Bitters, the great blood purifier, and now would not be without them.

Pleurisy Cured.

KINGSTON, ONTARIO, Dec. 7th, '85.

Six years ago I caught a severe cold standing in an ice house with my coat off. I felt myself getting chilly and went to the house, where I shook for half an hour and then had high fever and terrible pain in my side and through my lungs. I put an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my back and one on the front of my chest, and in a short time the pain decreased and I fell asleep, and did not wake until the next morning, when I was again quite as well as ever. In telling my doctor about it, he said I had been attacked with pleurisy and, possibly, pneumonia. E. E. DUDLEY.

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of the fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful remedy, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

AN APPEAL TO LINCOLN.

After an Interview with Secretary Stanton—A Boy Sent Home.

Mr. Lincoln was often appealed to, as a sort of appelate court, to overrule the rigorous judgments of his cabinet officers. I remember a case in point which brought joy to the heart of a Connecticut mother. Her son, who was perhaps a little wild, had one day, returning from school, been trapped by some New York bounty agents, paid $300, enlisted in a New York regiment and hurried off to the front without his parents' knowledge. His mother was almost distracted. His father, then as now one of the first citizens of Connecticut, had intervened in vain to get his release. A delegation of prominent citizens of his town came to Washington and appealed to the secretary of war, but were met with a gruff refusal. Dixon and I were then solicited to use our good offices with Mr. Stanton. We reluctantly consented, knowing that when the great war secretary once locked his jaws the case was generally hopeless. We visited the war office with somewhat the feelings of men who were about to beard a lion in his den. We found him, as was his custom, standing bolt upright at the corner of his desk, with a head like a huge cannon ball, short massive neck, square built frame and iron gray beard flowing down over his bosom—a man of iron—with eyes blazing full of energy, will and determination. He heard my appeal with ill-concealed impatience and snorted out an instant and absolute refusal: "He had heard the case before and had decided it. The boy had taken his money and enlisted. If he should discharge all the minors whose mothers wanted them home he would soon not have a man to handle a musket.

We were glad to get out of the lion's den without being bitten. Leaving the war office, we went to the White House, resolving to appeal unto Cæsar. Mr. Lincoln heard the case with sympathetic interest. No meritorious appeal was ever made to that great, tender heart in vain. He at once wrote on one of the inevitable envelopes: "Let young ——, of Connecticut, a minor, enlisted by fraud in the —— New York regiment, be discharged. A. Lincoln."

We took this, not without an air of triumph, back to Stanton to have the necessary order issued. He glared at it for an instant, crumpled it in his fist, threw it on the floor and growled through his set teeth, "I won't do it." I said: "Shall we report that to the president as your reply, Mr. Secretary?" "Yes," said he, bristling like a grand old Numidian lion, "and you may add that I will resign my portfolio before I will set such a precedent."

We returned to the president and reported the scene and the words verbatim.

"Did he say that after reading my order?" asked the president.

"Yes," I replied, "expecting an explosion.

"Well," said he, "I guess he would do it. We must find some other way to get this boy home to his mother;" and, taking a piece of paper, he wrote: "To the commanding officer at ——: Discharge young ——, of Connecticut, now in the —— New York, and send him to Washington. A. Lincoln."

In a week the boy was in his mother's arms at Bridgeport.—Augustus Brandegee in New York Tribune.

The famous Bodleian library, Oxford university, England, has 350,000 volumes.—Public Opinion.

Didn't Know How to Sleep.

Deputy United States Marshal Maurice H. Lundy was called to Juniata county last week on official business, and his first night there was spent at a tavern kept by a Pennsylvania Dutchman. He came down stairs early in the morning shivering and shaking from cold and feeling very cross. The first person he saw was the landlord, to whom he savagely cried out:

"Say, Mr. Landlord, what kind of a hotel do you call this? Have you no bed covering in it? I almost froze to death last night!"

"Mine gracious," replied the proprietor, "you must be von mighty cold blooded mans! Yy, ter ish two fedder beds on ter bed for you to sleep between."

About this time Lundy had taken in the true situation of affairs, and he fairly roared, as he exclaimed:

"Well, by all that is infernal! I lay all of last night between the top of the upper feather bed and a sheet! Landlord, I beg your pardon. I'm going back again to get in between those two feather beds and do the thing right. Please call me at noon."—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

Four Hundred and Eight Princes.

The Christian and monarchial world counts among its combined reigning families 408 princes. If the female contingent was taken into account, this figure would almost be doubled.—New York Sun.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and filthy. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Or daily the hair came out and was removed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 12th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on the scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and would be similarly affected to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,

Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to produce satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the three-three years of my experience as a druggist.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-liquid substance surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn out death of misery and disease, quelling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, infecting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, offering, hard but to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions, price, $1.00.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Mayor Hewitt's Views.

A letter by Mayor Hewitt of New York to the Young Men's Democratic club of Brooklyn, expressing regret that he could not accept an invitation to a dinner of the club at which Gov. Hill was the chief guest, was suppressed by the officials of the club on account of its reference to the "organized labor" movement. This suppression has caused a great deal of stir, and to a reporter Mayor Hewitt said:

The letter is merely a reiteration of the views which I expressed during my mayoralty campaign, and have repeated since in letters to public bodies on the labor question. Its general ideas are expressed in the letter to the Southern dinner last night, denouncing the tyranny which the leaders of the so-called labor movement have imposed on the workingmen subject to their control, and insisting that practically the members of the labor organizations were in bondage to the leaders. The despotism is so complete that during the late strikes the leaders even declared their purpose to order a universal strike, which would have produced a general paralysis of business in this city and elsewhere.

I regard it as the mission of the democratic party to protect the inalienable right of the workingman to dispose of his labor in any way which seems to him to be best. Upon this principle the democratic party secured power, and when it fails to assert the rights of personal independence its mission will be ended. It is a mistake, therefore, for the leaders of the democratic party anywhere to coquette with the leaders of the so-called labor movement. The party should boldly announce its determination to break down all organizations which seek to put shackles upon the free labor of the country, and particularly all secret political organizations, especially if they are based upon the interests of a particular class of the community. It would be just as objectionable to be ruled by an organization of laboring men, separated from the rest of the community, as by a combination of bankers and railroad companies.

Worse and Worse.

A despatch of Feb. 24th from Rome says the reports of disasters from the earthquakes continue to arrive, and the total number of deaths announced up to that time was about 2000. In the Reveira district over 1500 lives were lost, 300 of them by the fall of a church in the village of Bajardo. At Cannes, Nice, Mentone and other places which have been disastrously shaken, thousands of English and American visitors were wintering, and the crush to get away is very great. In the earthquake district nearly the entire population have spent the nights since the first shocks in the open ground.

"Here is truly a family magazine," is what we exclaimed after looking through "Demorest's Monthly" for February. The departments in this artistic magazine make it peculiarly welcome in the family circle. "Home Art and Home Comfort" tells how to make home beautiful and comfortable; "Household" assists in the work in the house from garret to kitchen; "Our Girls" gives practical hints to the rising generation. "Mirror of Fashions" must be a perfect reflection of the prevailing styles, for who can know them better than Mme. Demorest? "What Women are Doing" is always interesting to women. The articles are very cleverly written by the best authors, and the illustrations are profuse and very fine. The steel engraving "Cupid" is especially appropriate at this Valentine season. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, No. 17 East 14th street, New York.

As a careful estimate of the continental naval armaments by the English admiralty, the articles by Sir Edward Reed on the navies of Europe, in "Harper's Magazine," deserve attentive study from every one who would understand the relative marine equipments of the great powers. The January portion of this subject was devoted to the French navy. The February number concludes the matter with a review of the Italian, Russian, Germany, Austrian, and Turkish navies. Their comparative strength proves to be in the order we have given them. The explanation of each nation's peculiar method of naval construction shows the reason why Italy ranks third among the European navies, following England and France, and leading Germany and Russia. The illustrations are very complete and strong.

"The Golden Justice," by William Henry Bishop. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston and New York. For sale by M. Goodrich, price $1.25. This work was published as a serial in the "Atlantic Monthly," and attracted wide attention. It possesses much solid and enduring worth, and is the best story yet written by Mr. Bishop. The character of David Lane is admirably drawn, the stings of a guilty conscience even during the hour of his honor and success being graphically pictured. The characters of the story are all presented in an artistic manner, and the interest of the reader is retained to the end.

Lucy C. Lillie contributes the complete novel to "Lippincott's Monthly Magazine" for March. Robert J. Burdette contributes the "Confessions of a Reformed Humorist," the quaint wit of which belies his pretended reformation. Another personal article of great interest is Rev. W. H. Milburn's "Autobiographical Notes of a Congressional Chaplain." Henry C. Lea attacks "The Policy of Insurance" in a paper full of vigor. Fred. Percy Powers discusses "Rent and Taxes" from the point of view of an enthusiastic disciple of Henry George. There is a short story, "Was it Worth While?" by Barnet Phillips, one of the best short story writers in this country, whose magazine contributions are all too few; the present story is bright and amusing, and unconventional. But perhaps the most important article in the number is "Gen. John A. Logan," by "One Who Knew Him." As this was written under the personal supervision of Mrs. John A. Logan, and with the advice and assistance of Generals Sherman, Fremont, Clark, and others of his former comrades-in-arms, it may be looked upon as the authoritative biography of the late statesman and warrior.

Elopement From Exeter.

Exeter, Feb. 23.—The residents of this town are just at present much excited over the elopement of a young and pretty girl of this town and a student of the academy. The man, George W. Ewing of New York city, was until recently a student of Phillips Exeter academy, but about a week ago was expelled for cutting recitations. The young woman, Miss Genevieve Quirin, was a former pupil at the seminary. The young man remained in town till Sunday, when he left on the afternoon train for Boston. The girl, with whom he had been acquainted for a long time, was a passenger on the same train. At Boston they met and went to Young's hotel, where the girl registered under an assumed name. They remained there until Wednesday, but their whereabouts are not now known. The girl left a note in which she stated that she loved the young man, but when the note would be read she would be dead. Detectives have been employed on the case and it is hoped that the runaway girl may be found. There are many rumors as to her whereabouts, but nothing definite is known at present. The young lady was prominent in society here and has always borne a fair reputation. The mother and family are nearly distracted over the affair.

About forty employes of the Metropolitan Rubber Co., of Reading, Mass., struck Feb. 24th on account of a disagreement as to the price for a certain class of work. The strikers are not members of any labor organization.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PERLE, Salem, Mass.

expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic affections I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Insley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

EPISCOPAL CONFIRMATION SERVICES.

Rt. Rev. W. W. Niles, D. D., Bishop of New Hampshire, has been taken suddenly and seriously ill at his house in Concord, and will be unable to keep his appointment to administer the rite of confirmation in this city on Sunday next. He has given permission to the rector to ask some bishop to do so, and Rt. Rev. Henry A. Neely, S. T. D., Bishop of Maine, has kindly responded to the invitation. He already, however, has an appointment for Sunday, and will officiate here on Monday evening next at St. John's church, the service beginning at half-past seven o'clock. On that occasion the entire class which has been in preparation will be confirmed.

On Sunday in St. John's church the rector will preach on confirmation at the 10:30 A. M. service. The Holy Communion will (according to previous notice) be celebrated in the chapel at 8:30 A. M. The service at Christ church on Sunday will be at 4:30 P. M. instead of 7:30 P. M., as was contemplated on the occasion of the bishop's visitation.

THE FIRE ALARM.

Through some misunderstanding the supt. of the fire alarm telegraph announced a short time ago that the time for testing the alarm had been changed. We are requested to state that the alarm will be tested on the first day of every month, as in the past, (except when it falls on Sunday in which case the alarm will be tested the day following), permanent arrangement having been made with the brewery to furnish sufficient steam on such days to test every box in the city.

On Tuesday evening, March 1st, in the Unitarian chapel on Court street, an entertainment in aid of the N. H. S. P. C. A. will be given, consisting of the reading by Rev. Alfred Gooding of selections from Childe Harold, illustrated by stereopticon views. The object is most meritorious; and Mr. Gooding's excellence as a reader, and his appreciative rendering of the works of the poets, assures a most enjoyable entertainment. Tickets can be had at Goodrich's and Grace's stores.

A despatch from Syracuse, N. Y., says that "Barnabee, Tom Karl, W. H. Macdonald and Marie Stone announce that they will not sing after the close of this season under W. H. Foster, manager of the Ideal Opera Co., but will have an organization of their own. They declare that they will not play second to Mlle. De Lussan, whom Manager Foster has been starring this season. Foster will have a new company next season with De Lussan at its head." Mlle. De Lussan is the young lady who some weeks ago was gravely announced in some papers to be Barnabee's daughter, greatly to the astonishment of the popular comedian's relatives and many friends in this city.

And upon the reverse: "Importers of Crockery and Glass Ware, Dealers in Coal, 1837." If this piece of copper could tell the story of its travels during the last fifty years, what a volume of reminiscence it would make.

MARITIME NOTES.

The four-masted schooner Sarah W. Lawrence, Phillips master, sailed from Newport News, Va., Feb. 23d, for this port, with over 2000 tons of coal on board.

The schooner Harry A. Barry, a frequent visitor at this port for some years past, and before reported ashore at Point Judith, has been abandoned, and will be stripped where she lies, if possible. The strong southeaster that set in early in the morning on Feb. 24th commenced to break her up very fast.

A large unknown three-masted schooner in ballast, or ice laden, struck the wreck of the English steamship Brinkburn on Fenwick's island shoals, on the night of Feb. 23d, and rolled over and sunk. It is thought that some of her crew were lost. A few were seen to be picked up by a two-masted schooner bound south. The wreck of this English craft, which has been lying on the shoals for a year past, having become detached from its original position has drifted up and down the front of the island, to the terror of all kinds of shipping. The loss occasioned by the sunken steamer this winter will amount to $300,000 to American vessels alone. A large brig laden with logwood was lost in the same way as this schooner, early in the winter, striking the wreck, filling and rolling over, her crew being saved only after long and terrible suffering in their boat.

Capt. John Davidson of Newcastle is to go master of the schooner Satellite the coming season.

Capt. Frank P. Coleman, of the schooner Emily C. Dennison, has gone to Kennebunkport, where the vessel wintered, to get her in readiness for resuming the brick carrying trade between Saco and Boston as soon as the season opens.

The schooners Hattie Lewis, D. K. Ham and John Lenthall are all to receive some repairs before commencing the spring work.

The schooner wrecked on the morning of the 23d inst. by striking the sunken British steamship on Fenwick's island shoal was the Baylies Wood of Taunton, Mass., 593 tons register, built at Boston in 1882. All hands were saved by another schooner.

The owners of schooner Bertha M. Miller, of Boston, which vessel fouled the French Atlantic cable on Brown's bank, losing part of a cable and an anchor to save the wire, have received $125 as reimbursement from Superintendent Fisher.

Commodore William T. Truxton, U. S. N., retired, died very suddenly at his home in Norfolk, Va., Feb. 25th. He entered the service in 1841, and was commissioned commodore in 1882. His record was a most honorable one.

Gallinaceous Vandals.

H. D. Thoreau was once called upon by Mrs. R. W. Emerson, whose flower garden was being scratched up by the hens, to help her devise some plan to prevent further damage. After a consideration of ways and means, Mrs. Emerson hit upon the expedient of putting linen gloves upon the feet of the gallinaceous vandals.

Thoreau, who had a keen sense of humor, restrained the laughter which was nearly choking him, and grave, yet grave, under Mrs. Emerson's direction, bandaged the claws of the assembled barnyard in stout linen cloth. For an hour or so the fowls did no harm, and the Emerson household was greatly pleased.

Finally there was heard an exultant crow. The rooster had scratched through his bandages and was triumphing over his exploit. The hens followed suit, and Mrs. Emerson was reduced to despair, while Thoreau went to the woods, where he could let his laughter have vent.—Youth's Companion.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

The English court at Shanghai has found upon taking testimony in the case that the officers of the Peninsular & Oriental steamship Nepaul were solely to blame for the recent collison of that vessel with a Chinese transport ship, by which the latter was sunk and 100 lives were lost. The Chinese government claims £50,000 for the loss of the transport.

Physicians Have Found Out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggravating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

Useful and Hurtful Medicines.

There is a certain class of remedies for constipation absolutely useless. These are boluses and potions made in great part of podophyllin, aloes, rhubarb, gamboge, and other worthless ingredients. The damage they do to the stomachs of those who use them is incalculable. They evacuate the bowels, it is true, but always do so violently and profusely, and besides, gripe the bowels. Their effect is to weaken both them and the stomach. Better far to use the agreeable and salutary aperient, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the laxative effect of which is never preceded by pain, or accompanied by a convulsive, violent action of the bowels. On the contrary, it invigorates these organs, the stomach and the entire system. As a means of curing and preventing malarial fevers, no medicine can compare with it, and it remedies nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and bladder inactivity, and other inorganic ailments.

It is an open question whether the reader of the March "Atlantic" will most enjoy Mr. Lowell's poem, "Fancy or Fact?" with which the number begins, or Dr. Holmes' account of his recent trip abroad, called "Our Hundred Days;" for both are admirable. There is an interesting paper on "Theophile Gautier," by James Breck Perkins, and this is followed by the second part of Lawrence Saxe's "Lady from Maine," the best short story that the Atlantic has had for a long time. Will Cranston Lawton has a paper on "The Hippolytos of Euripides," —a paper so vivid that the reading of it gives one almost the impression of having been a spectator of the tragedy. Mrs. Oliphant's and Mr. Aldrich's "The Second Son," and Marion Crawford's "Paul Patoff," are continued, and will be read with interest by everybody; there is an admirable criticism of "Longfellow's Art," by Horace E. Scudder; Louise Chandler Moulton contributes a poem called "Come Back, Dear Days!" and the Contributors' Club and Books of the Month finish a well-rounded and readable number of the magazine. FIDELITY.

With trembling lips my love bade me farewell;
A burning kiss she pressed upon my brow—
The stamp of love. My temples even now
Throb o'er the spot her lips sought but to dwell
In one's heartfelt caress. My pulses swell
And tears fall fast as I recall her vow;
"I'll loyal be, thou' true or faithless thou.
Till stars of love from twilight skies dispel!"
I drew her form unto my bursting heart
And crowned the Eros of our mutual dreams
With lasting wreaths and strong, impassioned art,
While flowing swift came thought in mighty streams,—
"I'll loyal be till life and soul depart

THE NAUTCH GIRLS' DANCE.

A Performance Artistic and Decorous. Bicyclist Stevens' Description.

I had been wondering whether an opportunity to see the famous dance would occur during my tour through India, and so, when four or five of the prettiest of these dusky damsels gathered around me, smiled at me winsomely, ogled me with with their bewitching black eyes, smiled again, smiled separately, smiled unanimously, smiled all over their semi mahogany but nevertheless not unhandsome faces, and every time displaying sets of pearly teeth, what could I do? What could one have done but smile in return?

There is no language more eloquent or more easily understood, under certain circumstances, than the language of facial expression. No verbal question or answer was necessary. I interpreted the winsom, smiles of the Nautch dancers right and they interpreted very quickly the permission to go ahead that revealed itself in the smile they had forced from me. Eight of the twelve were commonplace girls of from 14 to 18 and the other four were quite handsome, as handsome goes among the Hindoos. Their arms were bare of anything save bracelets and the upper portion of the body was but scantily clothed, after the manner and custom of all Hindoo females; but an ample skirt of calico reached to the ankles. Rings were on every toe and massive silver anklets, with tiny bells attached, made music when they walked or danced. They wore a profusion of bracelets, necklaces of rubies, head ornaments, ear rings and pendants and a massive gold or brass ring in the left nostril. The nostril was relieved of its burden by a string that descended from a head ornament and took up the weight.

The Nautch girls arranged themselves into a half circle, their scarlet costumes forming a bright crescent, terminating at either end in a mass of spectators, whose half naked bodies, varying in color from pale olive to mahogany, were arrayed in costumes scarcely less showy than the dancers. The chaperone tom-toms an appropriate Nautch accompaniment on a drum with his fingers, and four pretty girls advance from the half circle, and, favoring me with a quartette of billing smiles and a quartette of coquettish glances from their bright dark eyes, they commence to dance. An idea seems to prevail in occidental minds that the Indian Nautch dance is a very naughty thing, but nothing is further from the truth. Of course it can be made naughty, and no doubt often is, but then so can many another form of innocent amusement. The proper Nautch dance is a decorous and artistic performance when properly danced; the graceful motions and elegant proportions of the human form, as revealed by lithe and graceful dancers, are to be reviewed with an eye as purely artistic and critical as a Venus or other production of the sculptor's studio. Only the "British matron" would consider a Nautch dance in any degree indecorous.

The four dancers take the hem of their red garment between the thumb and finger of the right hand, spreading its ample folds into the figure of an open fan by bringing the outstretched arm almost on a level with the shoulder. A mantle of transparent muslin, fringed with silver spangles, is worn about the head and shoulders in the same indescribably graceful manner as the mantilla of the Spanish senorita. Raising a portion of this aloft in the left hand and keeping the "fan" intact with the right the dancers twirl around and change positions with each other, their supple figures meanwhile assuming a variety of graceful motions and postures from time to time. Now they imitate the spiral movements of the serpent, climbing around and upward on an imaginary pole; again they assume a charming posture, their dusky countenances half hidden in seeming coquetry behind the muslin mantle, the large red fan waved gently to and fro, the feet unmoving, but the undulating motions of the body and the trembling of the limbs sufficing to jingle the tiny ankle bells.

A Great Slave Hunting Region.

The country between the Zambesi river and the lake regions of central Africa is one of the great slave hunting grounds of that dark continent. An English traveler who recently journeyed through the country says that every village shows the familiar sight of the slave in the yoke awaiting the departure of a caravan. This yoke is made from the forked branches of a tree; about five or six feet long—some are much longer—and from three to four inches in diameter at the thickest part. Through each prong of the fork a hole is bored for the reception of an iron pin. This ready, a soft fibrous bark is wrapped around until the whole forms a thick collar of bark, making a sort of pad much rougher than a horse's collar. It is often allowed to remain upon a slave for nine months or a year, night and day, without being once taken off. When a caravan is ready to start the men are coupled by the yoke being lashed so as to form a rigid pole, binding the pair from neck to neck together. With loads on their heads, they then turn their faces to the eastward and leave their homes forever.—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with eruptions, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times I could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them proves as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your lighthoused clay? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the heart with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

The President's Veto Summarized.

An "old soldier," who has been summarizing the message of President Cleveland vetoing the dependent pension bill, writes to a western paper that correctly interpreted the message would read very much as follows:

The Union soldiers were the best paid soldiers in the history of the world. At one time they had $13 a month, or as a gold dollar was then worth three greenback dollars, a little over $4 a month. If they were not able to support their own families on this and lay up enough from it to provide for their parents in old age, and were foolish enough to get killed by interfering with the rebellion, then let their dependent aged parents go to the poor house, and good enough for 'em. As for me, as long as I have $50,000 a year salary, $50,000 for household expenses, $35,000 extra of public money for flowers, and $10,000 of public money for a set of new dishes, I am going to approve this bill if all the aged parents of dead Union soldiers in the country shall starve. Parents whose sons have been soldiers for this great republic at fourteen cents a day, should have been more thrifty and saving, and so not been caught poor in their old age.

AROUND HOME.

Mr. Jeremiah Towle of South Newmarket, formerly of this city, was in town Saturday.

Robert Graves' dwelling in Hampton was burned Thursday afternoon, with most of its contents. It was not insured.

A new fife and drum corps of ten pieces,—three solo fifes, two altos and one bass, two snare drums, base drum and triangle,—has been organized.

Blue birds are reported as having been seen in this vicinity the latter part of last week. These beautiful and hardy little birds are the advance agents of spring in this latitude.

O. F. Philbrick & Co. last week received a new engine and boiler, which were set up at their coal and wood wharf to do whatever work steam can be utilized in doing.

Two car-loads of fish-box shooks were received on Commercial wharf last week from the White mountain region, one load to Edw. Jameson and the other to Newton & Co.; they are the handsomest shooks ever landed on the wharf.

The Dover Democrat gives currency to a report that the Boston & Maine railroad directors have voted not to conclude the much-talked-of contract with the American Express Co., by which the latter was to have general charge of all express business over the Boston & Maine lines.

The orchestra which has done such creditable work at Music hall, and added so largely to the enjoyment of audiences there for some time past, is composed as follows: Clarence Joy, 1st violin; Chauncey B. Hoyt, 2d violin and bass viol; George M. Ayers, cornet; Edward E. Seymour, clarionet; Alfred N. La Brie, piano.

A large and brilliant audience, which was unstinted in its appreciation and applause, attended a Browning reading given by Mr. Arthur Howard Pickering at the residence of Mrs. George W. Haven in this city, one evening last week. The reading was under the auspices of the Eclectic club. A supper followed at the house of Mrs. Richter.

In Boston, Saturday, Eastern railroad stock sold at 130 and 131, nearly 300 shares going at the latter price; Portland, Saco & Portsmouth brought 131 1-2, and Boston & Maine 216. Eastern railroad 6's of 1906 brought 128 1-4. Newmarket Manfg. Co.'s stock brought 349 and 350; Great Falls Manfg. Co., 88 1-4; Salmon Falls Manfg. Co., 272 1-2.

There were shipped from Commercial wharf during the week ending Feb. 19th, by Edw. Jameson, E. Newton & Co. and Daniel Clark, 498 boxes of fish, or about 125 tons, all of which were hauled to the railroad station by A. K. Brown's teams. About 250,000 lbs. of fish were landed here last week, the prices paid ranging from $1.35 to $3 per hundred lbs., the latter price being given on Friday for a fare of 12,000 lbs. brought in by the schooner Emerald.

The barometer stood at 30.4 inches Saturday morning, and was down to 28.9 inches Sunday morning, a fall of one and one-half inches in the twenty-four hours, most of the drop occurring during the prevalence of the howling storm in the evening and early part of the night Saturday. There were a good many people, including a large proportion of ladies, on the streets Saturday evening, notwithstanding the driving snow-storm. Sunday morning was bright overhead, and the temperature about right for comfort, but the walking would have been better had the three or four inches of dry snow which fell not been saturated with the subsequent fall of rain; the churches were fairly attended.

Capt. Rufus Varrell of York harbor, who has been somewhat under the weather for nearly a year past, is looking quite smart again.

Mr. William H. Manson has bought a house-lot of E. Herbert Banks, Esq., near the residence of George W. Webber at York village.

Capt. Rosewell Webber of York celebrated his 84th birthday on Feb. 17th, and walked a mile that day. He is hale and hearty, with a prospect of living and enjoying life for years yet.

A wrestling match took place Feb. 25th at York between the champion wrestlers of the town, Andrew Webber and Curtis Booker, best two in three. Webber won the first two bouts, and of course won the match.

A Washington's birthday dance was given at the Beach house, York beach, of which Mr. Sayward is landlord; dancing was kept up until morning, music being furnished by Prof. Dufoe of Montreal, who was stopping at the Donnell house.

Grant Brothers & Stewart, of York, are stripping an eighty-acre wood and timber lot near Chase's mills which they bought last fall of Mr. "Jack" Parsons for $4,000. A large part of the lumber will go into the bridge structures of the York railroad.

Messrs. Ellis & Son have nearly completed the altering of their former skating rink at Short sands, York, into a hotel of sixty rooms. Considerable building is already in progress at York beach, in anticipation of a great increase of summer travel consequent on the building of the new railroad.

The school in district seven, South Eliot, taught by E. H. Dixon, closed last Friday after a very pleasant and successful term of four months. Just before the close of the session Miss Laura Dame, in behalf of the school, presented the teacher with a fine photograph album. In the evening a reception was given by Mr. Dixon at his home.

—An agricultural exchange asks "How to make hogs pay." The best way to avoid the difficulty is not to sell a hog anything unless he pays for it in advance.

—"Ten dollars fine for contempt of court," thundered the judge; "what do you think of that?" "Better make it twenty," he replied; "that amount of contempt ought never to go for ten dollars."

—It was a little newly-arrived sister that nurse held in her arms, and seven-year-old Robbie stood jealously inspecting her. To his mind she looked smaller and less attractive than any little sister of the other boys that he could remember, and he felt a keen thrill of disappointment. So he put his hands deep in his pockets like papa, wrinkled up his nose, and, regarding the new acquisition savagely, said: "Well, I call that pretty near a failure!"

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic afflictions I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE:—Mr. Isley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement.—I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. "THE PAVEMENTS OF PARIS."

This evening, at Music hall, the sensational French melodrama the "Pavements of Paris" will be presented by Henry Belmer and an efficient dramatic company, with scenery brought by the company. Tickets at Goodrich's; see advertisement.

MILITARY.

Col. Lane and Lt.-Col. Seymour, of the First Regiment N. H. N. G., were in this city Saturday in consultation with several of our citizens, looking toward the establishment of a military company here. We are of those who believe such an organization should be maintained here, and we sincerely hope their efforts will prove successful.

DEATH OF WM. A. PLAISTED.

Mr. William A. Plaisted, grocer and grain and flour dealer on Market street, died Saturday evening after a brief illness. Mr. Plaisted was a printer by trade, and one of the best who ever worked in this city. Some years ago, finding that his health was suffering from the confinement of a printing office, he gave up that business, and commenced the flour and grain trade in a very modest way; his upright methods and square dealing soon drew a good degree of patronage, which steadily increased until he was obliged to greatly enlarge his facilities, and he added a full line of groceries to his former stock, this move also proving an entire success; and the business transacted by him last year was probably not less than $100,000. He was an earnest advocate of the temperance cause, and would never sell any intoxicants, although a stock of liquors at his store, to be sold by measure, would undoubtedly have been a source of large income. He was a man whose word carried weight, and a good citizen. When the rebellion of 1861 burst upon our land, his patriotic spirit quickly responded to the call of his country, and he became a member of the 36th Massachusetts regiment.

Mr. Plaisted was connected with the Universalist denomination in this city, giving largely from his means for its benefit, and always ready to do whatever his hands found to do for the cause he loved so well. For several years he has been one of the wardens of the society, where his excellent judgment and earnest work have been of great value. He was in the prime of life, with a prospect of many years of usefulness before him, and his demise is a great loss to the whole community. His wife was a daughter of Thomas B. Gammon, Esq., of this city, and the stricken widow with an adopted daughter mourn their great loss.

SENSIBLE ATHLETES.

The Portsmouth Athletic club have decided not to repeat the highly successful entertainment given by them in Music hall last week, either in this city or Dover. In this decision we think the young fellows show excellent good sense, and that they are not to be swept "off their base" by any breeze of enthusiasm. If they should go to Dover they would unquestionably be largely patronized, but it would be absurd to expect such an ovation as they received in this city, and which was by no means wholly due to curiosity to see what they could do in the entertainment line, public approval of the propriety and regard for public decency with which the affairs of the club have from the first been conducted, having been a large factor in inducing the vast attendance at their show. The boys are wise in not running any risk of having the blaze of glory which now shines on the recollections of their excellent entertainment, dimmed by the record of any possibly less successful affair of the kind.

The next undertaking of the club will be the giving of a grand ball in Franklin hall on the evening of Thursday, April 14th, after the close of the Lenten season, with music by Blaisdell's orchestra of Concord, and an instrumental concert in Music hall preceding the dancing.

"GOOD BEGINNINGS AND BAD ENDINGS"

Was the subject of the sermon in the Universalist church on Sunday, the text being Matthew 22:14; "For many are called, but few chosen."

Final destiny was not the object nor the subject of Christ's preaching. He never alluded to it unless urged to by questioners. He never defined its nature as being a reward or a punishment. His idea of destiny is, that it is to become deeply sensible of what we are; that feeling does, and will afford to us all grades of happiness and misery. Yet even at our worst we never need lose hope, nor the joy of a motive furnished through God's love. That is a thing of of the present, and on that as an everlasting basis Christ placed himself, and called to men. Few responded. He calls men to-day to a candid search of themselves. They begin well; that is, they can talk well, they can give of their abundance; they make several good starts; but they do not finish the demands of an entire Christian life. The good start is used to cover over the poor finish. There is much power, many seem able to run well, many give promise of running well. Few reach the goal. There is a half-result for want of nobleness of soul and hardihood of character.

From such as are thus the devil makes his finest choices. He calls many simple and foolish. He chooses a few of the strong to waste themselves as impotent giants at the head of his decaying kingdom. They are the clogs and hindrances to the advancing world.

The chosen ones on the side of God, and under the leadership of Christ, are working hard to advance the world. Are they not few? The men who believe in better things for the present and have faith in what the world will be, these are safe; there are few that be saved.

A SENSIBLE CHANGE.

The parties in control of the York Harbor & Beach railroad have very sensibly concluded to make the Kittery station of the Boston & Maine road the westerly terminus of the new line, instead of a point at or near Butler's crossing as first proposed. Starting from the Kittery station toward York the new road will keep straight on,—or much more nearly straight on than the old one does,—through Spinney's orchard to Rice's hollow, and then follow the valley around the northerly and westerly side of Rice's hill, and through "the slough" to a junction with the formerly surveyed route.

THE KNIBBS VALVE SUIT.

The agreement for a non-suit in case Norton et als. vs. Portsmouth has been perfected and signed, and sent to the clerk of courts to be placed on file. Hon. William L. Foster, counsel for the city, has notified Mayor Eldredge to this effect.

It is to be hoped we have now heard the last of this annoying and costly business. There never was even a pretence that, allowing the Knibbs patent to have been valid, the city knew or could possibly have known that it was infringing, no notice of such infringement having ever been served and no such claim ever made until after the pretended patent had expired. This fact, in itself, should have been sufficient to have cleared the city from all claim for damages, had the Knibbs patent been sustained; it would not have been, however, and in so much the patent laws are grossly unjust and dishonest, and should be amended. That an innocent infringer of a patent, who not only is unaware that he is infringing but can by no possible means learn that he is so doing, should be held responsible for his infringement, is a contemptible travesty on justice and an insult to common sense.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The secretary of the navy last week ordered a naval court of enquiry consisting of Lieut. Col. John L. Broome, U. S. M. C., president, Captains McLane Tilton and Percival C. Pope, U. S. M. C., members, and Lieut. Adolph Marix, U. S. N., judge advocate, to convene at the Portsmouth navy yard on Tuesday, March 1st, to investigate the alleged theft of clothing and equipments from the marine barracks at the yard by Sergeant Belden, a member of the marine guard of the yard.

Mr. Fred A. Hoyt, foreman pattern maker in the department of steam engineering at the navy yard, resigned that position on Saturday, having received a more advantageous offer to return to the employ of the Swamscot Machine Co. at South Newmarket, which he left to take the appointment at the yard. Whatever may be said of some of the democratic appointments on the navy yard, that of Mr. Hoyt was an excellent one, he being a thoroughly competent mechanic and a gentleman,—such a kind of man as is always able to command the highest pay in private manufactories.

Commodore L. A. Kimberly has been detached from command of the Boston navy yard, and ordered to hold himself in readiness for sea service.

THE Y. H. & B. R. R.

Work is being rapidly pushed on the York Harbor & Beach railroad at the York end, the roadbed being completed from York river to a point back of the Beach house, not far from the terminus of the road at Josiah Norton's, Union Bluff. A great deal of piling is being driven back of York beach, and it is estimated that 200,000 feet of planking will be required for the bridging back of the beach. The piling for the York river bridge is two-thirds driven, and work is being expedited all that is possible on the capping of the same. The three stations have been located as follows: Harbor station, near David Webber's house, below the village; second station, between the Garrison house and the Hotel Bartlett; and the terminal station at Josiah Norton's, Union Bluff.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner A. R. Crittenden of Gloucester, which arrived in the lower harbor several weeks ago from Newfoundland with 300,000 frozen herring, and came up to one of the wharves the first of last week, sailed for Gloucester on Friday morning, Feb. 25th, not having been able to dispose of her cargo. E. Newton & Co. on Friday bought in Boston 100,000 Newfoundland herring for baiting the fishing vessels sailing out of this port.

The schooner Franklin S. Schenck last week shared out $50 per man clear, as the proceeds of three fares of fish landed at this port.

A number of vessels are fitting out in Gloucester for the southern mackerel fishery. Some mackerel are reported as having already been seen off the Virginia coast.

A steam fire engine was on Saturday alongside the schooner Charles H. Trickey at Randall & Caswell's wharf, pumping out the water which had leaked in during the winter.

Uncle Tom's Cabin is to be presented at Music hall, Wednesday afternoon and evening. See advertisement.

An adjourned meeting of the committees of the Good Templars, W. C. T. U. and Woman's League, will be held at Good Templar's hall, Pleasant street, this (Monday) afternoon at three o'clock.

To-morrow evening, in the Unitarian chapel on Court street, Rev. Alfred Gooding will give readings from the 4th canto of Childe Harold, with stereopticon illustrations. Few persons can read poetry more pleasingly than Mr. Gooding,—we do not know of any who can do so,—and the proceeds of the entertainment will go to aid the good work of the N. H. S. P. C. A. Tickets can be secured at Goodrich's and Grace's stores.

The young man who delivers and sells the Boston Sunday papers in this city had a package weighing 67 1-2 lbs. when he started on his rounds last Sunday forenoon.

In Secret From the Public.

But is it best to hang men? I do not think it is. Is it best to hang women? Is it best to hang anybody? Is the spectacle refining or brutalizing? If it could be shown that hanging was the best disposition that could be made of bad men, it should be secret from the public. It should be done in silence, in seclusion, with no eyes beholding but the officers of the law. The victim of crime should simply disappear. The gloating eyes of morbid curiosity should have no brutal spectacle of hideousness provided for them at the public expense.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Washington's Amusements.

President Washington and his wife went often to the theatre, and Ogle Tayloe tells how Mrs. Washington and Nellie Custis drove to the races in grand style. Both she and the general were good dancers, and during the last year of Washington's life he writes a letter from Mount Vernon to the dancing club of Alexandria, in which he says: "Alas, our dancing days are no more. We wish, however, for all those who have a relish for so innocent and agreeable an amusement all the pleasure the season will afford them."—Frank G. Carpenter.

Putting Pigeons to Use.

M. Hoolbrenk, of Hietzing, near Vienna, makes pigeons answer the purpose of the telegraph or telephone. Every morning the birds are taken from the suburban nursery into Vienna, and if in the course of the day a demand arises for cut flowers or plants from the nursery, the pigeons are dispatched with the messages from the town.—Chicago Times.

Killed Her on Monday.

Mrs. Roxalana Druse was hanged at Herkimer, N. Y., Feb. 28th, for the murder of her husband. In her will she gave her body to her spiritual adviser, and her cabinet organ to her daughter Mary, who is now in state prison for life for aiding in her father's murder.

Useful and Hurtful Medicines.

There is a certain class of remedies for constipation absolutely useless. These are boluses and potions made in great part of podophyllin, aloes, rhubarb, gamboge, and other worthless ingredients. The damage they do to the stomachs of those who use them is incalculable. They evacuate the bowels, it is true, but always do so violently and profusely, and besides, gripe the bowels. Their effect to weaken both them and the stomach. Better far to use the agreeable and salutary aperient, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the laxative effect of which is never preceded by pain, or accompanied by a convulsive, violent action of the bowels. On the contrary, it invigorates these organs, the stomach and the entire system. As a means of curing and preventing malarial fevers, no medicine can compare with it, and it remedies nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and bladder inactivity, and other inorganic ailments.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a positive cure for all those weaknesses so common to our best female population.

William A. Wickodel, forty-six years old, belonging in Canton, Ohio, committed suicide in the toilet room of the Metropolitan hotel, Boston, last Sunday night, cutting his throat with a razor. He was probably deranged from the excessive use of liquor, as he had been drinking heavily of late.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

EFFECTS OF NITRO-GLYCERINE.

Contradiction of a Newspaper Article. Explosions Cannot Cause Annihilation.

A nitro-glycerine explosion cannot cause annihilation of human bodies, horses, magazines, etc., as therein stated. It is true that a man's body is often reduced to minute atoms, but the debris will cover the ground for a large space all about, and it is impossible to gather it together. I have seen a number of explosions, and in the winter as well as the summer. That the snow or ground remained pure and spotless in any case, after such an explosion is false.

I was on the ground within ten minutes after a nitro-glycerine explosion that happened in the woods near Aiken, this county, about four years ago. A shooter was driving along the road with a sleigh load of sixty quarts of the explosive. From some means or other, the stuff went off. There was a hole about three feet deep and four feet square blown in the frozen ground. The horses were hurled forward about twenty-five feet, and their hind quarters were driven forward into their bodies. Nothing remained of the sleigh but splinters, and those were very small. A part of the tongue, with one of the whiffletrees, was still connected by the harness to the horses. Of the unfortunate driver, we picked up probably thirty pounds of flesh and bone. Several trees were chopped down to secure small portions of his remains. His face was intact, but there was nothing left of his skull; but the ground for an area of several acres was covered with the blackened portions of the wreck, interspersed with darkened blood stains, that showed out clearly from the snow.

Aug. 27, 1885, a nitro-glycerine factory was blown up, just beyond the city limits. Twenty-three hundred pounds of the explosive were destroyed. The wreck was complete. A horse was killed, and his body was blown several yards, but it was not annihilated. Several heavy iron safes were turned over, but they were not removed from human vision. Where the factory had stood was a large hole in the ground, and a space of about twenty acres covered with kindling wood. There was a score or more of the heavy iron drums in which acid is transported, scattered about. None of them was annihilated. I can cite a dozen more cases if necessary.—Bradford (Pa.) Cor. Scientific American.

Dignity at the Capital.

Originally, it is said in history, the United States senate was a very dignified body; its members were returned for many successive terms; they were men who belonged to the old colonial aristocracy, which held itself aloof from and above the people as distinctly as the landed gentry does to-day in England. The tradition of this has descended; much of the dignity, it is true, has evaporated, but the recollection of the personal consideration still lingers, and the women of the family make the most of it. It is amusing to watch some of these ladies. Many arrive in Washington knowing nothing of the social usages that prevail there; ignorant of the very meaning of precedence; not aware that people ever go in to dinner in any peculiar order or with any significance. They wear high bodied gowns and unfashionable gloves when they first dine out and make their husbands put on yellow cravats to "look like other men." But all this changes in a single season. Before the end of the first session they learn to get their gowns from Paris and their gloves from—whoever is the most the mode; while about the etiquette of visits and the place they insist on at table they are as inflexible as if they had been born at the White House and never been out of sight of the Capitol.—Adam Badeau in New York World.

The Prussian Policeman's Happy Lot.

The police of Berlin are only on duty during the day. At night the capital is confided to the care of the night watchers, who are under the orders of the president of police, wear a special uniform and are furnished with a whistle and sword. Their service last from 10 to 5 o'clock, according to the season. They number about 500, while the policemen number 3,500; fifty of them are mounted. All the policemen are old noncommissioned officers, tall, well formed men, who have served many years in the army, and only those who have been noticed for their good conduct, their zeal and faithfulness, are eligible for this duty. The people respect them and are on good terms with them. Sometimes they act as if they were still in the army and are somewhat brusque. The people are accustomed to submit to these men, and at a parade one policeman is all that is required to maintain order. The morality of these men is excellent; they are upheld by the people and by their superiors and every fault or negligence is punished. They know how and when to punish as well as to protect.—Berlin Cor. Albany Argus.

Happiness is a mosaic formed from many small stones, and these are found and set in beauty by the hand of love—love in little things, loving words, loving acts, and a large part of this work is in the home, where the greatest portion of our time and the best should be spent. Live this year for wife and husband and children, and let selfish pleasure take a back seat. Keep unspoken the quick retort, the fretful complaining, the angry word, for life is too short for such cruel blows, and then the scar never heals, though you may bathe it with bitter tears.—Rev. Dr. Kittredge.

Compulsory Vaccination.

Tasmanians, in future, will be permitted to vaccinate or not, as they please. Following the example of the mother country, England, they enacted a compulsory vaccination law some years ago. Resistance to it became to be so strong that the house of assembly, toward the close of last year, decided to revert to the optional system.—Herald of Health.

AN ANSWER DEMANDED.

Is There a Hidden Cause for Most Suffering? A Careful Investigation.

The inhabitants of Boston and New England have been considerably awakened the past week over some important facts which have come out in articles in the papers as to the real cause of most modern diseases. Every one has known that there has been some mysterious cause for unexplained suffering, that even the doctors could not account for. A hidden disease has been shown to be the real cause of most so-called pneumonia, convulsons, apoplexy, etc. If this is true, it is of the greatest importance that we understand it thoroughly. With this end in view, a representative of this paper has collected facts from various sources which are given herewith:

REPORTER AND DOCTOR.

Dr. J. H. Cutler, who resides at 20 Poplar st., Roxbury, said: "It is common with all physicians, observed the alarming increase of kidney diseases leading to that fearful scourge, Bright's disease, and have been constantly seeking for the proper means of meeting it. I have been prescribing Hunt's Remedy for a great many of my patients and with great success. I also administered it to my mother, and with much benefit."

Mr. Samuel Littlefield, 1483 Washington street, said: "I was troubled with kidney disease for years, which finally turned to gravel. I would be free from suffering for a long while, and then have the most terrible pains in my back. I also had inflammation of the worst kind in my bladder, and I was altogether in a fearful condition. I went to several physicians, but all to no purpose, and I found I was growing very feeble. A friend in Malden urged me to use Hunt's Remedy. He had been cured of gravel and liver complaint by its use, and believed it would help me. Well, its effect was wonderful, and I cannot too highly thank my friend for the timely recommendation he made. I wish I could make every one know and understand what a valuable medicine it is."

Mrs. William Gray, 1416 Tremont street, said: "I was troubled with kidney disease for a number of years, at times being so bad from swollen limbs and pains in the back, that I was completely under the doctor's care. I received only temporary benefit until I began using Hunt's Remedy, which cured me entirely, and I cannot say too much in its favor."

Captain Joseph L. Hayden, connected with the Walworth Manufacturing Co., residing at 924 East Fourth street, South Boston spoke in the highest terms of Hunt's Remedy. "Many of my friends in Enfield, Mass., have used it with unusual results, and would not be without it. I employed it in my family when other remedies had proved wholly useless, and it was remarkable in its results. It completely cured my wife of pain in the back."

WELL WITHOUT; DYING WITHIN.

Mr. H. Barney, baggage master of the Eastern railroad, declared that he had used Hunt's Remedy in his family for a long time, and would not be without it. He had not only found it good for kidney complaints (a trouble with which all railroadmen are more or less afflicted) but his wife had used it successfully for a severe case of what was, apparently, dyspepsia.

The uniform testimony which was given to the worth of this Remedy in Boston was born out by equally strong statements from residents in the suburbs.

Mr. Joseph G. Bicknell of Cambridgeport asserted that he had been a great sufferer. The fluids he passed were thick with brick dust sediment, and were voided with the greatest pain. Within four days from the time he began using Hunt's Remedy he passed a gravel stone larger than a pea; followed by other smaller ones. A speedy cure was the result, and he cannot recommend the Remedy too highly.

Mr. George P. Cox, proprietor of the last factory at Maldon, had seen such wonderful effects of Hunt's Remedy among so many of his relatives and friends that he was enthusiastic in its favor. He had not only used it himself with the greatest benefit, but two cousins, William W. and John F. Cox, had experienced untold relief. He would not be without it if it cost $5 a bottle.

Such statements lead us to the inevitable conclusion that, while Bright's disease of the kidneys is the concealed and actual cause of many complaints which bear other names, it can be both met and cured. Let all readers look to their condition at once, and thoroughly convince themselves whether they are or are not in perfect health, and then use that means which has been proven, and is known to be both pure, efficient and good.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

Publicity Not Wanted.

Secretary Bayard of the state department has refused to furnish the senate with the correspondence of Minister Jackson on the case of the schooner Rebecca, seized at Tamaulipas, and the treatment of the American crew by the Mexican officials, a refusal which is viewed with astonishment in that body, and Senator Brown, who introduced the resolution, is expected to handle the matter in a way to make the secretary of state uncomfortable. While public reasons are assigned for withholding the correspondence, the real reason is that Minister Jackson's severe review of Secretary Bayard's management of Mexican affairs is a document that the administration will not make public, even at the call of the senate, if it can by any possibility be avoided.

He Will Not Be Admitted.

The new United States senator from West Virginia will be appointed by the governor, no election by ballot having been made, and the legislature having adjourned. This will probably take one from the democratic side of the senate, there being strong precedents.—the first one democratic,—against the admission to the senate of a senator appointed by the governor of a state whose legislature has failed to make an election according to law. The provision for the appointment of a senator by the governor of a state was intended to prevent a state from being deprived of its representation in the senate by accident, and not to remedy the neglect of duty by a legislature.

An Interrupted Voyage.

Ex-Congressman William E. English of Indiana was on board the steamship Etruria at New York, Feb. 26th, bound for Europe, but was arrested just as the steamer was about sailing, on a charge of criminal assault preferred against him by Lucy A. Case, a young widow formerly of Indianapolis, who demands $25,000 damages. Mr. English at once furnished bail, and says the case is a trumped-up one, for blackmailing purposes.

They Object.

The premier of Newfoundland is to sail immediately for England, his errand being to urge the British government to approve the bill recently passed by the Newfoundland legislature forbidding the sale of bait to either French or American fishermen. Members of the French legation at Washington say their government will not for one moment even consider the question of allowing the legislature of a petty province to deprive France of any of her commercial rights, and that any attempt by England to carry out any such absurd scheme will stir up a hornet's nest of the largest size. It is reported that even our state department has been aroused somewhat by this new plan of crowding the American fishery mourners; but probably Minister West will assure Secretary Bayard that it is all right, and the correct thing, you know.

Important Decisions.

The supreme court of Connecticut on Feb. 25th rendered several interesting decisions. The most important was in the celebrated New Haven boycott case of the State vs. Glidden and others, "walking delegates," who undertook to enforce a boycott against the New Haven Journal and Courier for refusing to discharge certain compositors who refused to join the union which the walking delegates represented, or to ask the union's gracious permission for them to work for an employer who wished to hire their services. The superior court found the walking delegates guilty of conspiracy, and the supreme court affirms the decision. This is the first case of the kind in that state.

Judge Brown of the United States circuit court in New York has rendered a decision in the case of prominent Knights of Labor under arrest for intimidating men during the recent longshore strike. He refuses their appeal, and takes strong ground that no combination or association has a right to do damage to the carrying on of any business, or to prevent men not members of their association from working when and where they choose; and, further, that such combinations or associations are illegal, by common law and statute.

"A Night in Chinatown," a beautifully illustrated article by Mr. George H. Fitch, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, is one of the most striking and interesting articles in the February number of "The Cosmopolitan," published by Schlicht & Field Co., Rochester, N. Y. It sets forth in vivid and picturesque language the appalling features of this Chinese settlement in the heart of an American city. Dr. Edward W. Bemis' article entitled "The Iron Octopus," is an able and timely discussion of the railroad problem. Mrs. Katharine B. Foot's story entitled "The Bundle that——," is as perplexing and fascinating as the famous "15 puzzle." "The Story of Bertha," by Guy de Maupassant, is a very peculiar tale by one of the foremost French writers. Mr. William H. Briggs brings to a close his series of humorous articles entitled, "A Humble Castle in Spain." The present installment of "Signor Io," by the foremost Italian novelist, Salvatore Farina, is particularly delightful, showing how Mr. Io resolved to get married again. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Susan Hartley, and Frank Dempster Sherman contribute charming poems to this number of "The Cosmopolitan," which, with its attractive full page illustrations, its valuable household department, and the department for young folks, is one of the best yet issued.

The March "Eclectic" gives the place of honor to an extraordinary article called "The Land of Darkness," presumably by Mrs. Oliphant, though anonymous. It is a most powerful descriptive study of the place of punishment in the after-life. Mr. Gladstone reviews the progress made by England in the last generation in an article suggested by Lord Tennyson's last great poem, in an optimistic strain. Many people will be highly interested in Stuart C. Cumberland's "A Thought-Reader's Experiences," a discussion of a topic just now one of the nine days' wonders of the age. One of the most vigorous and searching contributors to the Irish question yet published is that by J. Parker Smith entitled "The Causes of the Union with Ireland." Other articles of interest are "Paganism in Old England," by J. Theodore Bent, a characteristically bright and scholarly paper by Max Muller, and an exceedingly suggestive, though somewhat pessimistic article, called "An Alexandrian Age." The entire contents of the number will, we think, be found of great attraction. Published by E. R. Pelton, No. 25 Bond street, New York.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

It is difficult to understand why the senate should smother in a committee Mr. Hoar's resolution concerning the present inexpediency of conducting any negotiations with Canada looking to the abolition of existing import duties. There can be no question of the propriety of such action. The kernel of the fisheries dispute lies in this, than Canadian aggression must be stopped as a preliminary to any permanent settlement—that the United States will not be coerced. This is, without doubt, the firm conviction of the country at large, and Senator Hoar's resolution might well be adopted as the final answer of the nation to the Canadian premier's recent boastings.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

"THE PAVEMENTS OF PARIS."

The audience which assembled at Music hall on Monday evening was in decided contrast as to numbers with that which greeted the Athletic club's performance last week, but the entertainment gave good satisfaction to those who were present, the play not being slighted in any way. The piece is a sensational French melo-drama, with a good plot and numerous strong situations, and is so played as to hold the attention of the spectators throughout; the special scenery used is very handsome. The rascalities of the Baron de Guerin, with their results on others and the final circumventing of the bad man, are the ground work of the play, which is presented by a strong and evenly balanced company. The principal characters were taken as follows: Vieux Grosjean, Henry Belmer; Baron De Guerin, William E. Todd; Viscompte De Flaschon, George A. Henderson; Bonneau, H. H. Pratt; Fusch, T. M. Brown; Baroness De Guerin, Adele Carleton; Marie, Eugenie Florence. The parts were all well taken, Messrs. Todd and Henderson, and Misses Carleton and Florence, deserving special mention. The Music hall orchestra gave some excellent music during the evening.

To-night the piece will be repeated, and there should be a good house. Tickets can be procured at Goodrich's.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

At Music hall, Wednesday afternoon and evening, a grand Uncle Tom's Cabin festival will be given by Wood's Boston Ideal Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. Grand matinee at two o'clock at which a hundred beautiful presents will be given away to the children. Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's, where samples of the presents to be distributed can be seen.

ACCIDENT.

On Sunday Mr. Joseph Akerman, who resides in a small house on Spinney road, slipped on the ice and fell heavily. By this fall he sustained a severe fracture of one thigh. He was taken to the hospital at the city farm, and attended by the city physician.

PERSONAL.

Mr. James H. Dow of Lowell, Mass., arrived in this city on Monday for a week's visit to his former home.

Ex-Senator Rollins was in town on Monday.

Mrssrs. John Sise, Robert C. Peirce and George E. French will start to-day for a trip to Cuba and other West Indian islands, intending to be absent about a month.

The Board of Assessors of this city met at the city rooms Monday evening, Feb. 28th, and organized by the choice of Hon. Moses H. Goodrich as chairman, and Mercer Goodrich, Esq., as secretary.

This evening the reading by Rev. Mr. Gooding of selections from Childe Harold, illustrated by the stereopticon, will take place at the Unitarian chapel, Court street. The entertainment is in aid of the N. H. S. P. C. A.; tickets to be had at Goodrich's and Grace's stores.

The regular meeting of the Psychology class, which is composed of many of the teachers of our public schools, was held Monday afternoon, Feb. 28th, at the city rooms. Subject of discussion, sense-perception.

The storm of Saturday night, which was merely an inconvenience in this city and vicinity, was the worst of the season in the interior of the state, and in Vermont and Canada. At Bellows Falls the snow was four feet and a half deep, and railroad travel was almost entirely stopped throughout northern Vermont and the British provinces.

A porte-monnaie containing money and other articles was picked up on Pleasant street, Sunday, by a gentleman who left it at this office; the owner can have it on proving property.

Miss A. C. Morgan, principal of the Young Ladies' school, has issued the prospectus for her seventh annual vacation trip to Europe with a small and select party of tourists. The party will leave New York for Liverpool on the 16th of June by the White Star steamer "Britannic," and will embark at Antwerp for New York on the 27th of August by the Red Star steamer "Waesland." The party will be accompanied by Mlle. Gangloff, as on several previous trips. The expense of the tour, from New York to New York again, covering a period of eighty-three days, will be $585.

Newcastle town meeting occurs next Tuesday.

Edward C. Downing, about twenty-two years of age, son of Ephraim Downing of Newington, died at the hospital in Brentwood last Thursday night of consumption. His remains were brought down from Brentwood on Saturday, and the funeral services took place in the Congregational church at Newington on Sunday afternoon.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, Hontvet master, sailed from Baltimore for New Haven, Conn., Feb. 26th.

The Times says "The schooner Flying Dart, ashore on Rye beach, moved about twice her length during the storm of wind Saturday night, and received a serious shaking up. She will in all probability go to pieces soon."

The schooner Annie F. Conlon, Seaward master, arrived at this port Feb. 28th from Baltimore with a cargo of coal—her second trip to this port since her mishap at False Cape, Va. Capt. Seaward keeps his vessel moving whenever there is a chance; if the land gets in his way he has to stop, but he don't stop long for anything else.

General Paine of Boston, owner of the famous sloop yacht Mayflower, has placed her in the hands of Architect Burgess, her designer, and it is the latter's intention to send her to England to compete with the British cutter Arrow for the Queen's cup. Mr. Burgess has full control of the vessel, and can enter her in whatever races he chooses. The yacht will probably sail about the first of June, and Mr. Burgess will follow by steamer. No alterations will be made in the Mayflower, and she will be sent across under a cruising rig, with a smaller mainsail than she now carries. Mr. Burgess has not yet given formal notice to Mr. Chamberlayne, owner of the Arrow, of his desire to compete for the Queen's cup, but will do so in a few days. This trophy was won by the Arrow in 1852, when she defeated the famous schooner yacht America by two minutes, and since that time she has successfully defended it against numerous competitors. Should the Mayflower win the cup it will be deposited at the Eastern yacht club house, and as a natural consequence many of the future yachting events would take place in eastern waters. The absence of the Mayflower will preclude her taking part in the New York club races, and the duty of defending the America cup against the Scotch cutter Thistle will probably devolve upon the Puritan.

RAILROAD ITEMS.

The Concord railroad has made a change in its freight arrangements, by which the road has been opened to all "colored" lines taking Boston rates on all freight in full carloads from western points to all stations on the Concord, the Concord & Portsmouth and the Manchester & Lawrence railroads.

The Maine Central railroad is erecting a new bridge across Lake Maranacook, near the well known excursion grounds, to supplant the wooden structure now there. Operations have already begun, and a track been laid from the main line to Wood's gravel pit, where a steam shovel will be put in operation this week. The bridge will consist of an iron span of fifty feet, the remainder of earth, making the entire structure 620 feet.

NORTH HAMPTON, Feb. 28th.

The obsequies of Mrs. John Brown took place on Thursday, Feb. 24th, at half-past one o'clock. A large number of relatives and friends gathered to participate in the last sad rites and still more would have been in attendance had not the morning's snow-storm rendered the walking extremely bad. The services were conducted by Rev. E. K. Amazeen, who, after reading portions of the ninetieth and ninety-first Psalms, made some most appropriate and feeling remarks, and read a short but expressive poem entitled "Asleep in Jesus." The deceased was interred in the old family burying-ground in Rye, of which town she (as well as her husband) was a native. Four weeks ago Thursday, Mrs. Brown attended the funeral of her niece, Mrs. D. C. Currier of Rye, who likewise died upon the Monday preceding her interment. Little did we then think that she would be the first member of the family to follow. So true it is that in the midst of life we are in death! Thank God we can say that the hope of the Christian was her hope, and her last words uttered with difficulty and in terrible suffering, were expressive of reliance upon her Savior.

"Asleep in Jesus! peaceful rest,
Whose waking is supremely blest;
No fear, no wo; shall dim that hour
That manifests the Savior's power." L.

First Lieutenant Martin J. Galligan of the Strafford Guards of Dover was asked by the majority of the company to resign some time ago. At first he refused, and demanded a court martial. On Friday of last week, however, he reconsidered his determination, and resigned. The company met Saturday forenoon and elected Second Lieutenant John H. Ingraham first lieutenant and Fourth Sergt. Charles S. Clifford second lieutenant; so the threatened disruption of the company is avoided.

Edwin Abbot, while chopping in the woods at Bath, Feb. 25th, was hit on the head by a falling tree, and probably fatally injured.

A house burned in Exeter on Monday, Feb. 14th, was built in 1790, and was the home of Gov. John Taylor Gilman.

Miss Fanny Scribner of Raymond recently received injuries from a falling tree which it is feared will prove fatal.

George W. Ewing of New York, the expelled student from Phillips Exeter academy who was supposed to have eloped with Genevieve Quinn of Exeter, was found with the girl in Boston. There being no charge against him he was allowed to go his way, and the girl was taken back to her home in Exeter.

The Whig of Bangor, Me., says: "We understand that Collector Roberts has requested the resignation of Inspector Sellers, Janitor Patterson and Night Watchman Downes. All of these men were good soldiers, Mr. Patterson having been shot through the body, while Capt. Downes lost an arm in the service. It is not probable that they will comply with the request of the collector, but will let him remove them if he wants the places for men of the democratic faith."

A majority of the railroad commissioners of New York claim that heating cars by locomotive steam is not yet feasible, and they advocate strong stoves surrounded by wire netting. The minority declare for locomotive steam.

—John Snyder of Burr Oak, Mich., recently ate forty crackers in forty minutes without taking a drink during the time.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books I received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited by a word from you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

F. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

References: FRANK T. WRAY, Druggist, Apollo, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. All men could see that I was going to the grave, not born in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1881 I heard of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw we had to deal with, and five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies with our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them proves as their merits become known.

The Squirrel Fur Trade of Russia.

During the winter the peasants of the northern provinces of Russia are transformed into hunters and supply the two capitals with enormous quantities of feathered and fur game, captured chiefly by means of nets and snares.

Simultaneously with this supply of food St. Petersburg and Moscow receive the furs of Siberia, furnished mainly by the squirrel. The Zyrians, a wild people dwelling along the banks of the Petchora, are peculiarly expert in capturing these little animals. In certain years they appear in such vast quantities that the village roofs throughout Viatka are seen to swarm with them, and even in ordinary years the single district of Siobodick sends to market 300,000 skins. At the first appearance of snow the Zyrian hunters repair to the deepest recesses of the Petchora forests. They are grouped in companies and equipped in a strange costume handed down from generations and well adapted to the chase. They build huts at a suitable spot, in which they live, but hardly breathe, so closely are they packed, and the whole forms a sort of camp.—London Times.

Men Who Understand Horses.

It is astonishing how few men there are who know anything about a horse. There is no other animal which the average man is on such close and familiar relations with, or that he treats with such a gross ignorance of his peculiarities. That teamster, now, has probably done little else than drive a horse in the intervals of shoveling coal. He certainly knows how heavy his load is, and you would think he ought to know what the horse can do. But when his team gets stalled the only way he can think of to help his horse is to beat him. This is one of the things that ought to be taught in our public schools. I would have it made a regular branch of study, and I know the hostler who could furnish a text book. The school of the Centaurs on the plains of Thessaly was indeed famous in its day, but that was a long time ago, and the drivers of our coal carts are not Apollos.—Boston Post.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering testimonials upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion. For 30 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great INTENSITY AND POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use; price 50 cents of druggists.

Useful and Hurtful Medicines.

There is a certain class of remedies for constipation absolutely useless. These are boluses and potions made in great part of podophyllin, aloes, rhubarb, gamboge, and other worthless ingredients. The damage they do to the stomachs of those who use them is incalculable. They evacuate the bowels, it is true, but always do so violently and profusely, and besides, gripe the bowels. Their effect is to weaken both them and the stomach. Better far to use the agreeable and salutary aperient, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the laxative effect of which is never preceded by pain, or accompanied by a convulsive, violent action of the bowels. On the contrary, it invigorates those organs, the stomach and the entire system. As a means of curing and preventing malarial fevers, no medicine can compare with it, and it remedies nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and bladder inactivity, and other inorganic ailments.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

LONDON'S TENEMENT CHILDREN.

A Host of Unwashed, Scantily Dressed, Juvenile Humanity at Play.

At all hours of the day, and but too often far into the night, there may be seen disporting itself in the roadway of the street—including its gutters—a good deal of unwashed, scantily dressed, juvenile humanity. These juveniles range from babes of 3 or four weeks old up to the boys and girls of 10 or 12 years of age, who have charge of them. For, where is not a girl in the family, boys are pressed into the service as babyminders, which is so much the worse for the individual babies concerned. Not that the boys are willfully careless or cruel, but they are not the born nurses that the girls are. With girls of the gutter children class, the role of "little mother" to "real live" babies seems to come as natural as does doll nursing to the little girls of the better off classes of society

To the casual observer the children of Tenement street look a miserable set of little wretches, but, as a matter of fact, they are happy enough in their way. They are sharp, active, self-reliant, easily pleased, and especially capable in the matter of pleasing themselves. Their games are for the most part toyless ones, so far at any rate as "bought" toys are concerned, and that is perhaps why they have a tendency toward the form of dramatic representation. They play at—and in wonderfully realistic fashion—fathers and mothers, keeping house, keeping shops and keeping school. It is perhaps worth remark that the latter game, as played by gutter children, does not embrace the idea of the abolition of corporal punishment. The cane—or the stick, strap or rope's end, used as a substitute for it—is regarded not merely as the emblem, but also as the practical instrument of authority. With it discipline is maintained and attention to studies secured. The mimic pedagogues of the gutter apply it freely, and with a vigor that is not always sufficiently restrained, even by the fear of reprisals—the recollection that the teacher of one round of the game will be the scholar of the next. The privilege of "larruping" the pupils is evidently regarded as the highest prerogative of the teacher, and the one thing that makes the office enviable.

In some of the outdoor games of the gutter youths there is a good deal of chanting of doggerel rhymes, and it may well be that the idea of the "action songs," which now form so popular a part of the kindergarten system, was originally taken from these street games. —All the Year Round.

Not a New Theory.

Everybody is now more or less familiar with the latest theory of epidemic disease, which is now known to be propagated by germs that may, under certain circumstances, be disseminated by the winds, and are taken into the system through the lungs or the stomach. Here is a remarkable anticipation of this germ theory. Thevenot, who died in 1667, in his account of his Asiatic travels, tells us of a hot pestilential wind prevailing in summer from northwest India up to the western frontier of Persia. He thinks he has identified this wind with one mentioned in the Book of Job, and he says that they who breathe it turn black and fall dead—not, however, everybody who inhales this wind, but, he explains, there are streaks of fire in it as small as a hair, which, have been seen by some, and they who breathe in those rays of fire die of them, the rest receiving no prejudice.

"If it be so," continues Thevenot, "it may be the thought that these fires volant proceed from sulphurous exhalations that rise out of the earth, which being tossed by the wind kindle (for they are inflammable), and being with the air sucked in by respiration, consume the entrails in a moment." Thus, in their mere wild guessing about the influence of Asiatic winds, more than two centuries ago, we have, mixed up with much that is fantastic, the distinct hypothesis of the germ origin of disease, the possibility of these germs being distributed by the air, and the mode of introduction into the human system, all of which is now entirely corroborated by the latest science.—New York Home Journal.

About a Lucky Star.

The "Brandenburg Lucky Star"—so called because it appeared the night in which Elector Johann Sigismund, of Brandenburg, was born—is, by German astronomers, expected to make its appearance again within the next four years. In 945, during the reign of Emperor Otho I, say the German papers, a new and brilliant fixed star was seen in the constellation Cassiopeia, which has the shape of a W. In 1264 a similar star was seen in the same place; and again on Nov. 11, 1572, when Tycho Brahe noticed a brilliant star of unusual magnitude in a spot where he had only seen small ones until then. It had no tail, nor was it surrounded by a haze, that might lead observers to take it for a comet; it resembled, on the contrary, the other fixed stars, and shed a more brilliant light than the stars of the first magnitude, excelling in this respect Sirius, Jupiter and Vega. It could only be compared to Venus, and was visible also in the daytime, even at noon. At night, with a covered sky, while all the other stars are invisible, it was repeatedly distinguishable through the clouds. Tycho was convinced of its complete immovability. Its light began to fade in November, 1572, and after having shone for nearly seventeen months it disappeared entirely in 1574. In vain the astronomers have looked for it in its wonted place since; but now, after the usual period of about 300 years, it is expected to show itself again.—Exchange.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books I received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1883 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. H. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, confuding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most responsible and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Leg Bail.

William E. English, the Indiana ex-congressman who was arrested on a charge of criminal assault, and taken from on board the steamer Etruria on the night of Feb. 25th, took leg bail, notwithstanding he had denounced the charge as an infamous attempt at black mail. He was held in $5,000 for his appearance, Dr. Norvin Green, president of the Western Union telegraph, and James H. Rodgers, proprietor of the Coleman house, signing his bond. The steamer, which sailed Saturday morning, put into Gravesend bay on account of the thick snowstorm, and laid there till Sunday; and English boarded her by means of a tug, and is on the way to Europe. Green and Rogers will have to pay the bond of $5,000.

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's Spring Excursions to California.

The well-known excursion managers, Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb, announce their seventh annual series of spring transcontinental excursions in another column. The spring trips differ from the winter excursions, inasmuch as they are sight-seeing expeditions, being planned with a view to visiting the various points of interest on the Pacific coast, and on the way to and from there, at a season when they may be seen to the best possible advantage. There will be three trips the coming season. Parties will leave Boston April 21st and 28th for a tour of fifty-eight days through Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, southern and central California, Nevada, Utah, etc., with numerous stops and several side-trips. The Yosemite Valley and Big Trees can readily be visited in connection with these excursions. A third party will leave Boston May 5th for a tour of seventy-two days. The route will be the same as in the other trips as far as San Francisco and Monterey, and time is afforded for a side-trip to the Yosemite Valley. From San Francisco the trip will be extended through Oregon, Washington territory, the Puget Sound country, etc., with a return over the entire length of the Northern Pacific railroad and an eight-days' visit to the Yellowstone National Park, making altogether a very comprehensive excursion. Descriptive circulars may be obtained of W. Raymond, No. 296 Washington street, opposite School street, Boston.

A Veteran Indian Fighter Talks.

Major-Gen. George Crook, U. S. A., spoke to a large audience in Sanders theatre at Cambridge, Mass., on the evening of Feb. 28th, his subject being the Indian question. Rev. Edward E. Hale presided. Gen. Crook, who has been fighting and governing Indians since 1852, except during the rebellion, and probably knows more of them and their traits than any other one man, either white or red, told how the Indians have been persistently and continuously wronged by the whites, the nation even not hesitating to violate the most solemn treaties with the redskins on the slightest pretext, or on no pretext at all. As to the solution of the Indian problem he said:

"The Indian is a human being. One question to-day, on whose settlement depends the honor of the United States is, 'How can we preserve him?' My answer is: First, take the government of the Indians out of politics; second, let the laws of the Indians be the same as those of the whites; third, give the Indians the ballot. When I say that the government of the Indians should not be a matter of politics, I say what every observer of the history of our Indian policy must agree to. The Indian should be ruled by the civil law. It is my firm conviction that the Indian should have the full rights of the American citizen, including the ballot. I know that I may be considered hasty, but I say 'give them the ballot now.' It is objected that the Indian is not now fitted to vote, but I answer unhesitatingly that he is far better fitted, in intelligence and in moral character, to exercise the right of suffrage than was the negro in 1865. Moreover, he would cast a more intelligent vote than many of the ignorant foreign voters of our large cities to-day. But we must not try to drive the Indian too fast in effecting these changes. We must not try to force him to take civilization immediately in its complete form; but under just laws, guaranteeing to Indians equal civil rights, a source of such dishonor to our country and of shame to true patriots will soon be a thing of the past."

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., March 1st.

Mr. Isaac H. Lambert is having all the work he can attend to, shoeing and sharpening horses at the old stand, Kittery Depot. Since taking the shop he has worked up quite a large trade, as people know where they get good work done and patronize him accordingly.

Mr. Jesse E. Frisbee went over the line of the York Harbor & Beach railroad in Kittery on Saturday last, for the purpose of estimating the land damages.

Mr. Woodbury Place, a native of this town who passed his boyhood and youth with Ephraim C. Spinney, Esq., has been nominated as a candidate for alderman of Marshalltown, Iowa, where he has resided for several years past.

Mr. Granville C. Spinney, the enterprising carriage manufacturer at the Depot, has under way and in process of completion about fifty wagons and carriages of all styles, some of the patterns being entirely new here. He is also building a large four-seated passenger wagon for Jesse E. Frisbee, Esq., to be used at his new hotel at Kittery Point. Mr. Spinney has got up quite a reputation for good work, and his business is increasing each year.

We understand that the festival and sale by the 2d Christian society at Trefethen's hall, Thursday and Friday evenings last, was a complete success in every particular.

"Another old land-mark gone." Mr. J. H. Spinney has razed the old house which he bought several years ago; it was one of the oldest houses in this section, and for a number of years past has been vacant, the last occupants being Uncle Johnny Smart, as he was familiarly called, and his wife. There were several owners previous to them.

Mr. Fred. A. Baylee, of Wells, has been visiting for a few days with his uncle, John B. Wilson, Esq., of the village.

SUB ROSA.

Mr. Isaac Chick, proprietor of Chick's sawmill at York, has just moved into a new house erected near the mill. Great numbers of logs have been hauled to the mill this winter, to be converted into lumber.

On Friday evening, Feb. 25th, in Berwick, Me., a boy named Frank Libby, only twelve years old, entered the room of Miss Sarah Leary, a chambermaid at Grant's hotel, and stole $140 from her. He went across the river to Great Falls and bought a horse for $55, took possession of a pung, bought a robe, whip and other articles to complete the outfit of his team, and on Sunday, the 27th, was cutting a very wide swarth as he drove around the streets of Berwick. He was arrested Sunday evening, and confessed the whole business. The persons who sold the boy the horse and other articles could hardly have thought the boy was spending his own money.

Joseph Wentworth of East Rochester was fined $5 and costs for disturbing an Advent meeting Feb. 27th, and ordered to give bonds in $100 to keep the peace for one year. He went to jail, refusing to allow some friends to go bail for him; he may not feel quite so independent after he has been in jail a few months.

Sam Osborne, a Toronto ticket agent, has disappeared, leaving many victims behind.

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEELE, Salem, Mass.

The new Louis Roederer champagne, "Grand Vin Sec," has met with the highest favor, and is introduced in the United States to gratify the taste for a dry wine which has developed among our bons vivants. Like the older brands of this celebrated house, "Carte Blanche" and "Schreider," already so popular here, the new wine is of the finest quality that can be shipped from France, being made from the best selections of grapes among the choicest vineyards in the champagne district. We predict for it a reputation excelled by no other wine ever offered in this country.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my patrons and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

This afternoon at two o'clock, at Music hall, Wood's Ideal Uncle Tom's Cabin Co., with Miss Belle Laiscell as Topsy, and little Florence Bryant as Eva, will give a grand Uncle Tom Festival for the children, at which 100 dolls will be given away, and other articles also. Another entertainment will be given this evening, with admission tickets at 25 cts., reserved seats 35 and 50. See advertisement.

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

The regular meeting of the Board of Instruction was held Tuesday evening, March 1st; present Messrs. Hodgdon, Goodrich, Laskey, Gooding, Pender, Cotton and Batchelder. Mr. Hodgdon was chosen temporary chairman.

The superintendent gave a detailed statement of the workings of the school department during the month of February.

The text book committee recommended the adoption of Holt's Normal Music Readers for use in the schools, and the recommendation was adopted unanimously.

The following resolutions were passed:

That any teacher not attending the meetings held by either the superintendent or the director of music shall be considered by the board as neglecting an essential part of her school duties.

That the superintendent be requested to report to the board the names of those not present.

Voted that the position of teacher of the intermediate grade in the Franklin school be declared vacant unless the teacher reports for duty by Monday, March 7th.

Sundry bills were ordered paid.

Voted that Misses Mabel A. Bennett, Abbie Hickey and Annie Lamprey be confirmed as teachers of the primary grade.

Adjourned.

FIRE.

An alarm of fire from box fourteen, shortly after six o'clock Monday evening, was caused by a cloud of smoke issuing from the building on Market street in which J. Albert Walker's counting room is situated. The upper part of the building is a tenement, and had been vacated that day. The fire, which was soon extinguished by the department, seemed to be in the ceiling. Considerable damage was done to Mr. Walker's counting room by water, and tearing away the plastering to get at the fire.

A HANDSOME BIRDCAGE.

Mr. Walter L. Brown, clerk for Marvin Bros. & Bartlett, manufacturers of cod-liver oil for medicinal purposes, has recently finished the construction of a unique birdcage or aviary which will undoubtedly attract much attention and admiration when occupied by a dozen or so of birds next summer, and placed on the piazza of his residence on Broad street. The structure stands over six feet high, the cage proper, or bird space, being about four feet high and two feet in diameter, giving ample room for the birds to exercise themselves by flying if they so choose; it is eight sided, the eight wooden pillars being filled in with coarse wire netting, gilded on the outside; and there are eight feed cups. At the bottom of the cage, in the centre, is a tiny fountain, fed from a reservoir concealed in the dome of the structure; this reservoir holds one and one-half buckets of water, which is sufficient to keep the fountain playing six hours, the expended water filling and keeping constantly clean a metal basin through which the fountain stand-pipe passes, and which is intended as a bath tub for the birds. The contrivances for cleaning the cage, filling the reservoir, regulating or stopping the flow of water of the fountain, etc., are perfect, and the whole affair is both showy and neat looking. It was wholly made by Mr. Brown in his spare time.

This cage is on exhibition at A. P. Wendell & Co.'s store for a few days.

CONFIRMATION.

The rite of confirmation was administered in St. John's church on Monday evening by Rt. Rev. Henry A. Neely, Episcopal bishop of Maine, to a class numbering twenty-four persons, several of whom are members of Christ church parish. Rt. Rev. W. W. Niles, D. D., bishop of New Hampshire, being too ill to administer the rite himself, authorized the rector of St. John's, Rev. Henry E. Hovey, to request the attendance of some other bishop, and Bishop Neely consented to officiate.

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.

At a special meeting of Strawberry Bank Lodge, No. 54, I. O. G. T., held Monday evening, the following resolutions were adopted upon the death of the late William A. Plaisted:

Whereas our Father, in his Infinite love and wisdom, has taken from our midst and from our order, our honored Brother William A. Plaisted, we, the members of Strawberry Bank Lodge, in Faith, Hope and Charity assembled, hereby resolve—

That though suddenly and without preparation for our loss, we are bereaved of a brother whose goodness and dignity were ennobling to the character of our lodge, we will yet trust that God stands in this shadow, and that he, in order to save mankind, doeth all things well;

That we will remember for the good of the order, the life and removal of Him who said to His sorrowing self-distrustful disciples—"It is expedient for you that I go away," and trust that the removal of this source of strength from our hands, shall bring to us a holy spirit of peace, charity and love;

That in the event of our brother's joining the Heavenly Order, we have suffered the loss from our own of a kind friend, a faithful member, a conscientious presiding officer and a Christian gentleman, whose purity of motive and modesty of effective action will be now and forever remembered by us, to our profit and success;

That this grave lesson of human strength and human frailty shall bring us seriously to a sense of our mission, and an impartial devotion to the salvation of men from sin; to the work of upbuilding true character, that our brother who watches us now from the estate of a Past Chief Templar of all things earthly, may see the fitness of our motto, Faith, Hope and Charity;

That these resolutions shall be printed, and copies of our daily papers containing them, shall be sent with other tokens of esteem and sympathy, to his bereaved friends;

That the charter be draped in mourning for thirty days.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, March 1st.

George Laskey, charged with committing an assault on Officer Kehoe, was held in $100 for the action of the grand jury; in default of sureties he was committed to jail.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steam fire engine which was alongside the schooner Charles H. Trickey at Randall & Caswell's wharf last Saturday was not engaged in pumping her out, as reported, but in thawing out her centreboard, which job was completed in about three hours.

The schooner Harry A. Barry, which went ashore on Point Judith Feb. 20th, was knocked to pieces Feb. 27th by the heavy gale, and became a total wreck.

The fishing schooner Phil Sheridan, Capt. John Marr, of Gloucester, Mass., was abandoned at sea on Sunday, Feb. 27th, her crew being taken off by the British steamer Peconic and landed at Boston. The schooner sailed from Gloucester on Friday, bound for George's banks. Saturday morning, when the vessel was 100 miles off Thacher's island, the wind came up heavily from the northwest, and she was put under short sail. Later in the day five heavy seas boarded her, carrying away the dories and breaking in the bulwarks. James McDougal, one of the crew, was swept overboard, but was rescued. While the Sheridan was hove to, the schooner Dido ran up and took her in tow, after lending her five dories. The weather got so bad that the Dido had to cast off her line, and the Sheridan got along the best she could until Sunday morning, when the steamer Peconic came in sight and offered assistance. The sea was running too high for the steamer to lower a boat, but the fishermen got out their dories and boarded her, after setting their own vessel afire. The members of the crew were all more or less injured by their terrible experience.

Col. William H. Hackett and Mr. John Albee reached home from visits in Washington and New York, Tuesday evening.

The entertainment in aid of the N. H. S. P. C. A., Tuesday evening, was attended by an audience of the most cultured people of the city sufficient to fill the Unitarian chapel; and Rev. Mr. Gooding's appreciative and scholarly reading of a portion of Childe Harold, illustrated by beautiful views shown by the stereopticon, was most enjoyable.

The managers and agents of the Ideal Uncle Tom which appears at Music hall this afternoon and evening are very energetic; hardly a boy or girl in town but got a card announcing the performance, and their parents will be teased to-day with entreaties "Can I go and see Uncle Tom, wicked Topsy and little Eva?" They should have amusement, and when a moral drama is well acted—as it is by this company, judging from our exchanges—there is a chance to give them a treat. No modern drama has held the stage like Uncle Tom's Cabin, with its changes from the deeply pathetic to the laughter provoking; take the little people to the matinee, and get seats for them this morning at Goodrich's.

Geo. W. Hill, ex-conductor on the Boston & Maine railroad, and now landlord of the Derby house, Boston, is doing a prosperous business. He has one hundred and fifty boarders. It is reported that he will open a hotel in this city at an early date.—Dover Democrat.

Mr. Hill's wife is a daughter of Mr. Charles H. Hutchins of this city.

The freight conductors and brakemen of the Concord railroad and branches have petitioned the directors for an increase of pay as follows: Through conductors, from $52 to $60; way conductors, to $65; and brakemen, from $40 to $45, per month.

Mr. C. F. Hersey, president of the South Boston horse railroad, was not born in this city, nor did he learn the trade of a machinist on the navy yard, as has been stated. He was an apprentice to his uncle, Mr. Correy of South Boston, and was one of the party engaged at the Portsmouth navy yard for several months in putting in the machinery of the U. S. S. Saranac, built at the yard many years ago, and long since gone the usual way of wooden steamships. His wife was a Portsmouth lady.

Tennyson's Golden Haired Girls.

Tennyson is lasting. His girls are all of golden hair. So are his men, for that matter. But we respect his girls, golden haired girls. We don't love them. They send a chill through you; yet it is a respectable chill. They are girls that you would like to have for sisters. He is the poet who has evolved from icy respectability the girl of blonde hair, tall, gentle, whom you can worship for nothingness of brain, but large, pale aristocracy of manners, and you could go out of the world in death without regret of her; but you know that she could be trusted not to violate the gentlest nicety of life. Such a girl Tennyson has put into his poems. Shakespeare created Miranda; Tennyson has created the girl with the cold, golden hair.

Clearing from the Sphinx.

Between the Sphinx and the edge of the Pyramid plateau a vast space has been cleared, thus bringing to view a few flight of steps some forty feet in width. To the right of the Sphinx a further excavation is in progress, the result of which will probably confirm the surmises of those who believe the Sphinx to stand in the midst of a huge artificial amphitheatre hewn out of the solid rock. This gigantic work would, of course, be contemporaneous with the Sphinx itself, which Mariette attributed to the mythic ages before the advent of Menu, the first king of the first dynasty.—London Standard.

A Strange Religious Sect.

One of the strangest of religious sects is that which calls itself The New and Latter House of Israel. Its headquarters is in Chatham, England, in which town its devotees are building an immense temple which will cost $250,000. They believe that they will not die and that they are the remnant of true Israelites who will reign with Christ for a thousand years. Their founder was a man named Jezriel, who is now dead. His death was a great shock to the believers, but his wife claimed that it was an accident and claimed herself to be his successor.—New York Tribune.

Useful and Hurtful Medicines.

There is a certain class of remedies for constipation absolutely useless. These are boluses and potions made in great part of podophyllin, aloes, rhubarb, gamboge, and other worthless ingredients. The damage they do to the stomachs of those who use them is incalculable. They evacuate the bowels, it is true, but always do so violently and profusely, and besides, gripe the bowels. Their effect is to weaken both them and the stomach. Better far to use the agreeable and salutary aperient, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the laxative effect of which is never preceded by pain, or accompanied by a convulsive, violent action of the bowels. On the contrary, it invigorates those organs, the stomach and the entire system. As a means of curing and preventing malarial fevers, no medicine can compare with it, and it remedies nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and bladder inactivity, and other inorganic ailments.

The senate committee on the District of Columbia on the 2d inst. voted to report adversely on the nomination of James M. Trotter of Boston to be recorder of deeds for the district.

Cocaine, Iodoform or Mercurials in any form in the treatment of catarrh or hay fever should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use; price 50 cents of druggists.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

A Bank President's Modest Lunch.

A reporter the other day happened into one of our most successful banks and noticed the president, a man of large wealth and generous hospitality, eating a cracker. "I have always," said the banker, "had a habit, almost an unconscious one, of bringing a cracker or a biscuit or some simple lunch with me from the breakfast table to eat at the office. It has become a custom with me to do this and I have not deviated from it for thirty years. I never care to eat much at this hour and I simply want a bite to stay my stomach. I prefer to take it as I care for it, rather than go out to a restaurant and get something that might tempt me to eat too much. Another thing that I have made a rule of my life has been never to touch any stimulant during banking hours. You know I am a temperate man always, but I take a glass of wine at dinner. I have not permitted myself to take a glass of ale or wine at lunch or between breakfast and dinner." These words from one of the most successful bankers that Albany has ever known convey a lesson to young men who aspire to successful careers here and elsewhere.—Albany Journal.

Trade Schools and the Mechanical Arts.

The apprentice learns his trade by what he can see or by what advice the foreman or journeyman is good natured enough to give him. It is a system of chance that does not count for much in the long run. The remedy for this evil is to be found in the trade schools, where the boy is to be taught before it is sought to make any money through him. Professional men learn their professions at their own expense and are the better for it; so it will be with the mechanic. No modification of the old apprentice law is desirable. In these schools the lad learns to use the tools and signs of the trade, then he goes to the shop as an apprentice, where speed is acquired, and becomes a mechanic. Trade schools have become a necessity in the competition between nations in Europe. They have become popular, and experience shows how rapidly boys learn in them. By the last census there were 20,000 mechanics in the building trade in New York; of these less than 13,000 were of American birth, and but a small portion were born in New York.—Building.

Curiosities of Mexico.

A Mexican would not know how to live without his blanket, which is at once his cloak by day and his bed clothing by night, so that he is prepared wherever darkness may overtake him. Of course the winter nights are cold, but in the summer time, under the bright starry heavens, the blanket makes a good enough bed. The Mexican carts are certainly objects of a good deal of curiosity, the wheels being in some instances made of solid blocks of wood, which have been chopped out with an ax. The bodies of these carts are rudely formed, but when uprights are properly placed, and a good covering is thrown over, they are quite comfortable. The people carry their provisions along when traveling, and with a keg of water are able to cook their meals almost any place along the road. They can do with very little, and are frugal beyond any conception.—Chihuahua, Tex., Cor. Chicago Times.

"A Brother of Girls."

When Abd-el-Kadir was expected at Cairo, Lady Duff Gordon's donkey driver asked her if he were not Akhu-l-Benat (a brother of girls). She said she did not know that he had any sisters. "The Arabs, O lady," was the reply, "call that man 'a brother of girls' to whom God has given a clean heart to love all women as his sisters, and strength and courage to fight for their protection."—Home Journal.

A Duel Between Composers.

Andreas Romberg, the well known composer of the "Bell," once received a challenge from the leader of a small orchestra on the ground of some pretended insult. He sent the messenger back with these words: "Tell Herr X—— that I don't know how to use a sword or a pistol; but we will each compose a cantata, and the one whose work is received with hisses shall shoot himself dead."—Mainzer Nachrichten.

Ancient Rome's Napkin.

The mappa was a table napkin in use in ancient Rome for wiping the hands and mouth at meals. Vulgar persons fastened it under their chins to protect their clothes from stains, as some do now. In ordinary cases the host did not furnish his guest with napkins, but each person brought his own mappa with him, and occasionally carried away in it some of the delicacies which he could not consume at table.—Home Journal.

Needed a Civilized Doctor.

The Chinese government employed Dr. Bahr as European doctor of their fleet during the recent war with France. When the war was ended the doctor was discharged as a means of economy. The recent riot at Nagasaki, in which a number of Chinese man-of-war's men were badly injured, led the Viceroy Li to engage a civilized doctor to attend the fleet in peace as well as in war.—Public Opinion.

Something to Remember.

A mother had reproved her little girl for being so clumsy as to drop a dish, and the little girl, after a thoughtful silence, said:

"Mamma, can you write with your left hand?"

"I could if I were left handed, but I'm not."

"Well," said the little girl, "I guess little children are left handed all over."

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your lightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to aid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

State Board of Underwriters.

The annual meeting of the state board of underwriters was held in Concord on the 1st inst., and reports showed the affairs and business of the several state companies in a satisfactory condition. The officers elected were as follows: President, S. B. Stearns of Manchester; vice-president, S. C. Eastman of Concord; secretary, R. P. Staniels of Concord; treasurer, W. H. Berry of Manchester; executive committee, A. F. Howard of Portsmouth, S. B. Stearns, R. H. Staniels, A. W. Baker of Lebanon, W. H. Elliott of Keene.

A Terrible Fate.

Some of the survivors of the British ship Kapunda, which came into collision with the British barque Ada Melmore off the coast of Brazil in January, when both vessels sank and 304 persons were drowned, have arrived at Plymouth, England. They are unanimous in stating that the Ada Melmore was solely to blame for the collision, that vessel having displayed no lights. The survivors explain the great loss of life to the Kapunda's passengers, by stating that the stewardess of that vessel had locked the single women in their cabin in accordance with the rules covering the transportation of assisted emigrants, and that the imprisoned women were unable to extricate themselves. The relators of the story of the disaster aver that the poor creatures were heard shrieking and beating against the locked doors of their cabin until the ship went down. The Kapunda sailed from London Dec. 11th, with assisted emigrants for Freemantle, West Austalia.

The steamer W. H. Gardner, one of the largest boats on the Tombigbee river, was burned March 1st near Gainsville, Ala., with 464 bales of cotton. Ten white persons,—three men, two women and five children,—and ten negro boat hands, were burned to death.

By an explosion in a coal mine at St. Etienne, France, March 1st, 104 miners were entombed, and of forty-three who were taken out in a few hours, sixteen were dead and others in a dying condition. It was feared that most if not all the others had perished.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.
Carlton House, Boston, Mass.

June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 1

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

THE NORTON SUIT; A FLANK MOVEMENT.

Hon. William L. Foster of Concord filed with the clerk of the United States circuit court in this city recently, an agreement signed by J. C. Caverly, Esq., of Dover, that the suit of Norton and others against the city might be entered as non-suit as of October term, 1886, and all costs to be taxed by the clerk. Judge Foster came here on Tuesday, to be heard on the taxation of the costs. Col. Hackett was met on his arrival at the railroad station from the south, Tuesday afternoon, by H. D. Hadlock, Esq., of Portland, and his client, R. P. Philbrook, one of the plaintiffs. Mr. Hadlock at once proceeded to the clerk's office, where papers were filed denying the right of Mr. Norton, who has been a co-plaintiff, to consent to a disposal of the case as above indicated. Mr. Hadlock requested the clerk to ask Judge Colt to fix an early day for a hearing upon the question of the right of Norton to thus have the action disposed of.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Mary H. Eastman, widow of the late Brig. Gen. Seth Eastman of the United States army, and mother of Commander Thomas Henderson Eastman of the United States navy, died at her residence in Washington on Thursday, Feb. 24th. Mrs. Eastman was a daughter of the late Thomas Henderson, a surgeon of the army, and a sister of the lately deceased wife of Rear Admiral Thomas T. Craven of the navy. She was a lady of literary tastes, and wrote several books. Among them was "Aunt Phillis's Cabin; or, southern life as it is," written on the appearance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe; this book was intended as a reply to or a refutation of some Mrs. Stowe's statements, and was written ready for the press by Mrs. Eastman in thirty days. Mrs. Eastman was beloved by a large circle of friends in Washington, where she had lived for many years. Her daughter, Mrs. Moore, wife of Passed Asst. Engr. William S. Moore of the navy, had left her in apparent good health and gone to New York to welcome her husband, who had just returned from a three year's cruise in the U. S. S. Ossipee, when she was summoned by telegraph announcing the death of her beloved mother. Gen. Eastman was a native of Maine, and will be remembered by many of our citizens from having mustered into service the gallant Second New Hampshire regiment in the war of the rebellion.

THE EXPRESSMEN SATISFIED.

Secretary Howard L. Jackson, of the organization of expressmen doing business over the Boston & Maine railroad, says the American Express Co. have failed to secure control of the express business on the Eastern division, and that the arrangements hitherto existing between the railroad and the local express companies will be continued in the future. The expressmen being satisfied, have withdrawn the bill introduced on their behalf in the Massachusetts legislature, this being done on the 2d inst. by Secretary Jackson and another member of the committee.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS' VISIT.

Between fifty and sixty members of De Witt Clinton Commandry of Knights Templar, of this city, went to Dover on Tuesday evening, March 1st, by invitation of St. Paul Commandry of Dover, Eminent Commander Charles H. Sawyer, to witness the exemplification of the work in the red cross degree, for which there were eight candidates. Right Eminent Grand Commander Charles N. Towle of Concord, of the Grand Commandry of New Hampshire, and suite, paid an official visit to St. Paul Commandry the same evening, and were accompanied by Past Rt. Em. Gd. Comdr. Andrew Bunton of Manchester. The Sir Knights from this city left the railroad station at seven o'clock on a special train, and at 7:30 arrived in Dover, where they were met at the station by a delegation of St. Paul Commandry, with the Dover cornet band, and with the visiting grand officers escorted to the asylum, where the work was exemplified by Eminent Commander Sawyer, by the grand officers, and by Eminent Commander Harry G. Tanton of De Witt Clinton Commandry. After the close of the work a splendid banquet was served in the banquet hall, music being furnished by an orchestra, the proceedings lasting till after midnight. The Portsmouth visitors took their train for home at one o'clock Wednesday morning, arriving about 1:30, under the safe escort of Conductor Barney and Engineer Correy.

Miss Susie Mathes of this city starts on Saturday morning with friends from Boston to pass the rest of the winter at St. Augustine, Florida.

The Manchester Bicycle Club has extended a vote of thanks to Clarence H. Wilkins, of this city, for pictures presented the club.

MARITIME NOTES.

The river and harbor appropriation bill, as passed by the house on the 1st inst., devotes $5,000 for the improvement of York harbor, and $6,000 for Little harbor, Portsmouth.

On Saturday and Sunday, 26th and 27th ults., 136,500 lbs. of fish were landed at this port, and brought from $2.25 to $2.50 per hundred pounds, being mostly sold to the Commercial wharf dealers. Monday and Tuesday nothing of account was brought in; but on Wednesday, the 2d inst., the whole fleet came in with fares as follows: Schooner Oceanus, with 4,000 lbs.; Comet, 2,200; Mary Amanda, 8,000; Lady Thorne, 5,000; Abbie Snow, 5,000; Champion, 5,000; Wm. The house on the 2d inst. voted to recede from its position in favor of the Belmont fishery retaliation bill, and passed the senate (or Edmunds) bill, by a vote of 149 to 134.

There was a very large audience at the Uncle Tom's Cabin matinee on the afternoon of the 2d inst., and a fair attendance in the evening. Where in the world all the youngsters who attended the afternoon performance came from is a puzzle.

Prof. J. W. Patterson, state superintendent of public instruction, will address the citizens of Newington at the Town hall on Friday evening, March 4th, at 7:30 o'clock, in the interests of education.

The ballots cast in this city at the late election have been forwarded to the secretary of state at Concord.

Mr. John Harmon, who has been with the American Express Co. in this city as driver since the company opened an office in the Pearse block on Market square, has resigned the position, and Mr. Frank Watkins, who for several years past has been in the employ of Jackson & Co.'s express, has assumed the duties of driver of the American Express Co.'s delivery wagon.

Messrs. Lowell Jenness and John H. Dowd have formed a copartnership for carrying on the marble business, in the store on the corner of Hanover and Market streets lately occupied by Dearborn & Co. as a stove store.

E. Percy Lawrence, tailor on Congress street, has gone into insolvency, and Sheriff Kent has been appointed messenger pending the appointment of an assignee. Lawrence claims assets to the amount of about $2000. The business has been suspended.

Frank P. Locke of Newcastle, general storekeeper, has failed; assets reported to be nearly equal to liabilities.

Seventeen headstones for the graves of deceased veterans and members of the G. A. R., have arrived in this city and will be set up next spring when the ground opens.

The grand jury have found four additional indictments against Mrs. Robinson, the alleged Lucretia Borgia of East Cambridge, Mass., namely,—for causing by poison the death of her husband, Moses Robinson; Prince Arthur Freeman and Thomas Arthur Freeman; and Oliver Sleeper, late of Rye, N. H. There are now six indictments against her for willful murder.

Lieut. James K. Cogswell of the navy has been ordered to duty as inspector of ordnance manufacture at the South Boston iron works, relieving Lieutenant Commander H. W. Lyon, who has been on duty there for several years, and who is now placed on waiting orders.

Mr. George Wells Healey died in London on the 21st ult. He was the son of the late Mark Healey of Boston, and was at one time a merchant and United States consul at Bombay. He was a graduate of the class of '56 at Harvard college.

Scarlatina Poison.

Scarlatina poison can be carried hundreds of miles without the personal contact of individuals. It retains its virulence for months and even years, but can be destroyed by intense heat, especially boiling or steam, plenty of fresh air and by chlorine, sulphurous acid, etc. Dogs and horses have the disease, and it probably can be communicated by them to man. The individual either inhales the poison or swallows it.—Dr. J. M. Keating in Babyhood.

Saving Tears in Persia.

Tears are considered so precious in Persia that they bottle them up. When there is a funeral some one goes round among the mourners and presents each with a sponge to weep in, and the sponge is afterwards squeezed into a bottle. If the deceased was a penurious relative—a tight old sponge that it was difficult to squeeze any money out of when alive—it is likewise difficult to squeeze any tears out of the family sponge at his funeral. It must be touching to see the master of ceremonies at a funeral, moving along in front of the mourners' bench, and asking each one in a whisper: "Have you shed?" Bottled tears are supposed by the Persians to have great healing powers, hence their collection.—Exchange.

Pretty Lively Traveling.

"The question is often asked me," said an electrician, "if it be really true that the electric current travels fast enough to go around the world in a single second. There seems to be a good deal of curiosity on that score. The best reply that can be made to such an inquiry is that everything depends on the conditions. Take a perfect land line 25,000 miles long, or equal to the circumference of the earth, and a tap on the wire would be felt from one end to the other in about one second. Under the best possible conditions as many, perhaps, as eight or ten seconds would be required if the current were to be transmitted through cables under the two oceans."—Chicago Herald.

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

For 30 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

William Johnson, a Swede aged sixty-five years, living in Kennebunk, died on Sunday, Feb. 26th, from a cancer in the neck. His wife, the only other occupant of the house, went insane and barricaded all the doors, and when some person called at the house Tuesday forenoon, the 1st inst., she refused permission to enter, and said her husband had been dead a week. The selectmen broke down a door in the afternoon, found Johnson dead in bed and his wife lying on the floor, and took the poor woman to another place where she would be cared for.

Useful and Hurtful Medicines.

There is a certain class of remedies for constipation absolutely useless. These are boluses and potions made in great part of podophyllin, aloes, rhubarb, gamboge, and other worthless ingredients. The damage they do to the stomachs of those who use them is incalculable. They evacuate the bowels, it is true, but always do so violently and profusely, and besides, gripe the bowels. Their effect is to weaken both them and the stomach. Better far to use the agreeable and salutary aperient, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the laxative effect of which is never preceded by pain, or accompanied by a convulsive, violent action of the bowels. On the contrary, it invigorates those organs, the stomach and the entire system. As a means of curing and preventing malarial fevers, no medicine can compare with it, and it remedies nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and bladder inactivity, and other inorganic ailments.

A petition from merchants and business men of Providence, R. I., representing about $40,000,000, was presented to the general assembly on the 2d inst., asking for the repeal of the prohibitory law.

Cocaine, Iodoform or Mercurials in any form in the treatment of catarrh or hay fever should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easily detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use; price 50 cents of druggists.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

THE SATURDAY NIGHT MARKET.

A Procession of Buyers, Who Are on the Lookout for Bargains.

On Saturday nights the pressure is terrible. About 8 o'clock the procession of buyers commences, composed entirely of people who must have things cheap and who will not buy unless allured by cheapness. On such occasions the objects on the sidewalk are largely re-enforced. The shoemakers spread before their eyes large assortments of arctic overshoes and of the cheaucheuc compounds which the Boston girls musically term gums. These are at divers rates, some 35 cents, some 55, some 99. The dealer knows the fascination which the large label "99 cents" has upon his customers. It seems to say that the living price, the bed rock rate, is $1, but, because times are hard, he will throw off a cent and sacrifice himself rather than not make a sale. This convinces them, this piteous spectacle of a human offering up his shoes at a sacrificial rate, and he has twenty customers at 99 cents, whereas he might only have had two at $1. Great is thy power, O Humbug!

Side by side with the shoe tables are other merchants, who make appeal to the same passion for cheapness. At one end will be an old white bearded man, who, sweeping his hand over a collection of tin whistles and imitation jet brooches and hair combs, repeats incessantly in a monotonous voice, "Any toy or any jewel on this table, 5 cents." At another will be an orangeman crying out with the voice of a stentor, "Ten for 6 cents." Further on will be a huckster of bananas, shrieking "Ripe banannies, the whole bunch for a quarter." Then there will be magnificent displays by a fishmonger, who by opening his window establishes communication between the fish within and the fish without. Clams appear to be the favorite dainty, and these are displayed on plates and sold by the plateful, and one can see feminine customers counting to see which plate has been favored by fortune. Beside the clams there are piles of lobsters, just boiled and steaming, surrounded by a perfect cloud of savoriness. Then there are small crabs, not very inviting, and baskets of oysters.

The groceries are in full blast, giving away a chromo and a package of sugar to every one who buys tea and coffee, which is already for the buyer in paper packages. In front of every grocery store is a small stand where a young girl is grating horse radish and selling it by the teacup, and behind it whose hands were blue with cold, but business was brisk and she seemed happy, and continued rubbing away upon the grater which must have been about the temperature of a block of ice, for metals have the happy power of distributing both heat and cold. Then there were truck wagons from Flatbush or Bushwick selling heads of cabbage, and potatoes and onions. The various dry goods stores on the "avenue" were crowded with customers and blazing with gas lights, and even electricity lent its potent aid to charm the senses of the customers. It was a sort of carnival, the prevalent thought being, "you working people have your wages in your pocket; come in and spend the last cent." —Brooklyn Eagle.

A Cheap Toboggan Slide.

The Macon Telegraph wants a toboggan slide, and tells how to make one that the heat won't hurt. It selects a certain hill in the city, and then says: "Buy enough twelve inch plank planed on one side to make, when stood on edge, smooth side in, a double line from the hilltop to the bottom. The width of the space between these two lines of plank should be about ten feet, and the ground smoothed with a hoe. Over it spread pine straw six inches deep. The straw can be hauled from the woods in wagons. Nail two barrel staves under a plank of equal length, grease the staves and then get on. The rider will find himself tobogganing at a terrific rate of speed, and accidents will be almost impossible.—New York Sun.

Decay of Building Stones.

The rapid decay and destruction of building stones is a matter of common experience. Mr. T. Eggleston has described somewhat the causes leading to them. He finds that many limestones that are most liable to disintegrate, either in the finished monument or yet in the ledge, are mixtures of true limestone and dolomitic limestone, and the crumbling is due to the more soluble nature of the limestone, which is removed by the percolating carbonated waters, thus undermining the dolomitic grains.—Chicago Tribune.

An African Drum.

"This," said Capt. Storms, taking up a monstrous native drum of unshapely girth, "produces a curious effect when you hear the muffled banging of it reechoing from village to village as the signal for war. I have come across chiefs in the interior whose hobby it is to have 'fancy' drummers. But their way of procuring them is essentially African. They chop off the hands of their slaves, and oblige the latter to beat the drums with their mutilated stumps in lieu of drumsticks."—Chicago Tribune.

Impurities in Iron.

It is said that the more rapid deterioration of much of the iron of a late make arises from the fact that it contains more impurities than formerly. The common iron of to-day is filled with slag, and looks coarse and fibrous when rusted or worn. Fifty years ago the iron made in the United States was largely charcoal iron, and was much purer and better than the same grades made at the present day. —Boston Budget.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the best complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it carries upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and relief sought for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

At Hinton, W. Va., on the evening of March 1st, while boating at Kanawha falls, Mrs. G. E. Turner, Mrs. Tyree and Miss Rhodes were drawn under the falls. Mrs. Turner's body was not recovered, Mrs. Tyree died soon after being rescued, and Miss Rhodes is not expected to recover.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Let Well Enough Alone.

With reference to the demand recently made by certain newspapers in this state that there should be two elections of United States senator next June, it occurs to us, although we have not all the points well in mind, that it would not be wise to change the three previous decisions, and undertake to elect a senator for the six years to commence in 1889. The United States senate adopted what is known as the McMillan report; our legislature in 1878 accepted it, and postponed the election of Senator Wadleigh's successor accordingly; the question was tried again in 1881, and settled the same way. It was tried once more in 1883, and a third time settled as before. The McMillan report, and the senate's unanimous decision accepting it, is the only authoritative utterance on the question, and has never been reversed. It is true that our supreme court judges gave their opinion, but we never could understand that they had anything to do with the subject or could decide it. At any rate two successive legislatures determined not to be governed by the opinion, and our judges are the last men in the world to be persistent when fairly overruled on a political question. The democratic party is unanimous against changing the McMillan rule; the republican party is divided on the question, to say the least; the republicans will certainly carry the state in 1888, and will be likely to alter the meeting of the legislature from June to January before Senator Blair's term expires. Taking perhaps a superficial view of the subject it seems to us that it would be wise to let well enough alone, to refrain from re-opening a settled question, to elect next June a senator for two years, and let the legislature of 1889 elect the senator for six years.

Belle Boyd Redivivus.

Belle Boyd, or a woman claiming to be Belle Boyd, who was notorious as a rebel spy during the civil war, has been lecturing through small Illinois towns on her memories of war times, with N. R. High as manager, and has had S. W. Dennis of the Momence Reporter arrested and taken to Kankakee, charged with malicious and criminal libel in publishing in the Reporter, after her lecture in Momence, an article denouncing her as a dead beat and fraud, and her manager as an alleged husband. Dennis gave bonds for his appearance before the grand jury, waiving a preliminary examination. Able counsel has been employed by both parties, and a sensational suit is expected. Belle Boyd has since the war been almost as numerous as George Washington's body servant, and it is not stated which one of her is making it warm for the Illinois editor.

The New Jersey Fight Ended.

The long contest in New Jersey over the election of a United States senator was ended on the 2d inst., when the republican members of the legislature voted for Rufus Blodgett, democrat, and some of the democrats also voting for him, he was elected by forty-two votes over Leon Abbett, the regular democratic candidate, who had thirty-eight votes, and Erastus Potter, who had one. The newly-elected senator was born in Dorchester, N. H., in 1834, but has long been prominent in business and politics in New Jersey. He has always been a democrat.

Does He Want the Earth?

A despatch from New Haven, Conn., says that "the New Haven Typographical Union, at a meeting Sunday, expelled from membership Alexander Troup, editor of the New Haven Union and collector of internal revenue for the Connecticut district. Mr. Troup has been a prominent member of the union for many years. Recently pressure has been brought upon him to compel him to abandon the use of plate matter. He complied, and in consequence was financially unable to maintain so large a force of compositors. He cut down the force by two, and at this the union took offence. It is reported that Mr. Troup accepts the fight offered, and will 'rat' his office."

In the name of moderation and business common sense, what does this man Troup want? The Typographical Union has not only told him just what men he could employ and how much compensation he must make them, and what matter he could put in his paper and where he must get it, but when he mistakenly thinks he does not need and cannot pay for the services of certain employes, steps in to correct his error and inform him that he must continue to employ them anyway. In fact, the union proposes to run his business without any help at all from him, thereby leaving him entirely at liberty to devote his whole energy to the earning of his salary as collector of internal revenue, with which to make up the deficit which must occur in his newspaper business. What more can he possibly ask? Some people want the earth.

The Biggest Gain Yet.

BOSTON, March 3.—The average circulation of the Boston Daily Globe in February reached the unparallelled figure of 126,405. Two years ago, the same month, the average was 53,621. In two years the circulation has been more than doubled. The Sunday Globe averaged 110,832. Two years ago, same month, it was but 58,462. This remarkable progress astonishes all the people, and thousands are ordering the Globe who have never taken it before.

"Foes of the Household," by Amanda M. Douglas. Published by Lee & Shepard, 10 Milk street, Boston; price $1.50. An admirable story, the plot novel and well worked out, enlisting and retaining the sympathy of the reader. There is incident enough to please the most exacting, but healthful withal. It is a "study from life," teaching that much of the domestic unhappiness with which modern society is afflicted comes from the false pride which exalts one's own family and position, above others. It is the mission of Doris Wentworth, the lovely widow of Lloyd Wentworth, to teach the haughty relatives of her husband,—the "foes of her household,"—by the sweet dignity of her character, a much needed lesson in humility; she is to them "an angel of redemption." The story is fresh and pure, and very interesting.

The forty-ninth Congress expires today. It never will be missed.

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.

Carlton House, Boston, Mass. June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

I. O. G. T.

At the regular meeting of Rockingham Lodge, I. O. G. T., on Wednesday evening, March 2d, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, in the dealings of a merciful Providence, the members of Strawberry Bank lodge, I. O. G. T., have been deprived of an esteemed brother, William A. Plaisted, we, the members of Rockingham lodge,

Resolved, That we desire to express our sympathy with our sister lodge in their affliction, and to testify our sense of the loss which our order has sustained by the decease of our worthy brother, as well as the community of which he was an honored citizen.

Resolved, That for his labors in behalf of the temperance reform, his kindness and courtesy, his sincerity and truthfulness in the various relations of life, his memory will be held in grateful remembrance.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon our records, and copies furnished to Strawberry Bank lodge, to the local press, and to the Standard Bearer for publication.

A CHANCE FOR PORTSMOUTH PRODUCTS.

There are twenty millions of barrels of beer brewed in this country every year, of which four millions is brewed by what is called the "Pool brewers" of New York city, who insist upon the price of $8 a barrel, less five per cent on all customers. Under an arrangement each brewer deposits $2 a barrel for all beer he sells above his usual quantity. The wine, beer and liquor dealers' association has determined to boycott all these brewers. The difficulty is to obtain in sufficient quantity an article of beer which will suit their customers. The threat is to go outside of New York and purchase supplies, while the Brewers' Association of New York snap their diamond-loaded fingers at the suggestion, and say that they have the retailers in their power.

"CARNIVAL OF WONDERS."

This evening, and to-morrow afternoon and evening, Burton's "Carnival of Wonders and Trained Animal Show" will exhibit at Music hall. The entertainment includes performances by dogs and an "educated goat," ventriloquism and sleight-of-hand, and the prices are low, as can be seen by reading the advertisement. The Lewiston Journal says:

Perhaps the most wonderful part of the entertainment and the most enjoyable was the exhibition given by Prof. J. R. Burton with his trained dogs. Some of the most astonishing feats were done by these intelligent animals,—humanly intelligent almost. They are trained so perfectly that only a look from the professor is necessary for them to understand and they obey him implicitly.

PERSONAL.

Alderman Sinclair is in Washington.

James A. Edgerly, Esq., of Great Falls, was in town on Thursday.

Mr. Henry L. Harlow is passing this week in New York.

Mr. Andrew P. Wendell on the 3d inst. started on a pleasure trip to Boston via fishing schooner.

The Claremont Advocate advocates the election of Hon. William E. Chandler for United States senator.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Andrew J. Hall, of the firm of Draper & Hall, Boston, proprietors of one of the largest boarding stables in the country, died at his farm in Strafford in this state, Wednesday, March 2d. Mr. Hall was born in Strafford in 1831. When nineteen years of age he came to this city and learned the trade of a baker, and for several years drove a bread cart through the neighboring towns. Removing to Boston he entered the restaurant and hotel business, and during the war was post sutler at Fort Warren at the solicitation of Col. Dimick. In 1873 he was elected to the Boston common council, and in 1874 was elected alderman; he was also an alderman in 1882, '83 and '84. Mr. Hall married in 1852 Miss Mary P. Young, daughter of Elijah B. Young, of this city, who survives him.

Joseph S. Staples, the most prominent citizen of Stratham, died Wednesday night, March 2d, of brain trouble. He has held many offices of trust; has been postmaster since 1865, and town clerk since 1866, besides which positions, at the time of death he was town treasurer, librarian, and justice of the peace. He was a man respected by all.

Alderman Billings will entertain the Mechanics' Fire Society at the Rockingham house this evening. Of the value of this old fire organization in case of a conflagration we are not at this time prepared to speak, but we can testify to their promptness and fidelity in discussing the dainty menu which is provided for them quarterly at the Rockingham.

The Cocheco river gets $9,000 by the river and harbor bill as agreed on by the conference committee of the senate and house on the 2d inst.

The receipts of the illustrated reading of Childe Harold at the Unitarian chapel on the evening of the 1st inst., by Rev. Alfred Gooding, in aid of the N. H. S. P. C. A., were $73.

Dr. Warren Parsons of Rye was at the sawmill in Greenland on Saturday, Feb. 26th, on business concerning the sawing of some logs, and was struck by the carriage as it was being run back, and had one leg broken near the ankle. Dr. John W. Parsons of this city attended the case.

MARITIME NOTES.

The huge four-masted schooner Sarah W. Lawrence, Farrow master, arrived in the lower harbor on the 3d inst. from Newport News, Va., with 2000 tons of coal to J. Albert Walker.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, Hontvet master, of this port, from Baltimore for New Haven, Conn., and the John Bracewell, Munro, from Hoboken for Boston, arrived at Dutch Island harbor Feb. 28th and sailed on March 1st; the latter arrived at Vineyard Haven on the 2d and at Boston on the 3d, the Clara E. Simson reaching her destination on the 2d inst.

The schooner Lizzie J. Call, Call master, of this port, arrived at Boston on the 2d inst. after a long passage from New York, due to head winds and stormy weather.

The schooner Thomas B. Garland, Kelley master, which arrived at Boston early in the winter with a cargo of coal for Weymouth, and was obliged to haul up at East Boston for several months on account of ice, having succeeded at last in discharging her cargo sailed for Damariscotta, Me., on the 2d inst., and arrived at Salem the same date.

The fishermen report the cod as being now striking in toward the shore, inside the Isles of Shoals. The haddock are also striking in earlier than usual.

The fishing schooner Georgia Hagan, Capt. Nathan White of Newcastle, on Saturday, the 26th ult., outsailed the whole fleet on the run in from the fishing grounds, and her fare was landed so quickly that many of the fish were alive after being put in the storehouse. It blew some.

The British schooner Blizzard, Capt. Wm. Bird, 332 tons register, owned in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, and bound from Cienfuegos for Boston with a cargo of molasses, was abandoned at sea March 1st, the crew being worn out with work and badly frost-bitten, the schooner greatly iced up, masts sprung, sails blown to pieces, and vessel leaking. The crew were taken off by the schooner Mabel Kenniston of Gloucester, which then put a crew on board the derelict and took her in tow, and arrived with her at Gloucester on the 2d. That is a good fare for the crew of the fishing vessel.

The president on the 3d inst. signed Congressman Reed's bill prohibiting the catching of mackerel in the spawning season. The Canadian retaliation bill was also approved.

Capt. Zach. Williams of Kittery Point, master of the schooner Mary Willey, was in this city on the 2d inst., presenting a hale and hearty appearance. He was looking after the overhauling and repairing of the schooner's sails, etc., and her refitting for the season's work, preparatory to an early start in the lumber trade between this port and Bangor. The captain does not want any more such trips as the last one he made last year, when such persistent ill luck was experienced that the balance sheet showed an entry on the wrong side of the profit and loss account, and he has been grey headed ever since.

The Sultan's Wives.

The sultan of Turkey lives in a palace somewhat out of the city of Constantinople and dressed up in ordinary European style. It is built of stone, but the rooms are small and the ceilings low, though very gaudily painted. He has been married only some half a dozen times, which is quite a reasonable number for a polygamous sultan. Indeed, Abdul Hamid must be considered a very temperate man as regards wives, when it is borne in mind that one of his late predecessors was pleased to possess twice as many dozen as he has.—Constantinople Cor. Chicago Tribune.

Washington's Othography.

George Washington defied orthography with the same calm courage with which he opposed the troops of England. He once wrote to the congregation of the Dutch Reformed church at Schenectady: "I sincerely thank you for your congratulations on my arrival in this place. Whilst I join in adoring that now Supreem Being, to whom alone can be attrebuted the signel successes of our arms, I cannot but express my gratitude to you gentlemen," etc.—Chicago Tribune.

Food Value of Bones.

The experiments of Dr. Edward Smith with bones were cited as instance their possible food value; these experiments were undertaken at the command of the English government, and were exhaustive enough to prove that three and a half pounds of mixed bones contain as much heat food as one pound of meat, and six pounds of bones as much flesh food as a pound of meat.—Juliet Carson in Harper's Bazar.

"Been north, I understand," said Jones to Brown, who had gone to New Hampshire to sponge on some of his rich kin.

"Yes, I was up among my relatives."

"How did they treat you?"

"Oh, immense! Nothing was good enough for me, and"—dropping his voice—"that's just what they gave me."—Washington Critic.

Wretched. Indeed,

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeful symptoms indicative of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and liver complaints, and hastens the convalescence of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

WASHINGTON AND HIS WIFE.

A Couple of Strong Domestic Tastes. Martha Washington's Work.

Both Washington and his wife were people of strong domestic tastes. They loved their home at Mount Vernon, and were seldom happier than during the few times they were alone in it. Martha Washington grew more and more domestic during her latter years, and in the dark days of the revolution, with all her wealth and former extravagance, she wore plainer clothes as more befitting the times. She would not patronize English goods, and a great deal of cloth was made at Mount Vernon. She kept sixteen spinning wheels busy, and she was especially proud of two dresses that she had made for herself. They were of cotton, striped with silk, and they must have been of fine quality, for one weighed only a pound and a half and the other still less. The silk stripes were made from the raveling of brown silk stockings and some old crimson chair covers. Martha Washington clad her servants in cloth of her own manufacture, and the liveries of her coachman and footman were made at Mount Vernon, with the exception of the scarlet cuffs and trimmings, which were imported.

She manufactured the cloth from which Gen. Washington had made one of his inauguration suits, and it is recorded by her grandson that she dressed very plainly when at home with no guests to entertain, and that she was so neat that she could wear a gown a whole week, going through her kitchen and laundry and all the other places in the routine of domestic management, and the gown at the end of the week would retain its snow like whiteness and be unsullied by even a single speck.

She was a hard worker. George Washington rose from his bed during a part of the year at 4 o'clock, and Martha was always up at daybreak. She was a great knitter, and while sitting the knitting needles were seldom out of her hands. She had an army of servants under her, and she looked personally after every detail of the household affairs, going about with a bunch of keys hanging at her side. The extent of the Mount Vernon household may be imagined by the fact that, at times, the butter of one hundred cows was not enough to supply its table.

Martha Washington was fond of gardening, and she liked to work in the garden herself. She was a good mother, and she is said to have been a woman of deep religious convictions. She was somewhat of a match maker in regard to her children, and she possessed, in short, most of the traits that are common to the mothers and the wives of to-day. If here and there in her character we find some weakness to laugh at, we must remember that, upon the whole, there is much in it to admire. She was a good woman, a good wife, and a good mother, and General Washington never thought that she was anything else but the best woman in the world.—Frank G. Carpenter in The Cosmopolitan.

Mind Healing and Mind Reading.

A physician in extensive practice was lately asked: "What proportion, should you say, of those people who send a servant flying to your office with, 'Come right away!' or make the telephone jingle with, 'Come as quick as you can! are suffering chiefly from fear and imagination?" Stroking his beard, the learned medicine replied: "Well, I might safely put it at two-thirds. When I arrive, the mere announcement that it is nothing serious allays the fear. While I am writing the prescription and chatting pleasantly on some other topic, the last stage of convalescence has been nearly reached, and when I say, in an assuring tone, 'Take this and you will be all right in the morning,' the case is settled." In this connection the doctor was asked what he thought of the "mind cure," which is now making such a furore. "Medically speaking," he replied, "it is a humbug; but with patients whose supposed sickness is 'all in the mind,' it may work." To this the respondent summoned the courage to ask: "Well, doctor, if your estimate of the number of lackadaisies and hypochondriacs in the community be correct, why is not the mind healer a useful member of society, seeing that to those who have faith in him he effects as good results as you—minus the drug?" Here the doctor abruptly cut off further debate; but to the mind of the untutored layman the latter question seems not so entirely out of order.—Boston Globe.

Wear of Hurry and Worry.

Hurry and worry, which usually go together, ruin more lives and destroy more happiness than any amount of regular, systematic labor. Any one may prove this for himself by noticing his own sensations after a season of hurried and agitated effort. The fatigue and reaction tell forcibly on the strength and vigor, and unfit him for subsequent labor. Certainly a life thus spent must be a short and unsatisfactory one. It would be well enough for each one to bear in mind that there is always time enough for him to do well all that he is called upon to do at all. If he undertakes more than this he does injustice both to his work and to himself. On the other hand, if he waste the time which is intrusted to him, let him not hope to atone for it by extra haste and hurry. When we have learned to avoid wasting time on the one hand and crowding it on the other we shall begin to appreciate its true value.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Prophet and the Cat.

Mohammedans entertain a kindly regard for cats, because of a tradition that the prophet on a certain occasion, being called to quell a riot, cut off the sleeve of his robe rather than disturb a cat sleeping upon it.—Cosmopolitan.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

We have been selling your CUTICURA RESOLVENT for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed a languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, confusing the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can readily tell who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most responsible and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with full directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

End of the 49th Congress.

The 49th Congress expired by constitutional limitation on Friday, March 4th, having failed to pass the deficiency and fortifications appropriation bills—the first time a deficiency bill ever failed of passage. The river and harbor bill failed to receive the president's signature, so that also is lost. Trotter was confirmed as register of deeds for the District of Columbia; also Lieut. Greely's nomination as chief signal officer, with the rank of brigadier general.

Plain Truths.

Ex-Gov. Hoadly, whom the democrats of Ohio two or three years ago elected chief executive of that state, is about to move to New York, and his friends the other day gave him a reception and dinner in Cincinnati. The ex-governor made a speech on the occasion in which he exposed some gross frauds perpetrated by his democratic friends in the last election, in which he was again the democratic candidate for governor, and was defeated by Mr. Foraker. He said:

Letting the past alone and looking only to the future, the duty of the democracy of Hamilton county is this: Never again—never again allow an honorable man to contemplate, as I had to, with shame, my name accredited with 936 votes I never received in the fourth ward, and my friend, Judge Foraker, in precinct A, fourth ward, accredited with forty-six votes only, when he certainly received nearly two hundred. Let it be known that when a rascal is nominated for office on the democratic ticket he is not a democratic candidate; that when nominations are bought and sold they are not democratic nominations; and that when dishonest methods are resorted to, the promoters of the frauds are to be pursued even into the penitentiary, where they belong.

OUR NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

SPRING STYLES—MILLINERY—WOOLENS—COTTONS—SILKS.

High hats and high trimmed, narrow bonnets, prolonged bustles and choked necks being retained, the spring styles will differ from those of the winter not so much in outline as in material. For millinery, in place of felt, rough, satin and Milan straws are substituted; instead of plush or velvet there will be fine fancy straws, Neapolitan, Tuscan, or delicate creations in net or gauze. But the high bows of ribbon will stand stiff, though in flowers the introduction of very small ones is a marked innovation. Coronets of them are added to, above the forehead, by a high rising spray, or in a delicate bouquet they are supported by lace, ribbon, or loopings of the embroidered gauze which is a very marked feature in spring millinery. Small or medium sized roses, jonquils, hyacinths, tulips, thistles, primroses and buttercups are in favor, while almost all the very small flowers, such as lilacs, lilies of the valley, etc., are in especial demand. The popular

RIBBONS

Are still looped on the edges, and very narrow ones are used, although many are wide. Different textures appear together in stripes, as where velvet, satin and gros grain are united, each in its own color, while in compliment to the great expected run on plaids, not a few ribbons are brought out in corresponding patterns. Net is very much used in new millinery; either the plain or ornamented, and is combined with velvet or ribbon, or may form the entire bonnet.

BEADS

Are without end. To say nothing of the ever-popular jet, there come a profusion of colored beads which suit every fashionable caprice, and placed together, glitter variously. In small sizes the bonnet is often covered with them, while large ones decorate in rows or at intervals, and they also are employed to form millinery ornaments, of which we will have an unusual number this season. Very large balls and crescents are made entirely of small beads; all manner of beaded devices imitating warlike instruments are in favor, while beaded simulations of fancy feathers help to complete the picture. Ground glass with granulated surface produces an irridescent effect in millinery ornaments, and a most novel and pretty idea is the imitation of a half-open burr showing satin fruit within. Metal insects are also in many different colors. Lord & Taylor tell us likewise that

WOOLENS

Are affected by the diagonal craze. Serge weaves are still popular, and light cloths contend with camel's hair for the always necessary wool costume. Beautiful camel's hair goods show broad stripes for the lower part of the costume, with fine hair lines for the upper; and others are striped with knotted threads, or have the same arranged in cross bars. Rich looking wools of light quality are adorned by flowers of plush or velvet, usually small buds or sprays set at intervals and in beautifully refined colors, but again there are delicate floral columns, bars, or a broad collection of figured stripes running horizontally, for the lower edge of the skirt. Some of the prettiest wool dresses are being made of printed challi, for the most part, displaying on a cream ground-work gay successions of small flowers.

SATTEENS

Occupy a prominent place in cotton goods, and are brought out to imitate India silks, the work is so well done that detection is really difficult. White ginghams with colored stripes or bars are extremely pretty, and will have a great run. For combination with these and other cotton goods, embroidery will be used instead of lace. In silks the prestige of stripes, bars and plaids is greater than that of floral patterns, and here the designs are in French colors. A season of bars, plaids and stripes may be predicted, with special tendency towards the two first named. Faille francaise is a favorite weave, plush and velvet being introduced with the stripe and block effect so much sought after.

What Shall We Do With Our Boys?

BOSTON, March 4.—The "Husband," "Wife" and "Courting" articles in the Boston Sunday Globe have created great discussion and enthusiasm all over New England. "What Shall We Do With Our Boys" will be discussed by the same writer in the Sunday Globe tomorrow, which will be full of other articles of great interest and entertaining to all the ladies and young folks in particular, and the men in general.

"Mistakes in Writing English," by Marshall T. Bigelow, Lee & Shepard, Boston, publishers. An invaluable work. The author in the preface says, "It is hoped that this work may be of use to the teacher or scholar, by pointing out, in an orderly arrangement, the errors to which the best writers of English are liable." He has succeeded admirably. A copy of this little book handily lying on the desk, will be of immense advantage "for the use of all who teach, write, or speak the language."

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less." I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. KOMPERS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.

Carlton House, Boston, Mass.
June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

"CARNIVAL OF WONDERS."

There was a very good audience at Music hall Friday evening, to see Burton's Trained Animal Show, which is a very interesting entertainment, the dogs displaying almost human intelligence, and skillful training. There was some good ventriloquism and sleight-of-hand performances, and the whole made a very pleasant evening's amusement. A matinee will be given at 2:30 this afternoon, children's prices to the lower floor 15 cents; also another entertainment this evening. See advertisement.

THOSE EVENING BELLS.

We missed the ringing of the "nine o'clock bell" on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week. Why? Can it be that the experiment is to be again tried of dispensing with this time hallowed custom? Perish the unworthy thought!

P. S. Our anxiety is relieved; the bell was sounded at nine o'clock Friday evening.

SOCIABLE AND ENTERTAINMENT.

The Young People's Association of the North church held one of the most successful sociables and entertainments of the season in the chapel on Middle street, Thursday evening, March 3d. Supper was served at 7:30; entertainment commenced at nine.

We are pleased to announce the steady growth of this society. It commenced three years ago with about twenty members, and has now about eighty-five. It is composed of two classes of members, active and associate. The active members are those who take active part in all the religious services, and the associates are those who only take part in the sociables and entertainments; but it is hoped and expected that in time all may become active members. They have recently had their constitution and by-laws printed. They have given ten dollars this winter towards the Home Mission debt, and have given thirty dollars for chapel expenses, and still have something in the treasury. It is expected that they will hold a fair early this spring.

It was only known to a few that there was to be an entertainment Thursday evening, and the members were very much surprised when it became known. After an hour or two had been spent in the parlors, playing games, etc., the company assembled in the main chapel where they were entertained for an hour with the following programme:

1. Piano solo, Miss Mabel Cotton.
2. Reading, "Asleep at the Switch," Miss Edith Horrocks.
3. Piano solo, Harry Osgood.
4. Sketch, "The Magician and His Pupil," Jesse H. Wilson and Henry Washburn.
5. Piano and Harmonica medley, arranged by Harry Osgood, Messrs. Osgood, Sanborn and Trefethen.
6. Reading, "The Wayward Boy," Miss Edith Horrocks.
7. By request Miss Edith Horrocks read "The Hired Girl."

The audience were very much pleased with the entertainment, especially with the little reader, Miss Edith Horrocks, Mabel Cotton and Messrs. Osgood, Sanborn and Trefethen; and the rest filled their part nicely.

Everett L. Marston, who got the entertainment up and arranged the programme, wishes to express his thanks to all those who aided in making the entertainment a success. M.

THE TOWN CLOCKS.

The clock in old Trinity's steeple broke down on Sunday night. The clock has been in the steeple nearly fifty years, and its vagaries are attributed by experts solely to the incidental weaknesses of advancing years. An expert will try to start it again to-day. It is getting harder and harder to make the clock go after its fits of disorder nowadays, and probably the vestrymen of Trinity will buy a new clock one of these centuries.—New York Sun.

Trinity's old clock is not very old in years, though it may not be good for much of anything; some clocks are worn out before they start. The north clock in this city is said to have been made by Willard, a celebrated clock-maker of Boston, in 1803 or thereabouts, and has been running ever since, except when it has been granted a vacation for the purpose of having a new church built around it, or has taken a rest of a day or two on account of cold and ice; and it is still a good clock, and likely to do many years' service yet. The south clock was built by George Gaines of this city, some time prior to 1852, in which year he went to California, but it was a much more cheaply constructed affair than the older one, and is already much more nearly worn out.

OBITUARY.

Mr. John Hand, a member of Storer Post, G. A. R., died at his residence in this city Thursday, March 4th, after a lingering illness, leaving a wife and four children. Mr. Hand served in the United States navy during the war. He was elected a member of the Common Council from ward three in 1883 and again in 1884.

Mr. Moses Miller, formerly a well-known resident of Boston, but since 1854 a citizen of Medford, Mass., died Thursday, March 4th. He was born in this city in September, 1793. Drafted into the army as a drummer boy during the war of 1812, he served for a short time at one of the forts of Portsmouth harbor, but afterward secured a substitute and then went out privateering. In 1816 he went to Boston and established himself in the fish business. He built the first wharf in East Boston, and carried the first business to that place. He leaves a wife and four children. Sunday, Feb. 27th, marked the 67th year of his wedded life.

The remains of the late Capt. John H. Willey, who died recently on board his ship, the Continental, in San Francisco harbor, arrived in this city on Wednesday. March 2d, having been brought home by a brother who on this occasion came east for the first time in forty-two years. Interment at Eliot, Me.

Philbrick R. Loveitt died in Laconia on the 3d inst., at the age of ninety-one. He was one of the garrison at Fort Constitution, Portsmouth harbor, in 1814.

RAILROAD ITEMS.

In accordance with the provisions of the interstate commerce bill, the Boston & Maine railroad will issue no passes after March 31st, and will cancel all outstanding passes whose provisions would otherwise have held good after that date. The law exempts excursions from the operation of the provision prohibiting special rates being given to any person or persons, which is all right so far as Sunday schools, temperance societies, etc., are concerned, but we fancy that our local traders would not have felt hurt had the bill contained a special provision prohibiting any kind of a cheap excursion between this city and Boston.

The railroad commissioners of Maine recommend to the roads of that state the adoption of any one of the several new systems of heating passenger cars which the commissioners pronounce to be safe.

The Manchester Mirror of the 3d inst. said: "The Manchester Locomotive Works will deliver to the Concord railroad on Saturday one of the greatest passenger engines ever built in this country. It is an eight-wheeler, with five feet three inch drive wheels, and an 18x24 inch cylinder. It has been named the Conqueror, and was built especially to draw the heavy White Mountain express trains between Nashua and Concord,—trains that required two locomotives to haul last season. Engineer Barrett will run the engine, and with such a giant there should be no lost time on the trips."

The quarterly supper of the Mechanics' Fire Society was served at the Rockingham house Friday evening, the host of the occasion being Mr. William G. Billings. The supper of course was all that could be asked.

Friday was pay day on the navy yard.

Bert Kimball, the ventriloquist, at Music hall this afternoon and evening.

Several of the school teachers went to Newington on Friday evening in a barge, to hear the address of Hon. J. W. Patterson, state superintendent of public instruction, in the Newington town hall.

The river and harbor appropriation bill was treated to a pocket veto by the president, so the Little harbor, York harbor and Cocheco river improvements will have to wait awhile.

The "Pavements of Paris" dramatic company, which recently played two evenings in Music hall, played to a light house in Dover on Wednesday evening, the 2d inst., and would have played on the 3d but for an attachment of $100 being placed on the company's property by the sheriff of Strafford county at the instance of a Concord party, just as the doors were opened.

The wild geese have commenced flying northward. They are a parcel of geese to start so soon.

The board of mayor and aldermen at their late meeting did not take up the bill to increase the pay of the police force.

Take the children to see the trained dogs at Music hall this afternoon, and give them two hours of amusement at a trifling expense. Only 15 cts. admission to any part of the house, for children.

A correspondent of the Dover Republican, writing from Dover point on the 2nd inst., says: "Mr. Hanscom, Frank Jones' business manager, and Mr. Brackett Trefethen, his head mason, were here yesterday purchasing bricks for the new brewery in Portsmouth. Ira F. & John E. Pinkham, Morang & Henderson and Elbridge Gage have sold him their entire stock, over 1,000,000 in all, and have been requested to make all they can this summer for the brewery also. The bricks will all go by rail. This will be quite a freight boom for the Portsmouth & Dover road. The bricks are to be shipped as soon as the foundation of the building is built, which will be shortly. It is estimated that 2,000,000 bricks will be required for the brewery."

The judge of probate for Strafford county has appointed Wm. H. Hackett, Esq., of this city, commissioner to examine and allow claims against the estate of the late Wm. J. Copeland, Esq., of Berwick, Me.

Lyman H. Hartford, of this city, has been granted an original pension. He was one of the first Kearsarge crew, and did his share toward the destruction of the confederate cruiser Alabama.

Mr. Charles S. Drowne, who purchased the wreck of the schooner Flying Dart, ashore on Rye Beach near the life-saving station, has abandoned all hope of getting her off; the storm of Feb. 27th drove her about twice her length higher up on the beach, so that she would have to be raised and ways laid under her to get her afloat, and also smashed her side in nearly up to her plankshear, so that she is not worth floating. She will be one of the attractions of the beach next summer, unless an extra-power storm should come and break her all up before the season opens, which is not likely to occur.

Large quantities of wood are being hauled to the Dover point brickyards; some of it is from localities near at hand, but the larger part comes from Maine and northern New Hampshire by rail.

The town accounts of Durham for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1886, show that on Jan. 1st of this year the treasury held $1700, and no outstanding bills to pay.

There was a fire in Dover on Friday afternoon, in the block in which the store of Mr. James R. Connell is situated; the damage was chiefly from smoke and water.

The new Methodist church in South Berwick will be dedicated on Thursday, March 10th.

A great reduction has been made in the price of Ladies' and Children's Cloaks, by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street. At the prices now marked they will sell rapidly.

Those wool worsted suitings in plain and mixed colorings, are the very best. No. 6 Market street. J. W. Moses.

KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
— FOR —
INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.
A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from impaired digestion.

For 20 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferment expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

The Parvenu's Plate.

I have known Boston parvenues to buy English plate already supplied with coats of arms, etc., and then faithfully live up to the pictures on the silver. Here this is a positive fact: An English lord who came over here to visit some American friends was very much pleased to find that all the bowls, pitchers and glasses in the apartments devoted to his use bore his family crest. He commented on the delicacy of the compliment to his wife. They found out subsequently, however, that several years before their American friends had appropriated the pictorial device for their own use simply because they thought it pretty and attractive. When the guest's chamber had been done up by the artist, then admiration for it had weakened, and the cost of arms in use in other portions of the house was entirely different.—New York Mail and Express.

A Hard Row to Hoe.

Doctors are not all quacks; you hay got wrong noshuns about this. Doktors, lawyers and ministers hav a hard row to ho; they hav to deal with the kredulity, knavery and fears ov the people—thres ov the most difficult trails in human natur tew handle. If i was a doktor and understood mi business, i should doktor mi pashunts and let the disease take care ov itself. More folks are kured this way than enny other. It ain't much trouble tew doktor sick folks, but to doktor the well ones is bothersum.—Josh Billings.

Patience a Great Help.

A lady who had been prostrated by a serious accident under one of a critical surgical operation. After it was over she inquired of the surgeon how long she should have to remain in bed. "Only one day at a time," he cheerfully responded. The thought had a soothing influence upon her, and as she gave utterance to it from day to day, a feeling of resignation was engendered which did much to neutralize the effect of months of weary confinement to bed. Heroic effort often restores the mind to a healthy balance, but patience, in the true meaning of the word, is the best aid to recovery in surgical cases.—Herald of Health.

Lucy Larcom is spending the winter with Miss Ellen Carpenter, the artist.

Up to December 14th, 1886, there had been granted to women by the United States, letters patent for one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five inventions.

The census shows that there are between two and three millions of women wage-workers in this country, who support themselves, and many of them their husbands and families.

Mrs. Frank Leslie is of Huguenot extraction, and was born in the French quarter of New Orleans. She speaks French, Spanish, Italian, German and English with equal fluency.

According to Secretary Dickinson's report, fifty years ago two-fifths of the public school teachers in Massachusetts were men; now about one-tenth are men. The average wages of men then were $25.44 per month, and of women $11.38; now men average $111.23, and women $43.97.

Senator Brown of Georgia says that women are physically incompetent to perform political duties. As these duties, however, are performed without difficulty by octogenarians and cripples, it seems as if they might not be beyond the strength of women. Indeed when thousands of women have been voting for nearly twenty years, both in England and in our own western territories, it is absurd to talk about "laborious duties for which they (the female sex) are not by nature physically competent."

Miss Clara Barton, president of the American National Red Cross, has been visiting northwestern Texas, to find out by personal investigation, her favorite method, the actual state of the sufferers from the long drought, about whose condition so many contradictory reports have been afloat. She found the distress indeed severe, but came to the conclusion, also, that Texas was amply able to relieve her own sufferers. As a direct result of Miss Barton's efforts, the press of Texas has taken the matter up, and a generous subscription has been set on foot. Persons outside the state are also responding liberally. All contributions should be sent to the Dallas (Texas) News.

Its practical operation is conservative and careful—the rules are strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodation is unequaled in the West—surpassed in the world.

All Express Trains between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of Comfortable Day Coaches, magnificent Pullman Palace Parlor and Sleeping Cars, elegant Dining Cars prepared on excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—celebrated Reclining Chair Cars.

Robert H. Smith of Bangor, Me., seventeen years old, has been held in $1000 for trial for putting cordwood on the track of the Maine Central railroad on the 3d inst., and committed to jail to stop till August.

The bill to allow the York Harbor & Beach railroad to extend its line from the present termious in York to a junction with the Boston & Maine railroad at or near Cole's corner in Wells, was last week reported favorably in the Maine legislature.

The Maine legislative committee on fisheries and game last week decided on a lobster law to be reported to the senate. It aims at a complete revolution in the Maine law relating to the lobster. The bill provides that there shall be a close time on lobsters between August 1st and Sept. 15th in each year; the penalty for violation of this close time is $50 for the first offense, and $1 for each lobster caught, killed, sold, etc. Section four of this bill provides that "no person or corporation shall can or preserve any lobster between July 1st and the 15th of the following April." Section five makes it unlawful to buy, sell, expose for sale, etc., "any lobster in spawn or with eggs attached, or any lobster less than ten and one-half inches in length, measured from the bone of the nose to the end of the bone of the middle flipper of the tail."

Wretched, Indeed,

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeful symptoms indicative of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestions. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and liver complaints, and hastens the convalescense of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

Three hundred marble cutters at Bowker, Torrey & Co.'s works in Boston struck last week, not for higher pay or better treatment, but against the employment of other workingmen who have just as good a right as they to make a living, but who did not belong to the union. It is to be hoped the firm will maintain the rights of free workingmen from the aggressive tyranny of the union.

Druggists say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy for female complaints they ever heard of. It sells enormously.

The statement that the remains of the late Capt. John H. Willey were interred in Eliot was an error; the burial took place in Chelsea, Mass., March 27th, the body having been accompanied from San Francisco to that place by Mr. Charles F. Willey of San Jose, Cal.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

The charters of the Maine Eclectic medical college and the Druidic university have been surrendered, so no more "doctors" will be ground out of those institutions.

R. S. B. Hatch, of Lebanon Springs, N. Y., is eighty-two years old. He says: I suffered from liver complaint for thirty years and could not obtain relief. I was persuaded to try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and it has cured me. I digest my food without difficulty and enjoy refreshing rest. Druggists; $1. Send two-cent stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., for his book on kidney, liver and blood disorders. Mention this paper.

—"Some idiot has put my pen where I can't find it," growled Asperity as he rooted about his office desk. "Ah, aw, yes; I thought so," he added in a milder tone, as he hauled the writing utensil out from behind his ear.

—"I will add," concluded the young man applying for a situation, "that I am a college graduate." "Oh, that won't make any difference," was the reassuring reply, "if you stick to your work; and, besides, we want somebody about the place who is strong enough to carry in coal."

—"No, sir," he said to the captain. "I am not seasick, but I am really disgusted with the motion of this vessel."

Pleasant for the Critic.

You know the man who always wants your opinion of him or something he's done, the candid truth, and then quarrels with you for giving it to him. He has various methods, but this is one of the neatest I've heard for a long time for a judicious hint. A celebrated artist in New York had just finished a picture. Artists don't like to be advertised. It is for love of art they paint, and they are hurt if their name gets into the newspapers favorably. That, however, is a universal failing. The picture had been on show in his studio in a private way, and the painter called upon the art critic of a big New York daily, an old friend of his. He found him very glad to see him, of course.

"I want you to come and take a look at my new picture," said he. "It's just finished."

"I'll be delighted, certainly."

"I've only one thing to ask. We've been close friends for years, and of course that may influence you. But I don't want it to. I want you to lay aside all recollection of our friendship; look upon me simply as a painter who has painted a picture. I want you to come to my studio and give me a cold blooded criticism of the work. I've just licked one fellow who said he didn't like it."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Beef in Southwestern Texas.

In some of the yards we see the people drying long strips of beef on frames, which is their favorite way of keeping it, the flesh becoming dry and hard, so that it will last a long time. Even in hot weather the evaporation is rapid and the meat dries before tainting, and can then be carried anywhere without danger of losing it. Thus treated the beef is wholesome and good, and by no means unpalatable. It may be sold by the yard, as it looks like so many brown ropes hanging from the frames. Mexican butchers have the knack of stringing the meat out in this way, which must have been acquired from the Indians, who do the same. No salt is necessary. When one of the inhabitants wishes to make a trip into Mexico he gets his meat ready, then his cornmeal, and away he goes, finding water for himself and his horse at known places, the animal feeding on what grass it can find, and doing well enough.—Chihuahua, Tex., Cor. Chicago Times.

Mistreatment of Colds.

There have been more colds than I have noticed during the winter, and men with stuffed heads are taking nauseous medicines to break up the blockade. There's the trouble with most people—too much medicine. You have heard the adage: "Feed a cold and starve a fever." That's not the modern reading, which should be: "Starve a cold," etc. It is cruel to deny patients with a fever food and drink, and it is very bad to eat heavily when your system is filled with congestion from a cold. Don't stuff your stomach, for abstemiousness with simple remedies is a sure cure. Take no supper, bathe your feet in hot water and go to bed to prespire, and you will wake up relieved. Going out at nights and eating at establishments or indulging in banquets is the best aid to a cold. Serve the courses slowly, get home after 12 o'clock and you will be out of shape for a week afterwards.—Physician in Globe-Democrat.

Reverence for River Sources.

The natives of India have a great reverence for the sources of a number of their largest rivers, whose waters by means of irrigating works are often used in times of drought to nourish the soil and prevent or mitigate famine. The Godavery, the most important river in south India, takes its rise in a brook that issues from a hillside near the village of Nassik. The spot where this brook gushes from the rock is approached by a flight of 690 stone steps, at the top of which is a great stone platform built at the foot of the rock from which the stream issues. An image under a large canopy has been so placed that the water pours out of its mouth and then goes sparkling down the hill. From this spot the stream flows 900 miles right across the peninsula, growing on the way into a mighty river, and draining 120,000 square miles. The source of the Godavery is one of the sights of the Bombay presidency.—New York Sun.

Gen. Sheridan's Plan.

Gen. Sheridan has proposed a striking and ingenious plan of harbor defense, based upon his experience in fighting Indians years ago. He found sunken pits held by riflemen better than forts, which formed a clearly visible mark for the enemy. He therefore proposes a series of submerged pits in the sea, with guns that can be raised or lowered at pleasure, never rising above the surface of the water so far as to afford a good mark for an advancing fleet. Such works would be better defended against hostile fire by the surrounding water itself than any visible fort can be by steel or other casing. The idea's worth consideration, as it appears to offer a maximum of defensive force with a minimum of cost.—New York Tribune.

Are the Times Degenerate?

When one reads of defaulting treasurers and cashiers, he is likely to refer to the degeneracy of the times in morals, in honesty and trustworthiness. But are they degenerate? Are the moral instincts less keen than they were of old? It will be safe to deny it. You cannot tell what the morals of a man are until he is tempted. In the olden time industries were so poorly developed that it was necessary to repose trusts in others only in a very limited degree, and hence the defaulters were few. The people of the present day endure the test of temptation, no doubt, more creditably than the ancestors of past centuries would have done.—Good Housekeeping.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in five years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who have gratefully recommended it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with full directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A good reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this peculiar medicine.

Henry Ward Beecher Dying.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher was stricken with apoplexy at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., on Saturday, March 5th. His physicians, Dr. W. A Hammond and Dr. W. S. Searle, reported him Saturday night as liable to die at any hour; and that should he recover, he would be a mental wreck. The great preacher's life work is ended.

The Retaliation Bill.

The Portland Advertiser of the 3d inst. contained the following:

The extent of the export business in clam bait from this section to the maritime provinces is shown in the fact that the provincial fishermen carry away from this port between 5,000 and 8,000 bushels of this product annually. It is now about two weeks to the beginning of the fishing season, the 15th of March being the time when vessels usually begin to fit out for their first trip to the fishing banks.

It was said to-day by one of the leading fish dealers of this city that in his opinion the passage of the retaliation bill has prevented lawlessness that was likely to be provoked when the Canadian vessels come here after bait in March. He says he knows the temper and disposition of the men on this point, and a number of them say that the Canadians should not be allowed to go out from here with bait under the conditions existing at this time. Law or no law there would have been trouble. The passage of the retaliation bill satisfies all complaints.

We have no doubt that the bill is sufficient for the purpose it aims at, but we cannot agree with the Advertiser that its passage is all that is needed. It requires action on the part of President Cleveland, who has not hitherto shown any inclination to act in defence of our fishermen from the illegal harassing of the Canadian authorities.

A Painfully Irreverent Canuck.

The following improper and irreverent remarks regarding the American eagle, etc., were made by the Globe of Toronto, Ont., just before the passage of the fishery retaliation bill:

We guess and calculate that the senatorial shooters at Washington will not be in a position to blockade us before April 1st, and by that time the Grand river will be free of ice, and a fleet of scows can sail across from Dunnville and knock seven distinct and different kinds of tar out of the Buffalo navy. Until the conferees upon the rival retaliatory bills can agree among themselves they will not disagree with "Canady." They have failed to agree, and both bills have been hung up. The Congress has but a few hours to run, with more imperative questions on hand than it knows what to do with. Before anything in the shape of retaliation can be agreed upon the fishing season will be again in full blast, the hatchet-faced New England skippers will be going around upon their uppers, and their fellow citizens will be buying our fish at our own prices, freight and duty included. The American eagle is a bald-headed imbecile. He is a bush bird at the best, and has no terrors for the monarchs of the deep. Let him his him to a hennery.

An Unsatisfactory Result.

The Shoe & Leather Manufacturers' Association of Haverhill, Mass., has issued a "manifesto" to the citizens of that place which deserves and will receive a wide consideration. The associated manufacturers state that—

Within the last two years firms manufacturing goods to the amount of a million dollars per annum—one-tenth of our entire product, and who employ 600 operatives—have been driven out of town by the exorbitant demands of labor organizations, and it seems probable that under present conditions an equal amount of business will be lost to the city within the next few months.

Somewhat Cool, Apparently.

The collector of customs at New York has been instructed to take possession on arrival of fifty Chassepot rifles and accoutrements presented by the French government to the French Mutual Aid Society of San Francisco, Cal., for the arming of an independent military company connected with the society. It is questioned whether a foreign government has a legal right to arm a military company within our territory. We do not think there should be any question about it. The nations of Europe have used this country as a dumping ground for their criminals and paupers, but when they assume the right to organize armies here the government should draw the line at that.

Mr. Haynes May Contest.

A despatch of the 5th inst. from Concord says:

Hon. William E. Chandler and Ex-Judge William L. Foster have prepared an opinion, at the request of Hon. Martin A. Haynes, concerning his rights and the action to be taken in connection with the election in the first congressional district last fall. By the returns made by the ward and town clerks Mr. McKinney, the democratic candidate, has a plurality of 105 over Haynes. The governor and council have not made a declaration of the result, and no certificate of election has been given to Mr. McKinney. Haynes claims, by his counsel, Chandler, the right to inspect the ballots, which are now in the custody of the secretary of state. The opinion states that it is discretionary with the governor and council when to declare the result of the election. They may wait until fourteen days before the first Wednesday in June, or they may wait until a reasonable period before the first Monday in December, when Congress assembles. Without waiting for an inspection of the ballots, Mr. Haynes may contest the election and take such testimony as is required.

The is trouble in Rumsey Bros.' shoe factory at Lynn, Mass. Some time ago there was a strike of union workmen, and the firm put in more machinery and employed a number of new hands. The strikers after a time got tired and returned to work, when their leaders insisted that the firm should discharge all the new men, and give their places to the strikers. This the firm refused to do, and in consequence all the men over whom the labor organizations have control have left the shop again. The firm say that rather than discharge the men who stood by them in their trouble they will move their business from the town.

Among the measures which passed both branches of Congress and which failed to receive the signature of the president was the bill prohibiting the employment of Canadian or other alien laborers upon federal public works or buildings.

In the race for office in the District of Columbia the president's dark trotter from Massachusetts seems to have passed under the wire ahead of all competitors.

On the first day of February last a freight car bound from the eastward for Boston over the Boston & Maine railroad, Eastern division, was broken into near Wells, Me., and a box containing eighty-three ready made overcoats valued at $661.75 was stolen. On the 3d inst. the station agent at Wells reported the discovery of a pile of overcoats hidden under the platform of the freight house. The discovery led to finding in pawnshops at Portland a number of the stolen coats, and in the evening of that day Howard Hilton and Julien L. Getchell were arrested in the attic of an unoccupied house in Wells, charged with being the thieves; they were arraigned in the Biddeford police court on the 4th, and positively identified by the Portland pawnbrokers as being two of the three men who pawned the coats.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.

Carlton House, Boston, Mass. June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 113 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

A MEMORIAL GIFT.

Yesterday, March 6th, St. John's Church was enriched by the presentation of a beautiful brass Altar-Cross—a double memorial of a lovely life severed in youth from this world and of a no less lovely life of wedlock which for half a century has reflected before men the light of the world unseen and eternal. These mere facts, touching and beautiful in themselves, are embodied in the simple inscription on the base of the Cross, but the story of those lives is to be read only in the hidden chronicles of friendship and affection. On the front of the base of the Cross is inscribed:—"To the Glory of God, and in loving memory of Caroline Louise Franklin, Daughter of Cornell Samuel and Caroline Louisa Franklin, and Wife of George Lamb. Born September 9th, A. D. 1838. Died July 9th, A. D. 1862. Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."

On the back of the base the inscription reads:—"Presented to St. John's Church on the occasion of the Golden Wedding of her Parents, Cornell Samuel Franklin and Caroline Louisa (Barnes) Franklin, March 6th, 1887."

Those who knew Mrs. Lamb know well how singularly appropriate to her memory is that sixth Beautitude of her Lord and Master, and can realize with what favor her Parents, remembering her among the innumerable company of the faithful, must join in the Thanksgiving: "We bless Thy Holy Name for all Thy servants departed this life in Thy faith and fear." And surely no more beautiful token than this Altar-cross could perpetuate her memory or their gratitude, nor could a more beautiful day have been chosen for the presentation of the memorial than this anniversary, golden indeed, of their marriage at this very Altar.

The circumstances attending the presentation—the old church itself conspicuous in interest in the annals of Portsmouth; Mrs. Franklin's association with the parish from infancy; Mr. Franklin's noble prominence among our most honored citizens and in connection with our public and philanthropic organizations; the united grace and dignity with which they adorn society, and this fiftieth anniversary of their marriage—all combine to make yesterday's event eventful indeed, and of universal interest to this whole community as well as to large circles of friends elsewhere. It is worthy of note that the beautiful memorial window given to St. John's by Mrs. Pruyn also bears reference to a golden wedding.

One other circumstance ought not to be omitted in this brief account, though not connected with the event by a happy coincidence only. It is that the day, the Second Sunday in Lent, marked the fourth anniversary of the incumbency of the present beloved Rector of the Parish, and also the eighteenth of his entrance into Holy Orders. Mr. Franklin was not unmindful of this coincidence which will also be of lively interest to the community in which the Reverend Mr. Hovey is held in so high regard and esteem.

We may also add to the foregoing this interesting statement, that on this same Sunday the newly-confirmed class at St. John's made their first Communion.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The attendance at the churches yesterday was very light, the snow in the air and under foot sufficing to keep most of the men and many of the women indoors. At one of the churches, which can seat 700 persons easily, there were present twenty-eight — twenty-nine, including the sexton—one gentleman having an entire section next the broad aisle, from the doors to the pulpit, to himself; if he took in all the excellent advice allotted to that section it must have done him lots of good. At another church the congregation—exclusive of the sexton—consisted of six persons, three of whom were children. The evening services at the churches were generally omitted.

The subject in the Universalist church Sunday, was "Soulful eyes;" text Matt. 6:22, 23, "The lamp of the body is the eye, if therefore thine eye be single thy whole body shall be full of light; but if thine eye be evil thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If, therefore, the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!"

A boy does not always grow up according to his advantages. Some boys are superior to what might be expected from their advantages. More often than otherwise, the boy who has the most, accomplishes the least. There is an adequate cause for this. Men have sought for this cause, and neglected to study the great teacher and delineator of religious heredity, Jesus. On this great science we have here in the text the most profound generalization known to the mind of man. A boy is surrounded by all that wealth can give him; every light that money can procure is shed upon him; but his eye, "the lamp of the body," is evil; there is abberation and neutralization, causing in the soul not only darkness, but twisted malignant shadows. The vision which brings light to others is a dazzling superficial night-mare to him. The light, grand to the clear and single eye, brings to him a burning pride and makes him a sickening spectre. His eye is full of his soul and that is full of darkness. God alone can break the spell. There are those who are under the light of refined religious minds, but through the evil eye there is suffered a terrible reversion. Culture and wealth are consorted as the queen of the faries and the ass. The light is made to dance as a fantastic chimera to the ogling of an evil eye.

The earnest and deeply interesting sermon delivered by Rev. Alfred Gooding in the Unitarian church on Sunday, Jan. 2d, will at the request of many of those who heard it be repeated next Sunday, should the weather be pleasant on that day. The subject of the sermon was "The duty of going to church regularly," and the many sophistical excuses offered for not attending to that duty were analyzed and answered; and as owing to the stormy weather which prevailed on the first Sunday in the year the congregation was small, those who were then present desire the repetition of the discourse, that all may enjoy and profit by it.

FRANKLIN THEATRE.

The "Pavements of Paris" Co. appear at the Franklin theatre to-night, and the company intend to present, during the week a number of excellent plays, producing to-night "The Pavements of Paris;" "Lost at Sea" to-morrow, and "Jesse James, the Bandit King," Wednesday evening. The prices of admission have been reduced to 10, 20 and 30 cents, and the meritorious performances given by this sterling company when here before, should entitle them to a liberal patronage from our amusement seekers.

TWO OTHERS.

The Journal of last week, in referring to the commencement on Sunday, March 6th, of the twentieth year of the pastorate of Rev. William H. Alden, D. D., over the Middle street Baptist society, says:

Very few clergymen now-a-days can speak of their twentieth year of continued labor in one place; and in Portsmouth, with the exception of the life-long rectorship of Rev. Dr. Burroughs and the combined citizenship and pastorate of Rev. Dr. Peabody, there has been no one to speak of his twentieth year since Rev. Dr. Buckminster died in 1812.

This is an error. Rev. James DeNormandie was pastor of the Unitarian church more than twenty-one years; and Rev. Nathan Parker, who died in 1833, was pastor of the same church twenty-five years.

The members of Storer Post, G. A. R., are requested to assemble at their hall on Daniel street this morning at eight o'clock, to attend the funeral of Comrade John Hand. Services will be held at the Catholic church.

Twenty workmen were discharged from the department of construction and repair at the navy yard, Saturday evening.

Mr. McIntire, blacksmith in the department of yards and docks at the navy yard, was kicked in the abdomen on Saturday forenoon by a mare he was shoeing, and so badly injured that the surgeon of the yard ordered him to be taken home.

The schooner Annie F. Conlon, Seaward master, was on Saturday taking in apples and potatoes at the Spring market wharf, having dropped down from the Concord railroad wharf, where she had just finished putting out a cargo of coal for which her freight was $2.10 a ton and discharged. The produce she was taking on board Saturday was from Charles H. Hayes & Son, and consigned to Baltimore parties.

Miss Marion H. Clarke, daughter of Stephen W. Clarke, of Manchester, formerly of this city, and for many years principal of our high school, celebrated her 18th birthday Feb. 25th, and was the recipient of many handsome presents. We realize how rapidly "time flies" when we think of the little miss of a few years since, the pride and joy of her father's heart, now grown to womanhood.

The Maritana Opera Co. of Boston, of which Miss Alice May Esty, soprano of the Middle street Baptist church choir in this city, is a prominent member, have been singing through Maine with great success in "The Madcap," a comic opera translated and especially adapted to this company. They are booked to appear in the city hall at Saco on Thursday evening, March 10th.

The officers of the York Harbor & Beach railroad were at Kittery on Saturday for the purpose of opening the bids for the construction of the Kittery end of the road.

The "wild critter" which was a catamount and panther for a time in Eliot, and since then a panther and bear at Dover point, has now changed himself into a stray dog of large size.

We very much regret to learn that Samuel R. Gardner, Esq., city messenger, had a shock of paralysis on Friday afternoon; we trust the trouble may prove but temporary.

Only two men ever held the office of postmaster of Stratham, N. H., Mr. Zebulon Wiggin and Mr. Joseph S Staples, the latter of whom died Wednesday last. Their united terms amounted to nearly seventy years. A peculiar coincidence connected with this fact is that Mr. Joseph B. Wiggin, the gentlemen who sent to the Journal the obituary notice of Mr. Wiggin twenty-five years ago, also sent the notice of Mr. Staples, giving the first announcement of the death.—Boston Journal.

The twelve-year-old boy, Frank Libbey of Berwick, Me., who was arrested a few days ago for the robbery of $150 from a servant's trunk in Grant's hotel in that town, has been arraigned and committed to the county jail in Alfred for trial at the May term of the superior court.

A great reduction has been made in the price of Ladies' and Children's Cloaks, by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street. At the prices now marked they will sell rapidly.

"The Nation in a Nutshell," a rapid outline of American history, by George Makepeace Towle; cloth, fifty cents; Lee & Shepard, publishers, Boston. Mr. Towle has compressed in this little book of 147 pages a concise history of our country, comprehensive and interesting. As a text book for grammar schools it seems to us it would prove invaluable, and we recommend it to the attention of our educators. The first chapter is devoted to "American Antiquities," discussing the mound builders and their wonderful relics. The second chapter is devoted to "The era of discovery," and treats of the old familiar question "Who discovered America?" Then follow on the colonization, the confederation, the various questions and agitations which have disturbed the nation, etc. The last five chapters are devoted to the material progress, the progress of literature, arts, science and invention, and the political changes of the country.

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

What Four Sparrows Can Do.

Two pairs of sparrows were watched by an observer to naturalist feeding their young in their nests in only one half hour with the larvæ of the bluebottle fly from a dead cat. They fetched these in all 104 times, and one of the birds also caught 14 flies on the wing. Now, the common house fly is computed to produce in one season, so prolific is the progeny after progeny, no less than 20,000,000, say, in round numbers, 21,000,000, and thus were prevented by these two pairs of birds no fewer than 280,000,000 by the capture of 14 flies and 2,800,000,000 by the destruction of the 104 larvæ. Again, there figured in the parish accounts of one parish in Gloucestershire a charge for 17 dozen of (so called) tomtits' heads; in another parish, Melbourne, in Derbyshire, a sparrow club destroyed in one year 4,577 small birds, and in yet another 3,500. Take the smaller of these two last numbers, and multiply it by the number of flies just calculated as prevented by the two pairs of sparrows, and it gives what we may very well call a grand total of 7,280,000,000,000.—London Times.

The Grinding of the Ice.

"The submarine forest off our port," said a man from Kenosha, Wis., "is being broken up by the grinding of the ice. This forest extends about a mile and a half into the lake. The grain and bark of the trees are entirely dissimilar from anything found in the forests of the present day, thus showing almost conclusively that the buried forest was swallowed up by the sea ages and ages ago. Fishermen no cast their nets near these leafless and petrified trees often bring up whole branches and twigs, and once in a great while a heavy sea washes a gnarled trunk ashore. There are scientific men who hold that the sunken forest proves that the earth has been paying tribute to the lake ever since the birth of time. The vast amount of ice in the lake this winter has had the effect of demolishing many of the trees, portions of which have been cast upon the anchor ice during the severe easterly gales."—Chicago Herald.

"How Shall my Child be Taught? Practical Pedagogy; or, The Science of Teaching Illustrated," by Louisa Parsons Hopkins. Lee & Shepard, publishers, Boston; 12mo, cloth, $1.50. We commend to the careful consideration of every mother in the land the store of suggestion which Mrs. Hopkins has laid up in this volume, and which is the accumulation of her great experience. To the school teacher also the work will be of much interest and value, the various topics discussed being viewed from the standpoint of the author's personal knowledge. The information which she has gathered is conveyed in fresh, clear style, and the book ought to be carefully studied by every one who has the care and education of children.

Wretched. Indeed,

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeful symptoms indicative of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestions. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and liver complaints, and hastens the convalescense of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

The New Hampshire friends of Major J. F. Randlett of the Tenth United States Cavalry have received intelligence that recently while en route to join his command in Wyoming he was seriously injured by a stage upsetting.

Druggists say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy for female complaints they ever heard of. It sells enormously.

An alarming cattle disease is reported to be prevailing in the neighborhood of Hooksett; the symptoms are loss of appetite, and a swelling under the lower jaw. A great many farmers in the vicinity are troubled by the complaint. It is pronounced by some to be barn itch.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

No one welcomes the adjournment of Congress more than Mrs. Cleveland, as she is completely tired out from her recent onerous social duties, and wants a few weeks of undisturbed rest.

R. S. B. Hatch, of Lebanon Springs, N. Y., is eighty-two years old. He says: I suffered from liver complaint for thirty years and could not obtain relief. I was persuaded to try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and it has cured me. I digest my food without difficulty and enjoy refreshing rest. Druggists: $1. Send two-cent stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., for his book on kidney, liver and blood disorders. Mention this paper.

Canadian papers say the attitude of the Dominion on the fisheries question is right, and that the United States will suffer as much as they by curtailed intercourse. Some attribute the retaliation bill to Mr. Blaine—which, as it was introduced by Mr. Edmunds, is decidedly rich.

Personal. Wonderful success. Hop Plasters for weak parts, severe aches, strains, backache.

In Consumption and Wasting Diseases,

Is not only very palatable, but the remedial power of these valuable specifics is greatly increased and as a remedy for consumption, scrofula, emaciation, or where there is loss of flesh and nerve power, it is remarkable in its results. Take no other.

A Knights of Labor parade in aid of the defunct horse-car strike took place in Cambridge, Mass., last Friday evening, but seems not to have been entirely equal to the anticipations of its originators.

An inquest has been held in New York in the matter of the death of Henry L. "I have thee on the hip," cried rheumatism seizing his victim and tossing him on a suffering bed. "Not so," he cried, "not so! Wait, my ancient foe, just five minutes, until the boy brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, then we'll see who wins the day."

In the Piscataquis, Me., supreme court last week Melvin H. Howe, sixteen years old, pleaded guilty to setting fire to the barn of John Dorr of Wellington, and was sentenced to five years in the state prison. Albert F. Sears was sentenced to three and a half years in the state prison for setting fire to the office of Dr. Hall, of Monson.

Great success attends the sale of James Pyle's New Washing Compound, Pearline. This is not surprising, as it has been demonstrated from actual experience that it is absolutely harmless to the most delicate fabric, while it is a great economizer of labor, time and soap.

Pursuing the Mighty Dollar.

The pursuit of the dollar is responsible for the wreck of countless lives. It makes young men old, and adds physical debility to the sorrows of old age. In the unceasing effort to obtain riches, the best objects of human existence are driven out of sight. Families are neglected, and the pleasures of home left untasted. In England, the prince merchant is content with what is gained by a few hours at the desk. The rest of his time is given to such enjoyments as his means may permit. He is enthusiastically devoted to his family, and in old age is as jolly as a sandboy; sleeps well, eats almost too well, and is comparatively free from pains and aches. It is a fact that thousands of our wealthiest merchants, in their prosperity, work as hard as they did when commencing life. Custom has grown into habit, and things without interest from the business point of view have no flavor. So long as good health remains, such slavery has its compensations; but, when the physical and mental condition will stand the strain do longer, the way to the end is gloomy and wretched, the pains and aches arising from persistent overwork embittering every moment to the last.—Herald of Health.

Interviewing a Woman.

Women who figure in public usually like to be interviewed. They are less cautious than men about expressing their convictions, but they are more particular about having their exact language printed. Unlike most men, the women want to see the reporter's note book when they talk for publication. "What is the use of my telling you all these things if you are not going to put them down!" Anna Dickinson once said to the writer. That energetic lady was not satisfied with the assurance that her interviewer's memory was as good as a note book, she wanted to have the interview—which was about her plans as an actress—written out then and there so that she might read it over and revise it. Of course she had her own way. She fixed up the interview to her own liking and the interviewer turned it in to the man with the blue pencil who sits at the city editor's desk. That critical person cut out about four-fifths of Anna's talk and quite naturally the next day she had something to say about the total depravity of newspaper reporters.—New York Times.

The Ruling Mood.

The law of correspondences between spiritual and material things is wonderfully exact in its working. People ruled by the mood of gloom attract to them gloomy things. People always discouraged and despondent do not succeed in anything, and live only by burdening some one else. The hopeful, confident, and cheerful attract the elements of success. A man's front or back yard will advertise the man's ruling mood, in the way it is kept. A woman at home shows her state of mind in her dress. A slattern advertises the ruling mood of hopelessness, carelessness, and lack of system. Rags, tatters and dirt are always in the mind before being on the body. The thought that is most put out brings its corresponding visible element to crystallize about you, as surely and literally as the visible bit of copper in solution attracts to it the invisible copper in that solution. A mind always hopeful, confident, and courageous, and determined on its set purpose, and keeping itself to that purpose, attracts to itself out of the elements things and powers favorable to that purpose.—Prentice Mulford.

Von Bulow's Lead Pencils.

Hans Von Bulow, on his first appointment to the leadership of the orchestra at a German court theatre, introduced himself to his musicians carrying a small parcel under his arm. This he proceeded to unfold with great solemnity, producing therefrom twenty-two pencils, which he distributed among the members of his orchestra, requesting them, in a lengthy speech, to make use of them for the purpose of inserting his remarks and alterations in their several parts. After Hans Von Bulow had resigned his post, his successor appeared at the desk, where he solemnly opened a little parcel, saying: "I have been told that my predecessor, H. Von Bulow, on his accession to office, handed each of you a pencil, asking you to insert sundry notes and alterations. I too, gentlemen, have brought you a small present, with the request that you will make use of it to efface the annotations of my highly esteemed predecessor." Whereupon the new conductor, with great ceremony, delivered to each of the musicians a piece of india-rubber.—Argonaut.

The Celebrated "Widow's Mite."

The most notable coin in the mint collection, and perhaps the most celebrated coin in the world, is the "Widow's Mite." It name simply tells its commercial significance, though visitors generally ask to see the "Widow's Mite" first, giving special Scriptural significance to it. It is an interesting and confirmatory fact that this piece was found among the rubbish of the Temple grounds by Dr. Barclay, long resident in Jerusalem, and author of "The City of the Great King." It was presented by him to the mint. It is of the kind of mites offered by the widow, but that it is one of the identical mites has never been established.—"Observer" in Philadelphia Call.

Green Chalk for Cues.

They are trying to introduce green chalk in some of the billiard rooms of Chicago. It is claimed that the chalk loses none of its adhesiveness by reason of its artificial color, and that it possesses the merit of preserving the color of cloth. Chalk, as it is used at present, soon fades the heaviest emerald cloth, and makes the tables appear unsightly and worn.—New York Sun.

SADLY MISTAKEN WOMEN.

The Great Cause of Female Unhappiness and Loss of Attractiveness Explained.

(Mother's Magazine.)

The question is often asked, why are the women of to-day so delicate, so feeble? Why do they fade so quickly, lose their color, and become prematurely old? Why do they suffer such pains and endure so much silent agony? There are, doubtless, many reasons, but they are all combined in the single word—Weakness. When we stop to calmly think of the amount of misery that is endured by the women of America at this very moment it is simply appalling. This is no idle assertion—it is the terrible truth. We will cite a case in point:

MRS. NICHOLAS

Mrs. Alexander L. Nicholas, residing at Phenix, R. I., is a lineal descendant of the gallant General Nathaniel Greene. Blessed with a good constitution, she hardly knew what sickness or pain were until a few years ago. Her duties called her up and down stairs (that bane of womankind) very frequently, and she began to notice that her breath was growing shorter. This was followed by pains in the back, tired feeling, a sense of bearing down and frequent faintness. But Mrs. Nicholas had the plucky blood of her ancestor in her veins and would not give up. There came a day, however, when she was forced to do so. We give the rest in her own words. In conversing with the writer she said:

"I cannot describe how sick I was. I had sharp pains shooting through my chest; it was almost impossible to draw a single breath, and my limbs were swollen almost to bursting. I consulted three doctors, two of whom admitted that they could not cure me, while the third pronounced my case dropsy. My limbs continued to swell; the water filled my lungs, and I never for a moment thought of ever recovering. For eight months I was unable to lie down, and could only sleep in my chair. When I was in this hopeless condition, my son, Lafayette G. Nicholas, of Providence, came to see me. Several years before he had been sick, but under the direction of Dr. Geo. D. Wilcox, of Providence, he had recovered. He insisted that I should employ the same means he had used so successfully, and as a last resort I consented to do so. In a short time I began to grow better; the swelling decreased, and finally disappeared; I regained my breath, then my health, then my strength, and I owe my life to-day to that grand medicine Hunt's Remedy, which alone was able to save me. This was the medicine which, administered by Dr. Wilcox, restored my son and rescued me from the grave. I know it is pure, simple and good, and I believe it is the only remedy that will certainly regulate and cure the many troubles of women and restore them to health, beauty and attractiveness.

RESTORED.

"I have thought a great deal about the health of women since I regained my health, and I wish I had the power to induce those who are suffering, as so many are to-day, to use the means I so successfully employed. If women were well and strong it would be a grand thing for the nation, and save untold suffering which is now being endured so patiently. The trouble is, many women do not know what ails them. They take cold and have unpleasant symptoms but think that they will soon pass away, but they do not. These are followed by more serious troubles, annoying, weakening and life-destroying, but still they take no steps to check them. How can women be so blind! Do they not know that such things are the beginning of the end unless taken in time?"

FEMALE MISERY

The experience of Mrs. Nicholas, who is now in her eighty-fifth year, should be a warning to all who read her earnest words not to delay, but to use the best of all known means for preserving or restoring health before it is too late.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Try this peculiar medicine.

OBITUARY.

Lewis Pike, an eccentric individual of Newburyport, and since March, 1882, known to the police of that city as a "fence," or receiver of stolen goods, died in the midst of filth and squalor on Saturday last, after an illness of several weeks, during which he obstinately refused to allow a physician to be called. On Saturday, when it became evident he could not outlive the day, a clergyman called to see him, but Pike refused point blank to have a prayer offered, and also said he wished no ceremony of any kind over his remains after death. When told that he must shortly die he said it was just as well, as he had nothing to live for anyway. After his death, which occurred about three o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. Nathan A. Moulton, a highly respected citizen of Newburyport and master of the Kelley school, who had for several days been looking after Pike as well as the latter would allow, found in a box within reach of the miser's hand as he lay on his cot bed a box containing about $1,500 in silver coins of all sizes, and bank books showing that he had deposited in various banks, in different names, more than $10,000. In the room which he had occupied for years, was a large amount of clothing and an almost innumerable variety of articles, supposed to have been purchased of thieves. Pike's father was a native of Hampton Falls, and his mother of Kensington, N. H.; the father was a brother of Rev. D. P. Pike of Newburyport, and a well known master builder half a century ago; and it was while he was building a church in South Boston in 1851 that Lewis was born in that city. The latter learned the trade of a mason, and worked at it until about fifteen years ago. He was never married. His property is expected to foot up at least $15,000.

As Mr. Nathan A. Moulton of Newburyport was on Saturday evening about eight o'clock engaged in arranging with an undertaker for the burial of Lewis Pike, who had that afternoon died, he suddenly gasped for breath, and died almost instantly, from heart disease. Mr. Moulton was born in Hampton Falls, Dec. 31st, 1823; was educated in the district schools, and at Phillips academy at Exeter; and subsequently taught school in Raymond and other places in this state, in Maryland and in Massachusetts. In 1856 he opened a bookstore in Newburyport, and continued in that business until 1862, when he was appointed postmaster of that city by President Lincoln, and held the office five years. In 1867 he became interested in the carpet business in Newburyport; and in 1873, on the establishing of the Kelley school, he was appointed principal, and held that position until his death. He was a member of St. Mark's lodge of Masons, of King Cyrus chapter, (of which he was twenty years treasurer), and Newburyport commandery; of Quascacunquen lodge and Merrimac encampment of Odd Fellows; and of several benefit associations in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. George D. Morey of Newburyport; two brothers, and one sister, Mrs. Joseph Graves of Hampton, N. H.

SOMEWHAT SUSPICIOUS.

John W. Marshall, employed in Wallace's shoe factory at Rochester, has for two years not lived with his wife, Annie L. Marshall, but recently insured his life for $2000 in favor of Bertha, Mrs. Marshall's seven-years-old daughter by a former husband. One day last week he received a basket of food from his wife while at work, for his supper, and partaking of a meat pie was made violently ill. Examination showed that there was enough strychnine in the meat pie to kill forty men, and the wife has disappeared.

It is said Mrs. Marshall was a Portsmouth woman, her maiden name having been Stover, and that her first husband was accidentally killed some years ago.

AS MIGHT HAVE BEEN EXPECTED.

A number of persons in this city have within a few months past sent to the British-American Claim agency in New York fees to pay for information desired, or money to pay for the agency's book containing the names of families entitled to immense fortunes in England, the agency having advertised widely and judiciously by means of reputable magazines, daily papers and circulars. The persons who have contributed to the treasury of the agency will read the following despatch of the 5th inst. from New York, with especial interest:

George F. Parker, president and general manager of the British-American Claim agency, Edwin S. Witherell, secretary and treasurer, and George W. Gibbons, counsellor, have been arrested on charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The persons have been for several months carrying on extensive business by claiming to investigate cases where money has been left to next of kin in Europe. The firm employed between twenty and thirty clerks, and it is alleged that their receipts often amounted to $800 per day. The police say it was one of the most colossal swindles ever started in the country, thousands of persons having been victimized. Parker, who is said to be a convict, resides in Elizabeth, N. J. The two other persons live in this city. The information which led to the arrests was furnished by the authorities of Scotland Yard, London.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, March 7th.

The liquor sellers were well patronized on Saturday, many individuals evidently thinking it would be well to have a good quantity on hand for the town meeting day.

One of, our prominent citizens was recently excluded from his home by his wife's brother, jealousy being the cause; at one time it was thought expedient to call on the constable.

People living at the west end of the town very much enjoy the illumination from the electric lights at Portsmouth and Amesbury.

The manufacturing company have bought the land for their factory, situated on the new road near the steam mill; parties are contesting against having such a building erected there.

The largest log seen here for several years was sawed at the mill of H. L. Drake, Esq.; it measured over 900 feet, and was sawed into two-inch planks sixteen feet long. Also several white oak logs twelve feet long, that measured from 350 to 425 feet each, have recently been sawed at that mill.

The new supervisors are Jacob T. Brown, Walter Drake, and Horace Hobbs.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

It is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease has its seat in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & Co., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled. 2

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS.

Comparative Statement of Amounts, What Our Navy Yard Will Get--if Lucky--Etc.

Mr. Editor: Knowing that nearly everybody in and around Portsmouth is interested directly or indirectly, in the Naval Appropriation bill, I telegraphed to Washington immediately after the adjournment of Congress on Friday, for a copy of the bill as it was finally passed. An official copy will not be procurable for several days to come, but through the courtesy of my friend and former associate Mr. Theodore F. King, chief enrolling clerk of the House of Representatives, I have a "working copy" that is precisely like the bill as it became a law. In some respects it is crudely drawn, and not easy to compare with last year's bill, but for all practical purposes the following figures, in round numbers, will be found correct.

TABLE FOR COMPARISON, SHOWING TOTAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR DIFFERENT OBJECTS DURING THE CURRENT AND NEXT FISCAL YEARS.

Object.	Year ending June 30, '87	Year ending June 30, '88
Pay of the Navy	$7,335,780	$7,212,000
Bu. Navigation	102,500	97,000

The extraordinary increase in the Bureau of Yards & Docks includes two new timber dry-docks to cost not over $1,100,000 to be located at the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy, and $450,000 "for repairs and preservation at Navy-yards." With proper "influence" at the Navy Dept. Portsmouth ought to be able to secure a good slice of the latter amount.

Under the Bureau of Construction and Repair two hundred thousand dollars is appropriated, and made immediately available, for the repairs of eight wooden ships, two of which, the "Swatara" and "Kearsarge," are now at this yard. This timely appropriation will enable the Bureau to continue the work on the "Swatara" now in the dry dock, and also to commence work on the "Kearsarge" as soon as deemed advisable.

The only changes made in the clerical salaries at this station are to reduce the ordnance clerk from $1,000 to $500, and to cut down the equipment clerk $100—which makes the country safe for one year at least.

$20,000 is appropriated to carry into effect the plan of the secretary of the navy to consolidate the naval stores under the bureau of provisions and clothing, to be immediately available.

The sections relating to the increase of the navy provide for the construction of

Two steel gunboats, 1,700 tons displacement, costing, exclusive of armament, $550,000 each.

Two steel cruisers, aggregate cost, exclusive of armament, and premiums for extra speed, $3,000,000.

Floating batteries, rams and other naval structures for coast and harbor defense, $1,000,000. Final cost not to exceed $2,000,000.

There is also $2,420,000 appropriated toward the construction and completion of the five double-turreted monitors, the four vessels authorized by the act of March 3d, 1885, and the new ships authorized by the act of Aug. 3d, 1886.

Toward the manufacture of the armament of these vessels the bill appropriates $2,128,362.

Toward procuring, testing and delivering the armor and gun steel, which must be of domestic manufacture, $4,000,000.

The limit of cost of cruiser No. 1, the "Newark," is increased to $1,300,000, exclusive of armament.

This is, in substance, the Naval appropriation bill of more that thirty pages "boiled down" for local use.

Of the total amount appropriated the Portsmouth yard ought to get in the way of labor nearly or quite $50,000 each on the "Swatara" and "Kearsarge," besides a handsome sum out of the $450,000 for repairs and preservation at yards, and in addition whatever the storekeepers are smart enough to get for furnishing material on "open purchase" competition.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, March 7th.

Benjamin Riley and Alvin Whitney, two drunks, were each assessed $9.90, fine and costs. Riley will work out his share at Brentwood, but Whitney paid up and departed.

FRANKLIN THEATRE.

"Lost at Sea," one of the most sensational and entertaining dramas of the day, will be presented at Franklin theatre this evening. Prices of admission only 10, 20 and 30 cents.

THE LAST SURVIVOR.

Moses Miller, whose death at Malden, Mass., was recorded in our columns last week, served for six months as drummer in Capt. Robert Neal's company of artillery, stationed at Fort McClary in 1812; he was drafted in Jefferson hall. After the declaration of peace Mr. Miller left Portsmouth. In 1859 he was granted a warrant for 160 acres of land for his service in the war of 1812. We think Mr. Miller was the last survivor of the men who composed that company, which included among its members John Goodrich, Chas. Reading, Joseph Green, Elisha Plaisted, Sam'l Foss of Rye, John T. Dame (baker,) John Field, Rich'd R. Locke of Rye, Daniel Lowd, late of Daniel street, Samuel Shewall, Daniel Smith, Wm. Spinney, and William Pearse, as his name was given on the roll, who was Wm. M. Peirce, the well known pilot on our river.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."

The Madison Square Theatre Co., under the management of A. M. Palmer, which has just closed a highly successful engagement at the Park theatre, Boston, will appear at Music hall next Saturday evening, in "The Private Secretary."

The assessors of taxes have appointed Messrs. Leonard Mansou, Frank P. Rundlett, James Douglass and William P. Bennett to distribute the inventory blanks for the present year, and they expect that every citizen, and citizeness, receiving one will return it with a correct account of all their taxable property, including dogs, promptly to the city clerk, that "ye annual tax" may be assessed.

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted the "Pavements of Paris" company at the Franklin theatre last evening.

One of the fine pair of horses attached to the elegant sleigh of Mr. H. Fisher Eldredge, while backing in front of John Laighton's grocery store on Market square, Saturday, cast a shoe which circled through the air, passing between two gentlemen on the sidewalk and narrowly missing the glass in the High street window of Mr. Laighton's store. The shoe was of stately proportions, and had it in its career happened to have struck the passers-by or the window, it might have caused no little damage.

A first-class drama, a first-class company, and first-class scenery, to-night at Franklin theatre, for 10 cents admission.

It is rumored that Capt. James O'Kane is to be ordered as captain of the navy yard, vice Capt. R. F. Bradford, ordered from captain to be commandant.

In the Maine legislature last week the railroad committee reported favorably the bill providing for the consolidation of the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth, the Portland & Rochester, the Portland, Great Falls & Conway, the Old Orchard Beach and the Kennebunkport Branch railroads with the Boston & Maine, and it was thought the bill would go through with little opposition.

The democrats of Rye held their caucus at the town hall, Saturday evening, and nominated the following candidates for town officers, to be voted for on Tuesday, the 8th: Moderator, David Jenness; town clerk, John O. Drake; selectmen, Emery Woodman, Albert C. Locke, Albert H. Drake, (the present board); assessors, Jos. W. Garland, R. P. Goss, Charles A. Walker, Joseph J. Goss; auditors, Emery C. Jenness, Moses Clark; treasurer, Charles J. Brown; pound keeper, Charles H. Lear; fence viewer, Herman O. Trefethen. A democratic nomination in Rye is equivalent to election.

John L. Hayes, Esq., of Cambridge, Mass., secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, is reported to be seriously ill. Mr. Hayes is a native of Berwick, Me., formerly lived many years in this city, and married a Portsmouth lady.

Ralph C. Stephenson of Kittery, who was a member of Co. K, 35th Reg't Massachusetts Volunteers, has been granted a pension.

"Come back, dear days," sings Louise Chandler Moulton in the March Atlantic. It is astonishing how unreasonable some women can be. Here is Mrs. Moulton, with fame from her stories and songs, a woman of fine and pleasing physique and agreeable manners, a favorite everywhere, and yet sighing for days spent perhaps before she was famous, or for ought the world knew, attractive. The last line of her poem contains a hyperbole, utterly unjustifiable.

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." E. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

Stability of the Jetties.

If a single fact more than such as were known was wanted to confirm the confidence now felt in the jetties, the late storm in the gulf has supplied it. It has often been asked how the jetties would stand one of the overwhelming tempests that sweep over the gulf at intervals of years. Such a tempest we have recently had, and the jetties came out of the conflict with which the hurricane forces assailed them stanch and victorious. The storm went beyond any to which the jetties had been composed, beyond even the noted hurricane of 1883.

Not only did the jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi withstand the might of the storm, but those at the Sabine, not half finished, did the same. They are built on the same system as the Eads jetties, and the might that held out at the storm was the same fragile looking willow mattresses that are used there. Maj. Heuer, who has supervision of the work, has carefully examined what effect it has had upon the unfinished work. The New Orleans Picayune reports that Maj. Heuer "found the Sabine jetties entirely uninjured, and no material change in the depth of the channel between them. They had withstood the fury of a storm that had swept away every human structure upon the adjacent land."—Memphis Appeal.

Presidents Who Were College Graduates.

This is the list of presidents who have been college graduates: Adams (John), Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams (J. Q.), Harrison, Polk, Pierce, Buchanan, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur—twelve in all. The other list, not counting President Cleveland, contained these names: Washington, Jackson, Van Buren, Tyler, Taylor, Fillmore, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant—ten in all. The presidential office before 1885 had been administered by graduates fifty-two years, by non-graduates, forty-four years; and, strange to say, thirty-three of the fifty-two college years fell before 1837, and only twenty in the equal period since 1837.—Detroit Free Press.

late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1880.

R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1880, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, it your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Elections in Maine.

On the 7th inst., in Portland, Chapman, republican, received 3,793 votes, to 2,550 for McCarthy, democrat, and 295 for all others. The councils stand the same as last year, five to two in the aldermen, and fifteen to six in the council, in favor of the republicans.

In Bath the republicans re-elected the mayor, and secured a majority in the councils.

In Rockland the republicans re-elected Benjamin Williams mayor by 322 majority, and also elected twenty-six of twenty-eight members of the city councils; last year the democrats had twenty-six of the twenty-eight members.

In Ellsworth the democrats re-elected H. B. Mason mayor by about eighty-five majority; the republicans carried three of the five wards, a large republican gain.

In Lewiston the democrats re-elected D. J. McGill mayor by thirty majority, the republicans carrying both branches of the city council.

The republicans elected A. M. Penley mayor of Auburn, and a majority of both branches of the council.

In Saco six of the seven wards went republican, and Willis T. Emmons was elected mayor.

Wretched, Indeed,

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeful symptoms indicative of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetler's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and liver complaints, and hastens the convalescence of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

—Rev. James Freeman Clarke once received a note from a friend who was an earnest member of the Anglican church, dated "St. Stephen's Day." Mr. Clarke dated his note in reply, "Washing Day," confessing, however, that he knew about as little of one of the days as of the other.

"I have thee on the hip," cried rheumatism seizing his victim and tossing him on a suffering bed. "Not so," he cried, "not so! Wait, my ancient foe, just five minutes, until the boy brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, then we'll see who wins the day."

There will be no change in immigrant rates on the railroads under the interstate commerce law.

THE FAIRY'S GIFT.

The Fays that to my christening came
(For come they did, my nurses taught me),
They did not bring me wealth or fame,
'Tis very little that they brought me.
But one, the crossest of the crew,
The ugly old one, unbaited,
Said, "I shall be avenged on you,
My child, you shall grow up short sighted!"
With magic juices did she have
Mine eyes, and wrought her wicked pleasure.
Well, of all the gifts the fairies gave,
Here is the present that I treasure!

The bore whom others fear and flee
I do not fear, I do not flee him;
I pass him calm as calm can be;
I do not—I do not see him!
And with my feeble eyes and dim,
Where you see patchy fields and fences,
For me the mists of Turner swim—
My "future distance" soon commences!
Nay, as I blink about the streets
Of this befogged and miry city,
Why, almost every girl one meets
Seems preternaturally pretty!
"Try spectacles," one's friends intone;
"You'll see the world correctly through them."
But I have visions of my own,
And not for worlds would I undo them!

A BOOK CANVASSER'S METHODS.

His Meekness, Humility and Imperturbability—Securing an Order.

"Well," said the canvasser, putting his portfolio on an adjacent desk, while he presented his autograph album to the reporter, and produced pen and ink from a secret recess in his vest—"Well, I must first thank you for your kindness, and now let me tell you that gall is not such a pre-eminent ingredient in a book canvasser's make up as you and a great many other persons seem to imagine. Our first lessons are taken from the Bible, which teaches meekness and humility. A real book canvasser never loses his temper; he never gets angry; he never argues; but he gradually leads the conversation into pleasant channels, and makes life as agreeable and enjoyable to all around him as he possibly can. The only resistance a true canvasser will make to anybody is when his calling is impeached. He is early taught to stand up for the honor of his calling, in spite of all that may be told him of the misdeeds of others who have disgraced it. There are black sheep in every flock, and all men should not be held responsible for the sins of a few.

"The best way, though, to illustrate our teachings is to tell you how we work—and all we do comes out of our course of study, as you call it—or our book of instructions, as we call it. We depend on ourselves to the largest possible extent. Sometimes we have a helper, that is, a gentleman or lady of a certain neighborhood who, in consideration of a free copy of the book, introduces us to certain people, but the great trouble about helpers is that they insist on talking and recommending your work after introducing you, thereby displaying their interest and injuring your prospects. It is harder to keep 'helpers' quiet than to get along without them, so I choose not to have them. The power of influence we, of course, fully recognize—but it is the influence or example by leaders either in society or business. For this reason we are always glad to have good names to show—some names in the building, in the block or in the immediate neighborhood. On approaching a gentleman whose subscription we desire to secure we have several things to consider, and I shall mention them in their order. We generally ascertain the gentleman's name and we make it a point never to forget a name once acquired. It is pleasanter and more effective to call a man by his name when you meet him the first time, because it makes him feel that his importance is appreciated and that his fame is not confined to his family and immediate friends. After meeting him, we look him squarely in the eye, and, without staring him, hold him as the ancient mariner held his friend with his glittering orb. There is great power in the human eye, and, besides, it shows that you are not doing anything you are ashamed of. If the person is engaged or 'too busy,' we try to make an appointment for some other time. If we are canvassing in families and there are children present, we notice them and say nice things about their looks, or comment on their resemblance to the head of the house.

"The next thing after securing attention is to create a desire on the part of the person to see what you've got, for desire must precede demand. That is another of our axioms. We never show our books until we have created the necessary desire. You may have observed that I tried to keep my portfolio hidden by the flap of my overcoat. When we do show our book we do not let it go out of our hands, but beginning at the cover, we explain all its good points, putting our descriptions into the best words we can master. We keep cool, do not hurry; are concise and direct in our language, and try never to weary or worry our customer. Then we secure the order. As soon as the customer shows signs of yielding, we have pen and ink ready—we always carry ink—and obtain his signature while his mood is favorable. After getting the signature we keep away from the subscriber until we are ready to deliver the book, and the delivery is made at a time when we know the subscriber has money—when he gets his salary if a working man, and after crop time he lives in the country.

"Objections? Oh, gracious yes, we hear plenty of objections. We are taught to expect them, and we train ourselves to meet and answer them. In doing this we aim to be pleasant and happy, without being offensively smart, and we avoid, as far as possible, direct answers or labored arguments. Agents who are afraid to depend on their own facilities in such emergencies have a manual from which they may study and memorize answers to the ordinary objections which are offered. I have such a manual—one published here, in which you will find objections with ready made answers."—Globe-Democrat.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that they have permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in six years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and heal of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Death of Henry Ward Beecher.

On Sunday, the 6th inst., thousands of people all over the union were startled by the information that Henry Ward Beecher, who for fifty years as pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, had been a power in religious and social circles, had been stricken with apoplexy, and was liable to die at any moment; and that even should he recover a measure of bodily health, his mind would be hopelessly gone.

Mr. Beecher preached with his accustomed vigor and power in Plymouth church on Sunday, Feb. 27th, and the next day worked all day on his "Life of Christ." Tuesday, March 1st, he went to Peekskill, where he had a country house, returning from there Wednesday morning. After reaching home Wednesday he complained to Mrs. Beecher of headache, but said he thought it would pass off very soon; that it was only the fatigue of travelling caused it. Thursday morning, when he arose, his headache had disappeared, and he felt so bright that he consented to accompany Mrs Beecher to New York on a shopping tour, the main object of which was to select and buy furniture for the church. During Thursday he was entirely well, and ate a hearty supper, retiring at ten o'clock. During the night he was very restless, and tossed from one side of the bed to the other. This continued all night.

Between two and three o'clock Friday morning, the 4th, Mr. Beecher awoke; he complained of being sick, and his wife arose to get something for him to drink. He began to vomit freely, and then laid back upon his pillow apparently exhausted. In a short time he fell asleep. Mrs. Beecher concluded that he would feel better in a few hours. The first breakfast bell rang, but did not awaken him. The second bell also passed unheeded. Mrs. Beecher had been up for some time, and did not wish to disturb him. In the afternoon, becoming alarmed, she made an attempt to arouse him, but could not do so; soon afterward he tried to speak, but his voice was thick and articulation indistinct. Dr. W. S. Searle, the family physician, was called in. He pronounced Mr. Beecher to be quite sick, but did not apprehend immediate danger. During the day Mr. Beecher seemed to improve, and hopes were entertained that he would rally. Medicine was given regularly, and every change was noted. Saturday morning he appeared to be worse, and it was decided to call Dr. W. A. Hammond, of New York, in consultation with Dr. Searle. Before noon Mr. Beecher lapsed into unconsciousness, and was in that condition when Dr. Hammond reached the house, who pronounced him to be in a critical condition.

The patient's symptoms were those of paralysis of the left side, increasing until that side became helpless. The paralysis finally reached his throat and face. Being on the left side is indicated a clot of blood pressing upon the right side of the brain. Dr. Hammond said that taking the rare cases into consideration, he stood a bare chance of recovery providing the clot was absorbed, but if he did his mind was forever gone.

Saturday night the almost hopeless condition of the great preacher was flashed over the wires in all directions, and on Sunday prayers were offered in many churches on his behalf and for his congregation. In Plymouth church the only services consisted of the reading of scripture, prayer, singing of several of Mr Beecher's favorite hymns, and the administration of the Lord's supper by assistant pastors Powell and Halliday.

On Monday Mr. Beecher remained in a comatose state, and Monday evening the attending physicians pronounced the case absolutely hopeless, although it was possible the patient might linger another day or even more before the final moment arrived; but on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock he ceased to breathe, and one of the prominent figures of the nineteenth century passed into history.

Henry Ward Beecher was born in Litchfield, Mass., June 24th, 1813, and consequently was nearly seventy-four years old at the time of his death. He was educated in the public schools at first, later at Mount Pleasant academy at Amherst, and then at Amherst college. After graduating at Amherst he studied theology in Lane seminary at Cincinnati, and after graduating from that institution commenced his life work as a preacher at Lawrenceburg, Ohio, where there were numerous immense distilleries, but only a handful of persons in the church. Speaking of this church Mr. Beecher about a year ago said:

How poor we were! There were only about twenty persons in the flock. I was janitor as well as pastor of the little whitewashed church. I bought some lamps, and I filled them and lighted them. I swept the church and dusted the benches and kindled the fire, and I didn't ring the bell only because there wasn't any. It doesn't occur to me now that Lawrenceburg was remarkable for anything but a superabundance of distilleries. I used to marvel how so many large distilleries could be put in so small a town. But there they were, flourishing right in the very face of the gospel that my little flock and I were preaching in the shadows of the chimneys. My thoughts often travel back to my quaint little church and the big distilleries at Lawrenceburg.

From there he moved to Indianapolis, where he had a larger congregation and remained eight years; but his wife's health gave way, and they were forced to come east.

Sept. 10th, 1847, he entered upon the duties of pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, at a salary of $1,500 the first year, and remained with that church to the end of his life.

Ever daringly outspoken on all questions of politics or religion, he often combatted popular opinion, apparently regardless of consequences to himself. He was one of the earlier and most persistent abolitionists, and a power in support of the union during the war. In politics, after the war, he sometimes supported one party, sometimes the other, Johnson, Grant, Garfield and Cleveland having all been favored by him in turn. He was a voluminous writer and able editor, and as eminent on the lecture platform as in the pulpit; and in spite of what seems like fickleness in many things he has exerted a wide and powerful influence. He was one of the most remarkable men of his day.

Mrs. Beecher's maiden name was Eunice White Bullard; she was born at West Sutton, Mass., in 1812, and was married to Mr. Beecher in 1837. Ten children were born to them, of whom four survive, with the mother.

Extraordinary Disaster.

In New York, early in the morning of the 8th inst., a fire stopped a number of trains on an elevated railroad, and a number of men started to walk to a station on a narrow plank walk beside the tracks, when the trains started, and ten of the men fell to the street below, twenty feet, three being instantly killed, and seven others dangerously hurt, several of them fatally.

"A Millionaire of Rough-and-Ready, and Devil's Ford," by Bret Harte. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. For sale by Mr. Goodrich, price $1.00. A new story by Bret Harte, or rather two new stories, for there are two in one in this volume, will be hailed with delight by the thousands of admirers of this pleasing writer. The quaint humor and quiet pathos which is his great charm are found in "A Millionaire of Rough-and-Ready," which is founded on the fruitful subject of gold seeking in California. It also has a subtile plot which is well worked out. The scene of the second part, "Devil's Ford," is also laid among the mining regions and the characters have all the rude dash and abandon which such a life induces. It is a very interesting and enjoyable book, and well sustains the reputation of the popular author.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

It is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant, has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease has its seat in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & Co., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

FRANKLIN THEATRE.

"Lost at Sea" was presented at the Franklin theatre Tuesday evening to an appreciative audience. This drama is of the Enoch Arden variety, the hero who was supposed to have been drowed in the deep, deep ocean, unexpectedly putting in appearance just as his loving spouse is about to wed another man. Quite an excitement prevails, of course, the drowned man is mad, the other fellow disappointed, the wife somewhat bewildered, and a general row all round. The characters were well sustained by the members of the company, the situations eleciting much applause.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, March 8th.

Henry Tighe, for drunkenness, was fined $5, with $6.90 costs, and sent to jail to board it out. Tighe only left the jail on Monday, having completed a sentence for drunkenness, and when he left, Sheriff Kent strongly advised him to get out of town, offering to pay his fare to Boston if he would go; but Tighe wanted to came down town to see one or two friends before emigrating scheme, and that has had to be given up for the present.

A young fellow whose name we are requested to leave out on account of his friends, was ordered to Brentwood to work out a $9.90 assessment for drunkenness.

Seven boys attending the Hanover street school were before the court on a charge of throwing snowballs at a Chinaman; they were reprimanded and warned, and sent back to school in charge of an officer.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Annie S. Marshall of Rochester was arrested on Monday, the 7th inst., on a charge of attempting to poison her husband, John W. Marshall, by giving him a piece of pie sprinkled with strychnine. Louis Johnson was arrested at the same time, and held as an accomplice. The woman's reputation when she lived in this city is said to have been none of the best, she having at one time been an inmate of the old Wilson house, so-called, which projected into the extension of Vaughan street for a year or more after the street was otherwise finished, and gave rise to much annoyance to the city government, and innumerable newspaper squibs, before the city authorities managed to get Mrs. Wilson and her flock out of it, so they could tear the rickety old rattletrap down. She married a marine named Walker, and with him weat to Rochester, where he went to work in Wallace's shoe factory, and where during the Garfield-Hancock campaign he was killed by the premature discharge of a cannon while assisting to fire a salute, leaving his wife with one child, a daughter now about seven years old, in whose favor Marshall's life insurance policy was drawn.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ann T. Davidson of Newcastle, whose death on the 7th inst. is announced in another part of this paper, was the widow of Capt. James Davidson, well known as a recruiting officer during the rebellion, and who for some years after the war and up to the time of his death was ordnance sergeant in charge of Fort Constitution. Mrs. Davidson was a very estimable woman, and much beloved.

Miss Mary M. Loring, only daughter of Engineer-in-Chief Loring of the navy, whose recent death at Washington has been announced, was for several years a resident pupil at Miss Morgan's young ladies' school in this city, and was very popular with her young companions and others with whom she was acquainted.

RYE TOWN MEETING.

At the annual town meeting in Rye, held Tuesday, March 8th, officers were chosen as follows:

Moderator, David Jenness;

Town clerk, John O. Drake;

Selectmen, Emery Woodman, Albert C. Locke, Albert H. Drake;

Treasurer, Charles J. Brown;

Assessors, Jos. W. Garland, R. P. Goss, Charles A. Walker, Joseph J. Goss;

Auditors, Emery C. Jenness, Moses Clark;

Collector, John O. Foss;

Fish and game warden, Charles E. Sleeper;

Pound keeper, Charles H. Lear;

Fence viewer, Herman O. Trefethen.

Voted to raise $6,500 by taxation, including $2,000 for highways, and $1,800 for schools.

Voted to authorize the selectmen to provide extra police for the south part of the town during the summer season.

Voted to indefinitely postpone the article asking for an enlargement of the town hall.

The town debt is reduced to one note of $500, and there is cash on hand to the amount of $242.06.

The town received from the savings bank tax $2,429.44.

All the officers were elected unanimously, and the business was transacted in about two hours.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., March 7th.

The musical and literary entertainment at the S. S. S. hall on Thursday evening, March 3d, did not prove a financial success, so we learn. The talent was of excellent order, and it is surprising that with the beautiful evening and the most splendid sleighing there was so small an audience.

E. E. E. Mitchell has just closed a very successful term of seventeen weeks school in district No. 13, (Cider Hill;) Mr. Mitchell taught the same school last year. J. Purcell Plaisted was the only scholar who did not miss a session during the term, nor was he tardy. Several other pupils only missed a half-day or whole day; I will give their names next week, —have not got them yet.

The auditor's report is in the hands of the printer, and by vote of the town last year they will be mailed to every voter—the only proper way to distribute them.

The mother of Mr. Wm. A. Plaisted was eighty-two years old on Feb. 25th. John Plaisted, the father of Wm. A. Plaisted, died eight years ago, — Feb. 28th, 1879.

J. P. Norton's teams put about one hundred thousand feet of lumber to his mill last week.

The letting of the construction of the western sections of the York Harbor & Beach railroad, bids for which were advertised to be opened on Saturday last, has been postponed for twenty days. P.

LIFE INSURANCE AS AN INVESTMENT.

Among the early policy holders in the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York was the late William Clark of Amherst, uncle of Dr. John H. Clark of the navy, and brother of Rev. Samuel W. Clark, for many years pastor of the Congregational church in Greenland. Mr. Clark, who was noted for his cautious and careful ideas concerning finance, early became a member of the Mutual Life. His policy was numbered 240, and the amount insured was $2000, probably considered quite a large sum of money in the days in which he made the first payments. The total amount paid to his executors was $6,407.00, and of this there was paid over and above the amount of premiums paid $3124.60; that is, the amount of premiums paid was $3282.40, which was repaid to the estate with $3124.60 in addition. The assured had constantly had his dividends carried to the amount of his insurance instead of using them in payment of premiums, a mode which is in vogue with every shrewd member of the Mutual Life Insurance company.

The Maine Central railroad has just received four fine new baggage cars to run on their express trains. They were built by the Wason Manufacturing company of Springfield, Mass., and are fine looking structures.

A special dispatch to the Chronicle, announcing the death of Henry Ward Beecher at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, was received at this office at about ten o'clock. This was displayed upon our bulletin board and the public was thus notified of the sad event. The morning Boston papers did not contain the intelligence, as it did not occur until after they had gone to press. The evening Boston papers corroborated our dispatch.

As the Portland express went the Boston & Maine railroad was passing Wakefield, Mass., on the afternoon of the 7th inst., it struck two men named John Muse and John Shaw, killing them instantly. They were walking on the track. They lived in Reading, Mass., and leave large families.

Patrick McMullen of Payne street, Dover, is a sportsman of no ordinary caliber, he having on the afternoon of the 6th inst. shot and killed a fox with a snow shovel. He was shovelling snow in his yard when Reynard, who was being hard pressed by two dogs, jumped over the fence, and was instantly despatches by a blow from the edge of the shovel.

It is reported that the suit of the United States against the clothing dealer of this city in whose possession was found a lot of clothing and accoutrements stolen from the marine barracks at the navy yard by Sergeant Bolden, has been compromised by the payment of $1,100. If this report is correct, the "gilt" is pretty effectually removed from the profits of dealing in the stolen goods.

This evening the thrilling border-drama, "Jesse James, the Bandit King," will be produced at Franklin theatre by the "Pavements of Paris" Co.

Miss Abbie McIntire of Exeter, state treasurer of the W. C. T. U., will have charge of the Gospel Temperance Prayer meeting this evening at the south ward room. We would especially invite to these meetings those who are addicted to the intoxicating cup. Miss McIntire will also be at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. this afternoon.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner Mabel Kenniston has been awarded $2,000 for towing the abandoned British schooner Blizzard into Gloucester harbor.

The fishing schooner Peregrine White, at Gloucester from Grand banks, reports that on Feb. 28th Emil Nelson and Frank Smith were drowned by the capsizing of their dory while attending trawls. Both were Swedes. Smith leaves a wife and one child in Gloucester.

The democrats who had hoped for the benefits of a little patronage growing out of the river and harbor bill are at a loss whom to anathematize, their leader in the house of representatives who held back the bill to so late a period of the session, or the president who did not have time to properly examine it. Verily, the evidence that the democrats are entirely unfit to properly govern the country is daily more apparent.

—"I know what the nights of labor are," said the mother of six boys as she sat down to repair the pile of trousers and jackets.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PEER, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

REMEMBER That the presence of Generals Beauregard and Early, who are in charge of the drawings, is a guarantee of absolute fairness and integrity, that the chances are all equal, and that no one can possibly divine what numbers will draw a Prize, and that parties therefore advertising to guarantee Prizes in this Lottery, or holding out any other impossible inducements, are swindlers, and only aim to deceive and defraud the unwary.

Delights of Ceylon Life.

But here we are in the midst of British luxury, five minutes above a large town, with tennis courts and dashing drives. Often the ceiling cloth follows the rafters to the ridge pole, as in my sleeping room, which thus has a lofty dome. But the sound of creatures that move without feet is as revolvous and gloomy and frightful and startling in that crevice, that bag like reptile room, as it is when they have the space of a regular garret to knock and throw themselves around. "Them" means wildcats, civet cats, scorpions, muskrats, common rats and serpents. There is no yowling like that of the unhappy cats of cities in America; no noise except the Incomotion and the delicate squeak of the musky mice at play, and the louder protest of the rats when they are being swallowed alive by the snake.—Ceylon Cor. Chicago News.

Beautiful Bermuda.

Everything is bright, every outline is sharp, every house like a house made of snow, roof and all, scarlet and yellow flowers in masses, trees so full of birds that it seems as if every leaf were a bird, yet not a bird to be seen—they are only heard; the whole beautiful island resonant like a bell. Such is Bermuda.—Bermuda Letter.

Where They Have Gone.

A great scarcity of the very small coins is reported. We are afraid the heathens have got all the very small coins by this time.—Burlington.

For Boys and Girls.

President D. C. Gilman, of Johns Hopkins university, says that for a girl or a boy there is nothing better than the needle and scissors, and, particularly for a boy, the jackknife; that still more fundamental is the pencil, which enables one to delineate with more precision than the pen what one wishes to express, and that a man is a better thinker and a more accurate worker if he can reproduce with his hand what he has thought with his brain.—Harper's Bazar.

Wretched, Indeed,

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeful symptoms indicative of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetler's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and liver complaints, and hastens the convalescense of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

The famous Indiana legislature expired March 7th by limitation without passing any of the usual appropriation bills. The democrats of the legislature managed one thing; by counting the vote of a man who was defeated at the polls but was seated by the democratic majority of the senate, they succeeded in sending to the United States senate their candidate, Turpie. This turpitude the national senate should not allow to go unrebuked; Mr. Turpie should be sent home again.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

Edgar Thompson of Allentown, Pennsylvania, freight clerk at the Lehigh & Susquehanna depot, is missing, and it has been ascertained that he dealt in stocks and speculative transactions, losing a large amount of money. By sharp practice he has involved others, the amount being variously estimated at from $15,000 to $30,000.

R. S. B. Hatch, of Lebanon Springs, N. Y., is eighty-two years old. He says: I suffered from liver complaint for thirty years and could not obtain relief. I was persuaded to try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and it has cured me. I digest my food without difficulty and enjoy refreshing rest. Druggists; $1. Send two-cent stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., for his book on kidney, liver and blood disorders. Mention this paper.

The United States flagship Richmond, Captain Robert Boyd commanding, underwent another dock-trial of her machinery at the New York navy yard this week. Since the Richmond was commissioned as the flagship of the North Atlantic squadron on January 20th her machinery has been tested on several occasions, but without producing the desired results. This time, however, the trial was more satisfactory, as the brasses and boilers had been refitted and overhauled.

Dyspepsia and Constipation.

Henry B. Archer, receiver of taxes of the city of Yonkers, N. Y., says of Brandreth's Pills:

For the past ten years I have been using Brandreth's Pills for self and family. We find them a sovereign remedy for indigestion and constipation, taking one or two every night for ten days. They are also admirable blood purifiers, perfectly harmless but exceedingly effective as a cathartic. I first used them myself, particularly for biliousness and dyspepsia. They relieved me in two weeks. I cheerfully recommend them.

The dynamite works of Mrs. Mary A. Dittmar at Bay Chester, N. Y., blew up March 7th, and all remaining of a building and a man who was in it was a hole four feet deep in the ground.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

In Consumption and Wasting Diseases,

Is not only very palatable, but the remedial power of these valuable specifics is greatly increased and as as a remedy for consumption, scrofula, emaciation, or where there is loss of flesh and nerve power, it is remarkable in its results. Take no other.

—Captain Greely, who jumped into the weather bureau and a brigadier generalship, has a baby at his house. This may account for the squally weather.

—The New York Sun says "the next war is inevitable." There is a profundity about this statement that does not appear at first glance.

"I have thee on the hip," cried rheumatism seizing his victim and tossing him on a suffering bed. "Not so," he cried, "not so! Wait, my ancient foe, just five minutes, until the boy brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, then we'll see who wins the day."

Senator Sherman says that he believes the democrats will renominate Mr. Cleveland.

Mrs. L. J. Little, Livingston, Ala., successfully used St. Jacob's Oil for rheumatism.

All freight traffic on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is at a standstill, owing to a brakemen's strike.

Red Star Cough Cure has the endorsement of U. S. Architect Clark, Washington, D. C.

Randall, Gile & Shallies, of Boston, wholesale dealers in boots and shoes, have suspended. Liabilities about $80,000.

Druggists say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy for female complaints they ever heard of. It sells enormously.

A special constable engaged in enforcing prohibition was shot dead at Des Moines, Iowa, by a teamster who was transporting liquor contrary to law. The murderer was arrested.

If the liver and kidneys are sluggish and inactive, Hood's Sarsaparilla will rouse them to prompt and regular action. Take it now.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, but we had pushed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellwood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

IMITATING THE ENGLISH.

The Difficulties of Trying to "Follow the Hounds" on Long Island.

Therefore, in this hyperborean region when the thermometer is below zero and the ground covered with snow for months, when the blasts are most penetrating and the frosts most biting, the fine folk must imitate the English mode. They, too, must open their country houses, built and furnished for summer, and invite "country house parties" to spend their newly kill them by exposure. They shiver and freeze and suffer, and sometimes die; they take diphtheria and pneumonia, and endure agonies of torture because the high English go to the country at the same time.

Therefore, on Long Island, where a man may hold, perhaps, 100 acres, and his next neighbor is a farmer as much a proprietor as he, the imitator of aristocracy sets up a kennel and attempts to follow the hounds. But his neighbor protests; he is no tenant bound to allow the descendant of a feudal lord to destroy his fences and trample on his crops. Not long ago one of these farmers gave notice to a gallant master of the hounds that he would shoot the first man who attempted to ride over his grounds. Good sport, however, could not be interrupted, and the whole "field" swept proudly down. But there stood the farmer, with musket in hand, and like the king of France, with twice 10,000 men, the huntsmen bold rode up a hill and then—rode back again. They had no feudal rights, and were only trespassers.

They even did not find the good Democrats of the country willing to give them the road. When a lady of the neighborhood was thrust aside, her vehicle broken and herself injured, she absolutely went to law with the would be aristocrats. These gentry should reserve their sports for regions where they can own land enough to enjoy themselves in aristocratic style, and not on a potato patch put on the airs of lords of the manor or masters of a demesne.

Tis as good as a screaming farce to see a little "field" of twenty or thirty people, the men in regulation "pink," with high top boots and hunting breeches, following, not a fox, but a bag of anise seed tied to a horse's tail; stopped by the farmers and turned off by the old women—and calling this fox hunting. They even invite Englishmen to join them; real lords and sportsmen, and these English go back to the country of preserves and privilege, and many a joke they tell about the democrats who aspired to their company and thought themselves aristocrats because they wore red coats, and hunters because they rode after anise seed.—Adam Badeau in Kansas City Journal.

Serpents as Ornaments of Fashion.

No little beetles or serpents have as yet appeared this season upon the evening toilet of those of the earth who can afford to be eccentric. Twenty years ago French women had a caprice about snakes. They made pets of them.

The Princesse de la Tour d'Auvergne always kept a little one in her pocket, alive of course. Her husband objected, and her friends did not all quite like it, but no entreaties availed to separate her from the little reptile that she loved. Mme. Musard wore a small viper on her neck among her incomparable diamonds. When she appeared in her box at the opera every glass in the house was leveled at her as she sat scintillating with diamonds, and with the dark coil of the serpent's body illustrating the whiteness of her neck.

Later on the Countesse de Villineuve for several months wore on her neck a beautiful scarabeus beetle. It was tethered to a ring by a very slender golden chain. It could run about on her shoulders; a sight which pleased few who saw it. An American lady, a few seasons ago, imitated this distinguished example. In both cases the little creatures died of starvation.—London News.

The Shah's Hour of Prayer.

A eunuch in stocking feet raises the heavy drapery that closes the entrance to the apartment where Nusr-ed-Deen Shah is sleeping, and, with bowed head, in a low tone reminds his majesty that it is the hour of prayer. A "moon-faced" maiden approaches, bearing a basin and ewer of gold; she pours scent into water over the royal hands, and another fair attendant, scantily clad like her companion, dries his hands with a soft towel. Both kneel at this duty, for the king is yet on his couch, which is a mattress laid on the costly rugs that cover the floor. Having accomplished the ablutions, which form one of the essential rites of Musulman prayer, the shah offers his devotions on a superb prayer rug of silk pointed toward Mecca. When a Mohammedan is on a journey he carries a compass with him in order to find the direction of Mecca. The prayer is repeated in a low tone with many genuflections, of which the chief consist or repeatedly falling flat on the face, rising to the knees and then standing, and passing both hands reverentially over the face.—S. W. G. Benjamin.

The Chicken Cure.

In some parts of India it is a custom of snake-bite specialists to apply the chicken cure, which is thus described by a correspondent:

"A Hindu woman having been bitten on the ankle, her husband applied a bandage above the wound and sent for the specialist. The man recommended the chicken cure. Twelve live chickens were brought to the house and applied to the wound one after the other. All of them died from the effects of the poison, and two more were sent for; these two lived, and the patient was declared cured. The matter having been reported to the police, the woman was removed to a hospital, but at the end of five hours the doctors found no sign of poisoning and permitted her to walk home."—Exchange.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our country. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in six years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. P. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to clear the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable referees.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SNUFF, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with full directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Try this peculiar medicine.

We Hope He Will.

Under the heading "Will Secretary Whitney resign?" the Cincinnati Enquirer publishes the following from its Washington correspondent:

Mr. Whitney, secretary of the navy, is said to be the man who will next follow Mr. Manning into retirement. His resignation, it is thought, will take place about the first of May. This news comes from one of the best sources of information in Washington—one which cannot be flippantly dismissed. It may be set down as the bald truth that Mr. Whitney contemplates resignation, and that unless he undergoes a marked change of view there will shortly be a new secretary of the navy. Of course, Mr. Whitney may prefer private pursuits to public duties, but when all the surrounding circumstances are considered there is little room for doubt that his vacation of the navy department will be on the general grounds of dissatisfaction [with the president's imperfoueness.] There are guarded rumors of still other cabinet changes, but they lack convincing evidence.

If there is to be a new secretary, it is to be hoped the president will be able to find some one who regards the navy as of more importance than the New York navy yard, and who does not consider that everything English must be perfect and everything American must be inferior; who instead of purchasing the condemned and cast off plans and suggestions of British constructors and engineers and gun makers, will have faith enough in American constructors and inventors to give them all the chance there is.

The New "Ideals."

Director Studley, who for so many years has led the orchestra and conducted the singers in the Ideal Opera company, has now followed his associates and left the organization. He will unite with Messrs. Barnabee, Karl and MacDonald in the formation of a new company. Mr. Barnabee remained with Manager Foster somewhat longer than he otherwise would because of the financial interest he had in the Ideal company. Having at last made secure the money he invested he is now actively at work with his companions in arranging the plans for the new company. Among other things Mr. Barnabee is reported to have had a mortgage on the title "Boston Ideals," and that name, of course, Manager Foster will retain under any circumstances. The new organization will follow out the methods formerly characteristic of the Ideals, undertaking, however, to raise the general standard of the works given. "Carmen" and "Mignon" are spoken of as among the expectations for the repertoire. No name has yet been been chosen, but doubtless the organizers will endeavor to obtain a title that will give some evidence of their former association. They hope to induce Geraldine Ulmar, Agnes Huntington and George Frothingham to return to the ranks.

Chicago Ministers.

In Chicago, on the 7th inst., there was a lively wrangle at the weekly meeting of Congregational ministers over a motion to send a telegram of condolence to Mrs. Beecher, expressing the sorrow of the association over the condition of her husband. The motion was warmly opposed on account of Mr. Beecher's heterodox views in relation to evolution, future punishment, and the inspiration of the scriptures; but it finally prevailed by a vote of eighteen to fifteen, and was then withdrawn by the mover, who thought such an expression of sympathy as that would not be very pleasing to its recipient.

At the Chicago Methodist ministers' meeting this resolution was unanimously adopted: "That we learn with regret and sorrow of the affliction which has fallen upon the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, and that our hearts go out in sympathy and prayer for the great preacher, his family and his congregation and church in general."

Vagabonds, All.

A distinguished literary man of Oakland stood up in the police court to answer to the usual charge of vagrancy.

"I object, your honor," he said with dignity, "to this persecution of gentlemen who follow the profession of letters, and——"

"I understand," interrupted the judge, "that you were found sleeping under a doorstep, that you have no visible means of support, and that you have been seen under the influence of liquor."

"What of it?" cried the prisoner. "Though I am as poor as Richard Savage, when he made his bed in the ashes of a glass factory; as drunken as Dick Steele, who was full nine-tenths of his time; as ragged as Goldsmith, when he was on his fiddling tour; as immoral as Byron, as dirty as Sam Johnson, as——"

"There, there!" cried his honor, impatiently, "I've no doubt your associates are a disreputable lot, and I shall deal with you in such a manner as to cause them to give Oakland a wide berth. Sixty days with hard labor. Mr. Clerk, furnish the constable with the names of the vagabonds mentioned by the prisoner."—San Francisco paper.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease lies in the blood, and any remedy that does not reach and must deal with the obstruction in it which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & CO., Druggists.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

HOMES WANTED FOR CHILDREN.

The Sisters of Charity of the Home for Destitute Catholic Children, Boston, ask us to inform our readers that there are over 200 little boys and girls in that institution, of from three to twelve years of age, for whom they desire to find homes in Catholic families in the country. These little ones are bright, intelligent, healthy, and are not children of the criminal classes, but children who have been deprived of their parents or relations through death or misfortune.

The conditions upon which these children are placed into families are very simple, a recommendation from the resident priest, and a guarantee to the Home that they will be kindly treated, and attend church and school regularly. Charitable persons wishing to provide for any of these poor children are invited to address the "Home for Destitute Catholic Children, Harrisen avenue, Boston."

FRANKLIN THEATRE.

The thrilling sensation play of "Jesse James," in "four acts and three startling tableaux," was presented at the Franklin theatre last evening. Outlaws, powder, sluggers, detectives, and other lively individuals, not to mention the efforts of "Calamity Jane" and a colored individual, made things lively. The audience testified their approbation with loud applause. The same play will be given this evening.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."

The Concord Monitor of last Tuesday says: "As evenly balanced and talented a comedy company as has visited Concord for years came to White's opera house last evening under the Madison Square theatre banner, and gave 'the Private Secretary' an almost faultless rendering. The stage was very prettily set, and the performance was a grand one in all respects save that the audience was rather a small one. A crowded house could not have secured a better presentation of the comedy, however." This company will be at Music hall Saturday evening, and tickets are now on sale at Goodrich's, a large number having already been taken. See advertisement.

TOWN MEETINGS.

The result of the voting in Newington on the 8th inst. was as follows:

Moderator, James W. Hoyt;
Clerk, William L. Furber;
Selectmen, Jackson M. Hoyt, John Greenough, William C. Pickering;
Treasurer, Israel S. Hoyt;
Member of board of education, Clarence DeRochemont.

All the officers elected are democrats, the majorities ranging from two to twelve. It was voted that the selectmen act as the assessors. The opposition nominations were called the "independent" ticket.

Voted to furnish a curtain for the hall stage, and to whitewash the ceiling and tint the walls; also voted $100 for the interior of the church. The town is out of debt, and has $415.80 in the treasury.

In Newcastle, Moses R. Curtis was elected moderator; Howard M. Curtis, clerk and treasurer; George W. Towle, Thaddeus Tarlton, William T. Meloon, selectmen and assessors; John Amazeen, collector; John Albee, Frederick Bell, auditors. Town debt, $26,000.

North Hampton elected for moderator, Eben L. Dalton; clerk and treasurer, Jonathan Rollins; selectmen and assessors, E. L. Dalton, George E. Taylor, Frank C. Norton; collector, John S. Hobbs. Town debt, $4228.

Greenland: Moderator, John Hatch; clerk, Ernest Holmes; selectmen and assessors, John H. Brackett, Rufus W. Weeks, Dennis Mahoney; treasurer, Edwin A. Peterson; auditors, William S. Bennett, G. W. Weeks; fish and game wardens, Nathaniel Gookin, Frank W. Rand.

Stratham: Moderator, R. M. Scammon; clerk and treasurer, J. J. Smart; selectmen and assessors, James E. Odell, Chas. W. Scott, George W. Bowley; collector, Hezekiah H. Leavitt.

In Newmarket at the town election the following officers were chosen: Moderator, Henry Smith; selectmen, Harrison Burley, Edward Young and Stephen Davis; town clerk, John L. Bennett; treasurer, William Folsom; collector, Thomas Willey,—all democrats except Stephen Davis, who is a republican. It was voted to increase the pay of the eighty men in the fire department from $4 a year to $12; and to buy or hire a base-ball ground for the boys.

Hampton Falls: Moderator, C. P. Akerman; clerk, Jack Sanborn; selectmen and assessors, J. D. Janvrin, G. J. Curtis, O. D. Green; treasurer, C. T. Brown. Town debt, $3800.47.

Seabrook: Moderator, Wm. D. Eaton; clerk, James M. S. Tucker; selectmen and assessors, William H. Walton, Emery N. Eaton, Frank E. Locke; treasurer, to be appointed by selectmen. Appropriated $1500 for schools, $2500 toward town debt and interest, $500 for highways and bridges, $100 to widen a carriage way, $50 for Memorial services. Town debt, $12,000. Moderator and one selectman democrats, clerk and two selectmen republicans.

At the Rye town meeting on the 8th inst. the proposition to enlarge the town hall was defeated by a majority of two. The $1800 voted for schools included a sum for the support of a high school at the town hall; this measure had the recommendation of the board of education, and was strongly advocated in the town meeting by G. H. Jenness in a short speech.

In Exeter on the 8th John J. Bell was elected moderator, on the Knights of Labor ticket; selectmen, Jewett Conner and Charles Towle, democrats, and George Green, republican; town clerk, William H. Belknap, republican.

The Knights of Labor ticket was elected in Rochester on the 8th inst.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are so much more positive than the remedies of a quarter or a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. FREE, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

The Alaskan's Dwelling.

The Alaskan natives live in very peculiarly constructed houses. The structures are of half hewn logs, one story high, with only one door. The interior of the house is divided off into small compartments, not larger than the staterooms on an ocean steamer, and in each of these little rooms a sleep an entire family. The floor of the dwelling is of beaten clay, and is depressed several inches below the surface of the surrounding land. In the center of the floor is a fireplace of rough stones, on which the cooking for the entire household, numbering at times as high as seventy-five persons, is done. The smoke escapes through a hole in the roof.—Lieut. H. T. Monahan in Brooklyn Eagle.

The Ramanas Rose.

The Japanese in their paintings make free use of this picturesque shrub. Happening to show the crimson ramanas rose to a decorative artist some days ago, he was silent for a few seconds, then exclaimed: "Now, I understand it all," and went on to say he had been that morning examining a beautiful Japanese screen, but (unheeding the leaves) felt completely puzzled to know why they drew their apples with blossoms on the same branch. Now he recognized the large fruit of the rose which he had mistaken for apples, and carried away a branch to design from.—Vick's Magazine.

The Least Painful Death.

Death by aconite is the least painful of any. The feeling is something like being frozen to death. A kind of numbness begins in the extremities and gradually spreads over the entire system. There is no pain whatever, except, possibly, a slight burning sensation in the breast. The fatal sensation is, in fact, extremely pleasant. Death from freezing is said to be delightful. It is the same with aconite. A pleasant tingling is felt through the limbs, while entrancing dream fancies run through the brain.—Cincinnati Physician.

Wretched. Indeed,

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeful symptoms indicative of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and liver complaints, and hastens the convalescense of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

For the past ten years I have been using Brandreth's Pills for self and family. We find them a sovereign remedy for indigestion and constipation, taking one or two every night for ten days. They are also admirable blood purifiers, perfectly harmless but exceedingly effective as a cathartic. I first used them myself, particularly for biliousness and dyspepsia. A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at two years before using it. We earnestly pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all the burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

The Sons of Rich Men.

Not only should the children of wealthy parents receive the most liberal education that the country affords, but they should be expected to make a good use of it in after life. As professional men, from complete immunity from the cares incident to poverty, they should deepen and widen the tracks that others are to follow, and institute systematic reforms. As men of state, far removed from partisan strife, they should draw their principles direct from history and from science, and lay the foundations of an ideal government. As men of letters they could afford to be content with nothing less than the best, whether in the manner or the matter of their work. As men of science, not obliged to make their investigations yield them a pecuniary return, they, of all others, should devote themselves to the pursuit of truth for its own sake, which, paradoxical as it may sound, has always proved the most important and really practical of all human labor.

Now, what the modern age demands of those who possess wealth is that they employ it in the proper direction of their activities. No right minded artisan begrudges the millionaire his millions. The manufacturer, the merchant, and even the railroad king are stirring, industrious men. They organize the production, exchange and distribution of wealth, and are essential to society. So of other industrial operations. Concentrated capital is indispensable to their prosecution on an adequate scale. And those on whom devolves the duty of conducting these industries, and who accept and perform this duty as responsible citizens, are not envied nor denounced by sober minded people, however widely their lots may differ. But honest and industrious people, those who with hand or brain labor for society, create its wealth and effect its proper distribution—all, in fact, who really work—have a right to complain that so much of the wealth of their creation has fallen into the hands of idle persons who despise every form of labor, even the ennobling pursuit of science, art and authorship. They do not ask them to take up the blacksmith's sledge, the carpenter's hammer or the mason's trowel. They even prefer that they devote themselves to higher and really more useful labors—labors which their leisure, means and independence peculiarly fit them to perform thoroughly and well.—Professor L. F. Ward in The Forum.

Intelligence of Ants.

One day, while watching a small column of these foraging ants, I placed a little stone on one of them to secure it. The next that approached, as soon as it discovered its situation, ran back in an agitated manner to communicate the intelligence to the others.

They rushed to the rescue. Some bit at the stone and tried to move it; others seized the prisoner by the legs and tugged with such force that I thought the legs would be pulled off, but they persevered till they got the captive free.

I next covered one up with a piece of clay, leaving only the ends of his antennæ projecting. It was soon discovered by its fellows, which set to work immediately and by biting off pieces of the clay, soon liberated it. Another time I found a very few of them passing along at intervals. I confined one of these under a piece of clay, at a little distance from the line, with its head projecting.

Several ants passed it, but at last one discovered it, and tried to pull it out, but could not. It immediately set off at a great rate, and I thought it had deserted its comrade; but it had only gone for assistance, for in a short time about a dozen ants came hurrying up, evidently fully informed of the circumstances of the case, for they made directly for their imprisoned comrade and soon set him free.—Naturalist in Nicaragua.

Cases of Seeming Intoxication.

A farmer, 54 years old, a man of wealth and character, whose father was a drunkard, but who himself never used any kind of spirits, showed symptoms of intoxication after meeting with an accident from a runaway horse. At the funeral of a child, some months later, his family were greatly mortified at his silly language, staggering gait, and other marked symptoms of intoxication. A year later a similar attack followed the burning of some buildings on his farm.

There are similar cases in which the nerve degeneration is due, not to heredity, but to early habits of intoxication. A noted temperance lecturer, a total abstainer for ten years or more, received while lecturing a dispatch announcing the fatal illness of his daughter. He drank a glass of water, became confused, staggered, and was led from the stage laughing and shouting in a maudlin way. He had drank no spirits, but the audience supposed him intoxicated.—Youth's Companion.

The department of state at the capital has a collection of the private papers of Washington, which includes one of these orders. It was sent soon after his marriage, and the American belle of to-day would consider herself happy in the replenishing of her wardrobe by this single purchase of George Washington for Martha. The bill is a long one, and among the items there are two pairs of women's white silk hose, six pairs of fine cotton hose and four pairs of four-threaded hose, two pairs of satin shoes, and four pairs of shoes made of cloth. Twenty pounds (or $100) worth of Brussels or point lace are ordered, and there is a striking item of six pounds of perfumed powder. He wants for her a dozen of the most fashionable cambric pocket handkerchiefs, a fashionable hat or bonnet, a half dozen pairs of the finest kid gloves, and a like number of mitts. He also orders sugar candy, six pounds of snuff, a dozen knots or breastknots, and two petticoats, one of which is to be a puckered one of a fashionable color, and the other to be made up of silver tabby velvet.—Frank G. Carpenter.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. My limbs could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was to constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in six years. In 1886 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to dislodge the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Patti, it is said, guards herself carefully against cold. She evidently does not believe in free concerts, but doubtless believes in the free use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the tried reliable remedy.

The American legation at London positively deny having procured any British naval plans by underhand methods, or being in any way implicated in the Chatham dockyard scandal.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A good reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this peerless medicine.

Phariseism vs. Christianity.

The Congregational ministers of Chicago who at their weekly meeting voted against sending to the family of Henry Ward Beecher a message condoling with them on the dying condition of the great preacher, are being roughly handled by the secular press, and by some of the religious papers. They are called Pharisees other pet names, and are informed that Beecher's memory will be fresh and his works doing good, long after his Chicago censors are forgotten, if the latter should indeed ever become known to the world at large. The explanation that the message to the afflicted family was opposed because its dying head was not regarded as a Congregational minister, merely shows how narrow-minded good and sincere men can become when they elevate the creed of their sect above the teachings of Christ. Even had Beecher been a pronounced atheist, condolence with his sorrowing relatives would not have been unchristian.

The Interstate Commission.

The president is reported to be quite anxious in relation to a proper selection of persons to serve as commissioners under the recent enactment "to regulate commerce." The president is convinced, if the able and learned lawyers which the leading railways are able retain find difficulty in construing the law, the commissioners selected should be of the best material at the command of the executive.

Among the persons mentioned in connection with the office of commissioner is Hon. Wm. L. Putnam of Maine. The president not only thinks highly of Mr. Putnam, he admires him. Mr. Putnam would make an able chairman of the board, but it is idle to suppose that he would accept an office at $7,500, perhaps half the amount of his annual income from his profession, and in the language of the act, "not engage in any other business, vocation or employment."

The chances are that the president will have to abandon his commendable policy of attempting to place high-priced men in low-priced situations, and will be compelled to select from the politicians or such material as is attainable, his commissioners. A man who is really what is desired in this respect can of course command a much better salary than that named in the act of congress.

A Strike Declared Off.

At a meeting of the striking employes of the Cambridge, Mass., horse railroad, held Wednesday evening, the 9th inst., the "tie-up" was formally declared "off." Several reasons combined to bring about this result. In the first place, the men it is alleged have had little or no money since the strike began, but very little having been given them from the great amounts that the leaders have been reporting as coming in amazingly fast. This, of course, put the men in a terrible position, as many of them had families suffering for the want of food. Another fact which led to the passage of the vote was the refusal of Superintendent Bancroft of the road to take any of their number back until the strike was declared off. Before the vote was taken Mr. John C. Short, who has been very prominent in connection with the strikes, addressed the men. He favored the motion, but urged the men to remain together as a Knights of Labor assembly. It is probable that his wish in this direction will not avail to hold the men together; one of them was heard to say: "There will be no more of Assembly 8149; it is busted."

The striking workmen of the South Boston railway held a meeting late on the night of the 9th, after the Cambridge men's action had become known, and resolved to continue the strike. The amount received by the strikers of the two roads on the 8th from New York was only $382 40, which had a very discouraging effect.

Bad State of Affairs.

At St. John, N. B., a financial panic exists. Cully, Brunning & Wood's large dry goods house failed; then Samuel Schofield, agent of the Dominion and Furness lines of steamers; then on Tuesday, the 8th inst., the Maritime bank closed its doors, and was followed by the collapse of the private bank of McLellan & Blair, and Grey, Bevan & Co. and R. A. J. Stewart, two of the largest timber exporting firms in New Brunswick. Several other large houses are expected to go down. The liabilities of the Maritime bank are $1,250,000. Much excitement prevails in St. John and throughout the business circles of the province.

Will it Reach 200,000?

BOSTON, March 10.—Everybody in and about Boston is talking about the wonderful circulation of the Boston Daily Globe during February, which averaged 126,405 for each day. People are discussing the possibilities of a limit to this circulation of the Daily Globe, and many put the figures as high as 200,000. Whatever figure it may reach it is certain that no limit is in sight yet—in fact, the limit seems farther off each day.

Samuel F. Besse was hanged at Plymouth, Mass., March 10th, for the cold blooded murder of Richard K. Lawton, an egg collector, on Dec. 22d, 1885. Besse shot Lawton from behind a tree as he drove through a lone patch of woods in Wareham, the motive for the crime being robbery. Besse's reputation was of the worst, he having spent thirteen years of his life in prisons.

Henry Dodson, a bummer and vagrant, was sold to the highest bidder for a term of seventy-five days, at Augusta, Ky., March 8th. He was bid off at $1 by the county jailer, who immediately turned him loose.

Mr. Brown, chief of police of Marblehead, Mass., was shot but not fatally wounded on the night of the 7th inst., by a saloon keeper named Daniel Callahan, who called at the police station and committed the crime. He was locked up.

Boxes of oranges from Florida and consigned to Boston parties have been washing up on Scituate beach for some days, with empty boxes and barrels.

A passenger train was ditched at Sharon, N. J., the mail car and mail burned, and three persons seriously injured.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY
it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.
Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease is in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstruction with which poisons and inflames it.
Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.
Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.
The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.
WARDEN, JONES & Co., Druggists.
Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.
Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.
Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.
For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

A CHAMPAGNE VINEYARD.

Very few people, even among those who appreciate the quality and fineness of the genuine French Champagne wines have a correct idea of the extreme care and solicitude with which the vineyards are kept in the district of Champagne, which undoubtedly is one of the richest and best cultivated parts of the world. One of our friends lately returned from France gives the most elogious report on the estate of Messrs. Bouche-fils & Co. at Marseuil-sur-ay; this includes a remarkable piece of property named "Les goisses," which can be shown to any foreigner travelling through France, as an illustration of the ideal accomplishment of a Champagne vineyard. "Situated on a hillslope," says our friend, "with the beams of the sun freely lavishing from dawn to sunset their beneficial warmth on it, this vineyard seems to cumulate all the qualities required for the production of perfect grapes. Its surface soil gives the fruit fineness and bouquet, while the heat of the sun is counterbalanced by the freshness constantly drawn up from the lower ground by a network of roots, which spread themselves in a bed of chalk." There is a great deal of this product in the Bouche Sec Champagne, which explains its peculiar fineness and aroma so much renowned among the connoisseurs; but amateurs desirous of obtaining the wine coming from the "Goisses" estate only would have to ask for the Bouche Sec extra. Both of these wines are sold exclusively by Messrs. Chas. E. Laighton & Son, Portsmouth, N. H.

The advance sale of tickets to "The Private Secretary" has been very large, and there will be a big audience at Music hall on Saturday evening; the Madison Square theatre company always has a good house, because a superior entertainment is always given. See advertisement.

There is no truth in the report that the suit against the merchant of this city in whose possession was found a lot of articles stolen from the marine barracks at the navy yard, has been compromised for the sum of $1100. The merchant asserts that he did not know the goods were stolen.

At the eighth annual meeting and banquet of the Expressmen's League, held at Young's hotel, Boston, on the evening of the 9th inst., Mr. Edwin Allen, chairman of the board of directors, referred in well chosen words to the two deaths of members of the association during the past year—Mr. Merrett Sealey, who was vice-president at the time, and Mr. Christopher C. Jackson of Portsmouth. Mr. Howard L. Jackson was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

Warren Billings of Dover, a veteran of the late war, recently received quite a large sum of back pension money, which he placed in the hands of his daughter. He left Dover last Monday afternoon, and it said was seen in this city that evening, since when no trace of him has been discovered.

South Newmarket: Moderator, Daniel C. Langlands; clerk, H. Jenness Paul; selectmen and assessors, Daniel G. Neal, Thomas Sheeney, Charles E. Durell; treasurer, George W. Pollard; collector, James H. Wilkinson; supervisors of checklists, Jerry Malchy, Jeremiah Towle, Nathan G. Howard; all republicans. Town debt, $1255.

Mrs. Annie L. Marshall and Miss Laura A. Johnson, arrested on suspicion of tempting to poison Mrs. Marshall's husband, John W. Marshall, were before the police court at Rochester on the 8th inst., when their examination was postponed to the 9th. On the 9th an examination of witnesses was had, and the two women were held in $1,500 each for the grand jury; in default of sureties they were committed to jail.

An earnest remonstrance against retaining in the service of the city of Cambridge, Mass., one of the leading and most active members in the late horse railroad strike, Mr. Eben W. Pike, has been presented to the Cambridge city government. The first two names on the list of signatures are those of Woodward Emery and A. P. Peabody. Mr. Emery also wrote to the mayor and aldermen a letter signed by himself alone, strongly arguing and protesting against Pike being longer kept in office by the city.

In spite of all that has been said and written against the wear of tiny birds on ladies' head gear, and notwithstanding the rigid rules and earnest resolutions drawn up by humane societies, there is but little diminution in the demand for bird decorations for hats and bonnets, poor little defunct songsters of the forest and grove being visible on the majority of milliners' models. The Parisian "light o' love" who started the heartless fashion has much to answer for.

At the monthly dinner of the New Hampshire club, at the Quincy house, Boston, March 9th, C. H. Tasker of Newmarket and Charles Philbrick of Hampton were admitted to membership.

Joshua Goodwin has been appointed postmaster at South Berwick.

Mrs. Christina Goodwin, whose bright little story, "How they Learned Housework," was so well received last year, has written another, "Sisters and Schoolmates," which gives girls some practical ideas in regard to self-support and usefulness. To be published shortly by D. Lothrop company.

Mrs. Harriet Taylor-Upton, daughter of Hon. Elijah Taylor of the national house, has been engaged in Washington for some months upon an important historical series for Wide Awake, entitled "The Children of the White House." The articles will be fully illustrated from original sources. In this work Mrs. Taylor-Upton has the co-operation of many members of the various presidential families.

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Phrases from Shakespeare.

Shakespeare's influence over the public is shown by the extent to which his phrases have become incorporated into our language. Among these are "dog and lion," "wheel and deal," "hit or miss," "love is blind," "willing for a song," "wide world," "fast and loose," "unconsidered trifles," "westward ho," "familiarity breeds contempt," "patching up excuses," "misery makes strange bed fellows," "to boot" (in trade), "short and long of it," "comb your head with a three legged stool," "dancing attendance," "getting even" (revenge), "birds of a feather," "that's flat," "Greek to me" (unintelligible), "packing a jury," "mother wit," "killed with kindness," "mum" (for silence), "ill wind that blows no good," "wild goose chase," "scarecrow," "luggage," "row of pins" (as a mark of value), "riva voce," "give and take," "sold" (in the way of a joke), "your cake is dough." The girl who playfully calls some youth a "milksop" is also unconsciously quoting Shakespeare, and even "loggerhead" is of the same origin. "Extempore" is first found in Shakespeare, and so are "almanacs!" Shakespeare is the first author that speaks of "the man in the moon," or mentions the potato or uses the term "eyesore" for annoyance."—Chicago Times.

Thousands of young people are turned out of them yearly with just knowledge enough to make them pert and unsettled, but without enough to awaken a tendency in their minds toward any productive vocation, in which the most of them must inevitably sooner or later engage. Our schools hitherto have been trying to work out the overshadowing university conception of education, whereas they can continue to do adequate work only as they assist in launching young men and women right side up on the heady current of practical life.—Boston Globe.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.

With every advance of emigration into the far west, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared lands, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural and mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the bitters afford the only sure protection against malaria, and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climate changes, exposure, and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

At Bennington, Vt., James Fitzgerald has been convicted of 135 violations of the liquor law, and fined $1550 and costs, with the alternative of three days in the house of correction at hard labor for each dollar not paid. He appealed, and was held in $3000 to answer. A young man named Jewett was found dead in Fitzgerald's saloon some time ago under suspicious circumstances.

Take It This Month.

Spring rapidly approaches, and it is important that every one should be prepared for the depressing effects of the changing season. This is the time to purify the blood, and strengthen the system, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which stands unequaled as a spring medicine, and has endorsements of a character seldom given any proprietary medicine. A book containing statements of the many wonderful cures it has accomplished, will be sent upon application to C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 100 Doses One Dollar.

Elie S. Charlier, son of Prof. Eli Charlier, is charged with stealing $50,000 from the Panama railroad while a bookkeeper for the road at Colon.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

The generality of the live stock arrived in good season this morning, and the trade in beef stock was about as noticed last Tuesday. There seems to be some scare with regard to the moving of store cattle and milch cows, and a part of the eastern train did not put out from Portsmouth if we are rightly informed; what did come through were for the most part sold early.

Milch Cows—The movement is light, with sales mostly from $25 @ $50 ⅌ head.

The Sheep Call—Nearly 2000 head were put upon the market. Prices much the same as two weeks ago. The little flurry on a few flocks last week could not hold in value the arrivals to-day. The trade was fair, and the sheep seemed to be wanted. Among the best at market were 179 lambs that averaged 87 lbs each, at 7c ⅌ lb.

Fat Hogs—Northern steady at 7¼ @ 7½c ⅌ lb, but not as firm as last week. Western live hogs a shade easier with quota lots at 6 @ 6¼c ⅌ lb.

Veal Calves—Less activity and larger arrivals; range 2½ @ 7c ⅌ lb.

Live Poultry—A few pounds noticed at 8 @ 10c.

CANTATAS FOR FLOWER TIME!

Teachers of Juvenile Singing Classes do not need to be told of the intense interest and enthusiasm which attends the bringing out of a new CANTATA. The following are new, bright, pretty and easily given. Commence in time to prepare them.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had pooh'ed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

THE DRUGGIST'S PECULIAR ORDERS.

Curious Mistakes in Names Made by Applicants for Medicines.

A Cambridgeport druggist has made a practice for some years of saving in a scrap book some of the most peculiar orders which he receives. "We are asked for some rather strange things," he said to the writer, "but we can generally guess what is wanted. Many people expect a druggist to prescribe for their ailments, as it saves physicians' charges, and the diagnosis of complaints which come to us are often amusing. Look at these: 'Send me some of the essence you put people to sleep with when you cut their fingers off.' That evidently means ether. 'I want something to take tobacco out of my mouth.' Of course the scent of tobacco was the thing objected to. 'Send me a baby's top to a nursing bottle' means, without doubt, a nursing bottle top. 'An ounce of the smelling stuff that goes through your brain' describes very well the effect of inhaling ammonia. 'Something for a sore baby's eye' is not easy to mistake, though stated rather oddly. Here is a startling order for 'enough ipecac to throw up a girl 4 years old.' I cannot help sympathizing with this person, who asks for 'enough anisseseed to take the twist out of a dose of senna.' Here is a request for a 'plaster for a man kilt with stitches.' Perhaps the one who wrote this order for 'something for a caustic woman' built better than he knew. Here is an order for 'something for a heavy pain in the bones that is coming out through the eyes.' The person who wrote for 'something to take a man's breath away' did not intend murder or suicide, but merely wished for cardamom seed or something of that nature. I sent a liniment to this lady, who asked for 'something to rub my old man with.' Not a bad description of a poultice is the order for 'enough flaxseed to make a pudding for a sore toe.' This child, who had 'an impression on his heart and a cough that is choking him in the neck,' ought to have been taken to a doctor, as well as this other one who, his mother wrote, was 'heaving up and down and every way.' Here is a request for 'something to knock a cold out of an old woman.' The next one seems to be in hard condition. She desires something for a woman who has a bad cough and cannot cough.' No druggist would hesitate for a minute to fill this order: 'Something, I forget the name, but it is for a cure.' 'Our own preparation' will just fill the bill in such a case. But what should we send for a 'swelled woman's foot,' 'a man with a dry spit on him' and 'a woman whose appetite is loose on her?'

"We got used to phonetic spelling," pursued the druggist, "and are very seldom unable to arrive at a fair conclusion of what is wanted, even by the blindest writers. Here are orders for penny garick, pary garic and paddy garic, which procured paregoric in each case. These orders for barnegat, vergmount and bugmint were filled with bergamot; those requests for come earback, gum mare back, gormarriback, comearaback and ram back called for gum arabic; these asking for camfier and campfire meant camphor; worm me fuge and barmafug meant vermifuge, of course; where our customers have called for epicot, metick, epicack, apricot and epicat we have delivered ipecacuanha; the persons who wrote for honey quintom, blew oint, Annie Quintom and Ann Grintom got unguentum; otherwise called blue ointment; orders for lodnom, lad num and lord warm we filled with laudanum: for balm of city we sent spermaceti; those who wanted high stirrips got hive syrup; this fellow who wrote for paint killer received pain killer; I knew that bubben wisky meant bourbon whisky, that air root meant arrowroot, and that bitter Alice meant bitter aloes. I sent Arabian balsam instead of raving balsam to this man, corrosive sublimate instead of a gross of supplements to that one, and cherry pectoral instead of cherry pickerel to this other. I substituted syrup of squills in these orders for sharp squil and sirrip of swill, sent Ayer's pills to this man who asks for ear pill, Epsom salts to the one who wrote for lapson salt, and some cubebs instead of cupids to the other. Not having any glory farm on hand, I took the liberty of filling this order with chloroform, and being out of flack seed and flack sed I sent flaxseed in that one.

"When I got these orders for ox sled acid and horrid lime, I sent oxalic acid and chlorate of lime. This man asks for McCordon seed and this one for carman seed, but I gave cardamom seeds to each. Many orders come in where one syllable is mistaken for a conjunction, as churrup and quill, for syrup of squills; check and berry, for checkberry; gold and thread, for golden thread; spit and turkletine, for spirits of turpentine; balm and gilead, for balm of Gilead; hope and didock, for opodeldoc. People who wish for borax write for boeracks, bowrux, bow rax and bow wax. We get orders for Arnold's 'blossom,' instead of balsam; Hall's hair 'manure,' for renewer, and Burnett's 'cocarine,' instead of coccaine. Customers who want lovage write for love itch. Those who desire licorice write for luckrich, lozrish, lickrish and stickrish. Here is a woman who wants five cents' worth of cologne to smell a trunk. Another asks for a mixture which shall be two-thirds alcohol and two-thirds castor oil. This one wants something to make catnip tea from, and the other asks for ten cents' worth of Mary attic acid."—Boston Herald.

The best stimulant for persons who have been exposed to cold is champagne. Owing to its diffusive quality, it acts more quickly than brandy or whisky. It is a more powerful effect is wanted brandy and champagne should be taken alternately. But this remedy should never be used except by persons actually suffering from shock. If taken under ordinary circumstances a scene is apt to follow.—Exchange.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial. SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on cabin steps. "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. H. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrah. How difficult to protect the system again its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable testimony.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with the use and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

At Dubuque, Iowa, a panic was created by some person raising the cry of fire in a theatre in which 700 school children were witnessing a ventriloquist's entertainment. A terrible scene ensured, and many of the children were injured, but owing to the courage and hard work of several school teachers no lives were lost.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A good reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this peculiar medicine.

Funeral of the Great Preacher.

The public funeral services of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher were held in Plymouth church, Brooklyn, on Friday, memorial services being held at the same time in the First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Sands street Methodist, and Pierrepont street Unitarian churches, all which were crowded, while thousands were unable to enter. All business was suspended in the city.

Tom Reed the Leader of the Next House.

A special despatch to the Boston Advertiser has the following: "The next house will be a mere plaything in the hands of the republican leaders," said a democratic congressman to-day. "In this house everything went to the bad, as far as the party was concerned, for want of a leader. The 50th congress will come in with two-thirds of the democrats new men. Unless some one develops very suddenly, Tom Reed will make the party a toy for the amusement of the public. No man could have got more unqualified recognition as a leader than did Reed. When congress began there was a sharp controversy between him and Hiscock, Long, Butterworth and Burrows for the leadership. For a while a while all these men would jump to their feet when there was a call for defence of their party or a declaration of party policy. But Reed had such a way of shouldering everybody aside, and planting himself in square defiance of the majority of the house that everybody else looked small beside him, and, besides, he has a faculty of talking back not possessed by any of his colleagues. By the last of the congress nobody disputed his right to lead."

The Latest Boston Craze.

BOSTON, March 11th.—All Boston is crazy over composite photography. People talk about it on the street, on the horse cars, on the trains, at the clubs and at all social gatherings. The cause of this excitement is the article in the last number of the Century magazine, which contained photographs made up from the likenesses of the young ladies of the several different classes at Smith College. By grouping a dozen or more faces in one a very interesting result is obtained. It is announced here to-day that in the to-morrow's Boston Sunday Globe will be an article, illustrated by the Globe's special artist, which will show in a humorous way some of the possibilities of this composite photography. Everybody is anxiously awaiting this issue.

BARKING UP THE WRONG TREE.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Dover Democrat in a recent letter says:

A most disgusting nuisance is practiced almost daily on certain of our streets, even on some of the principal ones. The nature of it is as follows: The fishmongers who infest the streets almost daily, during Lent, are practicing the habit of throwing their offal in the streets, much to the disgust of passers-by and residents. When they first clean their fish they throw the offal in their cart or sled, but when they start along, the watch their chance and when no one is looking throw it in the street. Walking up Court street yesterday morning one might have observed no less than ten or fifteen places where the monger or mongers had cleaned out their cart or sled. For the health and decency of our city the practice should be abated at once.

That the street is not a proper place for fish offal is certain, and it is equally certain that the correspondent blames the wrong parties for the offal being there. The fishmongers who "infest" the streets during Lent, and also during all the rest of the year, in the endeavor to earn an honest dollar by honest labor, never clean the fish in their carts or sleds while on their rounds; that work is invariably done on the fish wharves before starting out, as the loads hauled or pushed are heavy enough without the addition of the large amount of waste matter which goes with "round" fish. The offal reported as having been seen on Court street must have dropped from some carthead bound out of the city to be used for dressing land; assuredly it did not come from any fishmonger's cart or sled.

And not only would the carting around of the waste material of the fish be a foolish addition to the labor, but thrifty housewives would not be prone to buy fish from a cart filled with offal; and we speak from personal knowledge when we say that at least two of the regular fish peddlers, William H. Caswell and William Lolley, keep their carts as scrupulously clean and neat as the Rockingham house refrigerator, and during warm weather as well iced. We presume the others all do the same, but concerning these two we know.

Tuesday of this week was the 25th anniversary of the deadly and destructive attack made by the rebel ironclad Merrimac on the union fleet in Hampton roads, when the splendid old sailing frigates Cumberland and Congress were totally destroyed with a large proportion of their crews, the big steamship Minnesota and other smaller vessels seriously injured, and the wildest consternation caused throughout the loyal north—consternation that was only equalled by the delight of the copperhead element, and that was only allayed by the defeat of the rebel sea-monster the following day by the little Monitor, Ericson's "Yankee cheese-box on a raft," a result which not only revolutionized the navies of the European nations, but has kept them racing with each other ever since, to see which can make the heaviest guns and the biggest and most unwieldy ironclads. There are living in this city two of the survivors of the first day's disastrous fight, namely, Walter C. Gray, who was one of the Cumberland's crew, and J. Frank Watkins, who was one of the crew of the Congress; and they are probably the only persons living in this vicinity who took part in that combat.

The town of Hillsborough went republican at the late election, for the first time in its history.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease lies deep in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & CO., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 1

McKINNEY GETS HIS CERTIFICATE.

At a meeting of the governor and council on Friday, the 11th, William E. Chandler and William L. Foster of Concord appeared for Martin A. Haynes, and John Mitchell of Concord and Cyrus A. Sulloway of Manchester for Luther F. McKinney, in the disputed congressional electional case in the first district of this state. After hearing the arguments on both sides the governor and council granted a certificate to the Rev. McKinney. The packages of votes were not opened, the opinion having been given that the legislature was the only body having power.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."

The Madison Square Theatre Co. will be greeted by a full house at Music hall this evening, when the highly successful comedy "The Private Secretary" will be presented. The best business ever done at the Park theatre, Boston, is said to have been during the recent performance there of this comedy by the Madison Square company for an entire week. A large number of seats for to-night are already taken, but good ones can still be secured at Goodrich's. See advertisement.

FRANKLIN THEATRE.

The Henry Belmer dramatic company played "Lost at Sea" to an enthusiastic audience at Franklin theatre last evening, a second performance of the play having been requested by many of those who witnessed its first representation. This afternoon a matinee entertainment will be given, with "The Hidden Hand" as the attraction; and the same piece will be presented this evening, when the very successful week's engagement of the company will come to a close. See advertisement.

"DONNYBROOK."

In the story of "Donnybrook," written for Mr. Tony Hart, who will appear in Music hall next Wednesday evening, the author, Mr. Ellis, has departed from the conventional Irish peasant as the hero, and takes the life and adventures of a young gentle farmer—a phase of Irish character not frequently portrayed upon the dramatic stage; the character of "Con O'Grady" is portrayed by Mr. Tony Hart. "Con" is a warm-hearted, whole-souled fellow who finds himself the possessor of a somewhat dilapidated mansion, a charming sister, a limited income and a law suit. The play is interspersed with songs, dances and choruses, with considerable humor and many humorous situations, and some love scenes, and is in short what might be called a rollicking Irish comedy-drama.

RUBBER AND "RUBBERS."

We were shown a day or two ago a pair of rubber overshoes big enough for a child of three or four years, belonging to a lady of this city who wore them when a child some twenty-five years ago; they had previously been worn by several of her older sisters, and have since been worn by her own three lively children in succession; they had been sent to a shoemaker to have a small cut cemented, and looked as though they might yet outwear a dozen pairs of what are now by a trade fiction termed "rubbers." They are of a somewhat better pattern than the rubbers which were worn by our grandmothers, which were of a dull brown color and moddelled a good deal like a "gundalow," and which never wore out; but they are not quite up in style with the handsome, glossy black modern ones, which smell like a cask of coal tar and wear out in a week.

Those old-fashioned rubbers, — what useful things they were. The lady who became possessed of a pair was fitted out for life, or until her oldest boy got old enough to hook one of them to cut into strips with which to make a ball that would bounce as high as a house, in marked contrast to the ball used to-day by the devotees of the national game, which strikes the greensward or the ribs of the catcher with the same dull sickening thud, and has no more bounce to it than a baked apple. Then, too, when an old rubber after a century or two of service finally gave out, what an excellent eraser a piece of it made to carry to school, to be finally chewed by the small boy and his chum into "Injerrubber wax," a feat which two boys with average jaws and perseverance could usually accomplish in about three days, when the teacher did not catch them at it during the process of manufacture, and take the coveted morsel away.

The gentlemen who showed us the little rubbers referred to above, informs us that when a boy he worked many a day at Hill & Carr's (now J. C. Carr's) store on Market street, pounding to pieces the clay cores or lasts, rudely fashioned into something distantly like the shape of a human foot, on which the rubbers were made in the caoutchouc forests, and which were still in the rubbers when imported, and of course had to be removed before the rubbers were offered to customers to try on. There were no "rights and lefts" among those rubbers, not much shape, and no beauty at all; but they did wear.

A CHAMPAGNE VINEYARD.

Very few people, even among those who appreciate the quality and fineness of the genuine French Champagne wines have a correct idea of the extreme care and solicitude with which the vineyards are kept in the district of Champagne, which undoubtedly is one of the richest and best cultivated parts of the world. One of our friends lately returned from France gives the most elogious report on the estate of Messrs. Bouche-fils & Co. at Marseuil-sur-ay; this includes a remarkable piece of property named "Les goisses," which can be shown to any foreigner travelling through France, as an illustration of the ideal accomplishment of a Champagne vineyard. "Situated on a hillslope," says our friend, "with the beams of the sun freely lavishing from dawn to sunset their beneficial warmth on it, this vineyard seems to cumulate all the qualities required for the production of perfect grapes. Its surface soil gives the fruit fineness and bouquet, while the heat of the sun is counterbalanced by the freshness constantly drawn up from the lower ground by a network of roots, which spread themselves in a bed of chalk." There is a great deal of this product in the Bouche Sec Champagne, which explains its peculiar fineness and aroma so much renowned among the connoisseurs; but amateurs desirous of obtaining the wine coming from the "Goisses" estate only would have to ask for the Bouche Sec extra. Both of these wines are sold exclusively by Messrs. Chas. E. Laighton & Son, Portsmouth, N. H.

SUPREME COURT---LAW TERM.

At the session of the supreme court, law term, at Concord on the 11th inst., the following decisions were announced in cases on the Rockingham docket:

St. Mary's Benevolent Association vs. Dennis J. Lynch and others; set-off disallowed. Opinion by Clark, J.

Willey vs. city of Portsmouth; judgment on the verdict for pliff., $300. Opinion by Bingham, J.

Concord & Portsmouth railroad vs. city of Portsmouth; question as to gates at the Creek street crossing, and the reference to county commissioners or railroad commissioners. Case discharged; petition referred to county commissioners. Opinion by Bingham, J.

Mary R. Odlon vs. Susan J. Moulton and others; question as to distribution of estate of Miss Mary Blaisdell; decree for pliff. Opinion by Doe, C. J.

New Hampshire national bank vs. Christina A. Gerrish; case discharged by agreement.

United States Direct Cable Co. vs. state of New Hampshire; recommitted to state board of equalization.

Case of Frost vs. Eastern railroad, on Strafford docket, for injury to a minor by use of a turntable in Dover on which the minor and other youths were playing; question as to negligence in leaving the table unlocked so it could be set in motion. Opinion by Clark, J. This action is not barred by statute of limitations. No evidence of negligence is shown on the part of the deft. The plaintiff was a trespasser on the premises of the defendant. An owner is not liable to consequential damages to children interfering with his property on his own premises. Motion for nonsuit should have been granted; exceptions sustained.

In case Dow and others vs. the Northern railroad, involving the validity of the lease of the Northern road to the Boston & Lowell, Chief Justice Doe announced a decision, holding the lease to be invalid, it being in violation of the provisions of the corporation's charter. Judges Doe, Smith and Clark approved this finding; Judge Allen dissented; Judges Blodgett, Carpenter and Bingham did not sit.

The suit against the sureties in the B. W. Hoyt case at Epping will be tried at the April term of the supreme court for Rockingham county, at Exeter.

RAILROAD ITEMS.

The Maine house of representatives on the 10th inst. indefinitely postponed, by a vote of seventy-four to thirty-two, the bill authorizing the consolidation of the Boston & Maine, the Portland & Rochester, the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth, the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway, the Old Orchard Beach and the Kennebunk branch railroads. It is believed this kills the project for this session of the legislature.

In Boston on Friday last Eastern railroad common stock sold at 134, 135 and 136, over 500 shares being sold at the latter figure; Eastern preferred brought 140, Boston & Maine 237 1-2, and Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway 117.

The Masonic fraternity are cautioned against a woman travelling from town to town, pretending to be the widow of a Mason and in need of assistance. She assumes various aliases, has called herself Smith, Dubah, and probably other names. She has hailed from Chicago.

It is reported that John H. Childs has presented to the city a claim for $1,300, for damages alleged to have been sustained by Mrs. Childs through the icy condition of a sidewalk on Cass street, on account of which she fell and had one of her arms broken, and was otherwise injured.

A line of Jersey Waists at $1.00 have just been received by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street.

Those wool worsted suitings in plain and mixed colorings, are the very best. No. 6 Market street. J. W. Moses.

HOPE HE WILL SUCCEED.

Col. G. M. L. Lane of this city, commander of the First Regiment New Hampshire National Guard, has been endeavoring for several weeks past to awaken the military enthusiasm of the people of Portsmouth to such a point as to secure the organization of a company to fill the vacancy now existing in his regiment. At the present time Portsmouth possesses no military organization of any kind, and Colonel Lane is of the opinion that there is an abundance of material there to form a first-class company, one which would be a credit to the regiment and to the state. Colonel Lane has for some time been in correspondence with parties in Portsmouth who are interested in the formation of a military company in the seaport city, and he has been there in person recently, and discussed the matter with some of the leading citizens, who seemed to regard the project with much favor. It is understood that some of the wealthy residents of the old Strawberry Bank have given assurance that a militiary company if properly organized shall not lack for financial backing, and the present indications are that Portsmouth will soon have a military organization in which she can take a just pride.—Manchester Mirror.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

WHAT OF THAT!

Tired! well, and what of that?
Didst fancy life was spent on beds of ease,
Fluttering the rose leaves scattered by the breeze?
Come, rouse thee! work while it is called to-day.
Coward, arise, go forth thy way!

Lonely! and what of that?
Some must be lonely; 'tis not given to all
To feel a heart responsive rise and fall—
To blend another life into its own.
Work may be done in loneliness; work on!

Dark! well, and what of that?
Didst fondly dream the sun would never set?
Dost fear to lose thy way? Take courage yet.
Learn thou to walk by faith and not by sight,
Thy steps will guided be, and guided right

Hard! well, and what of that?
Didst fancy life one summer holiday,
With lessons, none to learn, and naught but play?
Go, get thee to thy task. Conquer or die!
It must be learned. Learn it, then, patiently.

No help! say, 'tis not so;
Though human help be far, thy God is nigh,
Who feeds the ravens, hears his children cry.
He's near thee wherever thy footsteps roam,
And he will guide thee, light thee, help thee home.

Decline of the Plural "We."

Rev. Edward Everett Hale's prediction of the increasing popularity of the signed editorial and the decreasing power of the anonymous one is justified by all the journalistic signs of the times. Even those papers that still rigidly adhere to anonymous editorial utterances are admitting signed articles to their other columns in constantly increasing numbers. That shows that they recognize and feel that they must needs bow to the growing popular taste for identified writing. Mr. Hale is quite right in his forecast of the decline of the plural "we."—Boston Globe.

An Algerian Lion Killer.

A lion killer named Ahmed Ben Ahmer is stated to have destroyed in twenty-six years in Algeria over 200 lions. One lion is estimated to destroy 10,000 francs worth of cattle annually and to keep it up for ten years at least; so the lion killer saved Algeria about 20,000,000 francs.—Boston Transcript.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.

With every advance of emigration into the far west, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared lands, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural and mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the bitters afford the only sure profection against malaria, and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climate changes, exposure, and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

A young college student, whose chief charm is his honesty, says: "The superior standing of college girls is owing to the fact that the girls work for all they are worth, and we work for all our fathers are worth."

Mrs. Helen M. Avery, of the interior department at Washington, has the most beautiful handwriting among the fifteen thousand or more clerks employed by the government. Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,
Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

DOGS OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

Curs Who Have a Sort of Honor and Respect for the Proprieties.

One hears so much of the dogs of Constinople that he goes there quite prepared to be disappointed and expecting to find that their number has been greatly exaggerated, and that they are not treated with the respect which travelers report. But they are there in great quantities, and on bright days sunny parts of the streets are fairly paved with them. They lie down in the middle of the streets, and it rarely suggests itself to them to move. The drivers of carriages and wagons turn out for them; persons on foot step over or around them. And there they remain stretched out at full length, either asleep or blinking their eyes lazily. But it is late at night that they come out in force. Each collection of dogs has its own district, and we betide the stranger canine that dares to invade its sacred precincts. Glancing out of the hotel window into the narrow street on which it opened one evening about 5 o'clock, which was a little late in the afternoon for the dogs to be out sunning themselves, and a little early for them to be out for their night duties, I could see only a couple of dogs wandering about listlesly. Around the corner from another street came a third dog, not at all different in build, shape or color from the two in sight. He seemed to be moving along carelessly, indifferently, and without evil intent.

But he went a little too far and crossed the forbidden line. Suddenly there was a dash, a howling, a yelping, and in ten seconds not two, but fifteen dogs had pounced upon the newcomer, and had not some passing Turk rushed in among them and kicked them aside they would have made short work of the poor trespasser. But it showed the jealousy with which the Constantinople dogs guard what they consider their territorial rights and that they will brook no foreign invasion. Efforts have been made to get rid of them, but the natives regard them as sacred animals; and there is no question that, in the absence of a better sanitary system, they are absolutely necessary to the health of the city. For they are the scavengers. They eat anything and everything. The inhabitants throw the remains of food into the streets, and the dogs instantly devour them.

And there is withal a sort of honor and respect for the proprieties of things in the Constantinople dogs. One rarely sees them touch what is not intended for them. In front of the little butcher shops meat is often seen hanging down close to the ground. Dogs are running around. Sometimes they stop and look at the tempting morsels, but they never nose and smell them, and the butchers seem to have so much confidence in their good behavior that they do not drive them away; in fact, they pay no attention to them. The Constantinople dog is a mongrel animal, and is a combination of many breeds. The grand and final result has been a yellow cur, lean and lanky, but of considerable size, with sharp pointed ears and rather a bright and intelligent face, a little careworn and yet saucy, like that of the street gamin who has knocked about and been thrown on his own resources from his birth. The night is their particular time, and not infrequently they make it somewhat disagreeable for the passer by. But a few sharp kicks, or, better still, a few blows from a stout stick, easily drive them off.

But not the most pleasant part of a walk through an unlighted street on a dark night, as one is hurrying along, is to place his foot on a soft, pulpy mass, which quivers and yields and then rises with an unearthly howl and shoots off yelping into the darkness. And though one has merely stepped on one of the sleeping dogs of Constantinople, it makes his blood run cold, and it is some time before he can plant his feet down without carefully feeling to learn what may be the substance of the pavement on which he walks.—Constantinople Cor. Chicago Tribune.

The Secretary Bird Extinct.

It is surprising to find it authoritatively stated at the meeting of a game protective association at Cape Town that the secretary bird is now extinct at Cape Colony. This curious bird has so long been popularly supposed to enjoy unlimited protection on account of its snake killing propensities that it will come quite as a shock, even to our naturalists and ornithologists, to hear that the Cape Colony, its ancient and most favorite habitat, knows it no more. In old days, undoubtedly, this bird was a high favorite among the Boers; it was by them often tamed, and might be seen stalking solemnly about among their kraals and buildings.

As game became scarcer, however, it was discovered that the secretary bird did a vast amount of damage, not only to snakes, but to the smaller of the fauna and avi-fauna. For this reason, as well as for its rarity and quaintness, the poor secretary has been shot off or driven beyond the bounds of the colony, thus following the example of the nobler game. It is well that the Cape farmers are stirring themselves about the protection of the remnant of game left to them. Fifty years ago the limits of the colony contained in abundance most of the finest specimens of South African big game.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Ancient Lead Pipe.

Although the production of lead pipe has commonly been regarded of quite modern origin, there appears to be evidence that the Romans were acquainted with the article, without, however, possessing the appliances for fabricating anything of large dimensions or sufficiently strong to withstand pressure from the the fountain head. In the Cherchel museum is a piece of lead piping made by rolling a sheet of metal, turning the edges over, and then running molten lead along the joints.—New York Sun.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that they have permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial. Yours, Respectfully,
P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on each says: "In 1879 scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in four years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."
Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.
TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED,

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura remedies in our own family, and recommend them before and any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an asphyxiate clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you suffered the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, throat and bronchi, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with full directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Evelyn college, the new Princeton "annex," sets forth, in its advertisement, among the various advantages of the school, that there will be "no co-education." The directors should ponder the wise words of J. H. Newman: "Co-education will go on outside of school if not inside, and the safest way is to let sentiment and study go hand in hand, with teacher and parents to direct and explain the great lesson which all are the better for learning soon or late."

Don't Get Caught

This spring with your blood full of impurities, your digestion impaired, your appetite poor, kidneys and liver torpid, and whole system liable to be prostrated by disease—but get yourself into good condition, and ready for the changing and warmer weather, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It stands unequalled for purifying the blood, giving an appetite, and for a general spring medicine.

The women of Parsons, Kan., are registering in great numbers. A large number of members of the W. C. T. U. formed in procession, and marched to the city clerk's office and registered. The Topeka Capital says: "It was a frightful scene to ward politicians, for these ladies were persons of influence; men have ceased to joke about woman suffrage, and have begun already to look upon it as a stern reality and wonder how it will affect the election on the fifth of April. The W. C. T. U. have divided the city into districts, and appointed committees to see each lady and get her out to register."

The Recent Railway Decision of the Supreme Court.

In case of Dow vs. Northern railroad, the chief justice announced that the court had decided that the lease to the Lowell railroad of the Northern was invalid. The parties have to July 1st to arrange for a re-delivery of the property. Four judges sat in the case, three of whom held the lease to be invalid, and one, Allen, dissented. There was much interest in the decision, which is a victory of the Concord railroad managers of the Boston & Lowell railroad. It is by no means certain that such a decision will in the end prove beneficial to the railroad property of the state.

It is a very simple matter to insert in the charter of future corporations a permissive clause which will provide for a lease, but for those railways which were chartered many years ago it would seem that a lease, however desirable for the shareholders, might be prevented by some obstinate stockholder who possibly might be controlled in his action by interests hostile to the corporation of which he was a legal member.

Mr. Pearson, the leading stockholder in the Concord railroad, who has for many years been a pronounced opponent of railroad consolidation, is of course much gratified at the decision. He regards it as a protection of the rights of the people of the state as against the growing tendency of large aggregated foreign capital to usurp the functions of management of the railway interests of the state, and a decided victory on the part of the minority in corporations, a position which in the Concord railroad he himself occupied for many years.

The opinion of the learned chief justice will be read with interest by the grand army of railway lawyers in the United States, as the first legal obstacle to the present tendency to consolidate, under the management of the few, the many railways in different sections of the country.

Don't Procure Vessels That Way.

It seems that it was the Russian government, and not the government of the United States, that surreptitiously purchased the drawings of the English naval vessels and machinery from the Chatham dockyard employe. The custom of the United States has been to take, not the drawings of the British vessels, but the vessels themselves in fair fight on the high seas; though in the last instance the Kearsarge, as she was so far from her own shores, sank the Alabama instead of taking the chances of sending her to the United States in a much battered condition.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner yachts Coronet and Dauntless started from Sandy Hook at one o'clock Saturday afternoon, on their race across the Atlantic ocean to Queenstown, Ireland.

Canada is preparing for a lively fishing season. The cruising fleet is to be enlarged, if necessary to the making things hotter for the despised Yankees, whose government won't dare to say an effective word in their defence.

Schooners Emma W. Brown, Mayflower, and Governor Butler, the first of the southern mackerel fleet, sailed from Gloucester on Saturday, the 12th inst. The earliest sailing last spring was by schooner Emma W. Brown, March 11th, and the first mackerel to arrive at New York was on April 12th, in the schooner Ellen M. Adams.

A Washington despatch says: "Thus far no action has been taken by the state department to carry out the provisions of the retaliation act, but as soon as the matter can be taken up a plan of action will be adopted, based upon a strict interpretation of the act. The department officials say there will be no hesitation on the part of the administration in carrying out the purpose of congress in passing the act. The system of retaliation will be stringent enough to remind the Canadian authorities that this nation can return unfairness in kind, and if the conceded rights of American fishermen are denied, then those of Canada will meet with like treatment at the hands of our officials." The fishermen, and all others who have regard for the honor of the country, will hope the information contained in this despatch may turn out to be like the novels, founded on fact.

On and after this day, March 14th, there will be a daily mail service to Newington, instead of a tri-weekly service as heretofore.

The Newcastle Bridge Co. have contracted for the delivery this spring of 50,000 feet of plank, to be used in repairing the bridges.

Osgood Lodge of Odd Fellows will have a "basket party" and entertainment at Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday evening, the 17th inst.

An electric light is to be placed on the Music hall building, at the corner of Chestnut and Warren streets, so as to throw the light along both streets, both ways; it will show only on evenings when the hall is in use, and will be much appreciated by the patrons of entertainments there.

The Times of Saturday evening tells the following: "A story of a pair of old-fashioned rubbers which have been in one family for more than twenty-five years, and which were famous for wear, has been published in our city papers. We hear of a pair to-day which were famous for wearing—out. They were purchased about a week ago for seventy-five cents, and although they have not been worn every day, are now completely worn out, and are just about as good as a sieve. Can any one beat this story?"

The Odiorne farm at Odiorne's point, Rye, is announced to be for sale; it is the site of the first settlement of New Hampshire, and as such is worthy of being purchased by the state or some historical society.

The free delivery system of distributing mail matter will not go into effect in this city until July 1st, by reason of the failure of congress to pass the general deficiency bill.

The York and Cumberland Christian conference held its March session with the church at South Berwick, commencing Friday, March 11th, and holding over the Sabbath.

Col. Nathaniel Grant of Kansas City, Mo., died on the 17th of February at the age of seventy-two years, leaving a wife, two sons and one daughter. He was born in South Berwick, Me., Sept. 14th, 1814, and Mr. Sedley Grant, still living in South Berwick, is a relative.

Marston & Durgin's ice house at Saco, recently sold to Clark & Chaplin of Portland, fell on the night of the 10th inst. from weight of snow on the roof, and was totally demolished. The building cost $6000, and was the largest ice house in York county. It was half filled with ice this winter.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPURR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled. 2

DEATH OF ARTHUR GERRISH.

Mr. Arthur Gerrish, formerly of this city, died of typhoid fever in Atchison, Kansas, Saturday morning, March 12th, at the age of about twenty-two years. He was a grandson of the late Dr. David Kimball, and son of Capt. George A. Gerrish, who commanded the 1st New Hampshire Battery during the war, and whose death some years later was no doubt caused by disease due to wounds received, and hardships and exposure undergone, in the service. Mr. Gerrish was for a time in the shoe and leather business in Boston, but owing to the precarious condition of his health went west in December of last year, in hope the change of climate would prove beneficial, and at the time of his death was assistant cashier of the United States national bank of Atchison. His grandmother, Mrs. David Kimball, died in this city Feb. 24th, at the age of eighty-four years; his mother was with him at the time of his death, having been called from this city by a telegraphic announcement of his serious illness about the time of the death of her mother. The friends of the young man in this city were pleased, the middle of last week, with the information that he was rapidly recovering; but on Saturday came the sad news of his death.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."

A good audience attended the performance of "The Private Secretary" at Music hall on Saturday evening by the Madison Square theatre company, and enjoyed the most uproariously amusing entertainment given here for years. The stage setting was very pretty, and the actors without exception were good in their parts, there being no sticks among them. The fun does not flag from the start to the finish, the ludicrous situations crowd each other all through, and the dialogue is of the most mirth-provoking kind; and with it all the entire performance is perfectly clean. Not the least amusing part of Saturday evening's entertainment was the entire abandonment of the refined audience, who gave themselves up unreservedly to the spirit of the occasion, and shouted and roared with laughter in a style not often seen in Music hall.

THE RELIGIOUS MAN OF THE WORLD.

The subject in the Universalist church yesterday was "Henry Ward Beecher, the religious man of the world," the text being II Kings, 2:12, "My Father, my Father, the chariots of Israel, and the horsemen thereof."

Much as the press has said about Henry Ward Beecher, it has failed to touch the hidded spring of his authority over the world. It seems to be simply this: In himself, as well as in his eloquence, he represented all that the people at large feel, repent of, love and hope for. God so loved the world that he sent his chief-begotten son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have eternal life.

God so loved the world that he sent Henry Ward Beecher to show how in one man can ring the harmonies of heaven and the discords of hell. And whether the world believes in him or not, the world understands how it too can love God and be saved from sin, as well as the eloquent man who went through the process himself.

Every man saw the blood of "twenty thousand men blush in his face." Every man under the spell of that vitalized spirit felt himself to be a beatified orator. Every man, who was not too lazy to go to hear Henry Ward Beecher, felt himself, without his sins, transported to a world of ideal goodness. The "Israel of God" is the world; behold then, we have lost a chariot of Israel and the horseman thereof.

We have lost a driver of Israel, who, even when his horses took the bits in their teeth and ran, by his love of the world and his faith in an All-guiding God held them in the right direction. Often did they make such charges as this.

"When I see what old rocking continents are doing, and have been doing, from the creation, from the days of the flood, through all the treacheries and pitfalls wherein the human race has been reeling and staggering down to modern times; when I look at Asia and Africa, and Europe, and America and both continents of it, and see what the actual condition of the neglected, the stripped, the peeled, the despoiled, the downtrodden races of men has been, if I thought that in addition to all this there was a God that was clothed in thunder, and whose business it was to stand at the door when men go out of life and crush them downward into eternal hell,—every instinct of charity, of sympathy and of love that is born in me by Christ, would stand crying, 'Annihilate Him! Annihilate Him!' It would be the sorrow of the universe that would raise that cry."

"DONNYBROOK."

Tony Hart's company, at Music hall next Wednesday evening, will give the best Irish comedy ever presented here, if we can judge from the press comments. Mr. Hart is well known as a former member of the Harrigan & Hart minstrel combination, one of the very best organizations of its class, in which he won favor as a superior vocalist, comedian and dancer, and he now has a strong company. Of the piece, "Donnybrook," the New York Times says: "The play is a sensible one, and while it is full of fun, it is a genuine piece of true comedy, and is not to be compared with the nonsensical, silly trash so often thrust upon unsuspecting patrons."

ANDREW D. GERRISH.

Mr. Andrew D. Gerrish, whose recent death in San Francisco, Cal., at the age of seventy-one years, has been previously announced in our columns, is well remembered as a former member of the firm of "Samuel Gerrish & Son, Copper Founders and Dealers," whose weather-beaten sign, faded by the storms of more than half a century, still occupies its old place on the building on Bow street occupied by Miller & Furber as a brass foundry. Samuel Gerrish & Son at one time did a large business for their day in the manufacture of almost everything copper was used for, and the town and surrounding country were to a large extent supplied with wash-boilers, kitties, etc., of their make; and during the days of active shipbuilding on this river, much of the brass and copper work required by the builders was supplied by them. Andrew D. Gerrish was a very pleasant, companionable person, and correspondingly popular with a large number of acquaintances; he left this city about 1871, and a year or two later went to California, where he passed the remainder of his life.

ACCIDENTS.

Mr. Johnson, who resides on Islington road, nearly opposite the powder house, met with a severe accident last Saturday afternoon. While chopping wood at his home the axe slipped, and cutting through his boot inflicted a painful wound on his foot, severing an artery. Dr. Berry was called and dressed the hurt. Mr. Johnson has been quite unfortunate this winter, as this is the third injury he has received.

As the young man who daily replaces the burned-out carbons in the electric street-lights was attending to that duty Sunday morning, when he started to lower the lantern in front of Capt. J. G. Moses' residence on Elm street the billiards parted, letting down by the iron arm which supports the lantern, and which struck the young man on one wrist with such force as to displace one of the ligaments, and badly bruise the wrist. The injured man was attended by Dr. Berry. The accident was caused by the malicious act of some contemptible scoundrel who during Saturday night cut almost through the billiards, between the head of the post and the belaying cleat, so that as soon as the turns were started the line gave way. Acts of malicious mischief by Christian Shore bummers going home after Saturday night carousals are by no means rare in that vicinity, and an extra lookout in that quarter by the police on Saturday nights would not be amiss.

Charles H. Foote and George H. Smart have presented Moses H. Goodrich fire engine company with two fine pictures, for which the company has returned a vote of thanks.

The teachers' institute of Rockingham county will be held at Exeter on Wednesday, the 23d inst.

A number of caulkers were taken on at the navy yard on Friday last. Some of the laborers on the yard were set to work as reamers, a very economical procedure, as reamers are paid $2.26 per day, while laborers get but $1 76. One laborer who refused to go to work as a reamer was summarily discharged.

The workmen in the steam engineering pattern shop at the navy yard last week presented the retiring foreman, Mr. Fred A. Hoyt, with a handsome gold watch chain. It is reported that Mr. John A. Harsden of this city will succeed Mr. Hoyt as foreman of the pattern shop—a good choice, if it should be made, he being in every way competent for the position.

A line of Jersey Waists at $1.00 have just been received by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street.

Those wool worsted suitings in plain and mixed colorings, are the very best. No. 6 Market street. J. W. Moses.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. James DeNormandie has been spending a few days with friends in this city.

E. S. Cosser, Esq., of Minneapolis, Minn., arrived in this city last week on a brief visit to Samuel Adams, Esq.

Dr. Daniel W. Jones of this city has been granted a pension of $25 a month, for disability consequent on service in some of the ironclads during the war of the rebellion.

The Times gives the following additional names of persons living in this city who participated in the naval battle of Hampton roads, between the Merrimac and the union ships: Edward Smith, James Barr and John Sullivan, U. S. S. Constellation; John Hayes, U. S. S. Congress.

The Nonpareil Associates last week elected John Falvey vice president, William Dow treasurer, David Donovan secretary, and Thomas Mahoney bookkeeper, the election of president being postponed to Thursday evening of this week; six new members were voted in.

It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"When suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, New York City.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PEER, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." R. M. LANZ, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

Machine Work in America.

I have worked at my trade and made sash, doors and furniture in Switzerland, Germany, France and England. I came to America five years ago, and found the new inventions in the way of labor saving machinery far superior to anything ever dreamed of in Europe. If one were to tell in Paris the exact truth about the new machines here that enable one man to perform the work of three or four there, he would not be credited. I would not believe it myself if I had not seen it. In Paris I received the same price for making an ordinary door that one of the same material and finish is sold for here. An elaborate piece of furniture that requires weeks to manufacture there is turned off here in as many days. I found wages in England better than in Germany, and I received higher wages in Paris than in St. Louis. —Max Wotier in Globe-Democrat.

When Lake Michigan Was Frozen.

"It is a popular impression," said the captain of the Dean Richmond, "that Lake Michigan has never been frozen over. This a mistake. Two years ago there was good ice all the way from Milwaukee to Grand Haven—about eighty miles—and the anchor ice (the ice nearest the shore) was two and three feet thick. Anchor ice is not disturbed by winds. It attaches itself to the frozen sand, and there it stays until it becomes rotten.—Chicago Herald.

The task of reproduction by native hand labor is so great that only two or three copies are known to have been completed.—Arkansaw Traveler.

CANTATAS FOR FLOWER TIME!

Teachers of Juvenile Singing Classes do not need to be told of the intense interest and enthusiasm which attends the bringing out of a new CANTATA. The following are new, brisk, pretty and easily given. Commence in time to prepare them.

VOICES OF NATURE. Operetta. N. B. Sargent.
FOREST JUBILEE BAND. N. B. Sargent.
NEW FLORA'S FESTIVAL. Bradbury. Arranged by J. C. Johnson.
MERRY COMPANY, or Cadets' Picnic. Collin Coe.

Price of each book, 40 cts., or $3.60 per doz.

The first two books are by a nature and music-lover, who fills them with very sweet songs of birds, flowers, insects, etc. Flora's Festival, doubtful in size, and with minute directions, will surely be a success, as will, in another way, the "MERRY COMPANY."

Our new edition of VOICES OF PRAISE, (40 cts. or $4.20 per doz.) by Rev C. L. Hutchins, is cordially commended to all who wish a Sunday School Song Book of the highest character.

Schools, Academies and Seminaries are always safe in adopting the carefully compiled School Song Books of Ditson & Co. We recommend for the higher schools, SONG GREETING (60 cts.) and HOYT'S SINGER (70 cts.), for grammar schools, SONG BELLS (50 cts.), and for primary schools, GEMS FOR LITTLE SINGERS (30 cts.)

Any book mailed for Retail Price. mch11

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.

With every advance of emigration into the far west, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared lands, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural and mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the bitters afford the only sure profection against malaria, and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climate changes, exposure, and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

Piles can be Cured.

Westfield, N. Y., May, 18th, 1885.—For thirty-two years I suffered from both internal and external, with all their attendant agonies, and like many another suffered from hemorrhoids. All those thirty-two years I had to cramp myself to pay doctors and druggists for stuff that was doing me little or no good. Finally I was urged by one who had had the same complaint, but had been cured by Brandreth's Pills, to try his cure. I did so, and began to improve, and for the past two years I have had no inconvenience from that terrible ailment.

Ellis, and others. The number for March 19th contains the opening chapters of "Pirate island," a thrilling story of a shipwrecked crew's adventures in the southern Pacific. Besides the serials, the Argosy contains numerous shorter stories, sketches, and articles, both interesting and instructive. The Golden Argosy's circulation is now increasing with phenomenal rapidity, and its success is well deserved. Its publisher spares no effort to present the best literature in the most attractive form.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.
Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.
Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had pooh-ed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.
Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,
Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884
I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

IN JOAQUIN MILLER'S CABIN.

The Poet at Work Clad in the Picturesque Garb of a Forty-niner.

One day I walked out to Joaquin Miller's cabin on the hills just outside the city. Everything about the place looked deserted and desolate, very different from what it looked a year ago when I first visited it. Then everything, both inside and out, was neat and clean, a horse was tethered just outside the door and the owner was inside hard at work, turning out almost unreadable manuscript. Looking in at the door, before knocking, I saw a strange sight for fashionable Washington. Seated on a plain, unvarnished chair, drawn up to a rough pine table that cost probably $1, sat a man in the picturesque garb of the gold miners of California. He was writing rapidly with a steel pen, and the floor around him was scattered with finished pages. On the plank wall above the papers was a single picture and around it, tacked to the wall with pins, were scraps of paper covered with hyeroglyphics that I afterwards found were notes.

Over in the corner of the room was a bunk such as may be seen in the steerage of ocean steamships. It was covered with a profusion of the richest skins and furs, some of which were also hung about the walls. The wild haired poet of the Sierras received me pleasantly, and in answer to a question about his method of composition he said: "I have no method; I write when I feel inclined, and do not give any thought to the subject before commencing. But I must be alone, not even an animal must be in the room with me, and I even turn my cat out of doors."

After a pleasant ordinary chat I left the picturesque little cottage an the hill and its queer occupant. I must confess I felt a little disappointed with my visit, for in everything but dress I had found my host an average man. The next day, however, I saw another phase of his curious character. Walking in the Smithsonian grounds I heard behind me the clatter of galloping hoofs, and turning I saw approaching, riding wildly, the poet. He had his sombrero in his hand, and his long hair was floating in the breeze. He seemed to be unconscious of everything around him, completely lost in the pleasure of his gallop. This is the last time I ever saw him in Washington. He left town soon after and for a year has been traveling in Mexico and the southern states. He is now in San Francisco where he edits a magazine, but he is a creature of moods, and may bob up in Washington any day. He has lived longer here than anywhere else.—Washington Cor. Detroit Free Press.

The Alaskan's Intoxicant.

During a course of years, commencing with the Russian occupation of the country, before the cession of the province to the United States, and subsequent to that time, men of our country found a lucrative business in the sale of molasses and sugar to the Alaska Indians. From these two substances they make a drink which they call hoochenco, and it is just a little worse than the lowest grade of Hestor street whisky. In fact it is almost pure alcohol, slightly discolored. The Indians manufacture it for their own consumption, and for the use of their friends, but it is rarely sold by them to one another. They make a sort of a mash from molasses and dirty brown sugar. This they put into a large caldron over a slow fire.

Some of them have considerable mechanical ingenuity, and they make a crude sort of a still out of tin. The pieces are cut out for the worm, one Indian holds them in place while another, with a bar of solder and a hot iron fastens them together. They patch on piece after piece, until they have completed a rude sort of a worm, and then their still is ready. They understand the process of condensation of the vapor in the worm and know how to get the distillation out of it. Then they double and triple distill this product, and in the end have a liquor that you or I would not dare to drink, unless we wanted at once to experience all the horrors of delirium tremens. The stuff is simply terrific in its power. When the process of manufacture is completed they store it away in bottles for use. The hoochenco is distilled only in the most inaccessible parts of Alaska, as the sale of large quantities of sugar or molasses in the more thickly settled portions of the country is prohibited and Indians who are known to possess quantities of either commodity are closely watched.—Lieut. H. T. Monahan in Brooklyn Eagle.

The material written on has varied greatly at different periods in the world's history. It has been at different times stone, lead, wood, wax, papyrus, parchment and paper. As the number of persons capable of reading and writing increased, the desire to communicate became more general and the need of more compact and convenient means imperative. To send a sheet of lead or a piece of cedar with a letter press fully engraved thereon could not have been very convenient to the ancient Hebrew, and much more troublesome must it have been to the literary subjects of Thotmes III to transmit to one another epistles written on slabs of granite the size of a modern gravestone. The extremes of clumsiness and of convenience may be represented by the Egyptian obelisk and the American letter written on small sized business note.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Use for the Microphone.

In Germany the microphone is now used for tracing leaks in water pipes, the slightest trickling of the water being made distinctly audible when the apparatus is brought near it.—Arkansaw Traveler.

A CAPTAIN'S EXPERIENCE.

A New Explanation of the Oregon Disaster, and some other Information of Great Importance.

The mystery surrounding the steamship Oregon has never been solved. That a vessel crashed into her is certain—that is all. The best evidence we have yet encountered is that of Captain B Greenwood, master of the steamer Kanawha, which runs between Newport News, Va., and Providence, R. I. In conversation with the writer, Capt. Greenwood said:

CAPT. GREENWOOD.

"On the night in which the Oregon was sunk, I was steaming along on a course South and East of the collision. It was about 11 o'clock when the lookout reported a sail on the port bow. I was on the bridge at that time and immediately sighted the boat. It seemed to be moving in an unsteady manner, although most of its sails were set. As we came nearer I saw it was bearing directly over our course without any regard for rules of navigation. I accordingly slowed down, and finding she still kept her course sheered off in order to avoid the possibility of a collision. As she passed us I hailed her, but received no reply, although she was within easy hailing distance. I could not detect any life upon her, but her lights were burning. She seemed to be plowing along almost in any direction and without any regard for other vessels. I am quite sure it was the same craft that a few hours afterwards ran into the Oregon.

"But Captain, how do you account for her strange actions?"

"There are several theories. One is that the entire crew were intoxicated. Another that they were taken suddenly sick.

THE DISASTER.

"That would hardly be probable, would it?"

"Why not! I noticed in the papers a few days ago, that over 200 unfortunate men, women and children at a picnic party in New Jersey were taken deathly sick and remained so for hours. Is it not reasonable that the poor fellows aboard the ship might meet the same fate?"

"But is sickness common on shipboard?"

"As common as on land. I always go provided for emergencies, and what is more, I protect my men against the coming on of disease."

"How?"

"Whenever I notice men complaining of pains in the back or sides; a tired feeling; lack of appetite; despondency; want of energy; and many other things I know what it means and that I must stop such feelings at once, or I shall have a sick or possibly dead man on shipboard. Fortunately I have found something that removes all these troubles quickly and surely."

"And do you only use it on shipboard?"

"No, indeed, I use it in my own family. My wife had those troubles which nearly every woman has—weakness, bearing down pains and irregularities, which finally ended in a very large and painful swelling in the side. The best physicians of New York treated her. Some called it tumor, others a rupture, but none cured her. I began to use the wonderful remedy I used on the steamer. In a very short time the swelling disappeared, she regained her health and strength, and is perfectly well to-day."

"A WELL MAN"

"And what medicine is it, pray?"

"Hunt's Remedy. I myself have been cured of a terrible case of catarrh of the bladder by its use, and I would not be without it for anything. I have had several men on my steamer that had the first stages of Bright's disease of the kidneys beyond a question, but they are well men to-day."

Captain Greenwood is a man of standing, and his statements can be relied upon. There is so much corroborative testimony about this same remedy, however, that the public are well informed as to its great merits, and are unquestionably decreasing disease and death by its use.

AWFUL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

The worst railroad disaster which has occurred near Boston since the horror at Revere, took place at 7:15 o'clock Monday morning, the 14th inst., on the Dedham branch of the Boston & Providence road, when the train which left Dedham at seven o'clock went through the Canoe woods bridge, which crossed South street near Forest Hill station. The train consisted of an engine, baggage car and nine passenger cars, including a smoker, the latter being the last car on the train. From some cause as yet unexplained, the bridge, which consisted of iron girders and was 120 feet long and forty feet wide, gave way after the engine, baggage car and four passenger cars had got across, five cars going down in wreck to the street fifty feet below. Two of the cars which crossed the bridge were thrown from the track upon the embankment, and badly wrecked; the others kept on the rails.

The smoking car in its descent turned bottom up, and landed on its top; it was crowded with men, but how many of them were killed and wounded is not definitely known. The second car from the rear turned partially over and was completely wrecked; the third car landed on its bottom, and the roof and floor were crushed close together; the fourth car struck at right angles across the street, and its top was torn entirely off; the fifth car was the worst shattered of the lot, the roof and sides being made into kindling wood; the car took fire, but the flames were promptly put out by the Jamaica Plain fire department, which arrived quickly in response to an alarm sent in. A large force of police were also soon at the scene of the disaster, and rendered efficient aid in extricating the dead and wounded.

Wrecking trains, with workmen and surgeons, were hastened from the Boston station under charge of the superintendent and other officials of the railroad, and the hospital ambulances were all called into requisition.

The number of people on the train is variously stated at 300 to 600; and up to Monday evening the exact number of dead and wounded was not known, although all were removed from the wreck in a few hours after the disaster took place. The names of over twenty killed were given, and the number of dead was said to be twenty-seven, including two assistant conductors of the train, and eleven women and girls. Two young women were beheaded, and one woman cut in two. Mrs. M. L. Odiorne of Dover is in the list of killed as published by the Boston Journal. Over seventy others were injured, a number of them fatally.

The Result From the Second District.

The voters in the second district did a wise thing in again selecting Dr. Gallinger as their representative, and he last week received the certificate of his election to the 50th congress. Representative Gallinger has the faculty of early perceiving the drift of every measure which comes before congress. He knows when to speak and what to say, and possesses what is a rare and valuable trait, the capacity to compress in a few sententious words what would require some members, even long in service, a whole speech in which to give it utterance. In fine, the doctor is a rare specimen of practical wisdom, capable of making himself not only heard but felt in the transaction of business in congress. He has already proved himself to be one of most valuable members that New Hampshire has had in congress for many a day. Comparisons are odious, but any one can perceive that Gallinger, even in the minority, could accomplish more in half an hour than Frank Jones' Knights of Labor representative would be able to achieve in an entire session.

Eben F. Pillsbury Dead.

Eben F Pillsbury, a prominent democratic leader in Maine and Massachusetts since the breaking out of the rebellion, died in Allston, Mass., March 14th.

They Are Displeased.

The house of representatives will have to bear the blame. It has accomplished more by its stupidity and cowardice to bring reproach upon popular government than any similar body that has met in Washington for years.—Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier.

The democratic party appears to be in a transition state. It is full of cranks who cry their medicines from an open barouche, and it is full of imbeciles who hide themselves under the bulrushes in the hope that some rich and gifted Pharaoh's daughter may find them sweetly sleeping.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

The two papers quoted from are the leading democratic papers of the south, so there is no chance to say anything about republican slanders so far as they are concerned.

Prohibition.

The prohibitionists have a stock statement which serves them on all occasions—namely, that high license does not materially decrease the number of saloons. The Chicago Tribune very bluntly takes issue with them on this point, and prints the following facts:

The Illinois high license law took effect in 1883-85. It closed 1000 saloons in the city of Chicago, and 4000 in the state. The revenue from liquor licenses in Chicago alone rose from $200,000 per year to $1,700,000. The law possessed other valuable features besides that of a flat license of $500 for the sale of ardent spirits. It provided that all municipalities might increase the license fee as much as they chose.

Another Alleged Heretic.

A formal charge of heresy has been made against Professor John E. Russell, Winkley professor of biblical theology at Yale college, by Rev. Alexander E. Duncan, a graduate of McGill university, Canada. Mr. Duncan alleges that Professor Russell's teachings are heretical, in that he denies the divinity of Christ. The Yale professors generally discredit his allegations, intimating that Mr. Duncan is desirous of gaining a little notoriety.

The Boston Globe says that if Col. George is not appointed inter-state commissioner he will at least "have the satisfaction of having filed a splendid list of endorsements from the bar of New Hampshire and elsewhere." Yes; but "fine words butter no parsnips."

The latest rumored cabinet change is that Mr. Endicott is to retire. As he is secretary of war we presume he will be fired out.

"A Half Century in Salem," by M. C. D. Silsbee. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. For sale by M. Goodrich, price $1.00. This little work, one of the daintiest, as well as one of the cheapest, of its kind, is a rare picture of the Salem of fifty years ago. This old city, like all the coast towns of New England, is rich in historical associations, and is replete with legends of society and life of the olden time. Mrs. Silsbee has woven together a series of bright sketches of its schools, churches, shops, and men and women, which are very interesting. The book is a gem in printing and binding, the cover handsomely decorated with a vignette of the porch of one of the old mansions of Salem; and its clear type, ornamental headings and initials and wide margins form a very handsome volume.

"NEARLY CRAZED with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

"DONNYBROOK."

The New York Herald calls "Donnybrook," in which the Tony Hart company will appear at Music hall to-morrow evening, "a rollicking Irish comedy-drama." The Telegram says the piece "is full of wholesome Irish fun, with sufficient plot to hold the attention to the play itself, while the specialities are of an excellent order, and given by very capable people." The Times says "the play is founded on a charming plot," and as played by this company affords "a delightful evening's entertainment."

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, March 14th.

John Lee, a marine, for one very big drunk was charged $5, with $6.90 added as costs of collection.

Patrick Peer, for vagrancy, was ordered to jail for ninety days, and to pay $6.90 costs. If he is kept in jail till he pays it in money earned by himself he will be there when the last trumpet sounds.

William Marr, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90, and paid up.

Jesse R. Niles, another drunk, was also assessed $9.90, with a residence at the county farm as the alternative.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

MONDAY, March 14th; Colt J.

In the case Norton and others against Portsmouth, Mr. Hadlock of Portland asked the court to fix a day on which the motions he filed on the 1st inst. should be heard. The court designated Thursday, March 24th, at eleven o'clock A. M., at Boston, as the time and place for hearing motions, and directed the clerk to notify the other counsel in the case.

DEATH OF HORACE H. BROWN.

Mr. Horace Haven Brown, a well known druggist of Lynn, Mass., died at his residence in Glenmere, a suburb of that city, on Sunday, March 13th, at the age of thirty-nine years, of Bright's disease, complicated with a throat affection possibly induced by continuous smoking, and recently with severe nasal hemorrhages. He had been ill about four months, but was able to attend to his business until within a few weeks.

He was the youngest of the five sons of the late Edmund M. Brown of this city, and will be well remembered here as one of the many graduates from the drug store of the late William R. Preston. In 1869 he was established in business in Claremont, N. H., and after two or three years removed to Glenmere, where he continued in the drug business up to the time of his decease. He was of a very cheerful and happy disposition, was a prominent member of the I. O. O. F., and will be sadly missed in the brothers' circle, in the order, and by the entire community in which he lived and where he was much beloved.

He leaves a wife, daughter of Joseph B. Creassy, Esq., of Newburyport, and three young sons; also four brothers, James C. and E. Washington Brown of this city, Charles W. Brown of Lynn, and Joseph T. Brown of Boston.

COULD NOT HAVE THE STOCK.

A case was decided at the law term of the supreme court last week, involving a question of specific performance. It seems that a young man named Downing, with an apparent lack of the uses of money which he had inherited, purchased the famous yacht Una, which has summered and wintered at this port, for $6,000, and agreed to give in part payment sixty shares of the Abbott Downing Co. stock, and cash for the remainder. Downing was decreed to be a spendthrift by the probate court at Concord, and his guardian attempted to rescind the sale. The yacht was sold, and the proceeds have for a long time been on deposit here awaiting the determination of a suit which Mr. Eckstein, the former owner of the Una, brought to compel a specific delivery of the stock, he not being content to receive the adjudged value, sixty dollars a share, in money. The court held that a specific performance was based on the want of an adequate remedy at law, and was not a mere matter of right, but rested upon a sound and reasonable discretion of the court; that as there was no need of a specific performance in this case, as the complainant could recover his pay for his plaything at a cash price, the bill he brought to compel a specific performance must be dismissed.

LECTURE--CONCERT.

The Murray society of the Universalist church have arranged to present on Thursday evening, March 17th, in the church, a lecture-concert by Mr. N. J. Corey, assisted by Miss Helen M. Poland and Mrs. L. J. Childs, all of Boston. Mr. Corey's lecture is on "Music as a Mode of Expression," and as he possesses fine descriptive powers, his illustrations by poems, legends and frequent solos on the piano, with songs by the lady assistants, make the subject exceedingly instructive to all lovers of music. Miss Poland and Mrs. Childs are attractive and brilliant singers, and win great applause wherever they appear.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

A teachers' institute for Rockingham county, organized under the law of 1883, will be held in the town hall at Exeter next week, beginning at nine o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, the 23d inst., and closing on the 25th. Under the state law the time, not exceeding three days in any one term, actually spent by any public school teacher in attendance upon a teachers' institute held under the direction of the superintendent of public instruction, is considered to be time lawfully expended in the service of the district where such teacher is employed, and no deduction of wages is allowed to be made therefor. Round trip tickets over the Boston & Maine railroad between Dover and Exeter and Atkinson and Exeter, and over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad between Auburn and Newmarket junction and Portsmouth and Newmarket junction, good for return until Saturday, the 26th, will be sold at two cents per mile. Teachers desiring board at private houses during the continuance of the institute can be accommodated if they will write to Hon. John D. Lyman at Exeter.

THE ALTERNATIVE.

Puck suggests that as the burglars who broke into nineteen stores in this city secured but fifty dollars in money and twenty dollars' worth of goods, "hereafter they will stay away from Portsmouth or break into more stores."

The interment of the remains of Mr. Arthur S. Gerrish will be in this city, Mrs. Gerrish, his mother, started on her sad journey home Sunday evening, and will be met at Cleveland by her brother-in-law, Mr. Robert S. Harris.

Mr. Ralph L. Reinewald, formerly of this city, now living in Salem, Mass., has organized a military band which has been accepted by the officers of the Eighth regiment M. V. M., which will hereafter be known as the Eighth Regiment Band. Twenty-five new uniforms have been ordered. Mr. Rienewald is an accomplished musician and a very efficient leader, and great success is predicted for his new organization.

The regular monthly session of Storer Post, G. A. R., occurs on Wednesday evening next. Members are requested to attend promptly as business of importance will come before the meeting.

The painful anxiety evinced in this city on Monday to learn the particulars of the awful disaster on the Dedham branch railroad, from the time when the first despatch giving information concerning it was bulletined at the Chronicle office up to the arrival of the Boston evening papers with full details of the accident, was almost as intense as that when the terrible collision occurred at Revere. No persons from this immediate vicinity are among the sufferers, unless possibly there is one from Dover.

The overseers of the poor have received another installment of $45 from the executors of the estate of the late Daniel Austin, to be applied to the Austin fund for the proper observance of "Emancipation Day." Our colored fellow citizens will be able to provide an additional ham for their feast, or add to the gorgeousness of the decorations of the hall, as they annually celebrate with song and dance the day when the shackles were stricken from their race.

At the annual school meeting in Rye, on the 12th inst., Mr. G. Harrison Jenness, who has long been actively identified with the management and progress of the schools of the town, was elected a member of the board of education for three years. Mr. Supply F. Trefethen resigned as a member of the board, after one year's service, and Mr. Thomas W. Rand was elected to fill the vacancy. Messrs. Jenness and Trefethen, and Hon. Emmons B. Philbrick, made speeches in regard to the new high school which the town at the late town meeting voted to establish.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Boston Traveller asserts that Henry Austin, Esq., of Rye, will not qualify as register of deeds, to which office he was elected in November last.

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

The Voices of Fishes.

A number of years ago, while on a fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico, in the City of Yucatan, I hauled in a small fish known to science as the Haemulon, and to sailors as the grunt, and never was a fish better named, as no sooner did I take it in hand than it rolled a most expressive pair of eyes as far as fish could roll them, and commenced an appeal that quite astonished me. First the grunts were low and uttered singly; then they grew louder and faster, and finally the fish hurled at me a perfect volley of sounds that I accepted as an entreaty for mercy and hurriedly tossed him back. Later I caught many grunts, and they were all very talkative out of water; but whether these sounds could be uttered in their native element it would be difficult to determine.

I have heard the Haemulon grunt, the croupers, as well as a number of fishes, croak, and the dog fish bark (croak). The little seahorse, hippocampus, utters a curious sound that is caused by the vibrations of certain small voluntary muscles. Dr. C. C. Abbott heard the mud sunfish, Acantharchus pomitis, utter a deep, grunting sound, and the gizzard shad makes an audible, whirring noise. The chub sucker, Erimyzon oblongum, utters a single prolonged note, while the catfish, Amiurus lynx, produces a gentle humming sound. Abbott believes, however, that the most musical of the fishes is the eel, that utters a single note frequently repeated, and has a slightly metallic resonance. The fact that the organ of hearing in these musical fishes is very well developed would seem to point to the belief that the notes were calls; and as the air bladder in fish represents to some extent the lungs of other animals, there is no reason for not thinking that the fishes have vocal communication. The musical notes and noises are produced in several ways. Some are due to the action of the pneumatic duct and swimming bladder, while others are accidental, or produced involuntarily by the lips or the pharangeal or intermaxillary bones. The notes made by the carp and tench are due to the latter, while those of the catfish and eels are made by forcing air from the swimming bladder into the æsophagus.—Boston Herald.

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Disease.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent us the most flattering testimonials of its value as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

For 30 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the last year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is evinced by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record which evidence a cure of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.

With every advance of emigration into the far west, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared lands, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural and mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the bitters afford the only sure protection against malaria, and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climate changes, exposure, and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

—"Silver pitchers for presentation to bridal couples can be had of us as low as $2, and they will wear for three months," advertises a Chicago firm. That firm has tumbled to a long felt want, and these pitchers will soon be sold all over the United States. Can't they manage to get up a set of silver spoons or forks for about twenty-five cents?

Let the poor sufferer from female complaints take courage and rejoice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore you.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

Three dollars invested in one ticket in the Sixth of Fortune under the management of The Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans, La., with the supervision of Gen'ls G. T. Beauregard of La. and Jubal A. Early of Va., who (as usual) had the entire conduct of the 2 2d Grand Monthly Drawing on Tuesday (always Tuesday), March, 1887. The amount scattered was $565,000. The tickets were $10 each. No. 23,062 drew the First Capital of $150,000. It was sold in fourths at $1 each—one was won by a "combine" of twenty-two car drivers of the Lombard and South St. Railway of Philadelphia, and was paid by Adams Express Co.; one was paid to Joseph Strang of Auburn, N. A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

GOLDEN ROD.

Oh, golden rod!
Didst thou not know how long the winter lasted,
How wearily we waited for the spring?
Couldst thou not wait through waning sign of summer?
Not yet quite fling—
Thou thoughtless, eager footed comer—
Along the road side o'er each green hillside
Thy golden banners wide?

Dost thou not know how long we watched the pine tips
Before they opened all the golden store!
How long before the gray oak marble branches
Burst forth to tell that spring had come once more?
Before the alder tassels dropped and quivered
Above the rare green in the meadow more?
Before the earth stirred softly with the stirring
Of germ and rootlet, and we could not hear?

Ah no! thou knowest not! No sign of sorrow
Is in thy face. No vigils dost thou keep;
For thee there is no rest and no to-morrow.
What is not joy to thee is dreamless sleep.
Thou expect warm through all the lingering winter;
There starts no memory where thou art laid;
Blind to the future, too, thou knowest never
How short the time before thee, too, must fade.

Thou art some wild beacon, broadly flaring,
Starting from roadsides, from the peaceful town,
That cries in flame along the far horizon,
"Behold, the enemy comes sweeping down!
Arise, for rest is past! Beat out the plowshare!
Forge gleaming blade and spear! Gird sword on thigh!"
From hill to hill thy signal fires leap blazing;
Far to the north they light up all the sky.

Unconscious herald! Thine to bear the tidings,
The certain winter it is sure to know.
The waiting is so very long, and summer—
We scarcely know her ere she turns to go.
Oh, golden rod! Couldst thou no longer tarry?
Droop the red clover, fades the elder's snow;
The flowers dies as thou the waving daisy,
While far and wide thy yellow banners blow.

Oh, golden rod!
Thou didst not know how long the winter lasted,
How wearily we waited for the spring!
Thou couldst not wait, thou sign of waning summer,
That now dost fling—
Thou thoughtless, eager footed comer—
Along the road side o'er each green hillside
Thy golden banners wide.

HOW DOLLS ARE MADE.

The Manufacture of the Aristocratic Paper Pulp Doll.

The doll fraternity may be divided into several races, differing in development and in artistic execution. There is the old fashioned wooden doll, whose shrunken shanks are sometimes covered with (?) shredly garments. This is the poor girl's doll. Then there is another wooden doll, but more polished, whose limbs and trunk are padded and covered with white leather. Sometimes this species has a porcelain head on it. There is also a dummy doll, made of India rubber, whose sole virtue is that it is unbreakable.

Then comes the aristocratic doll, which is made out of nothing else but paper, with a porcelain head, but it is quite a superior creature. This is the doll which is made in Paris to-day. Hundreds of thousands of them are exported every year, and sell at anything from 50 cents up to $400. It is not many years since this new race first appeared, but it has already driven its predecessors out of the market in Paris. Here is how it is made.

The paper pulp is first worked into a fine mortar. Then the dolls are molded bit by bit. One workman will mold nothing but arms, another the feet, and so on. When the trunks and limbs are shaped and dried they are painted. They get five coats of whitish paint, and are then varnished. After this elastic bands are inserted in the arms and legs to keep them together. The joints are made workable, and into whatever position you may put an arm or leg it will stick there.

The head is more difficult to make than the body. It is as already observed, made out of porcelain. After being molded the heads are put into an oven and are burned for twenty-seven hours. Then they are rubbed with pumice stone and polished. Then they are painted, and the painting and coloring of a doll's head is a ticklish business, requiring, as the French say, the utmost delicatesse. The doll's eyes are made on the same principle as artificial human eyes. Its hair is wool from wild goats in the mountains of Thibet. To turn out one of these dolls thirty different persons are required.

In order to find out who buys these big dolls, which are too big for children and too expensive for ordinary people, I called on M. Jaumeau, the inventor or father of the doll I have described, who employs 500 workmen and women in his factory, and a number of outsiders besides. After giving me some general particulars about the doll industry he remarked:

"The very largest dolls, about three and a half feet in height, and costing 70 francs ($14) without clothes, are generally bought by shopkeepers to put in their windows and serve to show off boys' and girls' dresses. Then young ladies of 18 and 20 buy dolls to keep in practice dressmaking with them. They are also used for ornaments in houses, because a well and artistically made doll is a thing of beauty. Which are the greatest doll buying countries? Well, after France, Russia or the United States go in most for dolls de luxe. We also send a great many to Spain, but very few to England. The English do not spend much money on dolls."—Paris Cor. St. Louis Republican.

Trying to Close the Grotto.

The blue grotto of Capri is threatened either with destruction or being closed to the public. An American has bought the land over it, and he claims that everything below the surface belongs to him. In vindication of his right he has brought a suit. If he wins it he will be able to close the grotto. If he loses he will be able to make a hole through its ceiling, which will put an end to the blue reflections inside it.—Chicago Tribune.

"I have a theory about the dead languages," remarked a Brown university freshman. "I think they were killed by being studied too hard."—Providence Telegram.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that they have permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in combination with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. Attacked with chills my health broke up; head could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I tried one bottle of CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

The Great Railroad Disaster.

The list of casualties by Monday morning's bridge disaster, as completed up to Monday at midnight, contained the names of thirty-two dead and over seventy wounded, some of the latter being so badly injured that recovery was regarded as impossible; the following was the list of dead:

Ida Adams, Alice Burnett, Mrs. Hormidas Cardinal, Hattie J. Dudley, Geo. Gay, William Johnson, Albert E. Johnson, Mary Murphy, William S. Strong, Miss Swallow, all of Roslindale; Webster N. Drake, conductor, William E. Durham, Mrs. Kennard, Lizzie Mandeville, Edward E. Norris, car-counter Boston & Providence railroad, Myron Tilden, conductor, Benjamin Taylor, Elizabeth A. Webster Clapp, Emma P. Hill, Miss Harkins, Waldo B. Lailor; Miss M. L. Odlorne of Dover, N. H., employed by Salem Wilder of Summer street, Boston.

It was feared that still other bodies would be found crushed under the wreck when the ruins should be removed.

The railroad commissioners of Massachusetts on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock began an investigation into the cause of the disaster.

CHURCH REPORTS.

Zion's Herald, the official organ of the Methodist organization, gives the following report of the progress of the churches of the denomination in Kittery and York, Me., during the past quarter:

Kittery, First and Second churches: Bro. Grovenor is enjoying his pastorate with these churches, and is seeing some fruit from his labors. Two persons have been baptized during the quarter, five received on probation, and one into full membership. One hundred and eighty-three volumes have been added to the Sunday-school library, and the First church has been painted outside, adding much to its appearance as well as helping its durability. We regret to say that not more than six copies of Zion's Herald or any other church paper, are taken on this charge, though the preacher has faithfully canvassed the whole ground.

York: Nothwithstanding some things which have sorely tried the patience and courage of the pastor, he has not been without some blessing from God. At Agamenticus, a part of the charge, some six miles distant from the village proper, Bro. Corey has seen evidences of saving power. Here through the winter months he has labored, assisted by Bro. R. Crock, a layman of Berwick charge, and at nearly every meeting held, some have evidenced a desire for salvation. At one of the meetings fifteen rose, and still the work goes on. Four have been received on probation, and seven have been baptized.

Thirty persons were injured in a railroad accident near Girard, Illinois, one day last week. Two trains were racing, and one was ditched.

THE PLACE OF THE SKULL.

A Traveler's Visit to New Guinea's Golgotha—A Hideous Heathen Temple.

The temple, for a native building, was really good. In front was the large platform, and immediately under the great high peak in front was a large veranda, on which the men sat, sheltered from the sun and rain. Rising from the veranda were three large posts, supporting the peak, about eighty feet high. Standing just inside these posts he looked down an aisle nearly 200 feet in length. All down either side was hung with what seemed like splendid silk curtains, and these were made from the young frond of the sago palm split up when quite new.

The flooring on the aisle, two feet broad, appeared to be a dark stained, highly polished wood and carved with figures of men, crocodiles and cassowaries; this was made from the skin of the sago palm, and received its high polish from the blood of victims dragged along to the end where the most sacred place was, and the constant tread of numerous feet. Inside the whole place was divided into compartments, in each of which were fires, where the owners spent much time in eating and sleeping.

In a large open space near the sacred place were pins to hang skulls on. These during their visit were down being cleaned and dressed; and having a compartment close by, he had a good opportunity of seeing them—in fact, some being too new, he found a difficulty getting through his light dinner. The skulls were all carved, and done over with many colors. A feast would soon be on, and the heaps of skulls would disappear, because all would find their places on the skullery pins. The head gear once belonged to inland natives, who were killed, brought into the dubu, presented to the gods, then cooked and eaten.

The length of the temple was nearly 200 feet. The floor was quite level, but the roof tapered from the high peak until at the farthest end it was not more than nine feet high. At that end there was an inclosure which no native went near, and he was anxious to know what was inside. He was told not to go near, as it was very sacred and death would be the fate of any who attempted to enter, except those whose duty it was. His interpreter and his friend would not come near and he begged the chief to allow him to enter. He kept some distance off and begged him to remain outside.

His interpreter, seeing his great desire to enter, told them he (Mr. Chalmers) was a queer fellow, went everywhere, saw everything and no harm came to him, and perhaps it would be so now. He was allowed on that to enter, but no one would accompany him. When his eyes became accustomed to the darkness he saw six wicker made gods with mouths like frogs, enormously large and open, the body of a dugong, measuring about 9 feet in length and 7 feet high. Altogether they were hideous looking things.

He put his hand into the mouth of one, and was somewhat startled when out flew dozens of small bats, which disturbed those in the other images, and soon the whole place was full. Outside they were in great consternation and begged him to retreat, as he would certainly die. He told them he was all right, and when he had seen a little more he should return to them.

The following morning he again entered with one of the sorcerors whose duty it was to attend therein. His interpreter was just outside, coming nearer than the day before, and the old man who accompanied him told him that they, the images, were very sacred and called Kaniba. Before going to fight they were consulted, and also in sickness, death or trouble. Bodies of the stags, pigs, armshells, and other valuables were presented to them. Bodies of the slain were dragged down the long aisle and placed just outside, near to the partition, where they were left for some time, then dragged to the outside and disposed of. The idols were greatly feared and no one even spoke disrespectfully of them—Explorer in London Times.

CORNER MARKET AND BOW STREETS.

"NEARLY CRAZED with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPURR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled. 2

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, March 15th.

Michael Norton and John Fowley were before the court on charge of having been drunk, but were allowed to depart.

Frank Bunger, a marine, was fined $3, costs $6.90, and paid it.

Jeremiah Megan, another marine, do., do., do.

Sewall B. Fowler of Seabrook was brought up on a charge of larceny from the person of George Walton of that town. On the 26th of February last, Walton, while on his way home from a dance, was robbed of about fifty dollars, and very strongly suspected Fowler, who only a short time before had been discharged from Portsmouth jail. Solicitor Eastman was consulted, and he placed the case in Sheriff Kent's hands. Monday night Fowler was arrested in Newburyport and brought here, charged with the offense. He asked to have his case continued till Saturday, which was granted. In default of $800 bail he was committed to jail. Fowler denies the charge, but the sheriff is positive he has got the right man.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

TUESDAY, Mch. 15th; Hackett Com.

Horace B. Rand of Newcastle, a young man who formerly wrote correspondence for the Penny Post from that town, and is now the Newcastle correspondent of Foster's Democrat of Dover, was arrested on Tuesday by United States Marshal Barker and Ex-Marshal Patterson on a charge of sending obscene matter through the United States mail, and in the afternoon had a hearing before Commissioner Hackett, who held him in $1,000 for his further appearance, bail being furnished. Letters that were put in as evidence by District Attorney Frink were read, and were of the vilest and most libellous character; they are alleged to have been sent through the mail by the defendant to Major David Urch, with whom he has not been on friendly terms recently.

THE LOST FOUND.

The advantage of advertising in the Chronicle received a striking exemplification recently. A young man lost on Monday, the 14th inst., a pocket book, which although it contained no money was highly valued. There were several momentoes and keepsakes of absent friends in it, of small intrinsic worth, but to him priceless for the tender memories they invoked. There was also a badge of a secret order to which he belonged, which was beyond price, as without it it would be difficult to obtain admission into his lodge. This pocket book was found shortly after the owner dropped it, by two gentlemen who brought it into this office, and on Tuesday morning the notice of its finding was printed in the Chronicle. The joy of the young man when he recovered his lost treasure can be well imagined.

"DONNYBROOK."

This evening, at Music hall, Tony Hart and his company will give an entertainment which will interest and heartily amuse all who may attend, unless the dramatic critics of the large cities are a lot of mendacious flatterers, for they all say the show is the best thing in the shape of an Irish comedy-drama brought out of late years, and that Mr. Hart, who is widely known personally as a superior actor, dancer and vocalist, has gathered a company of competent performers to assist him in giving "Donnybrook" satisfactorily to the public. Tickets at Goodrich's.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., March 14th.

Town election to-day; weather splendid, and the result of the balloting as follows;

For town clerk, Joseph Bragdon 285.

For selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor, George W. S. Putnam 284, Almon H. Merrow 188, Charles W. Junkins 163, Charles Junkins 160, Johnson B. Moulton 132, A. C. Moulton 48, Daniel Weare 1.

For treasurer, Samuel W. Junkins 220, Joseph H. Moody 106.

For collector of taxes, Rufus A. Moody 329.

For agent, Edward S. Marshall 218, Joseph L. Grant 111.

For superintending school committee—for long term, H. B. Marshall 221, John C. Stewart 135; for short term, William Crvelman 214, Samuel J. Perkins 112.

For auditor of accounts, George W. Currier 230, Albion Goodwin 106.

There being choice of only two selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor, a ballot was ordered, whereupon Charles Junkins received one hundred votes, and the choice of Charles W. Junkins by a vote of one hundred and eighty was considered a point gained by the democrats.

The indebtedness of the town as shown by the auditor's report is $1195 84, to which might properly be added $200 interest due on outstanding notes. The town voted the sum of $1500 to liquidate the town debt of the above mentioned $1195.84. The usual amounts for schools, roads and bridges, etc., were also raised.

The meeting was orderly on the whole—and the largest for years at a spring election. We were pleased to meet Hon. Alexander Junkins of Eliot, who came over "to see how a town meeting works in Old York." The Hon. brought up a point of law relative to elections which will need looking after.

Mr. H. R. Eastman, who for several years past has been doing quite an amount of freighting between this place and Portsmouth, now lies dangerously ill with dropsy. Dr. Hazen is in attendance. Large quantities of water have been taken from him at four tappings within three weeks, and no hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Frank Moulton, son of Asa Moulton, missed only one-half day of schooling during the term just closed in district No. 13. Bert Moulton, son of Henry Moulton, and Charlie Moulton, son of Charles Moulton, missed one day each.

A series of meetings by Rev. Miss Lizzie Haley commences this (Monday) evening, and will continue every evening "t. f."

A record and publication of every "heavy man" in York weighing two hundred pounds or more, will be made on communication of the names and weights to your correspondent.

Mrs. Nancy S. Witham, a lady of sixty-five years, who was born and has always resided within two miles of what is called "New Boston" in York, and has travelled hundreds of miles both east and west, strange to say was never at New Boston until yesterday, when she called on her niece, Mrs. J. O. Leavitt, who has lived there for the last fifteen years. P.

MARITIME NOTES.

The revenue cutter Dallas came up the river about five o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and took a berth at the navy yard wharf.

Schooner Clara B. Kennard, Freeman master, is bending her sails and otherwise getting ready to sail for Rockland, Me., for a load of lime.

The schooner Triton, of the Piscataqua brick fleet, is being got in readiness for the opening of the spring business.

The case of the seized American schooner Ella M. Doughty was to have been begun in Halifax, N. S., last Saturday, but was postponed on account of the snow blockade, which prevented the arrival of necessary witnesses.

A despatch was received in this city on Monday, the 14th inst., announcing the death in Chicago of Mrs. Towle, wife of Capt. George W. Towle of Newcastle, who with her husband has been passing the winter with their son, Col. George F. Towle, who is stationed in Chicago as a member of Gen. Terry's staff. Her remains will probably arrive in this city to-day, and will be placed in the receiving tomb at Harmony Grove cemetery.

A large party of young ladies and gentlemen attended the select social assembly at Congress hall, given under the management of Messrs. Rowe, Emery, Church and Conner, Tuesday evening, and to the choice music of Harlow's band merrily danced the fleeting hours away.

The Lecture-Concert at the Universalist church, Thursday evening, will be a fine affair, and well worth the attendance of all lovers of music.

Howard Hilton of Wells, who was implicated in stealing freight from a Boston & Maine train recently, and who was discharged from the municipal court in Biddeford last week for lack of evidence, has confessed his guilt. He will be indicted at the May term of court, but will turn state's evidence. Some of the goods stolen were found in this city, Dover and Great Falls, and nearly all the plunder has been recovered.

A Boston lawyer named Poor has bought the Mark Blake place on Gerrish's island, Kittery. The whole island is rapidly passing from the possession of the descendants of the early inhabitants of the town, into the hands of non-residents who appreciate its beauties and advantages as a summer resort.

Mrs. Charles A. Davis of Hyde Park, Ill., is passing a few days with the family of her husband's father, Mr. Lewis G. Davis of this city. Mrs. Davis was some time ago called to her former home in Brunswick, Me., by the serious illness of her father, and on her way to rejoin her husband makes a short stay here.

Mark Wadleigh, while working in the woods at Exeter last Saturday, was killed by a tree falling upon him and crushing his skull. Wadleigh was about sixty years of age, and lived in Kensington.

A line of Jersey Waists at $1.00 have just been received by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street.

Senator Edmunds does not think the administration has been a success. Sure.

It is thought at Washington that the new commissioner of patents to succeed M. T. Montgomery of Michigan, resigned, will probably be Ex-Congressman Parker of Sullivan county, in this state. He has the backing of Hon. Frank Jones. Hosea has been looking for an office for many years.

Mark Twain says of Prof. Loisette's system of memory training, now taught at 237 Fifth Ave., New York: "Prof. Loisette did not create a memory for me—no, nothing of the kind. And yet he did for me what amounted to the same thing; for he proved to me that I already had a memory—a thing which I was not aware of till then. I had before been able—like most people—to store up and lose things in the dark cellar of my memory; but he showed me how to light up the cellar. The information cost me but little, yet I value it at a prodigious rate."

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

Becoming Mental Dyspeptics.

The present system is but a course of mental dissipation, and our children are fast becoming mental dyspeptics. They nibble bits of twenty kinds of cake and take infinitesimal doses of beef and potatoes. May be they would not get on so fast in the curriculum, but the work of the world is done by draft horses, who would cut but a sorry figure on the race track. This touch and go system must be abandoned and in its stead a substantial English education of reading, writing and ciphering substituted.—O. S. Cook.

Longest Tunnel in the World.

An engineering work that has taken over a century to construct can hardly fail to offer some points of interest in its history, and illustrate the march of events during the years of its progress. An instance of this kind is to be found in a tunnel not long since completed, but which was commenced over a hundred years ago. This tunnel, or adit as it should be more strictly termed, is at Schemnitz, in Hungary. Its construction was agreed upon in 1782, the object being to carry off the water from the Schemnitz mines to the lowest part of the Gran valley.

The work is now complete, and forms the longest tunnel in the world, being 10.27 miles long, or about one mile longer than St. Gothard, and two and a half miles longer than Mont Cenis. The height is nine feet ten inches and the breadth five feet three inches. This tunnel, which has taken so long in making, has cost nearly £1,000,000, but the money appears to have been well spent; at least the present generation has no reason to grumble, for the saving from being able to do away with water raising appliances amounts to £15,000 a year.—Engineering.

"Been north, I understand," said Jones to Brown, who had gone to New Hampshire to sponge on some of his rich kin.

"Yes, I was up among my relatives."

"How did they treat you?"

"Oh, immense! Nothing was good enough for me, and"—dropping his voice—"that's just what they gave me."—Washington Critic.

The coopers in two large New York shops have given up a strike, and withdrawn from the Knights of Labor.

The Congregational ministers of Chicago at their weekly meeting on the 14th inst., passed a resolution highly eulogistic of Henry Ward Beecher. Two ministers protested, but all the rest voted in favor of its passage.

I am glad to tell you that since using Athlophoros I am freer from rheumatism than I have been in twenty years. A lady near me, who could not turn in bed for two years, has found relief from it. Rev. Mrs. A. Heath, Castleton, Vt.

—A newsboy on a southern railroad train struck a bridal couple while vending his literature. Handing a book to the bride, he said confidently: "I think this will suit you." The lady grew confused and partly laughed when he held up a book bearing in flaming letters the title, "Wife in Name Only."

The Housekeeper's Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and such a friend you will always find in Sulphur Bitters? They cured me of dyspepsia, when I had given up life in despair and was almost at death's door. They are a true friend of the sick.—Mrs. R. Crague, Hartford, Conn.

—A Chinaman is speaking to himself as he irons a shirt. Picks up a shirt showing evidence of having been well cared for, and says: "Bachelor. Him laudlady fix him." Picks up another, buttonless and all frayed at the wrist and neck, and says: "Mallied man."

Two great enemies—Hood's Sarsaparilla and impure blood. The latter is utterly defeated by the peculiar medicine.

—A woman recently occupied the witness stand in Belfast, Me., who was a witness in a pauper case and had been a pauper. On cross-examination the attorney asked her if she was a pauper on the town. "I was a liability," said the woman. "You were a pauper," said the attorney. "I want you to understand," said the woman, firing up, "that poor people are not paupers; they are liabilities."

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases can be on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

—A dear old mother in Israel always complimented the minister. One Sunday there seemed absolutely nothing good to say for him—the sermon was bad, the delivery worse. Her children tried to make her admit that it was a total failure, but she wouldn't. All she would say, all she could say, was: "Well, he had an excellent text."

When you want Pearline, be sure you get what you ask for. The market is full of imitations. The genuine is manufactured only by James Pyle, New York.

—A Schenectady doctor recommended a lady with a nervous ailment to try sitting in a boiler shop two hours per day. It is stated that she did so and was cured.

Is not only very palatable, but the remedial power of these valuable specifics is greatly increased and as a remedy for consumption, scrofula, emaciation, or where there is loss of flesh and nerve power, it is remarkable in its results. Take no other.

—A Penobscot river stage driver was seen wandering around the streets of Bangor the other day with a sign on his back reading, "Send Me Home."

I recommend Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for gravel. It cured me.—S. J. McCormick, United States Dep. Mineral Surveyor, Bliss Station, Idaho. My head and face was a mass of putrification. The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, Peru, Bureau, Princeton, Kewanee, Galesburg, Monmouth, Roseville, Moline, Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown, in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel on its fast lines between the Mississippi River. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of iron and stone. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that experience has proved to be necessary, and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and unobtrusive—its discipline strict and courteous. The luxury of its passenger accommodation is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.

With every advance of emigration into the far west, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared lands, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural and mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the bitters afford the only sure profection against malaria, and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climate changes, exposure, and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

Dr. Benjamin Fagnant of Springfield, Mass., has brought suit against the Boston & Albany railroad for $50,000 damages on account of injuries to his young son, May 26th, 1886, by the falling of a pole at a street crossing in Springfield, the injuries being to one of the boy's legs, which was afterward amputated.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

How to Cure a Boy of Croup.

Mrs. Samuel Nutt, of South Haven, Kansas, tells how she saved the life of her boy.

I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters for the last ten years, principally for a weak back. Not long ago I found my son very much inclined to croup. He had a bad croupy cough, and a wheezing sound in his lungs every time he breathed. He nearly died from the obstruction of the throat. I covered him from the throat to the pit of the stomach with Allcock's Porous Plasters. In two hours the cough ceased and he breathed much easier. In a few days he was entirely well. I kept the Allcock's Porous Plasters on him six days. Since then, whenever he is affected with colds in the throat, I never use anything but an Allcock's Porous Plasters, which cures him immediately, without any inconvenience. They are the best preventive of the croup ever known, and I would not be without them for any consideration.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.
High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.
Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.
Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poobed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.
Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,
Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.
I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefited and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

HARD LIFE AMONG THE TUBS.

How Large Families are Supported by the Use of the Washboard.

Take an East Broadway car, fetch a compass unto the classic regions of Cherry street and there may be penetrated the very head of washwommandom, where tenement is bound to tenement by closely interwoven lines of fluttering wet linen and the atmosphere is as redolent of warm soapsuds as the pages of "L'Assommoir." There all ranks and classes of laundresses live, and the stories of their lives bear out the claim that there is rarely reason any hard working, self respecting woman should live in squalor. That is what one laundress said who had seven little children to support and had been in bed for two months with gastric fever.

"When I'm on my feet," she declared, "the children want for nothing and I asks favors from nobody. It's been pretty hard with me here on my back for two months now, taken down Thanksgiving day and never up since, but my sisters is good and helps me and my biggest girl does all the washing she can and makes a few dollars. There's no reason in the world why a hard working woman shouldn't live quite decent and respectable on washing—I always did and mean to agin when I'm well. There's the children, all like steps, and 'he' and myself. He has been out of work for nearly a year and has just this week got a watchman's place, but when there's a big family like this the woman's got to help. How many children is there in all?" she said, turning to the eldest daughter, who leaned on the foot of the bed and wiped her wet, red arms on her apron.

The pale, fagged girl went into an abstruse calculation on her fingers, reckoning up an endless number of Tommies and Susies and Marys, winding up with the baby, which made seven.

"Yes, sir; seven, and me and him's nine, and we lived quite respectable all the year on $10 the week. How did we do it? Well, I never counted the money, but spent it as it came and it always came out even in the end. For one thing, we only pays $6 a month for this flat, because I'm the caretaker of the house and that counts for the rent. Then the children get a big slice of bread and butter and a cup of coffee for their breakfast, meat and some potatoes or cabbage for their dinner and bread and tea again for supper. They live quite hearty on that and go to school regular. Me and the girl and my husband have a bit of bacon at night. The coal is the thing that costs most; it takes a lot of it to heat the irons and often, in bad weather, all the clothes has to be dried in the house. But there's one thing certain, any woman that does honest work can live quite nice and comfortable on washing if she don't drink; that's the trouble with most of them."

The sister of the sick woman lived not far away and was one of the aristocrats of the profession. She had four rooms and lived there with a young daughter in much comfort. They had a parlor with a set of walnut furniture, carpet and fresh white curtains, with a motto of "God Bless Our Home" over the mantelpiece. One neat, bright room was kept entirely for a laundry and no cooking or sleeping was done there, as she only took in the very finest washing, the owners of which were particular that their clothes should have no odors. She took in washing from the big, fashionable flats up town, the clothes being marvels of dainty luxury, many of silk and all covered with lace and embroidery.

"I average about $15 or $16 a week," she said, "and I ask $3 or $3½ a dozen for every stitch I take in, for they are all fine and covered with trimming and takes extra work. Besides, you've got to be regular trained to know how to do all this fine stuff, and then every one as could do them at all. Me and my daughter lives quite comfortable and never wants for anything. We've always as much work as we can do and the ladies pay well and promptly. She can wash as well as I can and no one ever finds blue streaks in my clothes and I am careful not to tear the lace or let anything get mildewed, and I don't ask any better way of earning my living."

The third washerwoman visited was of colored persuasion and lived quite alone. "Husband?" she exclaimed. "No, I ain't got no husband. I done tried 'em once and then I quit; it's as much as I can do to take care of myself, let 'lone suppo'tin' some lazy nigger that aint no 'count 'cept to carry home the clothes; I kin hire a boy to do it cheaper. I aint never had no trouble takin' care myself washin'; no, indeed; I've got money in the savin's bank and I makes my good $10 a week regular. You see all them po' white folks on your way up stairs? Well, they takes in washin too, but they aint got no comfort about 'em and they's always in debt to the grocery man round the corner. It's drinkin' and laziness what's the matter with them. Monday I'd o'clock I got a good part of my clothes hangin' out to dry, and every day up to Friday I washes in the mornin' and irons in the afternoon, but them women, they don't do a single blessed thing all day Monday. It's late in the afternoon fore they gets the soiled clothes here, and then it's 'Mrs. Flannigan, dear, come in and have a glass of beer, do;' and then she and Mrs. Flannigan sits down and talks all the time they're drinkin' it, and Mrs. Flannigan stands treat next day, and so it goes all the week, so you needn't wonder to see them poor and dirty and their room so nasty I wouldn't set down in it."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Thirteen years ago a hospital was started in London on the plan of discarding the use of alcohol except where every other means failed. Since the beginning only four cases out of tens of thousands have been treated with alcohol, and the percentage of recoveries has been much larger than in any other hospital.—Chicago Times.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Buchanan, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1876 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."
Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed a languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and heal of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, confusing the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with three clear and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Another Democratic Ring Broken.

A Chicago despatch of the 15th inst. says: "Warden McGarigle of the Cook county hospital, Warden Varnell of the county insane asylum, Edward McDonald, engineer at the county hospital, Richard O. Driscoll, book-keeper of the Chicago Pharmaceutical company, and one James T. Connolly, were arrested tonight for conspiracy to defraud the county, and an army of detectives and deputy sheriffs is scouring the city for others of the 'boodlers' who have within a couple of years brought this county to the verge of bankruptcy." The persons named are all prominent members of the democratic ring which by fraud and crime of every description has carried Chicago for Carter Harrison, and Cook county and the legislature of the state for the democratic party, McDonald being a brother of the notorious "Mike" McDonald, the leading gambler and democratic boss of Chicago.

Declared It Off.

The former employes of the South Boston street railroad held a meeting on the evening of the 15th inst., and unanimously voted to "declare the strike off." Master Workman Croy and Worthy Foreman Short, who were very prominent at all meetings during the early period of the strike, were absent on this occasion. Treasurer Robinson of the "barge line," that promised such great results in the way of money, was called on to explain what had become of the funds, but did not do so to the entire satisfaction of the strikers. It is well enough for the strikers to declare the strike off, for it was dead several weeks ago.

Secession and Annexation in Nova Scotia.

A recent report from Nova Scotia says a genuine sensation took place in the Nova Scotia legislature when Mr. McColl, member for Pictou, a large coal-mining region, in the course of a speech declared that he was not only a square secessionist from Canada, but also an ardent annexationist to the United States. This is the first time in British history that any man on the floor of the Nova Scotia parliament has squarely pronounced in favor of annexation. Mr. McColl made this extraordinary speech with twenty-four hours after taking the oath of allegiance. It was the duty of the speaker to have immediately called the member to order and insisted upon an instant retraction, but the speaker, Hon. M. J. Power, member for Halifax, is an Irish Catholic who perhaps sympathizes with McColl's sentiments, and neglected to do so. Nor was the sentiment repudiated or deprecated by any member of the government.

It is a significant fact that several avowed annexationists have recently been elected to parliament from the chief centres of intelligence in the provinces, notably Hon. John Ellis, editor of the Globe, from St. John city; Hon. A. G. Jones, ex-minister of war, for Halifax city; and Mr. McColl, for Pictou county. Attorney General Longley, although he has never openly stated his position in parliament, is a well known annexationist. The "trooly loil" Britishers are very indignant at McColl's frankness, and more so at the speaker's silent approbation, and will probably take steps to have the latter impeached.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., March 15th.

Mr. Herbert B. Davis left for his home in Rochester, N. H., Saturday morning, to remain over Sunday with his father, Rev. Mr. Davis, pastor of the Freewill Baptist society of that town, and proceed to Lewiston on Monday to resume his studies at Bates college. He on Friday closed his school in Dist. No. 8 of this town, in which we learn he was highly appreciated by the people. His affable manners and fine presence will gain him friends wherever his lot may be cast.

The 239th annual report of the auditors and superintending school committee is in the hands of the printer, and is awaited with more than the usual interest.

The railroad commissioners and the selectmen of the town met at the depot today, to consult on the best manner of crossing the highways by the York Harbor & Beach railroad. Ground was broken Monday morning at the Kittery end of the railroad, and the construction of the roadbed is to be pushed; quite a gang of men are employed, many of them being residents of the town.

The report of the state superintendent of schools contains free high school statistics from 166 towns, and from it we learn that Kittery had in her high school last year more pupils studying the natural sciences and higher mathematics than any place in the state except the cities and large manufacturing towns. This seems a forcible argument for the continuance of our high school.

School in Dist. No. 2 finishes on Wednesday, the 16th inst.

Dr. Baker, dentist, still makes his annual visits to this section, and was domiciled Sunday with Oliver Hatch, Esq. The doctor is hale and hearty, and looks hardly a day older than he did twenty years ago.

Rockingham Lodge of Good Templars, of Portsmouth, will visit Morrill Lodge of North Kittery on Friday evening, the 18th inst., if the weather and the condition of the roads are favorable.

Town meeting on the 28th. The caucus will probably be held some evening next week, and there are indications of a lively time. We "shall get there just the same."

Edward G. Parker Post 99, G. A. R., will hold their fair about the middle of April, the exact date is not yet decided. Neighboring posts have donated liberally, and we trust the affair will be a success.

The free high school closed Friday last.

Frank Trefethen and A. H. Jenkins, while returning from York on Monday, found an animal lying on the snow beside the road. They immediately secured him and bore him home in great triumph, thinking they had caught the famed "wild critter" which has baffled so many of his would-be captors; but alas! when they arrived home and got the varmint thawed out, it proved to be a poor little woodchuck that had lost his reckoning in regard to Candlemas day, and got out ahead of spring. SUB ROSA.

The Maine senate on the 15th inst. passed a bill to empower the Boston & Maine railroad to purchase the property in Maine of the Eastern railroad.

In the case of Frazier Gilman vs. Maine Central railroad, on trial in the supreme judicial court at Augusta, Me., the jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff of $6659.62. This case arose from the taking and condemning of certain land owned by Frazier Gilman of Eden, Dak., for the location of the Maine Central railroad shops at Waterville, Me.

Capt. James H. Gillis is detached as a member of the board of inspection at San Francisco, and placed on waiting orders.

Parents who have children studying music in the schools, or by private lessons, will give them the worth of many lessons by taking them to the lecture-concert at the Universalist church this (Thursday) evening.

The town election in Wells on the 14th resulted in the choice of the following republicans: Alonzo K. Tripp, town clerk, William H. Eaton, treasurer, Samuel B. Farnsworth, selectman for three years. In Alfred the entire republican ticket was elected by about forty-five majority.

The church bells will be rung to-day in Boston for fifteen minutes at sunrise, noon and sunset, in honor of Evacuation Day, not in honor of St. Patrick's day.

"NEARLY CRAZED with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPERR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Antiphoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co, 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

PROBATE COURT---LEAVITT J.

A session of the probate court of Rockingham county was held in this city on the 15th inst., and business transacted as follows:

Wills proved: Nancy Mullen, Portsmouth, William Ward exr.; William A. Plaisted, Portsmouth, Annie M. Plaisted exe'x; Elizabeth R. Martin, Portsmouth, Charlotte E. Martin exe'x.

Administration granted: Est. of Mehitable Fernald, Portsmouth, Wm. D. Fernald admr.; Mary A. Smith, Portsmouth, Charles P. Smith admr.

Alice F. Burns was appointed guardian of Alice M. Marden, Mabel F. Marden and Eula F. Marden, minor children of John F. Marden, late of Portsmouth, deceased.

William Ward was appointed trustee of estate of Nancy Mullen.

Inventory filed: Est. Mary P. Carr.

Accounts settled: Estates of Thomas D. Bailey, Charles E. Laighton and Thomas J. Coburn, late of Portsmouth; George A. Baker, late of Newcastle; Caroline Jenness, late of Rye.

Receipts filed: Estates of Thomas D. Bailey, Charles E. Laighton, Thomas J. Coburn, Charles H. Dow, James H. Dow, Charles A. Nutter, James N. Tarlton. Also guardian receipt of F. N. Boyce.

A PROCESSION.

A queer procession which came into town over Portsmouth bridge and passed out by way of State and Middle streets on Tuesday morning, the 15th inst., attracted a good deal of attention from people who happened to be on the streets at the time. The line was led by an old buckskin horse whose appearance indicated that he was fed much better than he was groomed; then came an old-fashioned covered carryall, exhibiting on its top and in the creases of the leather the dust and hayseed of ages; then followed a democrat wagon containing two bushel baskets, two chairs turned bottom up, a bucket painted blue, a shovel and a broom, and some other articles; and the rear was brought up by an Ivers buggy, in which were stored the two seats of the democrat wagon, and a wheelbarrow, the arms of the latter sticking out behind like two stern chasers over the taffrail of one of the privateers of 1812. The driver of this unique turnout seemed as oblivious as the horse in regard to the attention attracted to it.

LITTLE ENOUGH.

Lyman H. Hartford of this city, who was a fireman on board the Kearsarge at the time she sank the Alabama, and has recently been granted a pension, on Wednesday of this week received a check for $1,000.67 pension arrears, and will hereafter draw $4 a month from the national treasury. Glad of it. We do not know whether Mr. Hartford's disabilities are a direct result of his war experience or not, and do not care; he is getting along in years and is physically afflicted, and he rendered the nation service at a time when no promise of future reward was deemed extravagant to make to those who would step forward to aid in preserving the nation's existence; and this state of affairs we consider would justify the bestowal of a much more liberal pension than the one referred to, President Cleveland's special pleading in his veto message on the dependent pension bill to the contrary notwithstanding. We hope the time is not distant when all Union veterans circumstanced similarly to Mr. Hartford will be generously cared for under a general law, not as a charity but as a right which they may properly demand at the hands of a nation they bravely defended in its day of dire need.

TONY HART'S SHOW.

Tony Hart's combination played "Donnybrook" to a fair house at Music hall on Wednesday evening, the 16th inst., and gave the best entertainment of its kind ever presented here. The piece bubbles over with rollicking fun; there was some excellent specialty work and good singing, and the performers without exception were well up in their parts; in particular, Mr. Hart as Con O'Grady, Miss Gertrude Hart as Nellie Brady, Miss Belle Stokes as Kate O'Grady, and T. J. Cronin as Tatter Jack Walsh, were immense. The entire cast merited special mention, but we have not space for it. The show is a good one, and no mistake.

PARISH MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the North Parish corporation, held at the chapel on Tuesday evening, March 15th, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

Parish Clark, Edward C. Matthews;

Wardens, Charles E. Myers, John S. Rand, Samuel W. Moses, Edward A. Ferguson and Samuel H. Kingsbury.

Messrs. Myers and Rand have been on the board of wardens many years, Mr. Rand having been first chosen in 1864, and re-elected every year since. Marcellus Bufford, Newton Johnston and William G. Billings, who have served the parish very acceptably for several years, declined re-election.

The usual appropriations were made; the weekly offering system, which has proved so successful for several years, was voted to be continued; and other matters for the interest of the parish were considered.

A VETERAN DEPARTED.

We are called to chronicle the death of our most worthy brother, Bro. James S. Spinney. He held an effective relation to the Vermont conference for forty years—the longest term of consecutive service of any member of the conference, with two possible exceptions. No man among us was held in higher esteem. He took a superannuated relation to conference three years ago, and lived at Randolph two years. Last year he purchased a home at Northfield, where he has since resided. The morning of Feb. 10th he went to visit the graded school. He was given a chair, when he sat down and died almost instantly, not uttering a single word. His funeral was attended the following Tuesday, Feb. 15th, his daughter, wife of Prof. Rocheleau of Minnesota, being present, having reached Northfield the evening before.—Zion's Herald.

James Sherburne Spinney was born in Eliot, Me., but spent most of his early life in this city, having been many years employed by the late William Jones, and he also served on the bank watch; he went from here to Vermont when about thirty years of age. He was seventy-three years old at the time of his death.

A WORTHLESS MOTHER.

Mrs. Ellen Newman, wife of a marine, was before Judge Bufford on Wednesday afternoon, the 16th inst., on complaint of the N. H. S. P. C. C., charging her with cruel neglect of her little girl, a child six years of age. She was adjudged guilty, and the child was placed in custody of Col. Marvin, who will probably obtain a home for her in a benevolent institution at Manchester.

MARITIME NOTES.

The ice is rapidly leaving Great bay and the rivers tributary to the Piscataqua.

The schooner Lizzie J. Call, Call master, of this port, sailed from Weymouth, Mass., March 15th, for Greenport, L. I., with a cargo of fertilizer.

The schooner Agnes E. Downs, Downs master, of this port, went into Boston on the 15th inst. with 20,000 lbs. of fish.

The revenue cutter Dallas, which came up to the navy yard on the evening of the 15th inst., sailed again on the 16th.

We advise our readers to attend the lecture-concert at the Universalist church this evening. For a very low price can be witnessed one of the best entertainments given in this city this winter.

Friends interested in the Gospel Temperance Prayer meeting at the south wardroom will notice the change of evening, from Wednesday to Thursday; meeting this evening at 7:30, in charge of Deacon Brown of the Free Baptist church; the bell will be rung as usual. Through the kindness of Mrs. D. H. Montgomery an organ has been placed in the wardroom, thus rendering means for a praise service before the opening of the service.

The overhead bridge on which the tracks of the Eastern railroad cross Creek street has been strengthened by placing under it in the centre of the roadway four hard pine uprights each ten inches square, one under each line of rails. It the bridge without these supports is not absolutely safe, the energetic management of the Boston & Maine road will undoubtedly at once put a new one there, or take whatever other measures are required for permanent security; the temporary supports just put up are an obstruction to the highway, and of course cannot be allowed to remain any longer than is indispensably necessary.

It is reported that Horace B. Rand, the young man arrested for sending scurrilous letters through the mail, has left the city. We are informed that other parties have been receiving similar letters in the same hand as those addressed to Major Urch.

Master Carroll Carpenter, a pupil in Mr. Rockwood's school in the Academy, on Wednesday morning, the 16th inst., slipped and fell against the guard around the stove, cutting his hand severely. The lad was injured so badly that he was conveyed to his home in a carriage.

Grand Dictator George E. Hodgdon, K. of P., of this city, visited officially Alpine Lodge of Manchester, Tuesday evening, March 15th, and received a royal welcome befitting his exalted rank in the order. A banquet at the Windsor hotel followed the exercises in the lodge room, at which the grand dictator distinguished himself, both in his discussion of the choice viands prepared and in his eloquent speech when cigars were in order.

Capt. Albert Rand, of the steamer Clara Bateman, arrived home by the forenoon train on the 16th inst., from Florida, where he has spent about two months.

The remains of Mr. Arthur S. Gerrish and Mrs. George W. Towle arrived in this city on Wednesday, March 16th, from the west, for interment.

Fifty-nine of the eighty-three overcoats stolen from a Boston & Maine freight car at Wells depot about a month ago by Getchell and Hilton of Kennebunk, have been recovered, fourteen of them having been found in the Welcome house on Deer street in this city, where they had been stored by the thieves.

A line of Jersey Waists at $1.00 have just been received by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street.

Those wool worsted suitings in plain and mixed colorings, are the very best. No. 6 Market street. J. W. Moses.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

Hawthorne and His Books.

But I find, as the years pass by, that these are not the books in my library whose covers are the loosest and whose leaves are the most dog eared. But there are books that draw me as fresh water draws a thirsty man; I return to them again and again; I cannot weary of them, because a part of my own life is lived through them; my blood circulates in them; every day I discover in them a new pleasure, as I do in each new day. They do for me that which nothing else can do; they are not perfect, but to me they are more winning than perfection. I have many wants, many deficiencies, many moods; and my favorite books are those which suit my moods, remedy my deficiencies and supply my wants. I know when I need this volume, or that, or the other. Every man at 40 is either a fool or a physician; and, at 40, every man who is not a fool has found out with what medicines to treat the varying ailments of his literary constitution; and he keeps the medicines on his nearest bookshelf.—Julian Hawthorne in The Epoch.

A Tramp's Pathetic Plea.

"I neglected to take my annual bath last summer, and I am suffering now for my carelessness. I kept putting it off until the weather became too cold. This shows you, ma'am, the evil of procrastination. And let me add that if you have it in your mind to give a poor tramp a small drop of something to keep him warm, now is the time to do it. Do not be like me, ma'am! Do not procrastinate and afterward carry around with you a chestful of remorse and regret. Be warned, madam, by one who repents at the eleventh hour."

This admonition was too strong for the lady to withstand, and she immediately went into the house and brought the tramp out a cup of weak tea, steaming hot.—Boston Courier.

It has been demonstrated that platinum wire may be drawn so fine as to be invisible to the naked eye, although its presence on a perfectly white card can be detected by the touch, and can be seen by the aid of a small magnifying glass when the card is held in such a position that the wire casts a shadow.—New York Sun.

Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

The Rock Island main line connects at Joliet, Streator, Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, LaSalle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, Bi Moines, Winterset, Menlo, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Prescott, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Center and Council Bluffs; Lower Granite, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron, Kansas City, Lawrence, Topeka, Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Sioux City, Sioux Falls, in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

The Rock Island Great Rock Road Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over its lines. Its equipment is thoroughly unlimed. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of iron or stone. Its rolling stock is the best that Skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its employes are courteous, active and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its accommodations is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

The Western Settler's Chosen Specific.

With every advance of emigration into the far west, a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the miasma which rises from recently cleared lands, particularly along the banks of rivers that are subject to freshets. The agricultural and mining emigrant soon learns, when he does not already know, that the bitters afford the only sure profection against malaria, and those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, to which climate changes, exposure, and unaccustomed or unhealthy water or diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so implicitly to be relied upon in time of need.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poobed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We hob recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquof that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

At Saxon Peasant Weddings.

Among the games enacted at some of the Saxon peasant weddings there is one which deserves to be mentioned, affording as it does a curious proof of the tenacity of old pagan rites and customs, transmitted by verbal tradition from one generation to the other. This is the Roesel Tanz, or dance of the horses, evidently founded on an ancient Scandinavian legend to be found in Thorri's "Edda." In this tale the gods Thor and Loki came to a peasant's house in a carriage drawn by two goats or rams, and asked for a night's lodging. Thor killed the two rams, and with the peasant and his family consumed their flesh for supper. The bones were then ordered to be thrown in a heap on to the hides of the animals; but one of the peasant's sons had in eating broken open a bone in order to get at the marrow within, and next morning when the god commanded the goats to get up, one of them limped on the hind leg, because of the broken bone.

At first Thor was in a great rage, and threatened to destroy the whole family, but finally allowed himself to be pacified, and accepted the two sons as hostages. In the peasant drama we have now before us the gods Thor and Loki are replaced by a colonel and a lieutenant colonel, and instead of two goats there are two horses and one goat; also the two sons of the peasants are here designated as Wallachians. Everything is, of course, much distorted and changed, but still all the principal features of the drama, which space forbids me here to enlarge upon, are clearly recognizable. The killing of the goat and its subsequent resurrection, the rage of the colonel, and the transferment of the two Wallachians into his service being all parts of the performance.—Blackwood's Magazine.

The Death of Capt. Cook.

Finally Cook determined to entice on board the vessel Queen Kealakekuu and and her husband, King Kalamiopuu. A boat, with the national colors of England flying from the stern sheets, approached the shore, containing Cook, who was in full dress uniform, and who was received upon his landing by the royal family and an assemblage of chiefs and other natives. After considerable palaver the king and queen both consented to visit the English ship. As the former was about to enter the boat an old warrior exclaimed:

"I do not believe he is a god. I will prick him with a spear. If he cries out I shall know he is not."

He thereupon struck Cook in the back, who, with a yell of terror, fell to the ground. Another thrust from the warrior plainly evidenced to the people that Cook was but mortal. After rudely dissecting the dead body, as was the national custom, the teeth were knocked out, and the heart removed and placed in the fork of a tree to dry. A native chancing to pass the spot somewhat later, seeing the heart and believing it to be that of a swine, ate it, and was horrified upon discovering the truth of the matter. Subsequently he was made a great chief, and was ever afterward pointed to as the man who ate Capt. Cook's heart.—Hawaiian Cor. Boston Bulletin.

Linen Paper Versus Cotton Paper.

By dint of frequent repetition, the statement that two kinds of paper, distinguished as cotton paper and linen, or, as it is often called, rag paper, were in common use in Europe from a very early period has gradually come to be generally accepted as true by paleographers and bibliographers. Upon equally good authority it is commonly believed that, while cotton paper was introduced into Europe by the Arabs in the Seventh or Eighth century, linen (or rag) paper was a European invention of much later date. But the time and place of the invention of linen paper, notwithstanding the long and learned controversies of the last century, have remained shrouded in mystery; nor does there seem to be any immediate prospect of arriving at a definite conclusion concerning these points. In the light of recent discoveries, however, the main question at issue, the comparative antiquity of cotton and linen paper, is in a fair way soon to be solved, if indeed we have not already before us evidence amply sufficient to enable us to reach a final decision, and a decision in direct opposition to the current belief.—Chicago Times.

Something New in Clocks.

A self winding clock is one of the novelties in this market. One would naturally think that a self winding clock would come pretty near to a solution of the problem of perpetual motion, but it doesn't. The self winding clock may be locked up and left untouched for more than a year, and it will run right along without appreciable variation, and, "is said, keep better time than a common clock that is often overregulated." In the self winder the winding is performed every hour by an electric battery concealed within the case, and it is reasonably claimed that this frequent and automatic action averts overwinding and running down, evils which are largely responsible for the variations of ordinary timepieces. Self winding clocks cost all the way from $27.50 to $700.

The inventor of this clock says he can connect by a wire all the clocks in the stations on a railway between New York and Chicago, or between any other cities, so that a simple touch on an electrical instrument in one city will set all the clocks to the same time, without a second's difference being left between any two of them. If this fertile inventor will now devise some means of keeping the watches carried by engineers and conductors of freight trains always within two or three seconds of true time he will confer a still further blessing upon his railway collision abhorring fellow men.—Chicago Herald.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I made use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, as directed, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to prevent its ever-spreading and fatal further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by facts at proper table and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with full directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Mr. J. A. Price, deputy inspector state tobacco warehouse No. 5, Baltimore, Md., says: One of my children had been suffering with neuralgia for some time. A friend recommended Salvation Oil, I procured a bottle and a few applications, to my surprise, effected a complete cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to all persons similarly affected.

A man, woman and two children have been taken to jail at Albany, N. Y., from a hole dug in the side of a hill in which they have lived for years. The place was in a horribly filthy condition. A farmer started that the couple had nine children when they first came there; they now have but two, and only one burial permit has ever been issued to the man; the police are trying to find out what has become of the other six children.

Don't Get Caught

This spring with your blood full of impurities, your digestion impaired, your appetite poor, kidneys and liver torpid, and whole system liable to be prostrated by disease—but get yourself into good condition, and ready for the changing and warmer weather, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It stands unequalled for purifying the blood, giving an appetite, and for a general spring medicine.

A Halifax despatch says "It is now reported that the Nova Scotia government will submit the question of secession from the Dominion to popular vote at an early day. The local government was elected purely on the secession issue, and it feels that it must carry on the agitation unless it receives direct instructions to the contrary from the electorate.

Well Bought

Half sold is an old adage from a wise man. Good whiskey ready at hand often breaks up a cold and wards off disease. G. O Taylor Old Bourbon or G. O. Taylor Pure Rye can always be depended upon for purity. In bottles bearing firm name of Chester H. Graves & Sons over cork and on label ensures genuineness. Druggists and grocers sell it.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

FRIDAY, MARCH 18, 1887.

Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N. H., as a second-class matter.]

☞ Copies of the GAZETTE and of the DAILY CHRONICLE can be had of Moses Brothers, at their Newspaper store in Congress Block.

Can't Spare Him.

The republican members of the Philadelphia delegation in the Pennsylvania house of representatives met on the evening of the 16th inst., and decided unanimously to rearrange the congressional apportionment for Philadelphia, so as to provide a democratic district for Mr. Randall. Randall is objectionable for his cheese-paring economy and opposition to proper appropriations for providing the means of national defence, but he is of more value in opposing the free-trade schemes of the British manufacturers than any republican member of congress could possibly be. We wondered at the shortsightedness of the Pennsylvania republicans in squeezing him out of a district.

A Long Strike Ended.

The long strike of coal heavers at Elizabethport, N. J., is over. The first serious break in the ranks of the strikers occurred on the 15th inst., when a number of the men applied for work, and were accepted, after which a meeting was held by the others, and it was voted to abandon the strike and endeavor to get taken back. The brakemen on the New Jersey and other railroads, who struck out of sympathy with the coal handlers, are left out in the cold entirely, as the roads refuse to take any of them back on any terms.

Horse Trading.

George F. Hogaden of Great Falls, while in Boston on the 16th inst., was met by a stranger who wanted to know where he could board his two horses. While talking, a third man came up and said to Hogaden's new acquaintance, "I can't sell you that horse." The latter spoke to Hogaden in a whisper and said "I'll give you $25 if you will buy that horse for me." Hogaden found the man and succeeded in buying the horse, paying $50 down to secure the trade. He then went to his principal for the rest of the money, but was refused. He returned to get back his $50, but failed in that also. The result is he is out that amount of money, and the other fellows are ahead $50.

Rum and Misery.

At Suncook, Friday morning, a woman by the name of Calahan was found dead at her home in one of the tenement blocks near the freight depot in the village. She was found lying on the floor, and appearances indicated that she had been dead several hours. In the same room a daughter was found lying upon a bed dead drunk, and on a table near the head of the dead woman was a glass of rum. The house was very cold, and apparently there had been no fire for several days. It is supposed that the woman was drunk, and, lying down on the cold floor, froze to death. The daughter was so drunk that she knew nothing of the condition of her mother. Mrs. Calahan was about seventy-five years of age. There was nothing in the house to eat, and evidently the women had pawned nearly all their household furniture for rum, as there was hardly anything in the house.

"Talks about Law; a popular statement of what our law is and how it is administered." Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston; price $2.00. For sale by M. Goodrich. The object of the writer is to give an accurate and readable book upon a subject most interesting and important to all intelligent persons. He disclaims any pretence of qualifying every man to be his own lawyer, but he aims to give the non-professional reader, in a simple way, some idea of what law is and how it is administered. The reputation of the author is sufficient guarantee that he has attained his object. It contains a great deal of information valuable to all persons, and the author is very successful in the plain, clear style which he has always in view. We know of no work which contains within the same space so much information on this subject.

Lee & Shepard, Boston, have published Easter hymns and song as follows: "See the Land her Easter Keeping," by Charles Kingsley; "Gladness of Easter," selected from the poets; "Message of the Bluebird," by Irene E. Jerome; and "Arise, my Soul, Arise!" by the author of "Nearer, my God, to Thee." Price $1.00 each. They also publish "Golden Minutes," four volumes, at thirty-five cents each, as follows: "Nearer, my God, to Thee," "Rock of Ages," and "Abide With Me," illustrated from designs by Miss L. B. Humphrey, and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," with designs by Lisbeth B. Comins. These exquisite little volumes are in the daintest shape for Easter offerings; the beautifully drawn and engraved embellishments, the delicately tinted covers secured by satin ribbon of an appropriate color, and the complete harmony of the whole work making this line of Easter publications one of unusual attraction.

A movement has been started in New York and Brooklyn to erect a monument to Henry Ward Beecher.

"American Genealogical Queries for 1887." R. H. Tilley, Newport, R. I., is preparing for publication his Genealogical Queries for 1887, and desires all who intend to insert queries therein to send them as soon as possible. It will be ready and distributed by June 1st, and a copy will be sent to each public library, state library, historical society, and every person known to be interested in genealogy in the United States and Canada; 100 copies will also be sent to England. The cost of inserting a querie, limited to ten (10) lines will be $2.00. State just what you wish to know, in as few lines as possible, giving the first place to the most important items that they may be properly arranged. He has the address of nearly one thousand persons who are at work on family history, and wishes to obtain the names of all so engaged, that a copy of the queries may be sent to them.

According to the official register of Iowa for 1887, three counties — Cerro Gordo, Madson, Warren—have women as recorders. The counties of Cedar, Decatur, Green, Grundy, Keokuk, Louisa, Page, Plymouth, Van Buren and Washington have women as superintendents of public schools. These women not only fill offices elected by the franchise of men, but sit in judgment of controversies between male school officials and their constituents, hear appeals, issue certificates and revoke them, and the schools in nearly all these counties are of a very high order. It would have been thought very shocking, thirty years ago, for a woman to hold such a position, but it has proved quite harmless and safe.

Five hundred and fifty gentlemen have pledged their names as members of the new Boston athletic organization.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPRING,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, sick headache, impure blood, &c., Atlophoros Pills are unequaled.

For New England to-day:—

Clearing or fair weather, cooler, northerly winds.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 30 degrees above zero.

Cloudy.

A GOOD IDEA.

We understand that it is proposed to widen and straighten Creek street, at the point where it is crossed by the overhead bridge, to about double its present width, commencing at a point on the easterly side of the street near the house of Mrs. John Condon and extending to, or beyond, the Concord railroad crossing, the bridge to be supported by a strong pier in the center of the street. Should this be accomplished it will be a great improvement; the sharp curve at this narrow part of the street is very inconvenient, as it effectually prevents the traveller going from Islington up Creek street from seeing the Concord railroad crossing until within a short distance of the dangerous point.

LIZZIE EVANS NEXT WEEK.

Referring to the new play, "Sea Sands," in which Miss Lizzie Evans will appear at Music hall next Wednesday evening, the Boston Journal of Aug. 24th says: "Miss Lizzie Evans began her second week here last evening in a new piece, specially prepared to set off her qualities as a sprightly vocalist and comedienne, entitled 'Sea Sand.' The character of Dew Drop, a 'Sea Sand discovery,' like that assumed in "Fogg's Ferry,' gives token that Miss Evans belongs to the Maggie Mitchell and Lotta school of actresses, being a sort of blending of the two. As the winning little Dew Drop, the protege of a rude but loving light-house keeper, she presented a bright and vivacious character, in whom fancy songs, dances and childish drollery, were curiously associated with genuine illustrations of feminine insight and purpose. The plot was well conceived to give play to her versatility. The scenery, which was new and specially produced for this piece, showed a good deal of taste and elaboration."

MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.

At the regular meeting of the Woman's Temperance League, March 9th, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas an all wise and loving Father has removed another of our sister members, Mrs. Fannie L. Thorndike, after long months of patient suffering, through the valley of the shadow of death into green pastures and beside the still waters,—

Resolved, That while we mourn her loss in our social meetings, in the work of temperance and in all efforts of reform, we bow in submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we extend to her husband and family our earnest sympathy and desire that divine consolation and strength will sustain them, and that they may be comforted by the thought that their loss is her gain.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, and a copy be placed upon the records of the Woman's Temperance League.

MRS. R. D. SMART, Rec. Sec.
MRS. JOS. PETTIGREW, Pres't.

CAGED AT LAST.

Mr. De Courcey has on exhibition in the window of his tailoring establishment on Congress street, in a cage, the awe-inspiring "wild critter" which came very near being seen by so many people in Eliot last fall, and later at Dover point.

STILL GOING UP.

At the brokers' board in Boston on the 17th inst., Boston & Maine railroad stock sold at 233 and 235; Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway at 119 1-2 and 122, one hundred and fifty shares bringing the latter figure; Eastern at 140, 140 1-2, 141, 142 and 142 1-2, over 1250 shares of this stock being sold. The success of the consolidation schemes accounts for this going up of Eastern and Conway stock.

PERSONAL.

The Misses Foster of Richards avenue will next week go to Philadelphia for a stay of about two months.

Mr. Charles W. Brock, formerly of this city, and lately with the Sun Electric Co., of Woburn, Mass., will return to Portsmouth and have the full management of the apparatus of the Electric Light Co. of this city.

Mrs. Charles A. Davis of Hyde Park, Ill., who has been passing a few days with the family of Mr. Lewis G. Davis of this city, started on Thursday morning for her home in the west, on her way to which she will spend several weeks in Washington.

Capt. George W. Towle and Col. Geo. F. Towle are guests of the Misses Brewster on Islington street. They will remain east several weeks, at the end of which time Col. Towle will return to Chicago to resume his duties on the staff of Gen. Terry, commanding the department, and will be accompanied by Capt. Towle, who will pass the summer at the west.

Gov. Currier and council have appointed Thursday, April 14th, as a day of fasting and prayer.

The legislature of Maine has agreed to permit the purchase of the Eastern railroad's property in that state by the Boston & Maine road. Also comes the news that the Boston & Maine directors have agreed to lease the Boston & Lowell railroad. As the lease of the Boston & Lowell railroad will also give the Boston & Maine control of the Central Massachusetts road, the Boston & Maine will not have much to fear from competition.

The lecture-concert at the Universalist church, Thursday evening, was very enjoyable. The subject was "Music as a mode of expression," by Mr. N. G. Corey, of Boston, who gave a description of the power and nature of music, illustrating his lecture by poems, legends, songs, and solos on the piano. He was assisted by Mrs. L. J. Childs and Miss Helen M. Poland, two brilliant and powerful singers. Mr. Corey is a thorough musician, and the whole entertainment was of a high order.

MARITIME NOTES.

The late gale and high tides have knocked to pieces the fishing schooner Richard K. Fox, which went ashore on Chatham, Mass., beach some time ago.

One of the features of the queen's jubilee celebration at Halifax, N. S., will be a yacht race open exclusively to vessels of the New York and Eastern yacht clubs.

Large quantities of oranges, vegetables and general wreckage have for several days been washing on shore at Barnstable and Yarmouth, Mass., supposed to be from some vessel from Florida.

The government boat from Stratford Shoal light drifted ashore at Port Jefferson, L. I., bottom up. J. P. Hutchinson left that place for the lighthouse in this boat several days ago, and it is feared he is lost.

The fishermen of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland who have been in the habit of supplying American fishing vessels with bait are very unhappy over the prospect of being deprived of their chief occupation again next summer, and the Newfoundlanders engaged in the business are furious over the passage by the legislature of their province of the bill prohibiting the sale of bait.

Two coasting schooners which have made not infrequent visits to this port for a number of years past, have lately come to grief. The Vraie, of Dighton, Mass., went ashore in a snowstorm and gale on Feb. 26th, at Goshen point, about three miles from New London, Conn., harbor, which she was trying to enter at the time; she was stove, filled with water, and was on the rocks at last accounts. The schooner J. H. Ellis, of Camden, Me., from Perth Amboy for Boston with pig iron, went ashore on the outer bar at Nauset, Mass., during a gale on the morning of March 16th, about two miles from the life-saving station. Fifteen lines were shot toward her by the life-saving crew, but only one reached her, and the sea was so heavy, it making a clean breach over the vessel, that the line which did reach her could not be utilized by the crew of four men, who were lashed in the rigging. The surf was too heavy for launching a boat, and there seemed no chance for the crew, when late in the day a large tug appeared and saved two of the men, the other two being drowned. Vessel and cargo a total loss.

The republicans of Biddeford made a gallant fight against most discouraging odds at the late city election, the democrats having entire control of all the election machinery, and doing everything they dared—which means a good deal, when said of the Biddeford democracy—to retain their grip on the municipal pocket-book. The result was greatly encouraging to the republicans, for although Parcher was re-elected mayor it was by 138 less majority than he had last year, and instead of both boards of the new city councils being solidly democratic, as in 1886, the democrats barely secured a majority of one in each board, and a change of two or three votes in one of the wards would have reversed that majority. The democratic ticket had on it so many disreputable characters that many of the respectable democrats either refused to vote, or carried the republican ticket; one of the candidates has a case pending against him for liquor selling, another has recently finished a term of six months in jail, and another has been before the courts no less than six times in two years, for liquor selling and as aults; in short, it was a genuine "hard ticket."

Abijah Tarbox of Biddeford, agent of the Maine society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, recently arrested Frank Moulton, a Lyman farmer, and the trial occurred at Alfred. It is claimed that Moulton was driving his oxen in the woods, and that one became ugly and refused to draw its share of the load. Moulton built a fire underneath the animal, and as that did not work, he struck the ox with sufficient force to break the animal's back. After the ox had lain in the woods forty-eight hours Moulton killed it and took its carcass to Biddeford, selling it to an Alfred street grocer. The meat was as black as liver in places where the blows had been struck. Moulton was held for a higher court.

A line of Jersey Waists at $1.00 have just been received by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street.

Those wool worsted suitings in plain and mixed colorings, are the very best. No. 6 Market street. J. W. Moses.

March April May
When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.
"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." E. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.
"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, cause by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.
"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.
"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

Disorders which Affect the Kidneys

Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel, and other ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be averted by timely medication. A useful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus when they become inactive, but increases their vigor and secretive power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of those organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthener of the bowels, an invigorant of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and fever and ague. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

A detachment of the salvation army, on its way to the Pacific coast, has stopped off for an attack on Winnipeg, Man. The commander of the force says they purpose a vigorous advance upon the Indians in the northwest.

C. F. Klunder, of No. 907 Broadway, New York, is one of the best-known florists in America. Florists, like other persons, are subject to the ills of life, notwithstanding the fragrance surrounding their calling, but like other person they can be cured of their ills. Mr. Klunder writes: "I cordially recommend Allcock's Porous Plasters. I have found them, after ten years' constant use, wonderfully efficacious in coughs, colds, pains in side, back and chest. As chest protectors and shields against changes in the weather they are invaluable. My hothouse men use a great many, and I and family are never without this never-failing external remedy.

Is He Your Friend?

Is the family doctor your friend? How many unnecessary visits does he make you? How many days does he keep you sick that you ought to be at your work, and so doing how many hard-earned dollars does he extort from you. Would it not be better for to place your trust in Sulphur Bitters? Try them, they will be a true friend. Saving you a long sickness and a large bill, which you have hitherto paid to some avaricious doctor.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

ONLY ONE MEAL A DAY.

The Queer Life Led by Nuns in a Convent—Eventless Beyond Description.

According to the code of Abelard the convent was divided into six functions, all alike subject to the direction of the abbess. The sacristan was responsible for the convent treasury; she kept the keys, and had the care of the church plate and sacred vessels; and it was her duty to set the virgin sisters to prepare the wafers for the host, which must not be made by widows. The chantress taught singing and reading, had care of the choir and of the library, to which she was expected to add by copying and illuminating manuscripts. The head of the infirmary had charge of the sick.

Another sister was mistress of the wardrobe and responsible not only for all the spinning, weaving and sewing necessary for the event, but also for the tanning and cobbling. The cellarer had in her charge the wines for the altar and the sick, the provisions of the table and the management of whatever the convent possessed in orchards and garden land, flocks and herds and hives, trout streams and mills. Lastly, the doorkeeper, who was especially chosen for courteous manner, judgment and trustworthiness, was responsible for the keeping of the gate, the entertainment of guests and the distribution of hospitality.

Life in the convent was not hard, but monotonous, eventless beyond description—a perpetual alternation of broken sleep, repeated tasks and prayer. In the middle of the night the sisters rose for matins and, the office over, trooped back through the darkness to the dormitory. There they slept till lauds, which were sung at the break of day. In summer, when lauds were early, the sisters slept again till prime. At prime they left the dormitory, having first washed their hands, and taking their books, repaired to the cloister to read and sing until the office should begin.

Service over, they all assembled in the chapter house, where a lesson out of the Martyrology was read to them and expounded. On leaving the chapter each nun was sent to fulfill her allotted task—singing or sewing, nursing or baking—until the hour of tierce, when mass was said. They then resumed their work till noon, the sixth hour, which was the convent dinner time, except on fast days, when it was postponed till nones, or in Lent, when nothing was eaten till after vespers at 4.

The convent fare was simple and spare, save for the sick. No wine, stale bread of coarse flour, roots and greens and, at discretion of the abbess, a portion of unflavored meat on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays. From the autumn equinox till Easter, on account of the shortness of the days, this one meal was considered sufficient for all save the infirm.—Fortnightly Review.

The Wives of the Shah.

But one form of diversion is forbidden the royal ladies; I refer to their interviews with the court physicians. Next to the sacred luxury of a confidential talk with a father confessor of a favored pastor, there is scarce any solace which possesses such attractions for the average woman as a sympathetic recital of her troubles and ailments to a trusted family physician. But neither one nor the other is allowed to see the wives of the shah. No priest nor doctor can receive from them the soothing confession of sorrows and sins or the narrative of aches and pains.

Of course if she is ill then a wife of the shah receives medical attention. But the physician may not obtain even a sight of her face. Behind a curtain, surrounded by her attendants, she responds to his questions; in extreme need she may show her tongue, but no other part of her features. Nor is the interview altogether attractive to the physician, especially if he be a native, for he must necessarily be extremely guarded in his language, and if the patient dies it may go hard with the doctor. He does not venture to prepare or furnish the drugs himself, and the medicines he prescribes must be compounded by servants of the palace, to insure against danger of poisoning, as well as to protect the practitioner from suspicion.

The European physicians practicing at the court of the shah exercise somewhat greater liberty in the matter of drugs and prescriptions, but even they are obliged to proceed with great caution, and never attempt any serious surgical operations when the patient is a Mussulman.—S. W. G. Benjamin in New York Star.

Old Shoes and Characters.

Dr. Garre, of Basle, has suggested that the characters of people might be well diagnosed by their old shoes. Take a shoe which has been worn for a couple of months; if the sole and heel are equally worn, it belongs to an energetic man of business, a trustworthy officer, an exemplary wife, an excellent mother; if the outer edge only is only worn, the owner is of a fantastic, adventurous tendency, a rash and bold temper; if it is the inner edge which is worn, the fact indicates irresolution and weakness in a man, modesty in a woman. Such at least is the bold generalization of Dr. Garre's shoemaker, whose own shoes one suspects must be worn on the outside, and who also states that where the wearer not only wears the outer edge, but also rasps the point of his shoes and leaves the rest almost new, he is a person whose honesty is to be suspected.—The Athenæum.

A New and Durable Bronze.

The new Reitz alloy, the patented production of a German chemist, is a bronze for which remarkable durability and resistance to all acids are claimed, prolonged exposure to concentrated muriatic acid having caused less than half the loss sustained by any other alloy, and other tests having been equally successful.—Arkansaw Traveler.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

F. S. WHITLINGER, Locehburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1881 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com., J. H. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggists, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and rid your head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises? How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

Fast Day Proclamation.

Among the traditions that have come down to us from our fathers is the observance of a day of fasting and prayer, at that season of the year when the genial powers of Nature are awakening, when the rains and the sunshine are returning, and the time for the sowing of seed is at hand.

In accordance with this custom, and with advice of the council, I hereby appoint Thursday, the 14th day of April next, to be kept by the people of this state as a day of Fasting and Prayer.

I recommend that it be observed by them in their churches and in their homes, in their fields and in their shops, with such temperance and sobriety as their physical, moral, and religious needs may require; that with joy and gladness they join the vernal song of praise which all nature is offering up to the ETERNAL GOODNESS, whose loving kindness warms in every kindling pulse of life, and spreads in a mantle of beauty over all His works; that they abstain from every form of evil, and seek the rewards of righteous living in the world; that they offer up their prayers, not to be seen and heard, but, in the silence of their hearts, seek the divine and holy impulses which lead up to the GOOD and the INFINITE.

And, finally, I desire the people of this state, in their devotions and supplications, to avoid every form of idolatry and superstition, and gratefully and reverently to recognize, in every act of their lives, that ETERNAL BEING in whom all things live and have their existence.

Given at the Council Chamber in Concord, this eleventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and eleventh.

MOODY CURRIER.

By His Excellency the Governor, with advice of the Council. A. B. THOMPSON, SECRETARY OF STATE.

The Democratic Ante-Election Charges.

The New York Sun observes that the democrats have thus far failed to find any corruption in the government departments, of any account, and adds that if they do not find some corruption somewhere they will have a hard time of it when the next general election comes around.

The charges of republican corruption in national affairs, made by the democrats, were for years as vehement and as persistent as they were—many of them—ridiculous on their face, and as reckless as all have been proved false. One of their most effective charges, loudly and positively proclaimed for years by their stump orators and party organs, was that the republican treasury reports were false as shool, and that when a robbed nation should entrust the conduct of national affairs to the honest democracy, it would be shown that the vast amounts of treasure reported as in the vaults were not there, having all been stolen by the republican thieves. When the democratic counters found that the reports and the cash agreed actually to a cent, they coolly remarked, "Well, what of it? Nobody ever supposed the money had actually been taken!"

Four Young Fools.

In Buffalo, N. Y., in January last, at a dancing party, Herbert F. Stone, a boy sixteen or seventeen years old, and Grace Kendall, a girl about fourteen, agreed to go out and get married, and were accompanied on the same errand by Charles Eates, aged seventeen, and Mary Vaughn, aged fifteen. The party went to the house of Rev. Charles H. Smith, rector of St. James Episcopal church, who married them. Their parents have just heard of the affair through the application of Mrs. Grace Stone for the arrest of her husband for non-support, which was granted; and Mrs. Stone, the husband's mother, allowed her son to go to jail rather than furnish bonds, being determined the children shall not live together as husband and wife if she can prevent it. The other precocious couple are with their respective parents.

Another Calamity.

The Richmond hotel at Buffalo, N. Y., took fire in the cloak room on the lower story at about three o'clock Friday morning, and the fire shot up the elevator well in a few moments, cutting off all escape that way and by the stairways. There were about 125 persons in the building, many of whom jumped from the windows, about twenty of them being badly injured by the fall, or seriously burned. Others were rescued by the firemen, but a number perished in the building.—just how many is not known, but not less than five, and it was thought probable twelve or more; and a number of those who escaped with their lives will die. The hotel, with St. James hall and other property in the same block, was totally destroyed. The scenes as the imperilled people, men and women, appeared at the windows shrieking for aid, and when pushed by the fire threw themselves out, were heartrending. The pecuniary loss is set down at over $400,000, including $80,000 worth of diamonds owned by two guests at the hotel.

You Can't Afford to Miss It.

BOSTON, March 18.—"Did you read that article by J. W. Clarke in the last Boston Sunday Globe?" has become a regular stock question. Everybody is reading this series of illustrated sketches, admiring the humor and discussing the philosophy. To-morrow Mr. Clarke's article will be on the pains and pleasures of spring—what people ought and ought not to do. The sales of the Sunday Globe are constantly increasing, and the 150,000 average is in the near distance.

General E. M. Law has written for the "Southern Bivouac" two articles on the fight for Richmond, which will appear in April and in May. These articles have been suggested he says "by General McClellan's and General Fitz John Porter's articles on the peninsula campaign in 1862, and a paper by General Pope on the second battle of Manassas, published in recent numbers of the Century Magazine." Judge Hines will in the April number of the Southern Bivouac continue his account of the operations of the confederates in the northwest; the April paper he devotes to an account of Beal's movements on the lakes, his arrest and execution.

The Nickel Plate line have made arrangements with the Burton Stock Car company whereby all of the cars of the Burton company are to be operated by the Nickel Plate line, this arrangement to be in effect on and after April 1st. The Burton Stock Car company are building a large number of cars which are to be constructed especially for the transportation of horses, and they will be placed in the Nickel Plate line.

MARITIME NOTES.

The season of winter fishing out of this port is nearly ever. The fares brought in are light, and the prices received by the fishermen are low.

The piles for the addition to the Concord railroad wharf have been driven, under the superintendence of Mr. Littlefield, and the work on the wharf will soon be completed. The Boston & Maine railroad is doing a large amount of work to increase its facilities for handling coal here, and intends to do a brisk business in that line.

The schooner Orville Horwitz, Kelsey master, a large three-masted schooner which has made many trips to this port with coal during the past four or five years, was abandoned in a sinking condition on the 11th inst. off the Virginia coast, having struck on Winter Quarter shoal the night previous, and sprung a heavy leak; she was owned in New Haven, Conn., where she was built in 1880, and registered 516 tons; all hands saved. The schooner Cora Etta, Fales master, arrived at Rockland, Me., March 16th, in tow, for repairs, having been in collision with another vessel; she registers 243 tons, is owned in Rockland, and has been a frequent visitor at this port.

Mr. John H. Sherwood, one of the trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, died in that city Thursday, March 17th. Mr. Sherwood organized the Fifth Avenue bank, and for three years was vice-president of that institution. He was an associate with Charles A. Dana and others in the formation of the Sun Newspaper and Printing Association. In 1875 he was elected a trustee of the Mutual Life.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPURR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

HAD A GOOD TIME, ANYWAY.

About twenty members of Rockingham Lodge of Good Templars, of this city, went to Kittery on Friday evening in a barge to visit Morrill Lodge of that town, but on arriving at the hall found but two members of Morrill Lodge present,—and one of them went from this city with the visitors. One of the Morrills had a key to the hall, so an entrance was made, a fire built, and a social good time had, with singing and music, notwithstanding the failure of the Kittery lodge to meet them. The omission was not due to any lack of hospitable intent, as ample preparation had been made by Morrill Lodge to do the handsome thing, but the rain which fell in the early part of the evening led them to suppose the contemplated visit would be postponed. On returning to this city most of the excursionists, determined not to be cheated out of a collation, went to an oyster saloon and had stews all 'round. Morrill! next time you go visiting, take the commissary train along with you.

AN ASTONISHED BRITON.

A well appearing young man about twenty years old, and giving the name of Frank W. Ware, arrived at the police station in this city on Thursday evening tired, hungry, footsore, discouraged and penniless. His story, which appears to be told in all sincerity, is that up to a recent period he lived at No. 6 Brunswick square, Haggerston, London; his mother, who about three years ago came across the ocean and has since lived in San Francisco, a few months ago wrote him that if he would come over and join her she would send him money to pay his passage; but he, having money enough of his own, as he thought, to pay his way, concluded to pleasantly surprise his mother, and accordingly took passage by steamer for Portland, Me., where he landed a week or two since, and was himself greatly surprised to learn that about half—and much the more expensive half—of his journey to San Francisco was yet before him. Having but little money left he walked to Boston, and then back to this city, where he arrived as stated. A telegram was sent on Friday to his mother, Mrs. Sarah Ware, care of Miss Johnson, No. 106 Stockton street, San Francisco, Cal., and an answer was received that the parties named are not now at the address given, so the message could not be delivered. The young man, who is a stationary engineer, feels pretty blue over his prospects, and has not yet wholly gotten over his surprise at the distances American cities are apart; he will never again plan to walk from Portland to San Francisco.

PROPOSED NEW MILITARY COMPANY.

Congressman L. F. McKinney, chaplain of the First Reg't N. H. N. G., was in this city Friday, the 18th inst., in the interest of a new military company here. He was in consultation with many of our citizens who have been interested in military affairs in former years, and has left in charge of Mr. William Y. Evans the task of enrolling members for the proposed company. After the enlistment the members of the organization will select their officers. We hope the young men will be interested in this movement, that we may have a military company that will be an honor and a credit to the city.

LIZZIE EVANS NEXT WEEK.

Miss Lizzie Evans, who will be well remembered by Portsmouth play-goers from her attractive performance at Music hall a year or two ago in "Fogg's Ferry," will on Wednesday of next week present at the same place her new comedy "Sea Sands," of which the Cincinnati Commercial says:

The piece is a very bright and amusing story of the Welch coast, about one hundred years ago, and opens with a picturesque view of a lighthouse. We are sorry we have not the space to tell the story of the play, but it depicts very skillfully the career of a little girl found upon the seashore, and raised by an old lighthouse keeper. The climaxes of the play are very fine, and the comedy element is continuous and very bright. Miss Evans was of course the central figure, and in Dewdrop, the waif, she had a character perfectly fitted to her. She played with a natural character which was simply delicious, and invested her portrayal with dash and magnetism. Her singing and dancing were features that caught everybody, and we doubt whether she has an equal as a soubrette actress upon any stage. The company is an unusually strong one, the dressing was superb, and the performance was perfectly smooth and without a hitch.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION.

The Boston Traveller of Thursday last in its railroad article said: "The committees of the directors of the Boston & Maine and Eastern railroads having under consideration the proposition of the Boston & Lowell railroad company for a lease of the latter line, have, it is now authoritatively stated, approved the same. This action was, it is said, finally decided upon yesterday, after it was known that the bill authorizing the Boston & Maine road to purchase the property of the Eastern road in Maine had gone through the Maine legislature. The proposition agreed to is, as heretofore stated, for a lease of the Boston & Lowell road for a term of ninety-nine years on a basis of seven per cent guaranteed on the stock for ten years, and eight per cent thereafter. The agreement remains now to be ratified by the full boards of directors of the Boston & Maine, the Eastern, and Boston & Lowell roads, and subsequently by the stockholders of the several corporations. By the union proposed the Central Massachusetts road will become a part of the Boston & Maine system, and beside securing a big saving in operating, the problem of a grand union depot is solved in a most satisfactory manner, and at a cost hundreds of thousands of dollars less than had been calculated upon. The consolidation of the Eastern and Boston & Maine roads is an event that is likely to come about almost contemporaneously with the leasing of the Boston & Lowell road to the Boston & Maine."

Spring begins to-morrow; that is, the almanac says so.

Large number of sea gulls were having a good time in the north millpond on Friday.

The Rockingham County Temperance Association will meet at the Middle street Baptist chapel in this city on Thursday, March 31st.

The officers of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire will visit St. John's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of this city, next Wednesday.

The regular meeting of the teachers' association will be held Monday evening, March 20th, at the common council room, at 7:30 o'clock.

There are now thirty-nine prisoners in the jail in this city—the largest number in the jail at any one time since Col. J. Horace Kent has been the sheriff and jailor.

It is now said, in regard to the Marshall poisoning case at Rochester, that from all that can be learned it appears that Marshall himself put the poison in the pie, and then accused his wife, with the idea that she would be imprisoned, and he might then obtain a divorce. Mrs. Marshall, it will be remembered, is a native of this city.

Mrs. Ann M. Hadley, widow of Samuel B. Hadley, whose death on Thursday last at the age of seventy years has been announced, passed away very suddenly. She was out in town the day before, and on Thursday morning was about the house as usual, and along in the forenoon sat down to sew. After working a short time she remarked to her daughter that she could not see to thread the needle, and was advised to lie down on the sofa, which she did, and in a few moments become insensible; a physician was at once called, who pronounced the trouble to be apoplexy, and the attack a fatal one; and death ensued in a short time.

The Boston Herald says "the incorporators of the new railroad between Chatham and Harwich depot, Mass., held a meeting March 16th, and the following named officers were elected: Hon. Marcellus Eldredge, mayor of Portsmouth, N. H., president; Charles Bassett, chairman of the board of selectmen of Chatham, clerk and treasurer; Hon. Marcellus Eldredge of Portsmouth, Osborn Nickerson, Alvin Z. Atkins, Collin Howes and Charles Bassett of Chatham, directors. Another business meeting will be held soon and the work pushed as rapidly as possible. The capital stock of $70,000 has been all paid in, and everything appears to be ready for opening the right way."

A South Berwick correspondent writes: "The real estate of the late Charles Raynes of South Berwick was sold at auction on Monday of this week for the benefit of the Salmon Falls bank, which held a mortgage upon the same. The store property on the square was sold to L. P. Huntress for $900, and the Portland street property was bid in by E. C. Eastman for $1,975, said to be in the interest of Mr. Francis Raynes, who has for many years occupied the premises."

The Maine legislature having repealed the capital punishment law, the shadow of the gallows is no longer in the path of Mrs. Barrows, the Kittery murderess. Cold blooded and horrible as was the butchery of Barrows, we are not sure that imprisonment for life is not a more nearly just punishment for the woman who planned the murder, and urged Blaney on to making the second and fatal attack on the wretched being who was already more than half dead, than death on the gallows would be. It is certain that the real grounds of the venomous hated of Barrows entertained by Mrs. Barrows and her daughter, Mrs. Blaney, were not brought out on the trial, both prosecution and defence evidently fighting shy of the question, and appearing perfectly satisfied to accept the puerile explanation that it was due to Barrows' former opposition to the marriage of his step-daughter with Blaney, rather than to have the affair probed to the bottom.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a proportion peculiar to itself, the active medicinal properties of the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. It will positively cure—when in the power of medicine—Spring Debility, Headache, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, and all Diseases caused by a low state of the blood.

"I suffered three years with blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and think I am cured." MRS. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Is so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism, are so much more positive than the remedies of a quarter or a century ago, as the steam-power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"While suffering from a severe bilious attack in March, 1883, a friend in Peoria, Ill., recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. I tried the remedy, and was permanently cured." J. A. SHEPARD, travelling agent for Devoe & Co., Fulton Street, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"I tried a dozen articles to cleanse my blood, but never found anything that did me any good till I began using Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. H. PEER, Rochester, N. Y.

"My wife was troubled with dizziness and constipation, and her blood has been in a bad order—in fact she has been all run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing her a wonderful amount of good." F. M. BALDWIN, druggist, Blanchester, Ohio.

"I was for five years a sufferer with boils, all run down, and was at one time obliged to give up work. Before taking all of two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, was entirely cured." E. M. LANE, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

Something New in Clocks.

A self winding clock is one of the novelties in this market. One would naturally think that a self winding clock would come pretty near to a solution of the problem of perpetual motion, but it doesn't. The self winding clock may be locked up and left untouched for more than a year, and it will run right along without appreciable variation, and, 'tis said, keep better time than a common clock that is often "regulated." In the self winder the winding is performed every hour by an electric battery concealed within the case, and it is reasonably claimed that this frequent and automatic action averts overwinding and running down, evils which are largely responsible for the variations of ordinary timepieces. Self winding clocks cost all the way from $27.50 to $750.

The inventor of this clock says he can connect by a wire all the clocks in the stations on a railway between New York and Chicago, or between any other cities, so that a simple touch on an electrical instrument in one city will set all the clocks in the same time, without a second's difference being left between any two of them. If this fertile inventor will now devise some means of keeping the watches carried by engineers and conductors of freight trains always within two or three seconds of true time he will confer a still further blessing upon his railway collision abhorring fellow men.—Chicago Herald.

Leprosy in New Orleans.

While delving for information on the subject of the city's health I ascertained what I believe is not generally known in New Orleans—that leprosy exists here to a remarkable extent. It has been known here in a vague sort of way that there were some cases of the dreaded disease in the lower parishes, but not that it prevailed to any extent in New Orleans. There are now under treatment in the Charity hospital no less than eighteen cases. What is more remarkable, and should be of absorbing interest to the people here, is the fact, I am informed on authority, that the luckless victims do not know with what they are afflicted, and are going about their usual vocations.—New Orleans Letter.

The Housekeeper's Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and such a friend you will always find in Sulphur Bitters? They cured me of dyspepsia, when I had given up life in despair and was almost at death's door. They are a true friend of the sick.—Mrs. R. Crague, Hartford, Conn.

Two great enemies—Head's Sarsaparilla and impure blood. The latter is utterly defeated by the peculiar medicine.

At the United States veterinary convention in Philadelphia this week Dr. Salmon, of the national bureau of animal industry, said that in his judgment the use of meat and milk from cattle infected with tuberculosis caused the loss of 125,000 to 150,000 human lives every year. These are appalling figures. If Dr. Salmon is right, tuberculosis is as destructive to the human family as war or pestilence.

For the relief and cure of the inflammation and congestion called "a cold in the head" there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other modes of treatment have proved of no avail.

Rev. P. M. Donahue, of Charleston, Ill., who was lately made a lieutenant in the French army by Gen. WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines of Chicago, and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest, is the only one whose link in the transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown, in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodation is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

All Express Trains between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of Comfortable Day Coaches, magnificent Pullman Palace Parlor and Sleeping Cars, elegant Dining Cars providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota, to the wheat fields and grazing lands of Interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short, desirable route, via Kansas City, Atchison, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Intermediate points. All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly treatment.

The Charleston (S. C.) News continues to lament that in Edgefield county colored citizens are murdered with impunity, while a negro who steals a few dollars' worth of cotton seed is sure to go to jail for a year or more. The News is a democratic paper, and knows perfectly well that South Carolina was nearly carried for Tilden by the wholesale murder of negroes in Edgefield county, and that the state of South Carolina has been carried for the democratic ticket ever since that time by the same means in that and other counties; it has known this all along, but has never protested against it. Now what difference there is between the guilt of killing a colored man for fun and killing him because he votes the republican ticket, is hard to see.

Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel, and other complaints of the urinary organs, are not ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be averted by timely medication. A useful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus when they become inactive, but increases their vigor and secretive power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of those organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthener of the bowels, an invigorant of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and fever and ague. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

Oscar Cook, accomplice of Fred Wittrock, alias "Jim Cummings," the notorious Adams express robber, was arraigned in the criminal court at Independence, Mo., March 18th, to answer four indictments against him for receiving stolen money. He entered a plea of guilty to the first, and the other three were thereupon dismissed. Judge White sentenced him to three years in the penitentiary.

I am an Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphuur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by indueing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had pooh-ed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

THE INTERIOR OF AFRICA.

An Entertaining Account of Dr. Junker's Journey—Incidents of the Trip.

The natives of the Uganda district believe in a supreme being; but they do not worship Him, considering him so infinitely superior that the worship of insignificant mortals would not be recognized by Him; but they worship inferior deities, especially the god of the lake, and on a voyage make libations to Him. They have also a god of war—in fact, they have their Jupiter, Neptune and Mars. Warrior chiefs, too, who have died in battle are worshiped as demigods. This is very much like the Homeric mythology. The government of Uganda is based on the feudal system. The chiefs own land and fulfill the duties of magistrates; but there is a right of appeal, and important cases come before a chief or chiefs of the highest order. The kingdom is really a limited monarchy; it is governed by a council consisting of the king and some chiefs of the highest order, including the chief butler, baker, and, above all, the chef de cuisine, the cook. Without the sanction of these august personages the king can do nothing. When this parliament is dissolved—it sits for three months—the members, like our M. P.'s, retire to their country seats. The king keeps an enormous harem, and polygamy is an institution. Children and girls are sold for guns, ammunition, etc. In the court there are dwarfs and buffoons, as there were at European courts in the olden times.

Baker writes that needles are in great demand—the natives being exceedingly clever tailors and furriers—a handsome girl may be purchased for thirteen needles, to be exchanged in Unyoro for an elephant tusk, which would be worth £20 or £30 in England. In Unyoro there is an established value for a healthy young girl—such a person is equal to a single elephant's tusk of the first class or a new shirt. Thus a girl might be purchased for a shirt, and subsequently exchanged for a large elephant's tusk. Slavery is a national institution of the country. In Unyoro the girls are purchased for various commodities, such as brass coil, bracelets, bark, clothes, cotton, shirts, ivory, etc. The Unyoro country lies at the southeast bank of the Albert Nyanza.

Dr. Junker was allowed to proceed on his journey in a boat belonging to the mission after he had made some handsome presents to the king. This place is at the south of Victoria Nyanza. He remained here four days. Toward the southwest the banks lose the appearance of fertility which they had on the north; and rocky hills without verdure, or merely covered with stunted mimosa or coarse grass, run to the margin of the lake, where they end in naked rocks. In the narrow bays formed by these ridges are here and there villages nestling among banana groves.

Dr. Junker now got to Ukumhi. Here the hills recede again, and beds of ambatch are found growing in the water. The natives construct boats from this weed, which is so extremely buoyant that a boat ten feet long and four feet wide made of it will support at least twelve men. The lowest point at which this pithy weed is found is about latitude 12. Other parts of the coast are often fringed with waterlilies, and the islands at the south of the lake are as beautiful as fairyland. It is an everchanging kaleidoscope—at one spot purple convolvuli and the graceful papri abound, around which innumerable quantities of water fowl of every description hover and swim; while here and there huge hippopotami are seen floundering, and crocodiles basking where there happens to be sandbanks or grassy creeks. In the middle distance are seen plantain groves and grassy plains of a vivid emerald, while in the background stand gigantic trees with branches twisted most fantastically. From Ukumhi Dr. Junker went on to Ut Salala, where there is a church mission station. Thence he went with his porters and donkeys to Uyui. Uyui may almost be called a town. It is one of the largest collections of huts in Africa. Here and there are places shaded by immense fig trees, under which the natives sit. This is a prosperous station. It is ten miles northeast from Tabora, the great center of Arab trade.

The doctor then continued his journey over the Ugodo country, through the Rubai pass to Mpwapwa. Mpwapwa lies on the western slopes of the Usagara mountains, adjoining the vast tract of forest which separates it from the table land of Uugodo. Clusters of villages are scattered all over the plains, their inhabitants supporting themselves on the product of the soil and by breeding cattle. The country is fertile, and produces large crops of dhurra, Indian corn and other cereals. The natives dwell in mud huts, built square, with a large court house in the center, into which (as is common in the Soudan) the cattle are driven at night to prevent their being "jumped," as the Cape expression runs; the doors are strongly built of wood. The inhabitants are a mixed race of Wagogo and Wassagara and other tribes. Toward the west stretches an immense plain; to the north are fields of dhurra, and to the south and east vast forests—a paradise for a sportsman, as all kinds of game—lions, leopards, antelopes and buffaloes rove there. In a southerly direction tower lofty mountains; indeed, it were difficult to conceive a more romantic spot than that where our traveler rested.—Cairo Cor. London News.

The chief interest associated with the new infusorial earth discovered in Alabama is in its being largely composed of very minute, cylindrical, tapering, semi-transparent, irregular, corkscrew shaped spirals of infusorial silex, which in their fragmental condition imitate Arabic writing characters, or the curved form of the Roman letters, as U O S and W. The study of the fossil infusorial earths is most fascinating.—Science.

VITIATED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors

Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

SCROFULOUS, INHERITED.

And Contagious Humors, with Loss of Hair, and Eruptions of the Skin, are positively cured by CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for Pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of the Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any other remedies for diseases of the skin and blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh.

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise and directions, and is sold by all druggists for $1.00.

"Right you are," said the old man. "With the mud come colds and coughs, and you know the remedy." "Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup," rejoined the boy. "Right you are again!"

An Imperative Necessity.

What pure air is an unhealthy locality, what spring cleaning is to the neat housekeeper, so is Hood's Sarsaparilla to everybody, at this season. The body needs to be thoroughly renovated, the blood purified and vitalized, the germs of disease destroyed. Scrofula, salt rheum, and all other blood disorders are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the most popular and successful spring medicine.

What Of It?

The New York Post, one of the "independent" papers which always supports the democratic ticket, and insists that the only way to advance the interests of the American workingmen is to throw our market wide open to the British manufacturers, under the heading of "Protection which does not protect" says:

Here are some interesting facts bearing upon the relation of protection to wages: Unskilled laborers employed in the unprotected industry of harvesting ice on the Kennebec river in Maine receive $2 per day. Skilled ship carpenters at Bath, on the same river, working for a protected industry, receive $1.50 per day. This latter sum is only half what the same type of workmen received in the same industries in 1853-54, when America led the world in ship building, and Bath very nearly led America. Now the wages of ship builders in many places in England are higher than at Bath.

Just what the advocate of British prosperity aims at in the above extract we are unable to perceive; certainly it does not show that the "protection" of American shipbuilding has ruined the business, for it had exactly the same protection in 1853-54 that it has to-day. And this protection is positively contemptible when compared with that which England has extended to her shipbuilding industry for the past thirty years, in the way of subsidies to packet lines, and the palpably unjust discrimination of Lloyd's against all vessels that could come into competition with the British iron ship.

Don't Like It So Well Now.

Last summer, while every possible point of law was being strained to the utmost by the Canadian authorities in their efforts to so harass the American fishing vessels that the United States would be forced to yield to Canada's demands, but one paper in St. John, N. B., the Globe, disapproved of the course that was being pursued; but the passage of the retaliation bill by congress, and its approval by the president, seems to have caused considerable of a change in sentiment in that city. The Telegraph, which had nothing to say last season in disapproval of the seizures of American vessels on the pettiest technicalities, last week remarked:

We venture to say that the full gravity of the situation has not dawned upon this community. Our neighbors have resorted to the last alternative, next to war. War itself must in time result from enforced non-intercourse between two communities, situated as the Dominion and the Republic are. Shall we, in the face of such conditions, go on enforcing the customs regulation as to American fishing vessels, which were adopted last year? If so, we shall have non-intercourse, with its penalties as above brought on. We believe that the president will act as the law declares he shall act. And, if so, we are face to face with an international crisis of the gravest character.

We do not anticipate a war on account of the fisheries dispute. What we are afraid of is, that the president, ruled by Bayard, who in this matter has all along been ruled by British Minister West, will continue as in the past to play into the hands of the Canadian aggressors against our fishermen, and against the national honor.

The Buffalo Horror.

The number of known deaths from the burning of the Richmond hotel at Buffalo, N. Y., was placed at ten on Saturday evening, and the number of missing was variously stated at from seven to twenty. It is certain that many of those who lost their lives would have been saved by the fire department had it not been for the innumerable telegraph and telephone wires and cables which interfered with the working of their ladders; and it is likely that the public indignation will force the city authorities to insist on their being immediately placed under ground.

In accordance with orders from the bureau at Washington, the department of steam engineering at the navy yard on Saturday commenced operations for taking out the boilers of the U. S. S. Kearsarge.

It is said that the land damages of the York Harbor & Beach railroad at Kittery Foreside and at the Point aggregate, according to the owners' estimates, the sum of over $25,000. The commissioners have been called on to adjudicate, and will no doubt drop many dollars from the above figures.

Col. John H. Jackson of Boston, formerly of this city, who was a member of Co. C, 9th Reg't United States Infantry, in the Mexican war, has filed his claim for pension under the act of the late Congress bestowing pensions on all who served in that war. Col. Jackson, who in the war of the rebellion gallantly led one of the fighting New Hampshire regiments, was first lieutenant of his company in the Mexican war, which was commanded by the late Capt. Theodore F. Rowe of this city; and Major Alfred J. Hill, who was first sergeant of the company, and draws a pension granted by special act of the late Congress, has recently given his affidavit as to the identity of the officer under whom he served forty years ago.

Mr. Editor: In reading the name of Mr. William A. Haven among the list of sufferers at the late Buffalo hotel horror, I am reminded that I met him in the Walker house, Milwaukee, in September, 1857. With two other Portsmouth gentlemen, we made a little trip to admire the elegant fittings and spacious office accommodations of the then newly-opened Newhall house. When "The Newhall" led off, a number of years ago, the series of human holocausts which have since disgraced so frequently the life-saving appliances of large caravansaries in our leading cities, Mr. Haven—it is hardly to be supposed—in reading the account, had any idea that he would ever be a victim to a similar disaster.

Ex.

The steamship British Prince, which arrived at Philadelphia on the 17th inst., reported that on the 14th at nine o'clock in the morning she passed the yacht Coronet, and at ten o'clock passed the Dauntless. Both yachts were using every stitch of canvas. There was a stiff breeze from west to northwest, the yachts were twenty-two miles apart, and the Coronet was eleven miles further east than the Dauntless, but on account of her more northerly position, she had more than eleven miles the advantage of the Dauntless.

The Canadian fisheries department officials are active in preparing for the coming season. Thirteen armed vessels will be on hand to make whatever seizures of American vessels it may be necessary to make in order to force the United States into yielding to Canada's demands. They have no fear that the administration at Washington will adopt any measures of retaliation in return for Canada's hostile and harassing proceedings, and in this we guess they are about right.

The Teachers' Institute will be held in Exeter March 23d, 24th and 25th. Supt. C. H. Morss, of this city, will illustrate the method of "Language Teaching" at 3:30 P. M. on Wednesday. On Thursday, at 2:40 P. M., Mr. John Pickard, principal of our High school, will illustrate methods in teaching "Physics and Physical Culture." There are to be three evening lectures: Wednesday, Hon. G. A. Littlefield on Daniel Webster; Thursday, subject not announced, by State Supt. J. W. Patterson; and Friday on Grammar by Mr. R. C. Metcalf. It is to be hoped that the teachers and all interested in the cause of education in this city, will be in attendance.

Some of the citizens of Boston, noting the success of the Portsmouth Athletic club, propose to emulate it, and have started an association that promises to be a boom. We advise them to consult with "our boys" as to the best methods of conducting a club of this description.

General John Gale, aged eighty-five years, died at Lawrence, Mass., on Friday evening of last week, of a complication of diseases and old age. He was born at Salisbury, Mass., and lived afterwards at Amesbury, Mass., and Hampton, in this state; he represented Hampton in the legislature at one time, and was a brigadier general of New Hampshire militia. He went to Lawrence forty years ago, and started the carriage business; he had been an alderman of that city, and was a trustee of the Essex savings bank at the time of his death.

MARINE CHRONICLE.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years. W. L. WEST, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled.

GOOD BYE, WINTER.

Saturday was the last day of winter, according to the astronomers, and it gave the residents of this city such a variety of weather as less favored climes cannot hope to emulate. The temperature was considerably above the melting point of ice all through the day, and the streets and crosswalks, and here and there a section of sidewalk, were sloppy and muddy in consequence. Slight showers, "spits" of snow, and feeble attempts at sunshine, followed each other at short intervals through the day, and the air had a decidedly springlike quality in its feeling. A fair number of country teams were in town, most of them on wheels, though once in a while some venturesome farmer would be seen slipping along on runners, as though loath to admit a belief that winter's back had received a severe wrench, up to the point of being broken. A few loads of wood, and many loads of loose hay, were brought into the city, only one load that we saw being on runners.

PORTSMOUTH MAN INJURED.

Among the sufferers by the destruction of the Richmond hotel at Buffalo, N. Y., last Friday morning, was Mr. William A. Haven of Helena, Montana, a native of this city. Mr. Haven, who is chief of the civil engineering department of the Northern Pacific railroad, was burned about the face, hands and feet, and was reported as having suffered severely from the shock.

"SEA SANDS."

Miss Lizzie Evans, the bright and pleasing young actress who as "Chip" in the western drama "Fogg's Ferry" delighted Music hall audiences when in this city before, will next Wednesday evening appear in a new romantic comedy, "Sea Sands," written expressly for her, and which is said by the press to be a breezy, cheery picture of coast life, filled with humor, and dotted here and there with music and song. Miss Evans' performance is free from coarseness, and she has a strong and evenly-balaned company. The play is put on the stage with special scenery. Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's; see advertisement.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, March 19th.

Thomas Collins, drunk, ninety days at the county farm, $6.90 costs.

Emory S. Webster, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90; county farm in default of payment.

Sewall B. Fowler of Seabrook, larceny from the person of George Walton of the same town, was held in $800 for the April term of the supreme court, and was committed to jail in default of sureties.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Clara B. Kennard, Capt. Freeman, has commenced running after being hauled up at this port for the winter, and arrived at Boothbay on Thursday, the 17th inst., on her way to Rockland to load lime. The War Eagle, Philpot master, arrived at New York on the 18th from this port.

The fishing schooner Daniel Marcy, from Georges banks, put into New Bedford on the 17th inst. to procure provisions and effect repairs, having had rough weather and had bulwarks stove, besides sustaining other slight damage.

Coal freights have declined, there being plenty of tonnage and but a moderate demand. Among the charters reported last week were two schooners from Philadelphia with 900 tons of coal each, and one schooner with 1800 tons, for this port, at $1.20 per ton.

The Dover Democrat says: "The tug Ann, which has for several years past been employed on this river, and owned by Charles H. Trickey & Co. of this city, is soon to be sold, and a new and finer boat put on the river in its stead. Even now Mr. Trickey is contracting for the building of a new and larger boat. The new one will be eighty feet keel, and supplied with all the modern improvements."

The ice in the lower Cocheco river was breaking up and going out with the ebb tide so fast, the latter part of last week, that it was expected in Dover that the tug Ann, which has wintered at Appledore wharf, would be able to get up to Dover early this week. The mild temperature and warm rains have rotted the ice very rapidly within the past few days.

WELCOME, SPRING.

Come, gentle Spring! etherial Mildness! come.
—Thompson's Seasons.

It is hardly necessary to remark that Mr. Thompson was not a resident of this city or of New England; if he had been, he would not have written in that strain about the season which of all in the year is the most uncomfortable and disagreeable, at least in its first half; whose delights exist only in poetry and prospective, and which is endurable only because it will soon be over and better weather will follow, when the colds and the rheumatic attacks due to the etherial mildness and sloppiness and east winds will have a chance of alleviation and possible cure.

Modern science and medical research have done much toward enlightening us as to how deadly and totally objectionable a season spring is. Let any unprejudiced man carefully read the patent medicine advertisements in the papers; learn from them the vast number and variety of diseases with which spring attacks every vital and minor organ of his physical being, any one of which is absolutely certain to transplant him to another sphere, and make him very uncomfortable during the operation of transplanting; learn also of what restoratives and elixirs and preventives, pills and ointments and alteratives, plasters and oils and discoveries, and other things, he must positively partake of regularly and in vast quantities if he would have even a faint hope of surviving long enough to be killed by sunstroke or lightning.—let him ponder over all this, and then say how his opinion of spring tallies with that entertained by the poet two hundred years ago.

Sunday was the first day of spring, and was almost delightful enough to justify the poet's lines; but of course it was merely a snare and a delusion, a cheat, preliminary to easterly snow storms and chilly weather, wet feet, and colds in the head consequent on the premature discarding of overshoes and winter overcoats.

THE BIBLE.

"From a child thou hast known the holy scriptures which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through faith in Christ Jesus our Lord." I Timothy, 3:15.

This passage was used as a central point in the lecture at the Universalist church last evening.

Being "wise unto salvation" is to have wisdom in living. It is not to have knowledge of puzzling doctrines, but to be wise in life. It is not to understand the ideas of science; they have to be constantly corrected. The essential Bible never changes; man is constantly changing in his attitude toward it. And the beauty of the Bible is this: Whatever men may think about it, in ordering their throughts they can never escape its wisdom; whatever sin men may plunge into, they cannot escape its "sweet reasonableness;" however men may dislike to go to church, the wisdom of the Bible hunts them up and follows them all the days of their life. It contains the truths of the science of life, be it high life, or low life; these truths will lash mankind until man turns his face to the Master who holds the moral whip, and who also holds "the secret and the power" that the Bible contains. The legends and stories of the Bible are the dramas showing the awful struggle of the conscience-smitten Israelite up to God. To him God gave conscience as to no other man. Jehovah was his king, and "I ought" his watchword, and though often mistaken, and wandering in fearful darkness, he never was deaf to the cry, "Hear, O Israel, the Lord thy God is one God, Him only shalt thou serve."

But to us the power of the Bible is that in it the deafest souls can hear God. Going to the Bible fearlessly and carrying the ever increasing experience of mankind, it wins assent more and more to the secret and the power of Jesus, "I am the truth."

The price of all kinds of coal is reduced half a dollar a ton from winter prices, at the Portsmouth coal pockets, J. Albert Walker proprietor. The reduction goes into effect this morning.

Miss Eliza A. Huntress died at her residence, No. 17 Washington street, Saturday, March 19th. Miss Huntress has been an invalid for many years, confined the most of the time to her bed, enduring her great affliction with Christian fortitude and patience, her sufferings alleviated by the gentle ministrations of two devoted sisters and a large circle of sympathizing friends.

The funeral of the late Arthur S. Gerrish took place at Spring Garden. The funeral services were the solemn and impressive lines laid down in the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer, Rev. Abel Leonard, rector of Trinity church, officiating. At this close the remains of the deceased were conveyed to the depot by the pallbearers, Messrs. S. B. Glazier, F. W. Hunton, L. A. Wheeler, C. B. Singleton, Wm. Dutch and Edwin L. Small, and left on the 6:10 train for the old home in New Hampshire. Maj. John M. Crowell accompanied the almost heart-broken mother, who had been by the side of her boy during his illness, as far as St. Louis, and saw her on the train to Cleveland, where she will be met by her brother-in-law During her stay in Atchison, Mrs. Gerrish was called upon to mourn the death of her mother, but could not leave the bedside of her child to attend the funeral. It was a sad death, that of this bright young boy who came to Kansas but a few weeks ago so full of promise; who had started in life with an unsullied name, solid acquirements and the most brilliant hopes for the future; and who had trusted that soon as his foothold was assured in this great west, he could go back to the old home and bring with him the young girl who had placed her life's happiness in his hands; and yet it is gratifying to know that the pillow of the dying boy was smoothed and the bright eyes closed by a mother's tender, loving hands.—Atchison (Kansas) Daily Patriot, March 14th.

Saturday evening at about seven o'clock a solemn procession of one-horse dumpcarts, laden with picks, shovels, etc., slowly wended its way through the pouring rain across the parade, halting briefly for the tired horses to refresh themselves from the public fountain with a drink of our pure aqueduct water, and then proceeding up Market street en route for Kittery. They came from Rhode Island, and their object, to commence work at this end of the York Harbor & Beach railroad.

Two extra freight trains over the Eastern division of the Boston & Maine railroad passed through this city on Sunday, one from Boston and the other from Portland.

Mr. Jeff. C. Rowe, the hero of the terrible railroad accident at Revere, Mass., which deprived him of one arm, sustained a serious loss on Saturday in the death of the faithful and reliable horse which he has for some years past driven in his coupe. This horse was brought here by the late Medical Inspector William M. King of the navy some fifteen or more years ago, when he was attached to the Portsmouth navy yard. When Dr. King left this city, he refused to sell the horse, but gave her to his close personal friend, Mr. Elbridge G. Peirce, at that time postmaster of this city, who used the animal for years, and when he had no further use for her disposed of her to Mr. Rowe, feeling assured that she would be not only a valuable but a valued and kindly-treated servant to her new owner, as has proved to be the case. Mr. Rowe, to whom the death of the horse is a serious loss, was in attendance on her continuously for several days and nights during her illness, and is only less regretful over her demise than he would be at the loss of a personal friend. The animal was about twenty-five years old, but was good for ten years' service yet at the time of her death.

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dulness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N. Y.

CHILDREN OF THE APACHES.

Barbaric Education of the Girls—Training Them to be Cruel.

A prominent feature of any Apache village are the children, who are unkept little savages, but are much handsomer in childhood than in mature life. The care of the male children devolves upon the man, who carefully educates them to emulation and practice in deeds of blood, including the art of scientific torturing. So well are these lessons taught that the Apache boy, at an early age, is ambitious and fitted to go on the warpath. Some of the most daring deeds in Apache warfare have been performed by boys who were emulous to earn their title to manhood.

The girl is taught the rude domestic arts and lessons of labor, but her education in barbarity is not a whit less thorough than that of the boy. The fate of the captive among the Apaches has always been most lamentable, but the greatest cruelty both to men and women have been perpetrated by the Apache females. A captive woman, made compulsorily the wife or slave of an Apache warrior, is usually, after the first cruelties of the attending capture, treated by him as well as other women in the tribe, but, in his absence, the captive will be often grievously beaten by the other wives.

The education of the Apache girl begins with her care of the younger children. She learns to carry water and to go forth to hunt roots, wild fruits and berries, worms and reptiles, and whatever else goes to make up the Apache cuisine. She is taught to prepare for eating the game or domestic animals used for food brought in by the warriors from their excursions. Much of this animal food being common property, she learns to make a vigorous fight to secure for her own household the entrails, which are the greatest luxury to the Apache. She subsists largely upon such odds and ends as she can get by stealth or after others have been satisfied, as the special household care is the providing for the wants of the warriors and boys. Under such an education she grows up strong, tough and fleet footed, accustomed to every effort of endurance, privation and hardship of Indian life.—Sunshine.

"Life of Thomas Hart Benton," by Theodore Roosevelt. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. For sale by M. Goodrich, price $1.25. This is one of the series, and the latest, of "American Statesmen" edited by John T. Morse, Jr. It is a striking picture of the important political and social times which preceded the great civil conflict, and in which Benton was such a prominent figure. Mr. Roosevelt has given us a powerful and appreciative description of this great man's character, and the position and influence which he held, and which was due to the purity of his public and private life, his indomitable energy and industry, and his tenacious persistency and personal courage. Benton was one of the greatest of American statesmen, and his vast influence was always wielded for the good of the country he loved so well.

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mr. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, a disease with which I had suffered greatly from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicines she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulphur Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

—"When you have a cold spell," said a Dakota man to a New Yorker, with a slight tinge of sarcasm, "you say it comes from Dakota, and when you have a hot spell you say it comes from Dakota. James Fyle's Pearline is universally approved by those who use it for its admirable cleansing properties and the relief it affords in washing clothes. Sold by grocers everywhere.

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago, and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest, is the only route in the link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, LaSalle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Marion, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown, in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel rails. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The history of its passenger accommodation is unequaled in the City of Chicago or in the world.

All Express Trains between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of Comfortable Day Coaches, magnificent Pullman Palace Parlor and Sleeping Cars, elegant Dining Cars providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—useful Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route only Fast Express Trains are run, by way of the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota, through the wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota, are reached via Albert Lea, Austin, Owatonna, St. Peter, Sioux Falls and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points. All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from employees and employees of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly treatment.

Mrs. Logan declares that her late husband's forthcoming book, "The Voulnteer Soldier in America," was completed by his own hand.

The number of women who remonstrated against suffrage in Massachusetts this year was eighty-one, as against 5,741 petitioners in favor.

Mrs. Bishop H. Warren, said to be the richest woman in Colorado, made her own money by cattle-raising, and is now worth $10,000,000.

Miss Carey Thomas, the dean of the new college for women at Bryn Mawr, Wales, took her degree at the university of Zurich. The degree is conferred only once in ten years.

Mrs. Josephine Brower, of Minneapolis, Minn., has received her commission from the governor as notary public. She is the first woman to be appointed under the legislative act making women eligible.

Mrs. Marion Todd is a successful lawyer in Albion, Mich. Her first case was for a railroad conductor against a rich corporation, and she won it. She is now prosecuting a $25,000 damage suit against the Central Pacific railroad.

Mrs. Hetty Green, the richest woman in America, lately visited Chicago. While she was going over a building that belongs to her, the janitor, not knowing her, became suspicious of the way she pried about, and ordered her to leave. She was so pleased with the man's vigilance that she raised his wages.

Gail Hamilton remarks that women can never expect to get their alleged "rights" until they give up their baby names. Think of Katie or Lillie or Minnie or Posie voting the ticket, running for aldermen or bossing a ward caucus. The terminal "ie" is fatal to the emancipation of the sex from bondage.

Mrs. E. Putnam Heaton, of the Brooklyn Times, has been weighing the dresses at a fashionable modiste's, to find the average weight of a woman's gown. She found that jet-trimmed reception dresses weighed from thirty-four to forty-nine pounds, plain walking dresses from twelve to nineteen. Nothing was found that weighed less than ten pounds.

Disorders which Affect the Kidneys Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel, and other complaints of the urinary organs, are not ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be averted by timely medication. A useful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus when they become inactive, but increases their vigor and secretive power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of those organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthener of the bowels, an invigorant of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and fever and ague. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

"Dr." Andrew Jackson Grant, the matrimonial adventurer, who married a Cambridge, Mass., woman last September and deserted her soon after, has been arrested on the charge of robbing the lady of valuables.

I am an Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphuur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

It is rumored that Benton J. Hill of Iowa has been decided upon as the success or of Mr. Montgomery as commissioner of patents.

The Grand Central theatre at Buffalo, N. Y., was destroyed by fire on the night of the 20th inst., and two men who slept in the building perished.

The effect of St. Jacobs Oil is instantaneous in cases of sprains and bruises.

C. C. Farwell & Co., shoe manufacturers of Danvers, Mass., have decided to remove their entire business from that place to Methuen, where they already have a shop running, which they will greatly enlarge. The firm had done business in Danvers for twenty years, employed 400 hands, and their anual payroll has been over $200,000. INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

For 20 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Illinois.

HOW CODFISH ARE CAUGHT.

Where the Finest Fish Are Found—Forerunners of the Coming Catch.

"The deep sea commercial fish come out of the cold water seas," said an authority on the subject the other day to a correspondent. "It is not true that the cod and herring migrate to the arctic seas, as was once believed. These fish are local in their habits and confined to a limited area, governed in their movements by a supply of food, the instinct to spawn and the temperature of the water. They go out from the cold waters to the warmer to spawn, and come back again in a direct line. Like all animals which have homes, they come to the place of their birth for reproductive purposes. Generations of fish from immemorial time have come back to their native banks and spots. The cod drops its spawn free into the sea at a considerable distance from the bottom. The spawn does not sink, but swims near the surface in transparent eggs, and in about sixteen days they hatch. The male fish in spawning swims deeper than the female, and the milt rises, as soon as it is poured out, to the surface. The young cod in its first year grows to be a foot long. It cannot reproduce till it is 4 years old.

"The Rev. Mr. Harvey, of Newfoundland, in his history of that island published only four years ago, says that the finest codfish does not swim near sand borne by the gulf stream or the St. Lawence, but upon rocky bottom, which sometimes is only fifty feet below the surface, but generally nearer 400. There is an outer bank called the false bank, where the water is 700 or 800 feet deep. The fishing grounds have an extent of 200 miles long by 60 miles wide, and this particularly fine ground is called the cod meadow, and it has never decreased in productiveness. Thirty codfish make a hundred weight when dried."

"How do they know when the cod are running on the banks?"

"A little fish called the caplin, about seven inches long, precedes them, swimming on the surface in enormous swarms. The cod follow them in to devour them. The fishermen take the caplin for bait. These little caplin fish, when they come toward shore, are so thick that a man can stand on the banks with a casting net and fill a cart with them in an hour. The caplin are used by the farmers for manure, and are put up like sardines. Next come the squids or cuttlefish, which remain six or seven weeks, and are also used for bait. Then the herring come in the fall. These bait fishes run from the 1st of June till near winter, and without them hardly anything could be done in capturing the cod."

"Why is the codfish particularly valuable?"

"Because you can eat nearly every part of it, or use it somehow. The head is good; they make guano of the offal and bones as good as Peruvian guano; from the bladder isinglass is made; they send the roe to France as bait for sardines; the tongue and sounds are sold in Boston and New York for delicacies."

"But do they take the cod ashore and dissect him?"

"The Newfoundland or Cape Breton fisherman comes right in from sea and lands at a platform projecting over the water. With a kind of pitchfork he flings the fish on this; a man up there with a sharp knife severs the gills from the belly, slits the abdomen to the vent, and makes a cut on each side of the head near the base of the skull. Another man takes out the liver for cod liver oil, puts off the head, removes the bowels, which are thrown into a scow for manure. The tongues and bladders are taken out and pickled. Then a third man, called a splitter, puts the body of the fish on its back, holds it open with the left hand, and cuts along one side of the backbone to the tail. The backbone is then taken out and the fish salted on the floor and spread out on flakes to be dried. When they are packed they are divided into the merchantable, the West India, and the broken fish. The West India cod is eaten by negroes."—Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Primitive Turkish Bath.

"The first time I tried a Mexican sweat bath," said Col. Joe Shelly, the famous scout, "I thought I would die, but I shut my teeth together and said: 'I can stand it as long as you can, old fellows.' It was at the close of a long march on a hot day. The Indians fixed a tepee until it was air tight, heated a rock and then rolled it into the tepee. One by one we crawled into it, after having stripped off our clothing. Some of the Indians didn't have much on, and then we packed together as close as sardines in a box. I thought I would melt. Every few minutes the lord high executioner or master of ceremonies would talk Indian and throw a little water out of a can on the rock. This would fill the room with steam. It seemed an age before they let me go, but I guess it wasn't more than half an hour. Then we all made a rush to the river near by, and a dash of a few minutes made us as fresh as a daisy. No matter how tired we were, the sweat bath made us feel like kings."—Toledo Blade.

Lamaism in China.

The Rev. Jonathan Cressett, who for seventeen years has been a missionary in China, says that one section of China is still untouched by the missionaries—the Mongols living to the north and west. The Mongols go down to Lassa in Thibet as to a Mecca, and evidence can be found among them of the teachings of the early Christians. They are the most tenacious as to their religion of any people whom he had ever met. Their deity is called Borhan, or "light," and their belief—Lamaism—is founded upon tenets held by all Christians. They observe one day in every seven, and although they worship idols, they have ten commandments, and their system of morals is very high. —New York Sun.

AN AROUSED COMMUNITY.

The Unusual Stir Caused in Kingston, New York.

[Special Correspondence Boston Globe.]

The letter I recently wrote the Globe describing a remarkable occurrence which took place here, has had the effect of thoroughly awakening this community. The facts, as described, were that Mr. Jere Smith, son of Cornelius B. Smith, of the State Insurance Department, after passing through an agonizing ordeal, and having been abandoned by his friends had been most wonderfully rescued. His experience was, in its beginning at least, almost the same as that of hundreds of other men and women in every city and town. He had gone along thoughtlessly, noticing only occasional inconveniences, and had suddenly been awakened to the fact that death was staring him in the face. He had overlooked little passing troubles without realizing that they are often "the beginning of the end." He had neglected interests that concerned his very life, just as thousands of others do, simply because they come in a quiet and often unnoticed way. And it is cause for gratitude that his experience is having so good and arousing an effect on others who were drifting in the same dangerous direction.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

I was in the office of the Kingston Freeman, one of the best interior papers of the state, the other day, and had a talk with Mr. W. H. Winton, its popular manager. Quite naturally the conversation drifted to Mr. Smith's case, and the stimulating effect it was having on the people. Mr. Winton said:

"I can specially sympathize with Mr. Smith for I have been through a much similar experience in my own family. My wife became troubled and weakened, as so many women do, and from small symptoms and beginnings grew worse until she finally began to bloat terribly. She had been attended by physicians, sometimes with temporary success, usually without. We finally determined to try the same means which Mr. Smith employed so successfully and my wife is not in her grave, but in the enjoyment of health wholly because Hunt's Remedy rescued her. This is a grand medicine and a large suffering world, too often ignorant or skeptical of its life-saving, health giving qualities, needs it."

PRESCRIBING

"It is certainly receiving wonderful endorsements," I remarked. Do you think it merits them."

"Every one of them. Why, when my wife began using the remedy she discovered the same medicine had been given her by a physician some time ago without her knowing the name of the medicine given at the time. I can also prove that bushel basketsful of empty bottles of Hunt's Remedy were taken out of a doctor's office after his death. No one supposes for a moment that the bottles were used for desk ornaments or bric-a-brac, but the contents had undoubtedly been given to patients in small quantities at high prices. The medical profession evidently knows no better or more valuable remedy."

Mr. Cornelius B. Smith, the father of Jere Smith, confirmed all his son had said, and added: "I have not words strong enough to give Hunt's Remedy the praise it merits, and there are hundreds of others in this city who feel the same way."

"TOWN TALK."

Mr. Edwin H. Fasset said that the facts above given had been the "town talk" of Kingston, and his assertion was confirmed by Mr. Wm. D. Brenner.

Messrs. Cooper and Winchell, who are popular druggists, declare that not only are all the facts above stated true, but the demand for the remedy is something remarkable. It has become a household necessity here, as it undoubtedly deserves to be everywhere. WINTHROP.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

Dr. Andrew Jackson Grant, alias Dr. Perrie, alias Dr. Burns, alias a lot of other names, the "wealthy English physician from Australia" who with his "sister, Mrs. Kate Ray," played a bold and lively game at a number of summer resorts in this state and Maine last season, is likely to enlarge his already liberal education with a knowledge of the fare and treatment supplied in the Massachusetts penitentiary.

Dr. Andrew Jackson Grant, with his alleged sister, was sojourning at Old Orchard beach in the summer of 1885, and made desperate and determined love to a Dover lady who was summering there, and was reported to possess a number of thousand dollars. The doctor is described as a well educated and well informed man, and a fluent conversationalist. He is rather "distingue" in appearance, and wears his full head of hair quite long, and brushed smoothly back. His gray mustache is neatly trimmed, and he wears a sparkling diamond in his shirt front. This nice man was accepted by the Dover lady, but he and his sister were so importunate for an immediate marriage that the suspicions of the affianced bride were awakened, and an investigation followed which showed Dr. Grant to be an imposter of as high a grade as his diamond. Before his real character was learned he had been a guest at the lady's house for nearly a week.

Last summer the fascinating doctor was a guest at one of the leading hotels at Rye beach, and paid very marked attention to a Manchester lady who was reported to have property worth $60,000 or more; his attentions, however, were not so well received as he could have wished, and his offer of marriage was flatly rejected. The doctor and his sister then went to the White mountains, where at one of the hotels Miss Lucy Torrey of Cambridge, Mass., was met, wooed and won, and on her return to Cambridge was married to the doctor by Rev. Andrew P. Peabody, D. D. In connection with this marriage, it appears that Miss Torrey wanted to be married by the distinguished divine, and was willing to pay well for it, so she suggested it to the doctor. The latter coolly asked her how much it would be necessary to pay the minister who performed the ceremony. Miss Torrey said that the legal fee was something like $2.50; and being fearful that the doctor might disgrace her by giving the minister that sum, she got a $100 bill and gave it to the doctor to hand to the minister. Dr. Grant took it, but before he handed it in an envelope to Dr. Peabody the $100 bill had been transformed into a ten, and Dr. Grant was $90 ahead in the game.

Soon after his marriage with Miss Torrey the doctor got his wife to draw all her money out of the bank and sell some valuable stocks, in all amounting to $6,000, of which he took possession, and the trio started on a bridal tour; several days later the groom deserted his newly-wedded wife at Albany, N. Y., taking all her money, while his "sister," his joint partner in his rascalities, took all her clothes. Subsequent investigation by Detective L. J. Ducey of Cambridge resulted in the issuing of warrants against Grant for theft and bigamy, and he was arrested in Woodbury, N. J., on the 17th inst., and brought to Boston. Just how many wives he has is not known, but it is known that he has two, and it is thought he has several more.

When he was arrested at eleven o'clock at night on the 17th, he was in a farm house which he bought about five months ago. He was known in that region as Dr. Alexander Perrie, had recently joined the Methodist church, and was considered a very excellent citizen. The "sister" was not found, the doctor telling the officers that they quarrelled and separated some months ago. He says he was born in Manchester, England, and served in the late war as a surgeon in the Fifth Illinois regiment. He returned to England after the war, and travelled in Australia, Japan, and other foreign countries, returning to this country about six years ago. The officers have in their possession a certificate of his marriage with a woman at St. John, N. B., who is ready to appear against him.

The doctor was arraigned in the court at East Cambridge on the 21st inst., on two charges of stealing from Miss Lucy Torrey, and was held in $10,000 on each charge.

Embezzlement by a "Reform" Postmaster.

A despatch of the 18th inst. from Indianapolis, Ind., says: "A post-office inspector to-day discovered that the accounts of H. G. Douglass, postmaster at Plainfield, were short $500 or $600. While the inspector was at dinner, Douglass took $150 from the money-order drawer, all the stamps, drew $100 of a private deposit from the bank, and left the town. He was appointed some months ago at the solicitation of Congressman Matson, although a bitter fight was made against him. His shortage is attributed to gambling losses."

Hard to Kill.

The following story comes from Texarkana, Arkansas: Two weeks ago Walter Ridgely, a wealthy farmer, living twenty miles north of here, shot and killed two ferrymen who were trying to force exorbitant charges out of a St. Louis drummer for putting him across the river. On examination Ridgely was discharged. John Murphy, a brother of one of the men killed, and an uncle of the other, swore to kill Ridgely on sight. Friday, Ridgely, on horseback, was returning home from a neighbor's, and on entering a strip of woods, was fired on from ambush. The horse fell dead, but its rider escaped unharmed, and rolled over on the opposite side of the horse to that from which the firing proceeded. The two would-be murderers, who were the relatives of the dead ferrymen, thinking that Ridgely was dead, approached. When within about ten feet Ridgely suddenly sprang up, and shot both assailants dead.

The Northern Railroad Decree.

The counsel for the plaintiffs in the suit of Dow and others against the Northern railroad and others, involving the legality of the lease of the Northern railroad to the Boston & Lowell, have drawn a decree in accordance with the decision of the supreme court, and submitted the same to the lawyers for the defence. As soon as counsel are agreed as to its form it will be sent to Chief Justice Doe for his signature. The decree as prepared, in substance enjoins the Boston & Lowell railroad from operating the Northern after July 1st next; directs that its officers surrender the Northern railroad to the proper parties, and commands the directors of the Northern to operate the same as before the lease was executed.—Concord Monitor.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, and the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years. W. L. WEST, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Light local rain or snow, cooler, variable winds.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 34 degrees above zero.

Sky Clear.

HOPE THEY WILL COME.

Kent, the Portsmouth correspondent of the Boston Traveller, says it is hinted that the President and Mrs. Cleveland may visit the Wentworth next summer. If this rumor should prove true and an opportunity be afforded the old-liners of this vicinity to tell the President, in their own vigorous and expressive language, just what they think of some of the peculiar methods of his administration, he will repent he had not gone-a-fishing among the Adirondacks, where Bourbons and disappointed office seekers do not exist. But then they won't have the chance, and the President and his charming wife can enjoy undisturbed one of the most delightful summer resorts in New England, with plenty of good fishing, a sport Mr. Cleveland much delights in. We hope they will come.

PRIZE FIGHT AT HAMPTON.

The Newburyport Daily News says a prize fight between two well known roughs of Essex county, Mass., Martin Snee of Haverhill and "Billy" Currier of Lowell, took place at a secluded spot in Hampton at an early hour on Monday morning, the 21st inst., the fight being for $250 a side and the "gate-money," the latter amounting to $380, thirty-eight persons, most of them from Newburyport, Haverhill and Lawrence, paying $10 each to witness the brutal exhibition. Two-once gloves were used, four rounds were fought, and Snee won the contest, which lasted one hour and twelve minutes in all, and "was very quietly and scientifically conducted." The disreputable party reached the ground in carriages, and returned the same way.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The riggers and sailmakers employed in the equipment department at this navy yard were discharged on Saturday, owing to the funds running short, and the law now not admitting of the "suspending" performance which used to be employed in circumnavigating the prohibition of the employment of new hands within a specified time before an election. They will be called on again in April to continue work on the U. S. S. Swatara, which will shortly be taken out of the dry dock to allow the Kearsarge to be taken in.

The commandant of the navy yard has revived the old regulations against smoking on the yard, and very properly directed them to be strictly enforced; at the same time, recognizing the fact that to be deprived of an after dinner smoke would be a hardship to many men, he has designated certain places where smoking may be freely indulged in during the noon hour. The anti-smoking rules had long been in a state of innocuous desuetude.

Thirty thousand dollars are to be expended on the dry dock at the Charlestown navy yard, in supplanting the old wooden gates with new iron ones.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner Rambler, at Union wharf, was on Monday being recaulked by Mr. Charles N. Osgood. The gondola Fearless, of Newmarket, Capt. Harry Watson, was also at the same wharf being recaulked, preparatory to going down river after two loads of sand for Mr. Safford of Kittery Point.

The schooner War Eagle, of this port, Philpot master, from New Bedford via Newport for New York, arrived in Hart island roads on Friday, the 18th inst., and reported: "On Thursday night at eleven o'clock, off Black Rock harbor, was run into by an unknown steam canal collier, bound to the eastward, staving a small hole on port bow above water line. John Burgess and his wife, supposed to have been employed in some capacity on board the collier, jumped for the schooner and landed in the rigging when they saw a collision was inevitable. They are at present aboard the schooner, and say they do not know the name of the craft from which they escaped, only that she loaded coal at Hoboken on Wednesday last. The collier proceeded without apparent damage, and did not stop or attempt to render assistance."

Many of the schooners that have been fishing out of this port during the winter have hauled off, to fit for spring fishing.

Men were at work Monday on the schooner Active, which has been hauled up during the winter at the wharf in the rear of E. F. Sise & Co.'s coal office, getting her ready for a start on the summer's business.

The fishing schooner Flying Eagle was on the ways at Kittery on Monday, to have her bottom inspected and painted.

The schooner Chilion, Capt. Whidden, was on Monday reported as being ready to start for Portland to load for Hingham, Mass.

The schooner Light Wing, of Gloucester, one of the gill netters, while coming up the river on Sunday afternoon struck on the outer point of the beacon ledge, but came off on the flood tide all right, not having sustained any injury.

Several very good fares of fish were landed here on the 20th inst. The schooner Abby A. Snow brought in 27,000 lbs., the Anna H. Mason 5,000, the Grace Choate 14,000, the Lady Thorne 3,700, the Light Wing 7,500, and the Martha Jane 1000. The Franklin S. Schenck had a trip of 35,000 lbs. which she did not sell here but carried to Gloucester.

There is quite a change in the temperature; blue birds and robins were reported to be quite plentiful on Monday, the small boys were playing marbles and the little girls rolling hoops, and Mr. Charles E. Boynton has taken away the bulkheads in his store on Bow street, hauled up his sleighs, and is preparing for the warm weather—all signs of an early season.

The undersigned gratefully acknowledges from "A Friend" the sum of twenty-five dollars for the Chase Home for Children.

JOHN S. RAND, Treasurer.

A gentleman of this city having some friends from the interior visiting him, on Saturday the 19th inst., to entertain them organized a grand clamming excursion on the Portsmouth shore of Little Harbor. Not finding a paying load of these delightful esculents on this shore they procured a boat to cross the creek, hoping to meet with better success on the other side. But alas! the treacherous tide and waves combined against them, their frail craft was upset, and the whole party were with difficulty rescued from a watery grave. They returned home discouraged, wet, tired, and minus the delicious shell fish they were in search of. Moral: it is better to procure clams for a chowder from a professional clam digger than to undertake to dig them yourself.

The new two-story building at the junction of Manning and Water streets, now nearly completed, has been sold by Mr. Walter T. Brooks, the builder and owner, to Mr. John J. Fletcher, who will occupy it as a provision store.

The Boston & Maine railroad bridge builders were at work Sunday putting in a large number of heavy iron rods to strengthen the trusses of the first span of Portsmouth bridge, at the Portsmouth end.

At a meeting of the Rye board of education on Saturday evening it was decided to organize the high school in September. This was the unanimous vote of the board, after consultation with several prominent citizens of the town who are deeply interested in the success of the school, and have been earnest workers toward having it established.

Thomas Drown, the oldest man in Newburyport, died on the night of the 19th inst. in the 95th year of his age. He was born in South Newmarket on Nov. 27th, 1792, and was one of a family of sixteen children, of whom five still survive, the youngest being seventy-eight years old. Mrs. Abigail L. Harvey of South Newmarket, aged eighty-five years, is one of the five.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., March 19th.

We are glad to remark that one of our picturesque old farms in this ancient town, the estate of the late Francis Raynes, is about to pass into a state of cultivation under the care of the grandson of the late owner, who also bears his name. The interest of the neighborhood has been most unpleasantly excited for several years past, by the general decay of the place, and the reckless denuding of its once beautiful woodlands. The present proprietor, Mr. Raynes, though not a citizen of our town, has long been known among us as an able and efficient teacher in our public schools, and we cannot but hope that his stay among us may not be a short one. ANCIENT.

YORK, ME., March 21st.

On Thursday, 17th, Mr. Perry Cummings' house at Beech Ridge caught fire, and burned through the roof and also through the chamber floor. Fortunately two neighbors happened along only in season to prevent serious consequences. The house is insured in the Kittery & Eliot Mutual Co., and the company will repair damages, which will amount to about forty dollars.

Rev. Miss Lizzie Haley will continue religious services this week,—preaching afternoon and evening at the Christian church. Large crowds of listeners are attracted to the house of worship, as she is a very fine speaker. Not much religious excitement yet.

School meeting in Dist. 13 on Saturday, 26th inst. The same ticket as last year will be elected.

It is a rule in high schools, if a good teacher can be obtained, to retain him or her year after year. I see no reason why the same rule should not apply to district schools. P.

The police of St. Petersburg, Russia, have made thorough search of the lodgings of all persons arrested in connection with the conspiracy against the czar, and it is reported that in the apartments of those who are regarded as the leaders of the plot were found shells containing seven pounds of dynamite and 200 bullets poisoned with stychnine.

It is supposed that Degairff, alias Jabolinski, the famous Russian nihilist leader, who was sent to Siberia about three years ago and subsequently escaped, was at the head of the recent attempt on the life of the czar.

British millers, at a recent convention in London, initiated an agitation in favor of an import duty on foreign flour, they not being able to compete with the American manufacturers.

March April May

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dulness, languor, and lassitude, afflict almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. MILLET, Boston, Mass.

At no other season is the system so susceptible to the beneficial effects of a reliable tonic and invigorant. The impure state of the blood, the deranged digestion, and the weak condition of the body, caused by its long battle with the cold, wintry blasts, all call for the reviving, regulating and restoring influences so happily and effectively combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a great deal of good. I had no particular disease, but was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." MRS. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"For seven years, spring and fall, I had scrofulous sores come out on my legs, and for two years was not free from them at all. I suffered very much. Last May I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken two bottles, the sores healed and the humor left me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

"There is no blood purifier equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. S. PHELPS, Rochester, N.Y.

How We Observe Traditions.

How did it happen that Socrates, the highest and noblest of them all, could so far countenance the popular religious belief as to ask his disciples to offer the customary sacrifice of two cocks to Æsculapius only a little while before his death? How does it happen that world wide traditions become so enrooted into the very blood and fiber that they became second nature to them. It is the kind of education people receive. People are afraid to think and be free. The great masses of the people are not educated to think for themselves. They are so busy about things in this world that they must take the facts from somebody, and they take counsel and go with the majority.—Rev. Minot J. Savage.

Going to School in Mexico.

A gentleman of an investigating turn of mind has taken the trouble to ascertain accurately how many days the children of Mexico lost from school during the year 1886. Here is the result: Fifty-two Sundays, twenty-six Saturdays, four national feast days, forty-five days of vacation and fifty Catholic holidays, making a total of 177 days, and having only 188 school days. When we take into consideration the fact that the most punctual child does not take advantage of every school day, we arrive at the conclusion that the children of this city do not attend school half of their time.—Two Republics (City of Mexico).

The True Gentleman.

But the true gentleman nowhere shows his superiority to other men more strikingly than in his behavior toward those who have given him cause for offense. There is solid truth in the quaint old Scotch proverb: "It's a gye gude to be ceevil, as the auld wife said when she necklit to the devril." In society, to treat with marked coldness those whom we do not like is disrespectful to all present.—George L. Carey.

On the retired list of the navy there are fifty rear admirals, fifteen commodores, twelve commanders, twenty paymasters, fourteen captains, twenty lieutenant commanders, forty-one lieutenants, seventy-two engineers, and forty-six surgeons.

CANTATAS FOR FLOWER TIME!

Teachers of Juvenile Singing Classes do not need to be told of the intense interest and enthusiasm which attends the bringing out of a new CANTATA. The following are new, bright, pretty and easily given. Commence in time to prepare them.

VOICES OF NATURE. Operetta. N. B. Sargent.
FOREST JUBILEE BAND. N. B. Sargent.
NEW FLORA'S FESTIVAL. Bradbury. Arranged by J. C. Johnson.
MERRY COMPANY, or Cadets' Picnic. Collins Coe.

Price of each book, 40 cts., or $3.60 per doz.

The first two books are by a nature and music-lover, who fills them with very sweet songs of birds, flowers, insects, etc. Flora's Festival, doubled in size, and with minute directions, will surely be a success, as will, in another way, the "MERRY COMPANY."

Our new edition of VOICES OF PRAISE, (40 cts., or $4.20 per doz.) Rev. C. L. Hutchins, is cordially commended to all who wish a Sunday School Song Book of the highest character.

Schools, Academies and Seminaries are always satisfied with the popular, well-graded School Song Books of Ditson & Co. We recommend for the higher schools, SONG GREETING (60 cts.) and ROYAL SINGER (60 cts.), for grammar schools, SONG BELLS (50 cts.), and for primary schools, GEMS FOR LITTLE SINGERS (50 cts.)

Always Giving Satisfaction.

Brandreth's Pills have always given satisfaction. In fifty years there has been no complaint of them. That is about their life in the United States and millions of persons have used them. There is no doubt that they have established themselves by merit alone. They cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, diarrhœa, liver complaint and fevers, and greatly prolong the human life. I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mr. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of scrofula, a disease with which I had suffered greatly from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicines she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged of her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulphur Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover street, Boston, Mass.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY LOOKING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago, and continuous lines at terminal points West, North west and Southwest, is the only true middle link in the transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown, in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

The Great Rock Island Route

Guaranteed Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodation is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

All Express Trains between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of Comfortable Day Coaches, magnificent Pullman Palace Parlor and Sleeping Cars, elegant Dining Cars providing excellent meals, and Reclining Chair Cars.

The Famous Albert Lea Route

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily in the summer months, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of Interior Dakota are reached via Watertown. A short, desirable route, via Seneca and Kenyon, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points. All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly treatment.

Disorders which Affect the Kidneys Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel, and other complaints of the urinary organs, are not ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be averted by timely medication. A useful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus when they become inactive, but increases their vigor and secretive power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of those organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthener of the bowels, an invigorant of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and fever and ague. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

—A patent medicine advertisement is headed "What kills Americans." This is probably true, but it is a poor recommendation for the medicine.

I am an Old Man.

Shall be 79 years of age next June, and for the last six years have suffered from general debility and old age. At times I could not get out of bed without help. I commenced to take Sulphuur Bitters. In a week I felt stronger and got a mighty fine appetite. I still continued their use, and to-day I walked over three miles without feeling tired, something I haven't done in five years before. Sulphur Bitters is a right smart medicine.—George Brown, Keokuk, Iowa.

—"When you have a cold spell," said a Dakota man to a New Yorker, with a slight tinge of sarcasm, "you say it comes from Dakota, and when you have a hot spell you say it comes from Dakota. Where does your fine weather come from—Dakota too?" "Oh, no," respended the New Yorker; "our fine weather is of purely local origin."

—A sheep-herder arrived in Virginia City, Montana, the other day, to collest his wages. After getting his money he said: "Well, I guess you'll have to find me another job." "Why, what's the matter?" inquired the boss, "aren't you satisfied with your situation?" "Oh, yes," replied the herder, "but your old sheep are all dead, and you've got to get some more if you want me to work for you."

The Lombard and South Sts. Railway, Philadelphia, boasts of a "combine" which has just made $15,000. The "combine" consists of twenty-two drivers and conductors, and the rules of the association require the payment of $1 per month by each member to the transfer agent at Twenty-third and South Sts., who invests the sum in Louisiana State Lottery tickets. The first monthly investment of the club resulted in the purchase of ticket No. 73,367, which won a $15,000 prize on Feb. 8th. A MEDICINE, NOT A DRINK.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold, for use, except to persons desirous of obtaining medicinal bitters.

Green B. Raum,
U. S. Com'r Internal Rev.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24th, 1884.

Dear Sir:—Why don't you get a certificate from Col. W. H. W., of Baltimore, showing how he cured himself of drunkenness by the help of Hop Bitters. His is a wonderful case. He is well known in Rochester, N. Y., by all the drinking people there. He is known in this city, Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York; in fact all over the country, as he has spent thousands of dollars for rum. I honestly believe his card would be worth thousands of dollars to you in this city and Baltimore alone, and make thousands of sober men by inducing the use of your bitters. J. A. W.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parent—Good Templars.

Milton, Del., Feb. 10th, 1886.

Having used Hop Bitters, the noted remedy for debility, nervousness, indigestion, etc., I have no hesitation in saying that it is indeed an excellent medicine and recommend it to any one as a truly tonic bitters. Respectfully,

Rev. Mrs. J. H. Ellgood.

Scipio, N. Y., Dec. 1st, 1884.

I am the pastor of the Baptist church here and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has been greatly benefitted and still uses the medicine. I believe she will become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them. E. R. Warren.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquof that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. HERMITS OF THE FAR WEST.

A Curious Social Study—Pioneer Work Done by Recluses.

Few persons who have not considerable familiarity with some part of the country westward from the base of the Rockies have any idea of the great numbers of men who throughout that region lead hermitlike lives. To me it is as a matter of course on approaching a dwelling, be it a rusty 8x10 cabin or a place fit for a decent family home, to find it occupied by but one man, who will tell me that he is "baching it," living quite alone except for the company of stray visitors at odd times.

Generally the western semi-hermit has a strong dash of independence in his character. He is poor, and dislikes to work with a "boss" over him, so he sets out to try what he can do on his own account. He goes about making a little farm. He has a few head of cattle, a small herd of hogs, or something of that kind. He frequently has a quartz mine which he is endeavoring to develop by slow and onerous toil. In parts where there is still some gold to be got by placer mining he is likely to be engaged for a portion of his time in that method of earning a living—nowadays more than ever an uncertain and ungrateful way of gaining subsistence. In a "wooden country" the hermit may work with the ax, cutting firewood, or making railway ties, fence rails, posts, shingles, or whatnot, according to the suitability of the timber.

An immense amount of the pioneer work of the new countries is done by the recluses. They are always at the front of regular settlement, rambling around and exploring until they happen on spots that strike their fancy. They are the discoverers of the finest tracts of agricultural land, of the best springs, of the most desirable timber. They know more about the country in which they dwell than anybody else. They begin forest clearings, fence their claims in whole or part, find out practicable routes for new trails. They are great fellows for making plans and schemes on a large scale. They nose out all the natural resources and advantages of the land, and imagine what they do not nose out, and on that foundation build dreams of fortune. Far more often than not at all the reward of their discoveries, their toil and scheming is a bare existence. Here and there one of them accumulates considerable property, but by the time that has been accomplished he has become too strongly fixed in his habits to care for another mode of life.

They are generally men past or fairly on toward middle age who "go it alone" in the western lands. The younger fellows without families and who are trying to "do for themselves" always prefer to have a partner; and if, as happens in most instances, the partnership breaks up in a row, the members of the concern hunt employment where they can have companions after their kind. Although they love their freedom well enough to rebel at the mastership of a partner, they do not love it well enough to relish the mastership of an employer at the expense of being deprived of the sound and sight of human voices and faces. When a young man is found living in lonely state he is in a chronic humor of discontent, growling viciously at his lack of society and bent on making a change as soon as circumstances will admit one. He has in general some well defined purpose in view, and is doing his level best to reach his goal. But as often as not he becomes disgusted with himself before his desired end is attained, and goes back to join the crowd.—Lewis Stornaway in New York Times.

Boarding a Man-of-War.

"We continue to have a great many conventionalities in our naval and army service, and to cling to much of that which is old and useless in teachings and practices," said an old navy officer the other day. "We continue to instruct our naval cadets and marines in boarding ships," continued he, "when there is not the least particle of sense or utility in it. It is as senseless to talk about boarding a modern man-of-war as it is to take a trip to the moon. I remember that during one of the last engagements in European waters a man-of-war belonging to some country ran alongside a British vessel, and all hands were ordered to board her. The crew got out on the Britisher, but after pounding around with cutlasses, axes, etc., were wholly unable to enter the ship, and had to go back and continue the fight at long range. We will have to do our fighting with ships by means of dynamite rams, steel projectiles and the big guns. We have no use for the barbarous side arms and other relics of antiquity."—New York Sun.

Among our Cuban women the eyes, the supple grace of the person and the dainty, delicate foot are the most striking points. Their faces are interesting rather than beautiful, being oval, with delicate protruding chins. Their mouths are generally large but well formed, with a suggestion of pathos in the slightly drooping corners. Their complexions are pale and creamy, but their lips are scarlet, mobile and tremulous. The teeth perfect in form and dazzlingly white, in contrast with the lips. The hair is lead black in youth. But the eyes are the priceless, crowning loveliness, the never ending power and charm of the fair Cubanese. When you say that behind their long lashes and languidly moving lids they are large, dark, dreamy, yet glowing, flashing with fire or melting with languor, you have only hinted at the inexpressible expression. They talk with their eyes as no other women in the world do.—New York Mail and Express.

The appropriations made by congress from 1800 to date for the erection and remodeling of the United States Capitol amount to over $15,000,000.

A LESSON WITH A MORAL.

When Will Our Eyes be Opened to this Great National Calamity?

The year 1886 played sad havoc with many prominent men of our country.

Many of them died without warning, passing away apparently in the full flush of life.

Others were sick but a comparatively short time. We turn to our files and are astonished to find that most of them died of apoplexy, of paralysis, of nervous prostration, of malignant blood humor, of Bright's disease, of heart disease, of kidney disease, of rheumatism or of pneumonia.

It is singular that most of our prominent men die of these disorders. Any journalist who watches the telegraph reports will be astonished at the number of prominent victims of these disorders.

Many statements have appeared in our paper with others to the effect that the diseases that carried off so many prominent men in 1886 are really one disease, taking different names according to the location of the fatal effects.

When a valuable horse perishes, it becomes the nine days' talk of the sporting world, and yet thousands of ordinary horses are dying every day, their aggregate loss is enormous, and yet their death creates no comment.

So it is with individuals. The cause of death of prominent men creates comment, especially when it can be shown that one unsuspected disease carries off most of them, and yet "vast numbers of ordinary men and women die before their time from the same cause."

It is said if the blood is kept free from uric acid, that heart disease, paralysis, nervous prostration, pneumonia, rheumatism, and many cases of consumption, would never be known. This uric acid, we are told, is the waste of the system, and it is the duty of the kidneys to remove this waste.

We are told that if the kidneys are maintained in perfect health, the uric, kidney, acid is kept out of the blood, and these sudden and universal diseases caused by uric acid will, in a large measure, disappear.

But how shall this be done? It is folly to treat effects. If there is any known way of getting at the cause, that way should be known to the public. We believe that Warner's safe cure of which so much has been written, and so much talked of by the public generally, and which can be obtained of dealers everywhere, is now recognized by impartial physicians and the public as the one specific for such diseases.

Because public attention has been directed to this great remedy by means of advertising some persons have not believed in the remedy. We cannot see how Mr. Warner could immediately benefit the public in any other way, and his valuable specific should not be condemned because some nostrums have come before the public in the same way, any more than that all doctors should be condemned because so many of them are incompetent.

It is astonishing what good opinions you hear on every side of this great remedy, and public opinion thus based upon an actual experience, has all the weight and importance of absolute truth.

At this time of the year, the uric acid in the blood invites pneumonia and rheumatism, and there is not a man who does not dread these monsters of disease; but he need have no fear of them, we are told, if he rid the blood of the uric acid cause.

These words are strong, and may sound like an advertisement, and be rejected as such by unthinking people, but we believe they are the truth, and as such should be spoken by every truth-loving newspaper.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., March 22d.

The assembled wisdom at old Dirige's capital has, it seems, done many good things, as we expected of them; though it does look a little shady for them that so much of educational interest was permitted to fail. We had hoped to see the school districts abolished, and a bill passed obliging towns to furnish text books; also that some measures might be taken for one or more publishing houses especially devoted to text books for our own schools, which would obviate many of the unpleasant features connected with the introduction of new books. The women, too, have been treated most shabbily, for the afore-mentioned Solons, not content with denying them the right of suffrage, have also denied them the right of being hung.

The month of March thus far, according to the testimony of ye oldest inhabitant, has not been so pacific for many years. Every small boy you meet is on the dead run, as if bound for the woods with visions of spruce gum, added to the inspiring hope of robbing crows' nests and capturing the maternal crow. The young ladies too are anxiously enquiring for the first May flowers, but will have to be content at present with pussy willows.

The schools are all closed for the spring vacation, No. 2 being the latest to suspend. Miss Bertha Hatch, at the close of this school on Wednesday last, presented the teacher, Mr. Geo. H. Tarbox of Kennebunk, a handsome autograph album, in behalf of her schoolmates.

The warrant for town meeting is posted, and it is nearly as long as a speech on the tariff. It contains about a score of articles to be voted on,—roads to straighten and widen, shoe factory to build, claims for land damages to be acted on, etc. Surely all these things cannot pass, as the town would be made bankrupt.

The republican caucus will be held in Trefethen hall on Friday evening, the 25th inst.

The county commissioners convene in town on Wednesday, the 23rd inst., to estimate the land damage incurred by the new railroad.

A Young Men's Christian association was organized Monday evening at the village, and the following officers were elected: President, Rev. E. E. Colburn; vice president, Rev. Francis Grovener; secretary, Carroll C. Bartlett; treasurer, Frank E. Donnell. The association are negotiating for the rooms over the Globe Grocery store for their halls and reading room.

One evening last week an Eliot man and his son, while returning home rather late, saw a dark-looking object on the snow in a field near their path, which they both quickly declared to be "the panther!" The young man being the most lithe started on a beeline for home, clearing ditches and stone walls at a bound, and arrived there in a very short time, greatly exhausted and thoroughly frightened. The older gentleman, not being so fleet of foot, drew his pocket knife and awaited the onslaught of the fierce creature with fear and trembling, saying to himself, "If I must fight I must; I'll not be eaten up without a struggle." After waiting several minutes with 'bated breath, the moon just then emerging from a passing cloud he beheld his adversary more clearly, and determined to investigate, and slay if possible in a hand-to-hand encounter, this transmigratory beast which has baffled so many pursuers; but upon creeping cautiously nearer to the varmint, we may imagine his chagrin to find it a dummy which some boys had rigged up and placed there for fun, while they, concealed near by, enjoyed it. Our friend "Jim" now thinks, as we do, that the "wild critter" is a chimera.
